LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1877. The continued and increasing success of this periodical (now over thirty-three years old) is doubtless owing to the fact that it affords a comprehensive and cheap means of keeping well informed in the literature of the day. With its weekly issue, and its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, it is enabled to present with freshness and satisfactory completeness able essays and reviews, choice serial and short stories, interesting sketches of travel and discovery, poetry, and valuable biographical, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature.

In its pages it represents such eminent authors as Prof. Max Müller, Prof. Tyndall, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Mr. W. R. Greg, Mr. Froude, Prof. Huxley, Mrs. and A. Procter, Frances Power Cobbe, the Duke of Argyll, Jas. A. Froude, Mrs. Mulock, Julian Hawthorne, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Thackeray, Jean Ingelow, Geo. McDonald, Wm. Black, Matthew Arnold, Henry Kingsley, W. W. Story, Arthur Hugh Clough, Alfred Tennyson, Browning, and many other leaders in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, criticism and art.

The subscription price ($8 a year,) is cheap for the amount of reading furnished, and for those desiring the cream of both home and foreign literature, the publishers make a still cheaper offer, viz.: to send, postpaid, The Living Age and either one of the American $4 monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one of the leading American monthlies, a subscriber will at a small cost, be put in "command of the whole situation."

An extra offer, also, is made to new subscribers for 1877, viz.: to send them gratis the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first instalments of a new and unusually powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.

The volume begins Jan. 1st, and we recommend a period of time to the attention of our readers. We know of no other way in which so much of the best work of the best minds of the time can be obtained so cheaply and conveniently as through this standard weekly magazine. Published by Littell & Gay, Boston.

The True Story of Flood Ireson.

Very familiar to my childhood, as familiar as any of Mother Goose's beloved melodies, was the "Chant of Flood Ireson," and thus it ran:

"Old Flood Oirson, for his hord hort,
Was tor'd and tur'ber'd and corried in a cort,
Old Flood Oirson, for his bad behavior,
Was tor'd and further'd and corried into—Salem.
Old Flood Oirson, for leaving a wrack,
Was torred and furthered all over his back.

In the spring of the year 1808 the schooner Betsey of Marblehead, commanded by "Skipper Ireson," passing Cape Cod on her way home from the West Indies, sighted a wreck; but, as it was dark and the sea was running high at the time, she was unable to render any assistance. Soon after another vessel rescued the people on the wreck, who reached shore in season for the news to be carried to Marblehead before the Betsey's arrival. The sailors, being called to account by the crowd on the wharf, protested that Ireson would not let them go the relief of the wrecked vessel. This was the spark needed to fire the train, and the infuriated mob seized Ireson, put him into an old dory, and dragged him toward Salem, attending, it seems, to carry him to Beverly, where they said he belonged, and show him to his own people. But before he reached Salem, a number of the sober citizens of that town met the calvacade and compelled them to turn about. Meanwhile the bottom of the old dory had fallen out, and it had become necessary to place it with its occupant in a cart. By this time some indignant citizens of Marblehead had arrived on the ground, and the poor, affrighted man was borne home without further molestation.

The public of Marblehead were from the first, as below stated, on the side of their much respected townsman; his crew were an unruly and dissolute set, much more likely to have prevented their captain from going on an errand of mercy than he was to have hindered them, and the form of government on a Marblehead fishing smack was then a pretty unlimited democracy.

A recent correspondent of the Evening Post, writing from Marblehead, gives a version of the legend of Flood Ireson so wildly at variance with all the most trustworthy testimony, that the writer of the following lines, an old Salem boy, long acquainted with people who were living when and where the famous "ride" took place, feels himself constrained, even at this late day, and especially in this era of vindication, to help rescue the memory of the worthy old skipper from the calumny which has been heaped upon it.

The brave women of old Murdlehead or Mobblehead have had a bad eminence assigned them in this matter which is not their due. A few old fish-wives may have thrown their feather beds out of the window, but as to the story of the men's giving their victim over to the tender mercies of the women, and of their punching him with "marline spikes" to make him sing the rhymed history of his own disgrace—to me who have been familiar with the tradition of the occurrence from childhood (having been born only five years after) and who have often talked since with older Marblehead people on the subject, this ornamentation of the story is utterly new and seems clearly a sailor's yarn.

But the mere question of accuracy as to details, even though the fame of "the women of Marblehead" were involved in it, is far less important than that of the alleged object of their holy indignation.

I asked a Marblehead man the other day, "When did the tide begin to turn in favor of Flood Ireson?" He answered, the moment the first outbreak had spent itself, or rather so soon as the great body of sober citizens heard of what was going on. Another told me that when one who had been a cabin boy on board Ireson's schooner grew to manhood and no longer stood in fear of the crew, he confirmed the skipper's story and exonerated him from all blame, laying it where it belonged.

At all events, the people of Marblehead have been for years entirely satisfied that Ireson suffered unjustly, and very indignant that their ancestors and ancestresses should be eulogized in the glowing strains of poesy for what was only the momentary ebulition of the rage of a parcel of wharf boys, for whom to have been carted and tipped into a cold bath would have been a wholesome treatment.

As an illustration of the intensity of conviction and feeling in Marblehead on the subject to this day, it may be mentioned that a year or two ago a stranger lecturing there, began by recognizing the happy auspices under which she spoke, namely, to the descendants of those brave women, who so famously chastised Ireson's inhumanity. At this point she was interrupted by a volley (if one may say so), of hisses. "I am afraid," said she, looking timidly around, "I have offended some one." "You have insulted," cried a voice, "the whole people of Marblehead."

John Chadwick, a native of Marblehead, in his charming paper on the old town in the July number of Harper's Magazine for 1874, says, "It was in the night that the wreck was discovered. In the darkness and the heavy sea, it was impossible to give assistance. When the skipper went below he ordered the watch to lie by the wreck till morning, but the watch willfully disobeyed, and afterward, to shield themselves, laid all the blame upon the skipper. I asked one of the skipper's contemporaries what the effect was on the skipper. "Cowed him to death," said he; "cowed him to death."

Ireson died only about twenty years ago. For many years the old man used to push round a handcart through the streets, selling the fish he had caught from his dory.

Counting the Votes.

On Tuesday, Montgomery Blair and Judge Black argued the South Carolina case for the democrats, before the Commission. The republicans waived their right to argue, and the Commission went into secret session at 1:45 P. M. At seven o'clock a vote was taken, and resulted in counting the vote of South Carolina for Hayes by a vote of eight to seven.

Mr. Morton offered a resolution of thanks to the presiding Judge, Clifford, which was adopted. A resolution offered by Mr. Strong was adopted authorizing the members of the Commission to file the remarks made by them during the consultations of the Commission, and have the same published with the proceedings of the Commission. A resolution removing the injunction of secresy was adopted.

The Commission adjourned to Friday, March 2d, unless sooner called together.

On Wednesday, at 12:15, the Commission's decision in the South Carolina case was read. Objection was made by Phillips of Missouri, who sent up a printed volume of reports to be read as part of his objections; Mr. Ferry refused to receive it, and the houses separated.

In the Senate, after discussion, a motion to hear evidence was voted down, 43 to 18; Bogy of Missouri introduced the same resolution in another shape, and was voted down, 21 to 4. The vote to sustain the finding of the Commission was taken at 3:10.

In the House, after the Senate withdrew, Springer of Ohio moved a recess; voted down, 170 to 92. A motion was made to take a recess till evening, but was ruled out of order by the Speaker. An appeal from this ruling wes taken, and Fernando Wood (no less!) insisted that the appeal should not be allowed, as it was a dilatory motion. The anarchists attempted to filibuster, John Young Brown, Wood and other democratic leaders fighting them at all points, and Randall ruling in such a manner as to demoralize them. Abbott, Hunton and Payne, democratic members of the Commission, voted with the anarchists every time.

The filibusters succeeded in preventing the commencement of discussion until three o'clock, which would make it at least six o'clock before the convention would reassemble.

Democratic Partisanship.

Democratic devotion to party was never more strongly shown than in the vote of the Electoral Commission on the South Carolina case. In face of the fact that a partisan committee of the House, having so extreme a partisan democrat as Sayler for its chairman, and sent to South Carolina expressly to make a report that the State had gone for Tilden, was compelled to report that even after counting for Tilden all the fraudulent votes thrown by the democrats in Hamburg and other counties, the Hayes electors still had a clear majority of about 1300,—in face of this, and in spite of their oaths, the "impartial" and "judicial" democrats on the Commission voted solid to give the vote of that State to Tilden! No wonder the democratic fuglers howl about the "disgraceful partisanship of the Electoral Commission."

England's Trade.

The loss of trade to Great Britain has of late given much uneasiness to the manufacturers in that country, who dread a calamity, without in the least knowing how to avert it. The amounts of exports and imports in the month of January in six years, including 1877, show serious changes as follows:

	Imports.	Exports.
January, 1872	£30,590,791	£20,298,547
1873	27,397,673	18,879,980
1874	31,274,404	19,472,567
1875	32,375,675	16,986,760
1876	30,673,747	16,654,512
1876	32,897,380	15,946,080

They are beginning, in England, to ask one another whether the principle of free trade is quite the blessing they have been led to suppose it. As ours readers know, the course of this country's foreign trade is exactly the reverse of the above statement; that exports have been steadily increasing, while the imports have fallen off.

A Plucky Policeman.

On Monday evening, Feb. 26, John S. Kennedy was garroted and robbed of $41, by three men, in the Bunker Hill District of Boston. From his description of his assailants the police identified one of them as a noted thief named James Courtney, just out of jail, and another as John Donovan. On Tuesday evening two officers, Carr and Freeman, went to a thieves' resort and found the two men they wanted, and each seized one, Courtney surrendering at once to officer Carr. Donovan, however, with his wife and four grown daughters, attacked officer Freeman, the "Savannah Boy" and "Chicken Rice," two noted roughs, and six other men, also joining in the attempt to prevent the arrest; and Courtney, taking courage from the attack on Freeman, gave officer Carr so much to do that he could render no help to his brother officer. Freeman, after a long struggle in which his coat and shirt were torn to rags, and his head, body and arms badly bruised, drew his revolver and shot "Chicken Rice" in the bowels, inflicting a dangerous wound. The roughs and abandoned women drew off for a moment as Rice fell, and on renewing the attack seemed to take less interest in it than before; and the two prisoners were taken to the lockup by their captors. Returning with a wagon and more officers, Freeman took Rice to the City Hospital, where it is feared that unless inflammation sets into the wound he will recover. Officer Freeman is counted one of the bravest and coolest members of the Boston police; and he is the same man who shot Ed McSweeney in Finnegan's saloon on Water street, Boston, in August, 1875, when McSweeney and two other armed roughs attacked him,—for which job McSweeney was sent to the House of Correction for eighteen months, after he got out of the Hospital. We should say Mr. Freeman was an invaluable police officer.

News and Notes.

Vanderbilt's will is to be contested in the courts, objections to its filing having been made by four of the heirs.

John Murphy was arrested Tuesday at Lowell on a charge of wrecking a train on the Boston and Lowell Railroad, in Billerica, last Wednesday night. He strenuously denies his guilt. He was held to bail in $10,000, to appear March 10.

The Lawrence American advises the Boston & Maine Railroad to get the present trains to running on something near schedule time before attempting to restore all the left-off trains. The cost of the strike to the railroad is significantly illustrated in the fall of the stock from $100 to $94; there are 70,000 shares of this stock, showing a market depreciation of $420,000 from the effects of the strike, and the stock is likely to go lower before the end of three months. Three members of the Brotherhood of Engineers were brought before the court at Portland, Feb. 27th, on a charge of obstructing the mails by interfering with the running of trains; but two of them were discharged, the government admitting that there was no evidence against them; and the third was released on reduced bail, and it is not likely the case will again be brought up.

The new and uncompleted Roman Catholic church at Biddeford was sold under the hammer, Feb. 27th, and bought by the building creditor for about $13,000. It has already cost over $40,000. The York County Savings Bank has a claim for $10,000 on the building.

Turkey, Servia and Montenegro have signed a treaty of peace, and Russia has ordered the demobilization of her armies. That was the report on Wednesday.

Adelina Patti-Caux denies that she eloped with the tenor Nicolini.

Edward Rice, alias "Chicken Rice," shot by a Boston policeman on Tuesday night while attempting to rescue a thief from arrest, died on Wednesday.

The ship Elizabeth Gondey, of Yarmouth, N. S., Captain Ferry, sailed from San Francisco, August 28th, for Antwerp, and on the 6th of October went ashore on Elizabeth Island, in the Pacific. To ease her the masts were cut away, but a heavy sea was running, which compelled all hands to abandon her. They landed on the island and found shelter in a cave. Several attempts were made to obtain stores from the wreck, but all failed. In exploring the island the men found an encampment which had probably been occupied by some shipwrecked crew. A number of empty cans, tins, bottles and a flour barrel were near it. The barrel was rehooped and repaired to hold water. A tin of soup and bouilli was also found, and some twelve good cocoanuts were obtained from the trees. Sea fowl were quite plentiful, and some fifty were killed. Several heavy showers enabled them to replenish their water. Two human skulls were found in a cave, but not the bodies or bones belonging to them. On the 12th of October Captain Ferry, his daughter and six men left in the boat for Pitcairn's Island, leaving five men behind. On the 18th the boat was seen from the City of Vienna, Captain Crockett, bound from San Francisco for Liverpool, and her crew were taken on board. Captain Crockett next went to Elizabeth Island and rescued the men left there. Considering the circumstances attending the wreck, it is wonderful that all hands were saved. On the passage the ship Ben Cruachan was spoken, and not only supplied the Vienna with provisions and stores, but took on board part of the crew of the Elizabeth Gondey. The others were safely landed in England February 18th.

Breathing Miasma Without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in fever and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive. It has frequently happened, and the fact has been amply attested by the parties themselves, that persons surrounded on all sides by neighbors suffering the tortures of this shivering and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute immunity from it, thanks to the protection afforded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard anti febrile cordial less efficacious in remedying than in preventing chills and fever, bilious remittents, and disorders of a kindred type. Taken between the paroxysms, it speedily mitigates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, appeal with peculiar force to travellers and sojourners in malarious districts.

JOTTINGS.

We are requested to ask the members of the Hayes and Wheeler Guards to look up their uniforms and torches, as it is quite probable they may again come in use.

On and after to-day the rate of messages over the Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph Co's wires, to New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, will be twenty-five cents, except where more than 500 miles from the office in this city.

Our correspondent, "Plain Talk," in his communication dated Feb. 27, speaks pretty plainly to Hon. Frank Jones for being at home while the filibusters in Congress were doing their worst to defeat the election, and keep the country for another year in the state of uncertainty and suspense that has had such a disastrous effect upon the revival of business which commenced before the Presidential election. But Mr. Jones' stay at home must have been very brief, as his name (with that of Mr. Bell, the other democratic Member of Congress from this State,) appears in the list of those who on Monday, Feb. 26th, voted with the republicans and Southern democratic leaders, against factious opposition to the count's progress.

George Henderson and Frank Varney, two thieves who committed a burglary in this city some three years ago, have been arrested in Farmington, Henderson being caught on the morning of Feb. 26th, and Varney on the evening of the same day. After escaping from this city they were arrested in Massachusetts, but broke jail and went to the West, and have but recently returned.

J. E. Maynard, Esq., of Boston, offers for sale thirty trotting and family horses, claimed to be one of the finest lots ever offered in New England. Mr. Maynard is one of the most widely-known dealers, and his reputation as a "square" man is of the highest. Read his advertisement.

It was rumored yesterday that Mr. Batchelder, Superintendent of the Eastern Railroad, has been removed, and a Mr. Dingley, brother-in-law of President Rockwell, appointed in his place. It was also reported that the change will take place March 10, when the offices of superintendent and freight agent will be merged. A later statement is that the successor of Mr. Batchelder, the retiring Superintendent of the Eastern Railroad, will be Mr. John Hornby, late assistant superintendent of the Marquette, Houghton and Ontonagon Railroad, in the Lake Superior mining region, who is said to have been recommended for the position by the bondholders, and not Mr. Dingley, as has been reported. Mr. Hornby will be styled Master of Transportation.—Boston Globe, Feb. 28th.

A man came into our office on Wednesday, and wanted to sell us a private letter from a prominent democrat of this city (and one of that party's candidates for office) to his wife, his idea being for us to use it as a political weapon! Who the man is we do not know, nor want to; what he is his proposition plainly enough shows. Now we want the writer of that letter defeated; we have no doubt he will be defeated; and we will do all we can in honor do, to defeat him; but we trust it is not necessary for us to say that we would not meddle with his private correspondence on his family affairs, even if it would exert an injurious effect on his political prospects, which we very much question. We are slow to wrath, and consequently merely declined to make a bargain with the letter-merchant; but our indignation at the insult implied in his offer has been increasing until the present writing, and we now feel the spirit move us to notify the letter-man that we have as much contempt for him as we sincerely trust our readers would have for us did they think us capable of such conduct as he suggested.

We have received the first number of the first volume of the Monthly Reader, published by J. L. Shorey, of Boston, (publisher of the Nursery, the best children's magazine in the world,) at fifty cents a year in advance. The Reader contains sixteen pages, a little larger than those of the Nursery, is nicely printed in large type on fine paper, and profusely and handsomely illustrated, the reading matter being such as the youngest readers can understand and enjoy. It is intended to supplement and not to supplant the reading books used in the primary schools, and we think will achieve great popularity with children, primary teachers and school committees.

Owing to constantly increasing business, Pearson's hot house on Broad street is again in process of enlargement, though it has now fully three times the capacity it had originally. Despite the hard times, the artistic taste displayed by Mrs. Pearson in making up bouquets, wreaths and fanciful designs in flowers, has kept the demand ahead of the production throughout the winter.

The Friendship Club, of this city, gave a dance at Trefethen's Hall in Kittery on the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 27th, with an athletic exhibition by members of the club at intermission. The attendance was large, the receipts satisfactory to the club, and the entertainment satisfactory to its patrons.

Portsmouth Grange, P. of H., had the annual supper and dance on Wednesday evening, the attendance being confined to members of the order.

The ladies of the Reform Club will close their Fair this (Thursday) evening, with a grand promenade concert. They are endeavoring to raise a sufficient sum to obtain a reading room for the society, and solicit the aid of all who approve their work.

The Young People's Social Union connected with the Methodist society dedicated their new room in Exchange Building Wednesday evening. An address was given by Stephen W. Clarke, principal of the high school, as previously announced. Only a limited number were invited.

The Portsmouth Cavalry contemplate giving a grand ball some time the present month.

A train from Dover for Boston, over the Eastern Railroad, passed through this city on Monday,—the second or third from that city run on the same terms,—taking passengers for $2 for the round trip from Dover, to enable them to attend the Moody and Sankey meetings. No such trains have been run from this city as yet; perhaps the railroad authorities consider the people of Portsmouth past saving, as possibly a good many of them are; but we should like to see the efficacy of concerted prayer tried on Bro. Guppy, of the Times.

Steamtug Elsie, recently stove by blundering on Stone's rock, and brought into this harbor for examination and temporary repairs, started for Boston Wednesday morning, escorted by the steamers that came from Boston to assist her. Her owners saved about $12,000—the value of the Elsie—by their promptness in moving her from her perilous situation on Stone's rock, for if she had remained there about a day longer she would have been knocked off into deep water or broken up by the heavy sea which set in.

An important business change is announced in another column, Charles H. Mendum, Esq., retiring from the firm of C. H. Mendum & Co. Messrs. S. H. Ayers and T. K. Locke will carry on the business at the old stand, under the firm name of Ayers & Locke; and as they are well known as members of the old firm ever since its formation, there is no doubt the liberal patronage hitherto enjoyed will be continued under the new arrangement.

Political.

The great Judge Hoadley, of Cincinnati, (how many people in the country ever heard of him before his celebrated opinion that Cronin had been legally elected?) seems to have been quite extinguished by the decision of the Electoral Commission. His masterly exposition of law, upon which so large a proportion of the democratic party proceeded to blow their trumpets, seems to have had about as much effect upon the Commission as Mrs. Partington's broom upon the inflowing tide. On the simple question of Cronin's election (which was the point where Mr. Hoadley's greatness seems to have exhausted itself,) the Commission, democrats and all, voted unanimously in the negative.

The Democratic State Committee of Connecticut on the 27th passed resolutions instructing the Congressmen from that State to filibuster to prevent the completion of the vote counting.

A Terrible Scare.

We read somewhere that the wicked flee when no man pursueth. They understand this at Great Falls,—those jolly liquor-sellers, we mean. Several of them are indicted, and it rather appears as though they expected every day to be gobbled up by the officers of the law. At any rate, a few days ago, several of them, Locke, Wentworth, Grant & Co., were over on the Berwick side of the river—and it appears that they spend a good portion of their time just on the borders of Maine—having a friendly sit-down and jolly chit-chat at Grant's Hotel. Of course no Sheriff from this side could with impunity venture to trespass on that jurisdiction. But a Boston runner happened along, and that sort of chap is always up to some sort of fun. This sober and serene runner, therefore, took it into his head that he would "drop in" upon these brethren in a hurry and inform them of a very serious difficulty that was to happen to them speedily. He was all out of breath running, as he wanted to give them seasonable warning. He told them he had just discovered that a New Hampshire Deputy Sheriff had been with a requisition from Gov. Cheney upon the Governor of Maine for their surrender, and that he had the papers from the Maine Governor all right, and was coming down upon them with a strong force to capture them immediately. This was the signal for the most remarkable stampede on record. They stopped not on the order of their going, but went out at once by the back way, and thence in all directions. One or two went into the hog-pen, one or two more hid in the hen coop; others took to the woods, and one big, pussy fellow, not so spry as some of the rest, crawled away up stairs and hid in the attic. It was a mighty lively sort of a shedaddle all round. The hens cackled in that coop, and the swine in that pen acted just like that other old herd who once got the devil in 'em and ran down a steep hill into the sea. Whether these lively fellows have yet ventured back to the peace and quietude of their happy homes, our reporter is not informed, but the whole thing was a first-rate scare put up by that uncircumcised Boston runner. Verily, the wicked flee when no man pursueth.—Dover Democrat.

Mrs. Hayes's Wardrobe.

Mrs. Hayes' wardrobe is the subject of a special leaded telegram from Cincinnati to the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Mr. Jenkins reverently and picturesquely says: "By good fortune your correspondent obtained a description of the dresses as decided upon by Mrs. Hayes and her intimate lady friends and advisers. The inaugural dress will be of elegant black silk, cut princesse in style, and will be high in the throat, with long sleeves, and, of course, full train. It will be trimmed with black velvet, blue satin and Valenciennes lace, and although rich and elegant is pronounced very plain. The cost will be $500. The evening or reception dress will be of Quaker gray, with corsage waist, square neck, demi-sleeves and full train. It will be trimmed with Valenciennes lace fringe and flowers, and will cost $800. The morning dress will be of blue cashmere, handsomely trimmed with silk of the same shade, with fringe to match, with demi-train and princess epolonaise."

A Physician's Testimony.

BREESPORT, Chemung Co., N. Y., October 16th, 1876.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Last Spring I was attacked with congestion of the lungs; soreness over the liver, severe pain in the joints, a burning fever, and a general giving way of the whole man. Failing to find relief in remedies ordinarily prescribed, and not expecting any benefit, but to satisfy friends, I tried a bottle of your Golden Medical Discovery. When I had taken it I was so much improved that I continued, taking three in all, and it effected my entire cure. Your medicines have only to be used to be appreciated. If every family would give them a trial, nine-tenths of the doctors would, like Othello, find their occupation gone.

Yours gratefully,
L. B McMILLAN, M. D.

Dr. A. J. Flagg's

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it effects a cure almost marvellous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

Remember that it

CURES COLDS,
CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH
CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his preparation known as the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extensive practice with marvellous success, and I know it to be all that he claims for it.

WM. M. LADD, M. D.

CLAREMONT, N. H., September, 1876.

DR. FLAGG M. D.—Sir: Your Cough and Lung Syrup has proved a great benefit to me, giving relief from severe Coughs and Soreness of the Lungs, when other remedies and physicians had failed. I have never taken a medicine more pleasant to the taste or more satisfactory in its results.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL

— IN THE —

UNITED STATES.

No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,

SUCCESSOR TO

Dr. TELLER,

DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1853 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and treated in private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage, entitled the Marriage Guide, price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

THE SUN.

The different editions of THE SUN during the next year will be the same as during the year that has just passed. The daily edition will consist of a sheet of four pages, and on Sundays a sheet of eight pages, or 56 broad columns, while the weekly edition will be a sheet of eight pages of the same dimensions and character that are already familiar to our friends.

THE SUN will continue to be the strenuous advocate of reform and retrenchment, and of the substitution of statesmanship, wisdom, and integrity for hollow pretence, imbecility, and fraud in the administration of public affairs. It will contend for the government of the people by the people and for the people, as opposed to government by frauds in the ballot-box and in the counting of votes, enforced by military violence. It will endeavor to supply its readers,—a body now not far from one million of souls—with the most careful, complete, and trustworthy accounts of current events, and will employ for this purpose a numerous and energetic selected staff of reporters and correspondents. Its reports from Washington, especially, will be full, accurate and fearless; and it will doubtless continue to deserve and enjoy the hatred of those who thrive by plundering the Treasury or by usurping what the law does not give them, while it will endeavor to merit the confidence of the public by defending the rights of the people against the mechanisms of unjustified power.

The price of the daily SUN will be 55 cents a month or $6.50 a year, post paid, or with the Sunday edition $7.70 a year.

The SUNDAY edition alone, eight pages, $1.20 a year, post paid.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages of 56 broad columns, will be furnished during 1877 at the rate of $1 a year, post paid.

The benefit of this large reduction from the previous rate for the WEEKLY can be enjoyed by individual subscribers without the necessity of making up clubs. At the same time, if any of our friends choose to aid in extending our circulation, we shall be grateful to them, and every such person who sends us ten or more subscribers from one place will be entitled to one copy of the paper for himself without charge. At one dollar a year, postage paid, the expenses of paper and printing are barely repaid; and, considering the size of the sheet and the quality of its contents, we are confident the people will consider THE WEEKLY SUN the cheapest newspaper published in the world, and we trust also one of the very best.

—Blue glass is prescribed for Tilden.

—The actor who recently took the title role in "Julius Cæsar" at a San Francisco theatre was an entomologist of the stage. One of his companions purloined a rare beetle from Cæsar's collection, and secreting himself in the flies controlled its movements by means of a horse-hair. When Antony remarked to Cæsar in the second scene that Casesius was a noble Roman, he received the reply, "By Jove, it's a Brachinus crepitans; I'm bound to have it." Great Cæsar jumped three feet in the air and missed the beetle.

—The Plymouth (England) Morning News, in speaking of a concert by Mlle. Titiens at that place recently, during which she sang "Kathleen Mavourneen" in response to an encore, relates the following story: The author of the song was a Mr. Crouch, a poor music master of Plymouth, who sold it for £5. When the prima donna sang the song in New York, a year ago, the only time she sang it in the States, she was told that a man, supposed to be a lunatic, demanded to see her. The prima donna told them to let him come in. On entering he burst into tears, sobbing out, "Oh, Mlle. Titiens, I never before heard my song sung as you have just sung it!" "Your song," was the reply, "why, you are not Crouch, surely?" "I am, indeed," rejoined the poor old composer; "and I felt I must thank you myself." Crouch had scraped together the two dollars for a pit seat, little thinking to hear his own famous song made the most telling morceau of the night.

SCRIBNER & Co., 743 Broadway, N. Y.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.

An Unrivaled Illustrated Magazine.

The prospectus for the new volume gives the titles of more than fifty papers (mostly illustrated), by writers of the highest merit. Under the head of

"FOREIGN TRAVEL,"

we have "A Winter on the Nile," by Gen. McClellan; "Saunterings About Constantinople," by Charles Dudley Warner; "Out of My Window at Moscow," by Eugene Schuyler; "As American in Turkistan," etc. Three serial stories are announced:

"NICHOLAS MINTURN,"

by Dr. Holland, the Editor, whose story of "Seven Oaks" gave the highest satisfaction to the readers of the Monthly.

The scene of this latest novel is laid on the banks of the Hudson. The hero is a young man who has been always "tied to a woman's apron strings," but who, by the death of his mother, is left alone in the world,—to drift on the current of life,—with a fortune, but without a purpose.

Another serial, "His Inheritance," by Miss Trafton, will turn on the complexion of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," by Mrs. Hodgson Burnett. Mrs. Burnett's story, begun in August, has a pathos and dramatic power which have been a surprise to the public.

There is to be a series of original illustrated papers of "Popular Science," by Mrs. Herrick, each paper complete in itself.

There are to be, from various pens, papers on

also, practical suggestions as to town and country life, village improvements, etc., by well-known specialists.

Mr. Barnard's articles on various industries of real Britain include the history of "Some Experiments in Co-operative," "A Scottish Leaf Factory," in the November number, and "Toad Lane, Rochdale," in December. Other papers are, "The British Workingman's Home," "A Nation of Shopkeepers," "Hallowe'en a Week for the Child," etc.

A richly illustrated series will be given on "American Society in Town and Field," by various writers, and each on a different theme. The subject of will have a prominent place, whilst the latest productions of American humorists will appear from month to month. The list of shorter stories, biographical and other sketches, etc., is a long one.

The editorial department will continue to employ the ablest pens both at home and abroad. There will be a series of letters on literary matters, from London, by Mr. Welford.

We mean to make the magazine sweeter and purer, higher and nobler, more genial and generous in all its utterances and influences, and a more welcome visitor than ever before in homes of refinement and culture.

FIFTEEN MONTHS FOR $4.00.

SCRIBNER for December, now ready, contains the opening chapters of "Nicholas Minturn." The three numbers of SCRIBNER for August, September, and October, containing the opening chapters of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," will be given to every new subscriber (who requests it), and whose subscription begins with the present volume, i.e., with the November number.

Subscription price, $4 a year—35 cents a number. Special terms on bound volumes. Subscribe with the nearest bookseller, or send a check or P. O. money order to

MR. DENNIS SHEA, Sir: The Water Cement Pipe you laid for us over three years ago has proved perfectly satisfactory to us in every respect, and although a part of it froze up last winter, we can't see any injury done. The Pipe was laid by you in a thorough manner, and we believe it to be the Best Water Pipe known, and if we lay any more shall surely lay the same, and you are to do the job if alive and well. DR. QUAIN'S

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, and as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shal continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will act as you advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

[JOHN W. LORD.]

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be bought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head, or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I noticed him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been so free from the Rheumatism for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will out of it. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines, but to no result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been travelling and taking medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have no applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulpher Springs, Hopston county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative as could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a tonic and powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate each. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

ECLECTIC MAGAZINE

OF

FOREIGN LITERATURE.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can. Hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. MacDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The Magazine has attained in its one quarter century and more of existence to that point where it may be said of it, in the words of Dr. Johnson, "It is vain to blame and useless to praise." The lustre of its long-established reputation has increased as the years have passed, and its future seems as bright if not brighter than at any time since the golden hue of prosperity settled around its later and best years.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Harper's Monthly is marked by the same characteristics which gave it circulation from the first with the better class of readers. LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1877. The continued and increasing success of this periodical (now over thirty-three years old) is doubtless owing to the fact that it affords a comprehensive and cheap means of keeping well informed in the best literature of the day. With its weekly issue, and its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, it is enabled to present with freshness and satisfactory completeness able essays and reviews, critical, social and short stories, interesting sketches of travel and discovery, poetry, and valuable biographical, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature.

In its pages are represented the eminent authors as Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Tyndall, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Prof. Huxley, Richard A. Proctor, Francis Power Cobbe, The Duke of Argyll, Jas. A. Froude, Mrs. Muloch, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Thackeray, Miss Rhoda Broughton, Geo. McDonald, Wm. Black, Matthew Arnold, Henry Kingsley, W. W. Story, Auerbach, Ruskin, Carlyle, Tennyson, Browning, and the leading lights in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, criticism and art.

The subscription price, $8 00 a year, is cheap for the amount of reading furnished; while for those desiring the cream of both home and foreign literature, the publishers make a still cheaper offer, viz.: to send, postpaid, The Living Age and either one of the American $4 monthlies, or scribner, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one or other of our leading American monthlies, a subscriber will at small cost, be put in "command of the whole situation."

An extra offer, also, is made to all new subscribers for 1877, viz.: to send, gratis, the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first installments of a new and unusually powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.

The volume begins Jan. 1st, and we recommend the periodical to the attention of our readers. We know of no other way in which so much of the best work of the best minds of the age can be obtained so cheaply and conveniently as through this standard weekly magazine. Published by Littell & Gay, Boston.

Unique Dinner Ticket.

The new dinner ticket used at the late annual meeting of the New England Society, in New York City, was a unique and beautiful affair, and is thus described:

"The vignette combines a world of thought, the Plymouth Rock, Bible, Pilgrim hat and sword, so arranged as to mark some favorite chapter in that good book, with the date of the landing. A little below is the seal of Plymouth Colony. At the bottom, in the centre, is an early Massachusetts coin, at the right of which is the arms of New Hampshire, in which is seen the tall figure of the veteran General Stark in a pelting rain; before him is the chaplain of a Massachusetts regiment, who inquired why they did not have some fighting. The old hero replied, "If the Lord sends sunshine to-morrow, you will have plenty of fighting." The rain ceased, and the decisive battle of Bennington was fought.

The next is Maine, with John Smith, of Pocahontas memory, writing the history of the State, with Indians in the distance.

Above that is Vermont, representing Gen. Ethan Allen, surprising Fort Ticonderoga, and demanding its surrender. Captain De la Place, the commander, who was in his night-clothes, inquired, "By what authority?" Allen replied, "In the name of the great Jehovah and the Continental Congress!"

At the left of the old coin, Rhode Island is represented. The eccentric but conscientious Roger Williams, the defender of Liberty, is seen as he escaped from Massachusetts. He laid the foundation of a town, which, in acknowledgement of God's goodness, he named Providence.

Connecticut comes next, showing a man in the act of depositing the Charter in a tree, now known as the "Charter Oak."

Massachusetts is last, representing the landing of our Pilgrim Fathers, which speaks for itself."

Captain Costentenus' Fyrrhic Victory.

Captain Georges Contentenus is a noble Greek Albanian, made familiar to the public at Barnum's Circus last fall. He has a weakness for pictures, and possesses a collection as large as and decidedly more unique than the John Taylor Johnston gallery prior to its breaking up. The noble Albanian, however, carries his collection on his back—is, in point of fact, tattooed in a most remarkable manner. Recently on one of his reception days at the New American Museum in the Bowery, the gentlemanly master of ceremonies having done his office, namely, the introduction of the Captain and the story of his wonderful experience at the hands of different tribes of savages, the dead silence consequent upon the endeavors of the hearers to digest the arithmetical statements of "six months, three hours a day," or "seven million punctures with a needle, each puncture bringing a drop of blood, and each drop a tear," was broken by an individual in a light green shirt and an alcoholic atmosphere. This personage cynically and unfeelingly remarked, "Sh humbug!" and glared defiance at the Greek. Hardly had the remark been uttered before the Captain hastily plucked up a sharp knife from a table near by—not from a concealed pocket, because the only garment worn by the Captain is a gold pocket-handkerchief, in comparison with which Mark Twain's umbrella would be an ulster—and plunged it into his own neatly-frescoed leg, grazing the femoral artery and inflicting a slight wound, it is true, but a sufficient one to set at rest forever the question of imposture in his case. It is needless to add that the sceptical party in the green shirt was heavily "sat upon" thereafter, and was glad to slink away diminished.

Kid Gloves.

A Parision has started the manufacture of kid gloves at New York, and finds that his production of a first-class article, at a low price, is appreciated by the public. In making a pair of kid gloves three persons are employed—the cutter, the sewer and the thumb maker. The sewing, with the exception of button holes, is done by machines. The work of the cutter looks simple, but it requires a skillful hand and eye, as any one may imagine when he thinks of the perfection of fit which gloves are made to attain. A table, pair of scissors, knife and pot of powder are all the implements needed by the cutter. An ordinary skin will make two pairs, and a very fine one three pairs of gloves. After the skin has been dried, it is carefully stretched and manipulated to ascertain if it has any flaws in it. It is then cut into strips twice the width of the glove, enough then generally remaining to cut into smaller strips for the thumbs. After the fingers have been suitably shaped by the scissors, the gloves are passed into the hands of the sewers, and from them to the thumb makers, from whom they quickly come in a finished state.

—The spirit in which some people pray, was aptly illustrated lately by a five-year-old girl, who convalescing from an attack of scarlet fever, was suffering greatly from ear-ache. Something prompted the little one to petition above for relief, and this was the way she did it: "Oh, Lord! Oh, good Lord, cure my earache," continuing to repeat it over and over. Her mother, hearing her murmuring, asked, "What are you saying, my dear?" "None of your business," was the reply. "I ain't talking to you; I'm talking to the Lord."

Counting the Votes.

The joint convention reassembled at 6:20 P. M., Wednesday, and the Secretary of the Senate read the decision to sustain the finding of the Commission. Jones of Kentucky wanted to know if a quorum of the Senate were present, but was squelched by Mr. Ferry. The House resolution against the decision of the Commission was then read, after which the vote of South Carolina was recorded for Hayes.

Tennessee and Texas were counted for Tilden.

Vermont's papers were opened, and on demand of Poppleton of Ohio were read at length. After the reading, Poppleton asked if there were no other papers, as he had been informed that two certificates had been received from Vermont. Mr. Ferry replied that he had received but one certificate. Hewitt said he had a package purporting to be a return of the Electoral Vote of Vermont, which he had received by mail, and he now tendered it as the Electoral Vote of the State of Vermont! Mr. Ferry declined to receive this precious document, the law forbidding him to receive any returns after the first Thursday in February. Springer of Illinois sprang around like a jumping-jack, demanded to have Hewitt's papers read as a part of his (Springer's) objections to the counting of the vote of Vermont, and finally, after being steadily sat upon until the convention rose, called out that he now made the point of order that, there being duplicate returns, the case had now gone to the Electoral Commission and could not be considered by the two houses! No attention, however, was paid to it nor to a proposition made immediately afterwards by Mr. Mills of Texas, that the House proceed to elect a President, Speaker Randall declaring that, under the terms of a previous agreement, the House would now (7:20) take a recess until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

In the House, Thursday, Fernando Wood moved to proceed with the count. The filibusters interposed all sorts of dilatory motions, but were defeated on the first one by a vote of 174 to 65. After twelve o'clock, when a new legislative day commenced, the filibusters insisted on an extended reading of the journal, which is never done; a roll-call was demanded by the republicans, on dispensing with the further reading of the journal, and resulted in yeas 175, nays 85—more than the necessary two-thirds.

Mr. Caulfield, after the defeat of the filibusters by a two-thirds vote, insisted that the President of the Senate should open the alleged duplicate from Vermont. Gov. Hendee informed Caulfield that the leader of the democratic party (Hewitt) had kept the copy too long. Fernando Wood pressed his point of order that the House must immediately proceed to consider the objection of Vermont. Mr. Hooker of Mississippi insisted that there were dual returns, and that the Vermont case must go to the Electoral Commission. Mr. Reagan of Texas, Ex-Postmaster General of the Confederacy, maintained that there was no pretense that the alleged democratic return from Vermont is regular, and that if the whole affair was not fraudulent the democracy of Vermont had been derelict in springing such a question at this late hour.

A resolution was offered that the House would not be ready to proceed with the count until the Senate returned Hewitt's "electoral vote return" to the House. Wood offered as a substitute a resolution that the vote of Sollace of Vermont be not counted, and Randall ruled that debating must now commence. An extraordinary scene of confusion ensued, Randall was denounced as a usurper, and a free fight among the democrats seemed imminent; but the Sergeant-at-Arms and his deputies entered and enforced order, and at 2:10 debate commenced.

The convention was expected to meet at 5 o'clock.

Letter from Hon. H. W. Blair.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
February 27, 1867.

My Dear Sir: Although the Democratic party in Congress in bad faith, and in violation of the electoral bill which it forced upon the country, is endeavoring by filibustering and tricky devices for delay to prevent it, there is now very little doubt of the inauguration of Hayes and Wheeler, and the public attention is turning to the election in New Hampshire.

The election in New Hampshire is specially important for two reasons:

First. As an indication of the verdict of the most intelligent and conservative State of the Union upon the comprehensive system of frauds and shams and lies and crimes, by means of which the democratic party has endeavored to cheat the American people out of their own Executive.

Second. Because the control of the national House of Representatives will largely, if not wholly, depend upon the result in New Hampshire.

It is unreasonable to suppose that the freemen of the United States, who have for twenty years proffered and sacrificed their lives and fortunes, and all save their sacred honor—in the former at the ballot-box and on the fields of war to defend the principles of the Declaration, the supremacy of the Constitution, and the integrity of the national life—will deliberately recant their convictions, disgrace their own record, and sanction the wicked policies and destructive principles of that party which seems to have existed for the last thirty years only to organize every evil force in the country for its ruin.

Such self-stultification by our people is not possible. Yet lethargy and over-confidence may betray us into a fatal snare.

It is now ascertained that the next House of Representatives will be very close; that its practical control will depend upon the result in New Hampshire, which is the only State whose members remain to be chosen. If the democracy organize and hold the next House, control the appropriations, and defeat every essential measure of republican policy, the hard-won victory which is now assured to us after such extraordinary vicissitudes and providences, will be substantially lost. The brightening prospects of industry, and the upspringing impulses of renewing hopes, which show their tiny blades like the coming mantle of green all over the country, even where the deep snows and howling winds of the frigid but vigorous North conceal, but cannot prevent, the irrepressible processes of nature, will suddenly vanish as the blossoms of June would shrivel in the icy breath of winter.

Yet the most serious result will not be the arrest of material development, but the prostration of the moral forces of the country, of schools, the aspirations for knowledge and higher life among the developing population which so soon will be the American people, and all of the great reformatory impulses and measures upon the success of which the whole future depends.

Thus great consequences should keep us ever upon the alert. We are really the outpost of hope to the nation. Such we have been for years, and although we might desire relief from its dangers, responsibilities, and excessive labors, still we know, and the nation knows, that the flag of no forlorn hope ever was borne more bravely to honorable victory than by us during the whole history of the great party whose success once more depends upon our next rally to the polls. Confined as I am, to my post, I naturally feel a great anxiety for the result, the importance of which I keenly realize, and yet to control which I can do so little. But I have the best reason to believe that the utmost vigilance is imperatively necessary. It should be remembered that the democratic party this year will be reenforced by the unemployed, but not discharged ballot-box stuffers and tricksters, whose services gave the majorities against us in Connecticut, New Jersey, and New York last fall. I desire to impress specially upon the minds of all republicans that there has never been so much danger of our being defrauded as there is this spring. Let there be the closest attention to the ballots, the names of candidates, the counting and the declaration of the votes, the record thereof, as actually made, and the returns to the Secretary of State. Should there be any error committed or wrong perpetrated, be very careful to call attention to it at once, and preserve all the evidence most accurately in writing. Had I not special reasons for reminding you of these things at this time I should not presume to do it, for I well know the great vigilance of our friends. But for that vigilance I should have no hope of success.

I assure you that there are no chances to be thrown away. As usual, we have all we can possibly do. Do not be deceived by the apparent inaction of the National Democracy. Their loss of the Presidency only makes it the more necessary that they retain this House as a great debating society, and as a mud-scow to accumulate the fifth of scandal and defamation to be used in future campaigns for the recovery of their baneful power. They are desperate to accomplish this; you know the silent forces which they use and the methods to which they resort.

The eyes of the nation are upon you. I conjure you not to leave any honest means untried, or possible legitimate effort not put forth to win a victory which shall crown the inauguration of Hayes and Wheeler with overwhelming joy.

I am truly yours, H. W. BLAIR.

Trying It On.

Two Fifth avenue belles, as a practical test of the generosity of their friends, dressed themselves in old clothes, and, as the shades of night were falling, went out upon the avenue and solicited alms of every gentleman they met. A shake of the head or a muttered remark that they were "busted" was all that was vouchsafed by the greater number of passers-by. Their masquerading lasted an hour, they met nearly all their acquaintances, they gained only ten cents, and though fair to see even in their poor attire, no Cophetua asked these maidens to share his fortune. They then turned their attention to the houses on the avenue, and their success furnished a striking commentary on the modern proverb that charity begins and ends at home. A crust of bread was all that could be spared from the tables of Dives. These damsels had much sport in getting beneath the crust of conventionality, and pronounced their experience superior even to private theatricals.—N. Y. Tribune.

—The editor of a Turkish journal in Constantinople has been whipped to death for telling the truth. We never heard of a like transaction in this country.

—The man at the wheel has a stern duty to perform.

—Edmund Yates says, in his London World, "Countrymen and lovers of the late Benjamin Franklin may possibly 'rear up' at the intelligence that in the archives of the British Colonial Office is a letter from Benjamin Franklin asking for an appointment as distributor of the very stamps which brought about the independence of the United States."

—Now it is solemnly stated that it was not Miss Minnie Sherman who declined at a Washington ball to dance with Arthur of England. It was Miss Helen Cox, whose father was then Secretary of the Interior, who, when invited to dance a round dance by Prince Arthur, said her mother objected to those dances. Prince Arthur consulted his card, and then found the only square dance for which he was disengaged would not come off before three o'clock in the morning, and Miss Cox told him she must return home before that hour. The locket sent by Prince Arthur to Miss Sherman was sent as an acknowledgment of Gen. Sherman's politeness in presenting the Prince with a very handsome rifle which H. R. H. had admired. The locket contained a picture of Prince Arthur.

Breathing Miasma Without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in fever and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive. It has frequently happened, and the fact has been amply attested by the parties themselves, that persons surrounded on all sides by neighbors suffering the tortures of this shivering and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute immunity from it, thanks to the protection afforded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard anti-febrile cordial less efficacious in remedying than in preventing chills and fever, bilious remittents, and disorders of a kindred type. Taken between the paroxysms, it speedily mitigates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, appeal with peculiar force to travellers and sojourners in malarious districts.

Dr. A. A. Flagg's Cough and Lung Syrup is daily working its cures and raising patients from their beds who have been given up to die by their physicians. Almost every day, Dr. Flagg is receiving complimentary letters bearing testimony to the curative properties of this great remedy.

BELMONT, MASS., Feb. 17, 1877.

I have used the Little Giant Pills for bilious headache with the most satisfactory results. They are particularly beneficial for sickness peculiar to females. I am acquainted in a great many families in Cambridge and Belmont where this medicine is used and it is known to be a never failing relief.

JOTTINGS.

The North Church bell will not be rung from and after Monday, March 5th, until further notice, on account of repairs to the frame being made.

Ship Chocorua, Matthews, of this port, arrived at Anjer January 10th, and a telegram to that effect reached this city on Wednesday, Feb. 28th. On the Monday and Tuesday previous several of the owners of the vessel endeavored to get their shares insured, but owing to the great length of time the ship had been unheard of no agent would take the risk; and when the good news came the owners were glad the insurance men were so cautious.

Mr. Gardner J. Greenleaf advertises for sale carriage material and blacksmiths' supplies in large variety and of the best quality.

A friend on Thursday informed us that we need not have been in so much of a hurry to credit Hon. Frank Jones with hastening back to his station in Congress, instead of remaining at home to electioneer for a seat in the next one, as he received earnest calls by telegraph from Washington to return, and was urgently advised to do so by some of his political friends here, who recognized the fact that he could do nothing worse for his political prospects than to absent himself from the national Capitol during the electoral crisis.

The Boston Post says Mr. William J. Hobbs, paymaster on the Eastern Railroad, recently married to a daughter of Gen. M. F. Wentworth of Kittery, has been presented with a very handsome French mantel clock and set by his friends.

Messrs. Rider & Cotton advertise for sale at No. 69 Market street, iron and steel, carriage makers' and house builders' hardware, painters' supplies, ship chandlery, etc.

The American House, Boston, has been long and favorably known as one of the best hotels in the East. Its central location, only a few rods from new Washington street, and within two minutes' walk of State street, Faneuil Hall, the old State House and City Hall, makes it equally desirable for business or pleasure. It was the first hotel in Boston to introduce the greatest of modern conveniences, a Passenger Elevator, and the proprietors have ever been ready to adopt any improvements that might add to the comfort of their guests. The latest change, and one that will be appreciated by all, is the reduction in prices, which are now placed at $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 per day. The large number of its apartments, its long and spacious corridors, general convenience of arrangement, liberality of management and uniform excellence of its table, have given it a wide spread reputation, and enable its managers to offer inducements to be found at but few other New England hotels.

On Wednesday evening some one stole Mr. C. Hiram Hayes' horse and carriage from where it was standing on Congress street, Mr. Hayes at the time being in Grangers' Hall participating in the jollification going on therein. Mr. Hayes discovered the theft when the entertainment broke up, and notified the police, but the team could not be found and Mr. Hayes went home at three o'clock Thursday morning, giving it up as lost. Not long after the police found the team hitched on Warren street, the horse bearing marks of having been badly driven, and took it to Beacham's stable where Mr. Hayes reclaimed it later in the day.

New Hampshire Items.

The City Government of Concord has passed an ordinance directing police officers to kill every dog found unmuzzled in any street or public place of the city.

Mr. John Cole of Orford, 90 years old, while sitting in his chair on Monday, died instantly and without a struggle. He was a prominent advocate of the "Free Soil party" in its infancy.

There are three men in the Illinois House of Representatives, who were born within a dozen miles of each other in New Hampshire: Henry A. Neal, born in Tuftonborough; John P. Fox, born in Centre Harbor, and Moses J. Wentworth, born in Sandwich. Besides, there is W. H. Thompson, born in Durham.

A man and his wife, named Kirby, bound from Chicago to Newmarket, got out of money at Harper's Ferry, and started to walk from there to New Hampshire. When near the Rainy House, between Washington and Baltimore, last Friday, and both walking on the track, a train came along on each track, which so bewildered the woman that she ran in front of the trains and was instantly killed, her body being horribly mangled. She was buried by the railroad company at Baltimore.

E. J. Hurley, confined for selling liquor, escaped from jail at Laconia on Monday night.

Rev. Cyrus Richardson, pastor of the First Congregational Society of Keene, has voluntarily relinquished $200 of his salary for the present year. An Ecclesiastical Council convened at Gilmanton Iron Works on the 22d ult., Rev. S. S. N. Greeley moderator, and Rev. L. S. Coan, scribe, by approbation of which the pastoral relation of Rev. George Rogers to the Congregational Church in that place was dissolved on account of failing health.

Wiggin & Roberts' steam saw mill, located in the Ossipee Mountains, was burned Feb. 20th, by which a large number of hard working men are thrown out of employment. Loss estimated at $5,000; no insurance.

Political.

The democratic New Haven Union says: "The Electoral Commission, as a 'non-partisan tribunal,' is the biggest fraud of the nineteenth century!" True,—as was proved by the vote of the seven democratic partisans on the Oregon and South Carolina cases. Some sanguine people did at one time hope that at least the two democratic judges might soar above partisanship into the cool atmosphere of judicial serenity occupied by the republican eight, but their hopes were disappointed.

Mr. D. D. Field will arrive home after his Congressional career in much the same condition that ex-Gov. Weller of California found himself after having been shipwrecked. A friend met him in San Francisco and inquired if he had lost much. "Lost everything, sir," said Mr. Weller, "everything but my reputation." "Governor," replied the friend," "you travel with less baggage than any man I ever knew."

The democrats, with cool assumption, have a good deal to say about its being better to be on the right side crushed than on the wrong side triumphant. No doubt, no doubt. But to be on the right side triumphant rather than on the wrong side cru hed is a good deal better yet. That's the position in which the republican party finds itself to-day.

Democratic opinions of Mr. Tilden are now in order. Here is one from the Boston Herald's Washington despatches: "John O. Whitehouse, democrat, from the Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) district, says that Tilden is a fraud, and he will do nothing to allow such a shyster to get into the White House. He says there is bad blood in the whole Tilden family, and he doesn't like bad blood in anybody." The next gentleman will please step forward. One at a time.

It seems possible that Judge Hoadly would not have lost his Oregon case if he had a copy of the Household Dictionary in his pocket. When his stock of authorities was so ample, the omission of this little dictionary seems strange and sad.—Cincinnati Commercial (Ind.)

We feel confident that Hayes will not be President four years, because he has no legal title to the office. He may be removed by force and he may be removed by legal means. Let us exhaust legal means first. Do not let us kick up a big row now until legal means shall have been exhausted. Then it is time enough to talk about force. Troy Press (dem.)

That Octoroon Ball.

The Des Moines (Iowa) Register says that a gentleman in that city has received from a friend in New Orleans a graphic description in a private letter of the part Hon. Lyman Trumbull took in the now celebrated octoroon ball at Mrs. Patterson's. The writer says:

Trumbull and Palmer were rather late in arriving, and when they came in the ball was already in full progress. They were at once surrounded by a bevy of the octoroons, each anxious to secure a word or a smile from the great men. Governor Palmer was a little "offish" in manner, despite all the attentions lavished upon him, but Trumbull is a genuine man of the world, and conducted himself in a way to win the admiration of all. When in Rome he always does as the Romans do. The music of the dance struck up, and one of the girls with whom Trumbull had been laughing and joking, smiled brightly at him, and with her head arched on one side and her arms enticingly extended, said, "Senator, won't you dance with me?" "Why, of course I will," responded the old fellow, gallantly, and he caught the fair one around the waist and went circling down the hall, while Palmer looked on like a poor boy at a frolic. The Senator went round and round, to the music of a lively waltz, and showed some skill as a dancer, but ever and anon he would bump against the other couples, and nearly took his agile partner off her feet with the rapidity of his evolutions. At times he grew so dizzy that his partner (Lurline by name) had to stop and hold him up until the giddiness passed away, and he went at it again with renewed vigor. The Senator was loudly applauded throughout the room, and he undoubtedly made the sensation of the evening. Finally a dance something like a northern quadrille was put on the floor, and Palmer was induced to take part, but he did so in a very spiritless manner. In this dance there is the the figure of "gents' solo," which gives the gentlemen an opportunity to display their skill. As the gentlemen dance this figure one after another, there is generally a sort of competition between them, and each one tries to do his best. Several Southern gentleman had danced this figure with great spirit, and at last Trumbull's turn came. He was thoroughly fired up with the spirit of the occasion, and sailed gayly out on the floor to the music of "Jump Jim Crow," and then to the astonishment of all, he gave some regular plantation steps. To describe it in technical language he "rocked back on his hind feet" a little, then "cut the pigeon-wing" to the right and left, and came around on the "alligator circle" and retired to his place on the figure of "the windin' blades," a rare and difficult movement which it would be as difficult to describe as to perform. He knew that he had succeeded, for shouts for "the Judge" came from all parts of the room, and the great democrat's face smiled with the consciousness of triumph. Palmer, however, was utterly discomfitted, and refused to dance any more, though he lingered about for hours talking to the olive-hued maidens. And so the night wore on, Senator Trumbull's enjoyment growing more pronounced with every passing moment.

—The miner's dream of life is ore.

—A lady who determined to surprise her husband, a few nights ago bought him a new pair of rubbers and placed them by the bed-side. The man stayed out so late that his wife fell asleep, and when he came in his eyes fell upon the overshoes. Grabbing her by the hair he yelled out: "This once happy home is desolated by a faithless woman's perfidy," and pointed to the overshoes. It took nearly two hours to explain, and then he forgave her.

MARINE CHRONICLE

Dr. A. J. Flagg's

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the Worst CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption its effect has become almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual by than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

CURES COLDS, CURES COUGHS,

CURES CATARRH, CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extended practice with marvellous success, and I know it to be all that he claims for it.

WM. M. LADD, M. D.

CLAREMONT, N. H., September, 1875.

DR. FLAGG MY DEAR SIR: Your Cough and Lung Syrup has proved a great benefit to me, giving relief from severe coughs and soreness of the Lungs, when all other remedies and physicians had failed. I have never taken a medicine more pleasant to the taste or more satisfactory in its results.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL

No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,

SUCCESSOR TO

Dr. TELLER,

DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years his affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of marriage and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichois Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

THE SUN.

1877 NEW YORK. 1877

The different editions of THE SUN during the next year will be the same as during the year that has just passed. The daily edition will as now days be a sheet of four pages, and on Sundays a sheet of eight pages, or 56 broad columns; while the weekly edition will be a sheet of eight pages of the same dimensions and character that are already familiar to our friends.

THE SUN will continue to be the strenuous advocate of reform and retrenchment, and of the substitution of statesmanship, wisdom, and integrity for hollow pretence, imbecility, and fraud in the administration of public affairs. It will contend for the government of the people by the people and for the people, as opposed to government by frauds in the ballot-box and in the counting of votes, enforced by military violence. It will endeavor to supply its readers,—a body now not far from one million of souls—with the most accurate, complete, and trustworthy accounts of current events, and will employ for this purpose a numerous and carefully selected staff of reporters and correspondents. Its reports from Washington, especially, will be full, accurate and fearless; and it will doubtless continue to deserve and enjoy the hatred of those who thrive by plundering the Treasury or by usurping what the law does not give them, while it will endeavor to merit the confidence of the public by defending the rights of the people against the encroachments of unjustified power.

The price of the daily SUN will be 55 cents a month or $6.50 a year, post paid, or with the Sunday edition, $7.70 a year.

The SUNDAY edition alone, eight pages, $1.20 a year, post paid.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages of 56 broad columns, will be furnished during 1877 at the rate of $1 a year, post paid.

The benefit of this large reduction from the previous rate for the WEEKLY can be enjoyed by individual subscribers without the necessity of making up clubs. At the same time, if any of our friends choose to aid in extending our circulation, we shall be grateful to them, and every such person who sends us ten or more subscribers from one place will be entitled to one copy of the paper for himself without charge. At one dollar a year, postage paid, the expenses of paper and printing are barely repaid; and, considering the size of the sheet and the quality of its contents, we are confident the people will consider THE WEEKLY SUN the cheapest newspaper published in the world, and we trust also one of the very best.

Address

THE SUN, New York City, N. Y.

—A widow wears the distinctive crape dress and a widow's cap for a year and a day, and heavy crape for six months longer. Daughters wear crape for six months, black for three and half mourning three. Sisters wear crape for three months, black two, and half mourning one month. That is, if they are in "society."

—It will hardly do to say that bangles are "the only wear" just now, but they seem to be in high favor. Nevertheless, when a gentleman is so unfortunate as to have a seat at a concert between two bebangled maidens, who beat time with their fans and the jangling bells on their dear little wrists, the fashion does seem a trifle vulgar.—Boston Ex.

—Half a dozen wealthy farmers, of Greene, New York, had lots of fun one night. By way of rebuking the alleged immorality of a widow of that section, they surrounded her house one night and kept up a terrible racket, by blowing horns, firing guns, etc., besides smashing in the doors and windows. But there is still a slight doubt in the rural regions of New York, concerning the nobleness of half a dozen men banding together against one defenceless woman, and now the victim has recovered $600 damages against each of the crowd, and the affair seems to lose its hilarious aspect to the bucolic moralists who proceeded to cast stones without the previous self-examination advised in such cases. It rarely happens that a woman goes very far wrong without the help of man.

The London Literary World says: "There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice production of SCRIBNER'S press. All the articles, whether in prose or verse, are throughout with vitality. * * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."

The London Daily News says: "We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."

SCRIBNER & CO., 743 Broadway, N. Y.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY,

An Illustrated Illustrated Magazine.

The prospectus for the new volume gives the titles of more than fifty papers (mostly illustrated), by writers of the highest merit. Under the head of

"FOREIGN TRAVEL,"

we have "A Winter on the Nile," by Gen. McClellan; "Sauntherings About Constantinople," by Charles Dudley Warner; "Out of My Window at Moscow," by Eugene Schuyler; "An American in Turkistan," etc. Three serial stories are announced:

"NICHOLAS MINTURN,"

by Dr. Holland, the Editor, whose story of "Seventeen" gave the highest satisfaction to the readers of the Monthly.

The scene of this latest novel is laid on the banks of the Hudson. The hero is a young man who has been always "tied to a woman's apron strings," but who, by the death of his mother, is left alone in the world,—to drift on the current of life,—with a fortune, but without a purpose.

Another serial, "His Inheritance," by Miss Trafton, will begin on the completion of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," by Mrs. Hodgson Burnett. Mrs. Burnett's story, begun in August, has a pathos and dramatic power which have been a surprise to the public.

There is to be a series of original illustrated papers of "Popular Science," by Mrs. Herrick, each paper complete in itself.

There are to be, from various pens, papers on

"HOME LIFE AND TRAVEL."

Also, practical suggestions as to town and country life, village improvements, etc., by well-known specialists.

Mr. Barnard's articles on various industries of great Britain include the history of "Some Experiments in Co-operation," "A Scottish Loaf Factory," in the November number, and "Coal Lane, Rochdale," in December. Other papers are, "The British Workingman's Home," "A Nation of Shopkeepers," "Halfpenny a Week for the Child," etc.

A richly illustrated series will be given on "American Sports by Flood and Field," by various writers, and each on a different theme. The subject of will have a prominent place, whilst the latest productions of American industry will appear from month to month. The list of shorter stories, biographical and other sketches, etc., is a long one.

"HOUSEHOLD AND HOME DECORATION"

The editorial department will continue to employ the ablest pens both at home and abroad. There will be a series of letters on literary matters, from London, by Mr. Welford.

We mean to make the magazine wielder and purer, higher and nobler, more genial and generous in all its utterances and influences, and a more welcome visitor than ever before in homes of refinement and culture.

FIFTEEN MONTHS FOR $4.00.

SCRIBNER for December, now ready, contains the opening chapters of "Nicholas Minturn." The three numbers of SCRIBNER for August, September, and October, containing the opening chapters of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," will be given to every new subscriber (who requests it), and whose subscription begins with the present volume, i.e., with the November number.

Subscription price, $4 a year—35 cents a number. Special terms on bound volumes. Subscribe with the nearest bookseller, or send a check or P. O. money order to

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I remain,

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for a reasonable time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I feel in duty bound to write you, that so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or go out to work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but, as I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and neck. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room nearly all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was too far gone to get round, to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost well. The cost of one package here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed I send you three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as these pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend these Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of these Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Müller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $8.

The Magazine is attaining at one quarter century and more of existence to what point where it may be said of it, in the words of Dr. Johnson, "It is vain to blame and useless to praise." The name of its long-ago attained reputation has increased as the years have passed, and its future seems as bright if not brighter! and as any time since the golden hue of prosperity settled around its later and best years.—Brooklyn Eagle.
Harper's Monthly is marked by the same characteristics which gave it circulation from the first with the better class of readers. It combines reading matter with illustrations in a way to make clear and vivid the facts presented. Pictures merely designed to please the eye of the ignorant are never inserted.—Chicago Journal.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1877. The continued and increasing success of this periodical (now over thirty-three years old) is chiefly owing to the fact that it affords a comprehensive and cheap means of keeping well informed in the best literature of the day. With its weekly issue and its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, it is enabled to present with freshness, fullness, completeness able essays and reviews, choice serial and short stories, interesting sketches of travel and discovery, poetry, and valuable political, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature.
In its pages are represented the eminent authors as Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Tyndall, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Dean Stanley, James A. Froude, Frances Power Cobbe, The Duke of Argyll, Jas. A. Froude, Mrs. Muloch, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Thackeray, Jean Ingelow, Rev. Geo. McDonald, Wm. Black, Matthew Arnold, Henry Kingsley, W. W. Story, Anthony Trollope, Carlyle, Tennyson, Browning, and many other leaders in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, criticism and art.
The subscription price ($8 a year) is cheap for the amount of reading furnished; while to those desiring the current issue of both home and foreign literature, the publishers make a still cheaper offer, viz.: to send, postpaid, The Living Age and one of the American $4 monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one or other of our leading American monthlies, a selection will be made at cost, be put in "command of the whole situation."
An extra offer, also, is made to all new subscribers for 1877, viz.: to send them gratis the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first instalments of a new and unanimally powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.
The volume begins Jan. 1st, and we recommend the periodical to the attention of our readers. We know of no other way in which as much of the best work of the best minds of the time can be obtained so cheaply and conveniently as through this standard weekly magazine. Published by Littell & Gay, Boston.

PULMOCINE

Portsmouth Chronicle.

South Carolina.

The New York Graphic has the following dispatch from Beaufort, S. C., under date of March 1st:

The whole country north of here is in arms. An assault has been made on the blacks of Cambahee plantations, fifty miles south of Charleston, by Wade Hampton's illegal militia, numbering more than 1000 men, and they are resisted by Gov. Chamberlain's friends irregularly gathering about his sheriff as a posse. The difficulty which has now apparently become a pitched battle between the two governments originated in an attempt of the white planters of Cambahee and adjacent islands to cheat the black laborers of their wages. Regular contracts were made between the planters and laborers, but when pay day came, the former put off the latter with checks running from ten cents to one dollar to be used as currency to be redeemed in from six months to two years. These orders immediately fell in value till they were worth next to nothing, and at last the hands refused to work unless paid in money according to contract. It is one of the leaders of these strikers whom Hampton's sheriff is now trying to arrest. The sheriff has called out a thousand men to help him to "enforce the law," and the colored man is surrounded by twelve or fifteen hundred laborers, who refuse to concede Hampton's right to arrest anybody until the government is duly recognized by the President. The "Blue Store," near Green's Ford, is the focus of the excitement, but many white men are present from Charleston eager to participate. The blacks are the more numerous, and will act solely on the defensive, while the whites are armed with superior weapons. At the same time, the blacks and friends of Chamberlain are in the majority of five to one in this part of the State, and they are more independent and manly and less servile than in any other part of the South. Should there be a struggle it will be brought about by the determination of the Hampton forces to take the Chamberlain forces prisoners.

Another account says that a few days ago a store was robbed in Waterboro, Carleton County, and as the thieves were identified warrants of arrest were issued by a trial justice recently appointed by Wade Hampton. Three of the negroes were arrested, but the fourth resisted the constable, and, collecting a crowd, said he did not recognize a Wade Hampton's trial justice, and would die in his tracks before he would submit to arrest under the warrant. The justice, upon the return of his constable without the prisoner, under order of the Sheriff summoned a posse of ten white and black men, and deputized them to make the arrest. The posse proceeded to the "Blue Store," about eight miles from Green Pond, where they found the thief surrounded by a mob of one hundred negroes, all armed, who swore he should not be arrested. The posse of ten attempted to make the arrest, but were completely surrounded and with difficulty succeeded in making their escape, after first receiving a volley from the mob. Fortunately, no one was seriously hurt. The Sheriff, after consultation with Wade Hampton, sent out couriers in every direction and 1000 men, white and black, organized to meet at the Blue Store fully armed and prepared to make the arrest not only of the thief, but of all parties concerned in firing upon the posse. The negroes have massed in large numbers, all armed, in the same vicinity, and they swear that the thief shall not be captured. If the posse should be resisted a bloody encounter is expected.

Latest—the terrible insurrection at "Calf Pen" turns out to be a case of great cry and little wool. A posse of 200 men, black and white, charged the rioters, who fled without firing a shot. Twenty were arrested—nobody hurt on either side.

Harrison Phelps, a farmer near Antioch, Cal., quarrelled with his wife because she was too intimate with a man named Taylor, her "fellow" in her girlish days in the East. Mrs. Phelps left the ranch, but her husband soon sent for her, promising to deed her a half of his 320 acres. She demanded eighty more, and got them. For a time everything was serene, but one day Phelps learned that his wife had actually deeded the extra eighty acres to the man, Taylor. Taylor then became the victim of Phelps' little shot-gun.

Minnie Dyer, formerly the wife of Wankeen Miller, was married at Portland, Oregon, Feb. 7th, to Mr. T. E. L. Logan. She is said to be a woman of culture, intelligence and beauty, and is credited with the authorship of fully one-half the poems in Wankeen's first published book.

The Supreme Bench of the Dominion of Canada has given a decision unseating one Langevin, a member of the Dominion House of Commons, on the ground that any intimidation, course or threat of excommunication employed by any church for political reasons vitiates the election of the candidate in whose favor such means are employed. Justice Taschereau, a brother of the Archbishop of Quebec, delivered a similar opinion in French. This is a very important decision in view of the fact that the Catholic church in Lower Canada has virtually controlled the elections in many districts by threats of excommunicating any one who should vote contrary to the dictation of the priests.

Anarchy Defeated,

"THE RIGHT HAS PREVAILED!"

THE COUNT FINISHED.

The debate on the Vermont returns, when once commenced, proceeded rather more peaceably than the previous proceedings. Hewitt growled some about the loss of the bogus returns of the single-barrelled Aldrich Electoral College, but was stopped by the appearance of a page with the precious documents in his possession. Proctor Knott offered a resolution that the count should not proceed until the package was opened in presence of the convention; voted down, 148 to 116. Another similar resolution was defeated by the same vote. Lane of Oregon moved to reconsider; Hale of Maine moved to lay the motion to reconsider on the table; carried, 171 to 89. Wood's resolution that the vote of Mr. Soilace be not counted came in as an order; and Mr. Waling moved to lay it on the table; rejected, 167 to 64. Poppleton moved to reconsider; voted down, 168 to 65. The question then recurred to Wood's motion; Caulfield raised a point of order, but was overruled by the Speaker, and Wood's motion was passed. O'Brien of Maryland moved to reconsider; Garfield moved to lay O'Brien's motion on the table.—carried, 171 to 56. Other dilatory motions were voted down, and Wood's resolution was adopted. Clark of Missouri (at 10:05 P. M.,) moved to reconsider; Hale moved to lay Clark's motion on the table,—agreed to, 177 to 59. The Senate was then notified that the House was ready to go into convention.

The Senate entered the hall of the House at 10:55 P. M. The President of the Senate announced that the joint meeting of the two houses was resumed, and said the two houses not having concurred in sustaining the objection, the vote of Vermont would be counted; five votes for Rutherford B. Hayes and five votes for William A. Wheeler.

The certificate from Virginia was then opened. After asking for objections and hearing none, the Chair directed the vote to be counted eleven votes for Tilden and Hendricks.

The West Virginia certificate was opened and read, and in the absence of objections, five votes were scored for Tilden and Hendricks.

The certificate of Wisconsin was opened and handed to the tellers. Senator Allison read the papers, and at the conclusion the Chair asked if there were any objections to counting the State of Wisconsin. Mr. Lynde of Wisconsin presented objections to counting the vote of Daniel W. Downs, one of the Electors for the State of Wisconsin, because he held the office of Pension Surgeon and Examining Surgeon for the Pension Office prior to and on the day of the Presidential election, and on December 6, 1876, on which day he assumed to cast his vote as an Elector, and that his vote cannot be constitutionally counted.

After the reading of the objections the Senate retired, at 11:25 P. M., and the final struggle in the House began.

Upon returning to their chamber the Senators at once passed a resolution that the disputed vote of Wisconsin should be counted, and the House was notified.

In the House, filibustering was again carried on, under the lead of Blackburn of Kentuckey, O'Brien, Mills of Texas and Lynde of Wisconsin, Springer, Poppleton and others. Fernando Wood continued his determined opposition to the anarchists, and at four o'clock the Senate was notified that the House was ready to proceed with the count.

At a few minutes past four o'clock the Senate entered the House, and President Ferry called the convention to order for the last time. He announced that the objection to the vote of Wisconsin was not sustained, and the vote was therefore counted for Hayes and Wheeler. The tellers were then directed to foot up the full returns, the footings were formally announced, President Ferry signed the parchment roll upon which the count is declared with the pen from the feather of the mountain eagle, and declared HAYES and WHEELER elected. And then, at 4:16 A. M., the convention adjourned without day.

Didn't Get Excited.

President Hayes was asleep in his room in a car at Marysville, Pa., (where the train stopped for water,) on his way to Washington, when the railroad manager received a dispatch that the count was finished. He at once took the dispatch to the stateroom of President Hayes, knocked until he was answered and then read the welcome news. Receiving no response he read it again in louder tones, when the President-elect said, "I hear you; don't wake up everybody in the car! Good night."

The Long Contest Ended.

The long agony is over, and the candidates chosen in November as President and Vice President for four years from the 4th of March, 1877, have been confirmed in their just rights; RUTHERFORD B. HAYES and WILLIAM A. WHEELER were on Friday morning, at sixteen minutes past four o'clock, declared elected President and Vice President of the United States, they having 185 electoral votes to 184 for Samuel J. Tilden and Thomas A. Hendricks.

"Hayes has 185 votes and is elected." So telegraphed Hon. Zach. Chandler on the day after election, and his assertion, after months of anxiety and uncertainty, is confirmed by the Electoral Commission appointed to settle the points in dispute. That a large portion of the better class of democrats will but faintly regret the defeat of Mr. Tilden, after the first bitterness is over, we feel assured, for the exposure of the means adopted by him to secure his election has effectually stripped him of the "reformer's" cloak which he donned in furtherance of his schemes. The extremists among the democrats, those who would prefer to see the country ruined rather than to lose the chance of getting office, may storm and foam at the mouth; but they cannot carry their party with them in any such measures as they would be glad to adopt, if we may credit their own words. The republicans, of course, will rejoice; and so will the entire business portion of the community regardless of party, for the final and peaceful settlement of the vexed question insures a revival of manufactures and trade, and a speedy end to the "hard times" that have borne so heavily on all classes since the disastrous panic of 1873.

The prolonged contest over the Presidency has not been without some compensating advantages. The conduct of many of the northern democratic leaders in repudiating and striving by every means in their power to defeat the decisions of a tribunal of their own creation, and whose findings they were at first loud in asserting no true patriot and honest man would attempt to dispute, no matter what those findings might be, should and we believe will result in the retiring to obscurity of many of the men who have made such a shameless exhibition of dishonesty, bad faith and reckless disregard of the most solemn agreements. On the other hand, the conduct of the "rebel brigadiers" in the House—at least all the prominent southern leaders—has done more within a week to dissipate the natural and not unreasonable suspicions of the northern people regarding the honesty of their professions of devotion to the Union as it is, than ten years of mere talking on their part would have done; they have shown a sense of honor in maintaining that a solemn compact is not to be lightly broken, which is in bright contrast to the course of the anarchists who endeavored to nullify the action of their own Tribunal because its decisions were not as they had expected them to be.

The rearrangement of party lines has been made one of the possibilities of the near future. With the democratic party of the north hopelessly divided, as it now seems to be, and the democratic party of the south recognized as a conservative and anti-war element, the old issues would seem to be driven into their grave at last and only waiting to have the earth heaped over them; and this new condition of affairs will have to be recognized by the republican party—as we believe it will gladly be—or the party will find itself in the way of something very uncomfortable to contend with at the next Presidential election.

But the most significant lesson to be learned from the peaceful settlement of the Presidential contest is that of the power of the American people to settle without bloodshed a dispute that would have caused any throne in Europe to rock to its base if not to go down in a sea of blood. With millions of men on each side firmly convinced that their side had honestly won a national victory, in any other country war would have been inevitable; but the Great Republic still stands secure, and all the more firm for the jarring which has but indicated some weak points about the foundation which need attention.

News and Notes.

President Grant on Friday issued a proclamation convening the Senate in extra session at noon on the 5th of March.

President-elect Hayes, Gen. Sherman and Gov. Denison arrived in Washington on Friday, and called upon President Grant and the Cabinet.

Mr. Hayes' resignation of the governorship of Ohio, dated Feb. 28, to take effect March 2d, was filed in the proper place, on the latter date, and Lieut. Gov. Thomas L. Young was at once sworn in as Governor.

The coroner's jury in the case of "Chicken Rice," shot by Officer E. W. Freeman of the Boston police, exonerated Mr. Freeman from all blame, fully justifying his action in the matter. The Donovan women, who swore that the shooting was wanton and unprovoked, and that no attack was made on the officers, were proved to be utterly worthless characters, as were the thieves and bullies, with whom they were associated, and the officers' torn clothing and bruised bodies proved the truth of the latters' story.

British barque Ellenhausen, at Portland from St. John, N. B., was struck by lightning on the passage, one man being killed and another fatally injured. The vessel was not hurt.

A man called at the Treasury Department in Washington on Thursday, and sent in a card bearing the name of Littleton to a lady named Stover, employed in the redemption division. The lady went out, and the man immediately fired two shots at her from a revolver, but didn't hit her. Mr. Wilson, chief of the loan division, seized the shooting, when he fired a shot at himself, but did little injury, thereby showing himself to be an execrable marksman. How he failed to hit some of the many persons in the corridor at the time is inexplicable.

John McColl was hung at Yankton, Dakotah Territory, on the 1st inst., for the murder of John B. Hickok (Wild Bill) in the Black Hills in August last.

The United States Supreme Court has decided the so-called Granger cases, involving the question whether the legislatures of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and other Western States have the right to regulate the carrying of freight and passengers on all railroads in their respective States. The Court holds that the States have such power of regulation. All the Justices concurred except Justice Field. The Court has also decided the case of Munn & Scott against the State of Illinois, affirming the right of the State to fix by law the maximum of charges for the storage of grain in warehouses at Chicago and other places in the State.

New Hampshire Items.

At the trial of La Page, at Concord, for the murder of Josie Langmaid, Thursday, William H. Cate, a new witness, testified that he was drawing dirt on the morning of the murder and met La Page near Deacon Moras's at eight o'clock. Another important new witness was John B. Payne, living about half a mile from the South Pembroke Academy. A Frenchman came to his house on the morning of the murder, just after the 8:25 academy bell rang, with an axe on his shoulder, and wanted a job wood-chopping. Witness saw him pass on towards the academy to Mr. Guild's house. Recognized La Page in court, Wednesday, as the man, and was the first time that the witness had seen him since the morning of the murder.

There was a grand republican rally at Nashua, Thursday evening, the City Hall being crowded. Hon. Wm. Avery and Ex-Senator Henry R. Pease, both of Mississippi, addressed the meeting, which was a most enthusiastic one.

The Tilton cotton mill, which has been idle for two years, will start up soon with about 400 hands.

A Hopkinton young lady is to be married soon after a somewhat romantic courtship. Her lover lives in the Sandwich Islands, and, until she came to Boston to meet him, a few days ago, they had never seen each other but fifteen minutes, which was at Nashua, four years ago. A correspondence followed the accidental meeting and the match bids fair to be a happy one.

Arrangements have been made by the republicans of Concord to have a grand rally and torchlight demonstration on Monday evening to celebrate the election of Rutherford B. Hayes and William A. Wheeler as President and Vice President of the United States. All the companies that did duty in the November campaign will appear in uniform. Music, cannon, fireworks, etc., will contribute to its success, and many able speakers will be present.

Bad specks on the teeth are almost as unpleasant as bad specs in the money market. To prevent them or to get rid of them, use SOZODONT. It is literally a specific for every blemish that disfigures the teeth, and whitens them without endangering the enamel.

EFFECT OF THE GOOD NEWS.

A dispatch from this city to the Boston Journal, Friday, says: "The reception of the news of the result of the electoral commission this forenoon called forth lively demonstrations of joy among the republicans. The streets are lively with music, cheering and singing." The republicans of Portsmouth showed their joy in their faces plainly enough, but it did not break forth in song to any great extent that we heard, nor did we hear uproarious cheering; in fact, the democrats made more noise in ten minutes, on the morning after election day, than the republicans made all day Friday. The "music" which paraded the streets consisted originally of a bass drum, carried by two well known republicans (who are about as popular with the democrats as they are with their own party) and beaten vigorously by one of them; a little later the music was reinforced by a tin fish-horn, he "band" then mounted a wagon, the horse was covered with the stars and stripes, and the establishment paraded about town for an hour or so, the band discoursing the sweetest and most inspiriting music of which it was capable,—there being frequent breaks in the music, however, as one or other of the performers stopped playing to exchange congratulations with some republican or retort the good natured jibes of some democrat. But there was more mirth than music raised by that band.

During the evening a joyous crowd was assembled at the republican headquarters, and congratulations were exchanged and songs sung, and the drum beaten some more. At half-past seven o'clock a big bonfire was started on Market square, and made a brilliant show while it lasted; but the pouring rain was not favorable to the long continuance of out-of-door sports, and by nine o'clock the fire had been allowed to die down.

EASTERN RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

George Bachelder has retired from the office of Superintendent of the Eastern Railroad and is succeeded by Mr. Hornby, a brother-in-law of President Rockwell, who has had charge of a Western Railroad. The general management of the road is to be under the personal charge of the President, and the operating departments to be divided into three sub-departments, of transportation, maintenance of way, and department of rolling stock, with a Master at the head of each department. The business department is to embrace ticket department, freight and purchasing department, each with a general agent, who reports to the President, and is under his immediate order and subject to his suspension or removal. The change is brought about after mature consideration of the Directors, and it is thought will prove a saving to the road. Journal.

When the new Board of Directors came into power the detail management of the road was found to be without a proper system, and Gen. Rockwell at once consulted with the most experienced and ablest managers of railways in the country upon a proper remedy for the then existing state of affairs. He soon found that a great corporation like the Eastern could only be managed by having one recognized Executive to whom all other departments should be subordinate, instead of to each other. The result of consultations and observations to which the directors have devoted much time and research is the adoption of the new system by which the General Management of the Road is placed under the personal charge of the President.

The Management is understood to cover the Operating Department and the Business Department. The Operating Department is to be divided into three sub-departments, viz.: of Transportation, of Maintenance of Way, and of Rolling Stock. Then there is Master at the head of each of these three sub-departments, who has the exclusive charge of all employees in the department, and reports to the President.

The Business Department is divided into three sub-departments, viz.: Ticket, Freight and Purchasing Departments. There is a General Agent at the head of each of these three sub-departments, who has the exclusive charge of the affairs of his department, and reports to the President.

The six heads of departments, viz.: of Transportation, of Maintenance of Way, and of Rolling Stock, and General Ticket, Freight, and Purchasing Agents, are to be the general officers of the railroad, and appointed by the President with the approval of the board of directors; and will act under the immediate direction of the President, who has full power to suspend or discharge them.

Thus it will be seen that each department is in a degree independent of any other, and accountable to the Executive, not through a Superintendent, but directly. The plan has been found to work well on other railroads, and if any employee does not come up to the requirements of the President or cannot acquiesce in the results of the new dispensation of course he must give way to a successor.

THE PROSPECTS.

The Republican Committee of Rockingham County had a meeting in Exeter on Thursday, the attendance of working republicans being very large. Gen. Marston, Col. Daniel Hall, Emmons B. Philbrick, Esq., of Rye, candidate for Senator from this district, and others, addressed the meeting. The reports from the various towns were eminently encouraging, and there seems no doubt that the eight hundred republican majority in this Congressional district, thrown at the Presidential election, will be fully maintained or even increased. Gen. Marston was enthusiastically applauded by his hearers, who expressed themselves confident of a republican triumph at the polls, which should give that gallant soldier the seat in Congress now held by Hon. Frank Jones of this city. The reports from town committees show that the republicans are not trusting to the election's carrying itself in their favor, or relying on the apparent apathy and real discouragement of the democracy, but are doing good work toward bringing out a full vote for the unexceptionable candidates of the party. The prospect is much more cheering to-day for the triumph of the entire republican ticket —Congressman, Councillor, Senator—in the First District, and the candidates for County officers, than it was for the victory won at the Presidential election a week before it occurred. Then the democrats were spurred to tremendous exertions by a confident anticipation of victory, and visions of "post-offices" and other good things which seemed to them to be within easy reach; but now they are putting no heart into their work, feeling themselves heavily handicapped by their gubernatorial candidate, (while Mr. Prescott's nomination strengthens the local republican ticket,) and their encouraging hopes of dividing among themselves the post-offices, custom-house billets and navy yard positions have been rudely dispelled by Tilden's defeat. That Gilman Marston's qualifications for member of Congress are immeasurably superior to Frank Jones', in everything except the possession of wealth, is undeniable; and Mr. Philbrick will stand the most rigid comparison with Mr. Eldredge as a fit and proper person to represent this district in the State Senate, though he is not so wealthy a man. Equally good are our County candidates; there is not a man among them but will make as capable an official, to say the least, as the opposing candidate; and the indications are that these good nominations will be endorsed as they should be at the polls. All that is needed is for the republicans to bring out their full vote, and this they propose to do.

JOTTINGS.

As the weather last Sunday was so unfavorable, the Service of Praise at Bow Mission will be repeated to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock. A fee of five cents will be taken at the door to pay the expenses of the Hall.

At the annual meeting of the City Mission Society, recently held, Rev. James DeNormandie was re-elected President: Rev. L. L. Harmon, Vice President; John S. Rand, Treasurer, and Joseph H. Foster, Secretary. This Society has a fund of $2,000, the interest of which is annually expended for the poor.

The young people attending the Universalist church are preparing for an Easter Festival to be given in the church on Easter Sunday.

The ice in Great Bay is rapidly breaking up, though it is unusually early in the season for that performance.

The Eastern Railroad Co. have leased the North Mill to Mr. Charles S. Holmes of Saco, who took possession on the 1st inst. Mr. Holmes is a practical miller and will remove with his family to this city.

Steamer Perkiomen (steam collier No. 10) arrived at this port on Friday afternoon, in about sixty hours from Philadelphia, and hauled in to Concord Railroad wharf to discharge her cargo of coal. She is the first arrival of the steam colliers for this season.

Lieut. Charles Seymour, and Masters James C. Cresah and Lyman G. Spalding are detached from the Alliance and ordered to the new sloop Enterprise at this station.

The city's bonds issued for the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad subscription, are said to have been sold in Boston at $106, a handsome advance on the price received by the city.

Joseph G. Simpson, of Greenland, met with an accident recently which resulted in breaking one of his legs. He was driving a team, when his oxen took fright, and he in endeavoring to stop them jumped from his sled, made a misstep and slipped, the sled running over him.

The boiler for the new steam saw-mill and box-factory at Greenland arrived there on Tuesday, the 27th ult., having been hauled from Hampton by fourteen yoke of oxen. The weight of the boiler is eight tons. The mill is to be one hundred and ten feet long by fifty feet wide, and will be fitted with the latest improved machinery. About fifteen hands will be employed in the mill.

The beautiful piece of property formerly belonging to Mr. Albert Blaisdell, in Greenland, has changed hands recently, and a fine house is to be put up on the site of the mansion burned some time ago.

The number of births in Hampton for the year ending Feb. 14th, was twenty-four.

The check-list of Hampton Falls, as posted, has 173 names, of which twenty-two are Browns, ten Sanborns, eight Chases and eight Prescotts.

On Thursday a married woman left this city at nine minutes past eleven o'clock in the forenoon, on an Eastern Railroad train, left the train at North Hampton and drove to Exeter, attended a hearing in a divorce case before Judge Doe, and got back to this city at three o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, an unmarried women. Bring on your Bertha Von Hillern, and let's see if she can beat that time.

Twenty-four jurors of Rockingham County having addressed a letter to both gubernatorial candidates, expressing their dissatisfaction with the law for settling small civil suits as it now stands and asking how reform in the matter can be secured, the republican candidate, Hon. B. F. Prescott, replies that the desired end will be attained by an affirmative vote of the people on the second and tenth questions submitted by the late Constitutional Convention, and expresses the hope that this will be done. Hon. Daniel Marcy's answer has not been made public, if he has yet made one; but as there can be no possible suspicion of anything partisan in these proposed amendments we think it extremely probable Mr. Marcy will favor them.

Breathing Miasma Without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in fever and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive. It has frequently happened, and the fact has been amply attested by the parties themselves, that persons surrounded on all sides by neighbors suffering the tortures of this shivering and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute immunity from it, thanks to the protection afforded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard anti-febrile cordial less efficacious in remedying than in preventing chills and fever, bilious remittents, and disorders of a kindred type. Taken between the paroxysms, it speedily mitigates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, appeal with peculiar force to travellers and sojourners in malarious districts.

Dr. A. J. Flagg's Cough and Lung Syrup is daily working its cures and raising patients from their beds who have been given up to die by their physicians. Almost every day, Dr. Flagg is receiving complimentary letters bearing testimony to the curative properties of this great remedy.

"Sulphuret Oil of Roses."

Mr. Cowles, editor of the Cleveland Leader, in a letter to his paper from Washington, writes as follows: "One of the democratic members of the Electoral Tribunal said to a republican member that he was reconciled to the bitterness of defeat by the 'Oregon infamy.' An ex-democratic officer of the House said to me he was done with the democratic party—a party which still sustains Sam. Tilden in all his rascality. I heard a gentleman in the Riggs House say to another that, if the party did not formally repudiate the scoundrelly acts of Mr. Tilden, he, for one, was done with that party. A distinguished democratic Senator said to a friend of mine that he was personally acquainted with Hayes, and knows him to be incorruptible, and he privately hoped he would be counted in, for he had lost all confidence in Mr. Tilden."

—Fluke McGilder says that some editors are so peaceably inclined that they refuse to put heads on their editorials.

The Important Question.

Of all loathsome diseases Catarrh stands pre-eminent. It renders its victim as disgusting to himself as to others. And the most humiliating of all is the consciousness that his presence is offensive to those around him. If any disease deserves the name of universal it is this. Dictitic errors and the follies which Fashion imposes upon us tend to foster and disseminate it. To the pitiful cry of its victims, is there any cure for Catarrh? there is but one answer consistent with Christian reason. God has never sent one evil into the world for which he has not sent the remedy. For the greatest of all spiritual and moral evils, the Great Physician has prescribed a potent and never-failing remedy. He has given explicit rules for the treatment and preservation of the spiritual and moral man, but He is silent in all matters relating to the physical man. It would be an unwarrantable detraction from His beneficent character to suppose that He has afflicted the greater portion of humanity with an incurable disease. The day of plagues is past. The God of Christianity is a God of Love, of Mercy. His message is "good will to all men." The earth and all contained therein was intended by the great Designer to supply man's wants; and surely he has no greater wants than remedies for his infirmities. Science is rapidly proving that the earth is fitted to supply man's utermost need. New medicinal plants are constantly being discovered and new properties developed from those already known. For Catarrh the most potent remedy yet discovered is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its efficacy has been tested in many thousand cases with uniform success. Cases that had been repeatedly pronounced incurable, readily yielded to it. In confirmed, or obstinate cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery should be taken in connection with the use of the Catarrh Remedy. Full particulars in Pierce's Memorandum Books. They are given away by druggists.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative as could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England.

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. His offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the root of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 8th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty-two, and I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldier, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him half a package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been so free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yet, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. You may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for many consecutive years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried all I could hear of from many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting mineral springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic C ndition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anything. I have few applications to make for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Serials, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher amount of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Müller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it endeavors itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving, usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $8.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1877. The continued and increasing success of this periodical (now over thirty-three years old) is doubtless owing to the fact that it affords a comprehensive and cheap means of keeping well informed in the literature of the day. With its weekly issue, and its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, it is enabled to present with promptness and substantial completeness able essays and reviews, fresh serial and short stories, interesting sketches of travel and discovery, poetry, and valuable specimens of historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature.

In its pages are represented the most eminent authors as Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Tyndall, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Prof. Huxley, Prof. Owen, Dean Stanley, Mr. Froude, Mr. Anthony Trollope, Mr. Darwin, Mr. Lecky, Mr. Freeman, Mr. Tennyson, Mr. Ruskin, Mr. Swinburne, Mr. Arnold, Mr. Tennyson, Browning, and many other leaders in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, criticism and art.

The subscription price ($8 a year) is cheap for the amount of reading furnished, but subscribers may get the cream of both home and foreign literature, the publishers make a still cheaper offer, viz.: to send, postpaid, The Living Age and any one of the American $4 monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one or other of our leading American monthly or weekly publications will almost seem to be put in "command of the whole situation."

An extra copy, free, to any one sending a club of five subscribers for 1877, viz.: to send them gratis the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first instalments of a new and unusually powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.

The volume begins Jan. 1st, and we recommend the period to the attention of our readers. We know of no other way in which so much of the best work of the best minds of the time can be obtained so cheaply and conveniently as through this standard weekly magazine. Published by Littell & Gay, Boston.

Range of the Flight of Birds.

It would seem at first that no barriers could limit the range of birds, and that they ought to be the most ubiquitous of creatures. This, however, is far from being the case; many groups of birds are almost as strictly limited by barriers as the mammalia. The petrels and the gulls are among the greatest wanderers; but most of the species are confined to one or other of the great oceans, or to the arctic or ant-arctic seas. The sandpipers and plovers wander along the shores as far as do the petrels over the ocean. Great numbers of them breed in arctic regions and migrate as far as India and Australia, or down to Chili and Brazil; the species of the new and old worlds, however, being generally distinct. In striking contrast to these wide ranges we find many of the smaller perching birds, with some of the parrots and pigeons, confined to small islands of a few square miles in extent, or single valleys or mountains on the mainland. Those groups of birds which possess no powers of flight, such as the ostrich, cassowary, and apterwyx, are in exactly the same position as the mammalia as regards the means of dispersal, or are perhaps even inferior to them; since, although they are able to cross rivers by swimming, it is doubtful if they could remain so long in the water as most land quadrupeds. A large number of short-winged birds, such as toucans, pittas, and wrens, are perhaps worse off, for they can fly very few miles at a time, and on falling into the water would soon be drowned. It is only the strong-flying species that can venture to cross any great width of sea, and even these rarely do so unless compelled by necessity to migrate in search of food, or to a more genial climate. Small and weak birds are, however, often carried accidentally across great widths of ocean by violent gales. This is exemplified by the large number of stragglers from North America which annually reaches the Bermudas. No less than sixty-nine species of American birds have occurred in Europe, most of them in Britain and Heligoland. They consist chiefly of migratory birds which in autumn return along the eastern coast of the United States, and often fly from point to point across bays and inlets. They are then liable to be blown out to sea by storms; and it is almost always at this time of the year that their occurrence has been noted on the shores of Europe. Birds which frequent forests and thickets are secure from such accidents, and are restricted in their range by the extent of the forests they inhabit. Mountain chains, and even large rivers like the Amazon, limit the range of many birds.—Harper's for March.

Why is Sea Water Saltish?

The question has puzzled men of science in all ages, and upon which they have formed various opinions; one of which is, that at an early period of the world's formation, the earth was entirely covered with a watery atmosphere; that at that epoch the earth was one volcanic mass of fire, which put the surrounding atmosphere into an excessively burning heat—hotter, twice over, than boiling water now is; that this incalculably hot atmosphere, acting on the fiery surface of the volcano which it encompassed, produced its natural results, and drew out of the ardent earth certain acids into its own aquatic body then undergoing condensation into sea water, assisted by the acids existing in that atmosphere itself at the time. The chaotic mass of fiery rocks were so acted upon by the atmosphere by carbonic, sulphuric and other influences, that they gradually cooled down in submission to the watery element with which they had so long contended, and then the saltish sea took its saline bath; retired to its ocean caves, leaving behind it earth and its surface fit for an animal life. Two-thirds of the globe may be said to be covered by the sea; and therefore, taking an average depth at 3,000 yards, and that this body of water contains 3 1-2 per cent. of salt, we have consequently existing in the sea no less than sixty millions of millions of tons of salt. Were all this water to be dried up then we should have a deposit of dry salt over the entire bottom of the seas of the thickness of 105 yards. This is equal to a thickness of 300 yards of salt, were it all taken from the sea and spread over the whole surface of the dry land. This shows that there is as much salt in the water of the ocean as would cover the entire surface of the globe with dry salt to the thickness of 67 yards, as a superficial coating. The dashing of the waves against the land, the rains and rivers of our time are adding to the saltish water in the sea; but other agents are at work in an opposing direction, so that very likely the sea is gaining a little, if any at all, of saline matter. That, therefore, the saltish water was created in a primeval period, long before man appeared on earth; and the problem still remains for scientific investigation. Why is sea water saltish?

—A rainy day in Oregon is called "wet-foot weather."

—How even the whims of the rich are respected by almost everybody. Vanderbilt expressed a desire for an absence of pomp about his obsequies, and an entire stranger took off the piece of mourning crape on the door. It was worth $20, but even that did not hinder him from carrying out the last wishes of the deceased Commodore.

Mr. Ulysses S. Grant.

To-day the great man who for eight years past has been President of the United States is again but a citizen, with no more power under the Constitution and the laws than any other citizen. He entered the White House fresh from the long and bloody conflict which well nigh shattered the Union to fragments, having had no previous training save that of the soldier, and at a time when the country was burdened with an enormous debt, its business as badly inflated as its currency, the passions and prejudices of the war yet at a white heat, the South in the height of the terrible turmoil resulting from the complete overturning of its social and labor systems, and when many of the reckless and unscrupulous adventurers who thrust themselves into positions of prominence and power during the war were still holding their positions.

Under such conditions it was impossible for him to avoid making mistakes, and mistakes he has made. The same obstinacy which enabled him to steadily carry the Union armies to a triumphant closing of the rebellion, unmoved by minor disasters or popular clamor, was less advantageous to the public when it made him so firmly stand by men who were unworthy of his confidence; and in other minor matters no doubt a different course from the one taken by him would have been better; yet his administration will go down in history as one of the most memorable in the life time of the Republic. As a man, he has been accused of corruption and jobbery, perjury, neglect of duty, drunkenness, imbecility, crafty and desperate wickedness, "Cæsarism" and many other failings and misdeeds, by his personal and party opponents; yet his name will shine brightly as the successful general and wise and upright Chief Magistrate of the United States, centuries after the memories of his traducers have faded into utter forgetfulness.

Under his administration the national debt has been reduced at a rate never before known in the history of nations; taxation has been greatly diminished; gold, which when he took his seat was so high as to be out of sight, has dropped to a premium of less than five per cent.; in spite of the panic and the consequent business lethargy, the credit of the nation has steadily improved until its bonds bring a premium in gold in the European markets; a dangerous dispute with a great nation has been amicably settled, to the honor of both countries; important treaties have been made with foreign governments; the bonds of Union between North and South have been strengthened; and the Republic to-day occupies a prouder position among the nations of the world than the wildest enthusiast could have anticipated a few years ago.

Ulysses S. Grant may safely leave his fame and the record of his administration to history; his many and great achievements will obliterate his comparatively trifling errors from the memories of future generations, and his name will be remembered with those of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, and stand as high on the roll as theirs.

News and Notes.

Good morning, President Hayes!

President Hayes will be publicly inaugurated to-day, with considerable ceremony.

President Grant telegraphed to Gen. Anger at New Orleans on Friday, informing him that hereafter the troops must be used in Louisiana for the purpose only of preserving the public peace, and in aid of the civil authorities when the latter are powerless to do so. A telegram was also sent to Gov. Packard to the effect that the policy of maintaining a State government by Federal troops must be abandoned, as such use of the Federal forces was against public sentiment and unjust to a majority of the people.

Both Houses of Congress had long sessions on Friday, notwithstanding the previous long ones when engaged on the electoral count; and the appropriation bills were considerably advanced. The army appropriation bill, with an unconstitutional clause tacked on prohibiting the use of troops in Louisiana or South Carolina, passed both Houses. The Senate appointed Morrill, Howe and McDonald a committee to make suitable arrangements for the inauguration of President Hayes.

The man who attempted to shoot Mrs. Stover in the Treasury Department at Washington, turns out to be a Michigan farmer named Deitz, a disappointed suitor for her hand. He will be tried for assault with intent to kill.

About a year ago James B. Ramsdell stole a team from his employer, Mr. Downing of Kennebunk, Maine. He was caught and sent to Auburn jail for one year. Ramsdell was recently discharged, and on last Monday came to Downing, offering to work for his board in order to repay Downing for the trouble and expense he had been to. Downing accepted the offer. While Mr. Downing was in Biddeford on Wednesday, Ramsdell, with a dirk in one hand and a pistol in the other, ordered Mr. Downing's son to pass over all his father's money in the house, and with a considerable sum and other valuables decamped.

Julius Levy, of Memphis, Tenn., was married three weeks ago. On Friday he fatally shot his wife and then blew his own brains out. Cause, a dispute about some property.

Some of the New York city officials, though not the Mayor, permitted the remains of the late Gen. Aguilera, Vice President of the so-called Cuban Republic, to lie in state in the Governor's room of the City Hall, and ran up the Cuban flag over the building. The Spaniards in the city are indignant and excited and certainly they have good reason. There is a strong Cuba influence in New York, and this may account for the action of the city officials, though it does not justify the insult to Spain.

The little girl who skips herself to death with a jumping rope appears early this year. The first case is already reported from Vincennes, Ind.

The mills of the Great Falls Manufacturing Com. were shut down on Friday, on account of scarcity of water, but will probably start up again soon if the rainy weather continues.

The Boston & Maine strikers were all paid their month's wages on Thursday, by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The treaty of peace between Turkey and Servia has been formally signed.

England has ordered her entire Mediterranean fleet to concentrate at Malta immediately. This of course withdraws all British men-of-war from Grecian and Turkish waters.

Miss Bertha Von Hillern, at seven o'clock Friday evening, commenced walking in Boston Music Hall, on an attempt to walk one hundred miles in twenty-eight hours. At midnight she had completed twenty-two miles.

Hi! what does this mean? Here we have the "independent" Boston Globe calling the editor of the "independent" Springfield (Charles Fran— no, the Springfield Republican, "Sam-bowles!"

The number of vessels belonging to, or bound to or from ports in the United States, reported totally lost and missing during the past month, is 44, of which 26 were wrecked, 6 abandoned, 2 burned, 3 sunk by collision, and 7 are missing. The list includes 4 steamers, 4 ships, 10 barques, 6 brigs and 20 schooners, and their total value, exclusive of cargoes, is estimated at $1,152,000.

Edward A. Samuels, of Boston, "the friend of New England birds," has been inquiring into the charge that thousands of sparrows and snow-birds are killed and sold in the markets, and finds that the only birds thus sold have been a few Lapland long-spurs, which are neither handsome, sociable, musical, nor of any value agriculturally, and may certainly be eaten if the reed-bird or rice-bird may be devoured without sentimentality. Mr. Samuels also agrees, too, that the butcher-bird is a benefactor, in that our best birds are driven off by the sparrows, insufferable little tyrants who will be pied for by the head before long.

A Parisian Match.

Adolph Z. is young, not unprepossessing, and a clerk in a wealthy banker's office in Paris on a salary of $600 a year. The banker has a pretty daughter of eighteen. Adolph has not a cent, but that does not deter him from waiting upon his employer one morning and saying: "Sir, I have the honor of asking your daughter's hand in marriage." The banker, astonished, rang the bell, and told the waiter to throw Adolph out of the window. "As you please," calmly said the young clerk, "but before that is done learn that I am about to become a partner in the London house of Bathurst & Co." At this the banker softens. "The proof, sir, the proof of what you say." "Give me forty-eight hours in which to go to England, and I will bring you the proof." Adolph hurries to London, presents himself at the office of Bathurst & Co., and says: "I have come to propose that you take me as a partner," and, as Mr. Bathurst looks as though he thought Adolph demented, he adds: "I am about to marry the daughter of M. P., of Paris." Adolph is thereupon asked to be seated, they converse and come to terms. The bright young man returns to Paris, carrying to his future father-in-law the proof of his statement, and the young people are wedded.

—A Frenchman has invented a skillful talking machine. It will lecture. By the way, young and enterprising canvassers ought to make a good thing selling this machine to sewing societies and other associations that have a good deal of talking to do.

—A Cincinnati paper says: The other day one of the clerks in a Washington street store found the porter crammed among the boxes down cellar, with pen, ink and paper before him. "Writing a letter, eh?" queried the clerk. "Yes; writing to the old man in Buffalo." He handed up the half-written letter for inspection, and presently the clerk remarked: "I see you spell jug 'g-u-g;' that isn't right." "O! course not," replied the porter, "but you see I am writing to the old man, and he always spells that way. If I put the other 'g' to it he would think I was putting on style over him and forgetting that I was his son. He's good-hearted and I don't want to hurt his feelings." The letter went off with only one "g" at the end of "gug."

—"Ah!" mourned a widow, recently bereaved. "What a misfortune! I know what kind of a husband I have lost; but how can I know what kind of a husband his successor will be?"

—The latest hotel swindling dodge it practiced as follows: Checks are stolen from some baggage room and then the fraud goes to a hotel and puts up, handing the checks to the porter with a request that he will call at the baggage room and get the luggage. The porter calls and of course finds the baggage has not yet arrived, the baggage-master believing that all is well as he is ignorant of the fact that the checks are stolen. On the strength of the expected baggage, that never comes, the beat manages to secure hotel accommodations for a longer or shorter period, and then departs.

—At a golden wedding in New York thirty grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the aged pair marched into the room, two and two, the larger first, then the smaller, until the rear was brought up by toddlers of two years. Each child carried a bouquet of flowers, which decreased in size, as did the bearers, until the last two bore each a single blue violet. Filing past their grandparents, each child presented the flowers to them, the boys to their grandmother and the girls to their grandpaps, and in making the presentation, each recited one verse of a poem descriptive of the occasion.

Breathing Miasma Without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in fever and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive. It has frequently happened, and the fact has been amply attested by the parties themselves, that persons surrounded on all sides by neighbors suffering the tortures of this shivering and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute immunity from it, thanks to the protection afforded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard anti-febrile cordial less efficacious in remedying than in preventing chills and fever, bilious remittents, and disorders of a kindred type. Taken between the paroxysms, it specially mitigates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, appeal with peculiar force to travellers and sojourners in malarious districts.

After much study and a long series of experiments, Dr. A. J. Flagg, of Claremont, N. H. has succeeded in producing a remedy which will cure almost every form of disease of the Throat and Lungs. Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption yield to it more readily and naturally than to any other known remedy. This medicine goes directly to the immediate seat of the disease, and its beneficial effects are at once manifested. The ingredients of the Cough and Lung Syrup are of the very best kind, having been prepared regardless of expense, and the patient can rest assured that the medicine is perfectly pure. It can be procured of any respectable druggist.

One of the pleasantest recollections of the Centennial trip to Philadelphia thousands of people will connect with their pleasant quarters and agreeable treatment at the Colonnade.

Bad Specks.

Bad specks on the teeth are almost as unpleasant as bad specs in the money market. To prevent them or to get rid of them, use SOZODONT. It is literally a specific for every blemish that disfigures the teeth, and whitens them without endangering the enamel.

BELMONT, MASS., Feb. 17, 1877.

I have used the Little Giant Pills for bilious headache with the most satisfactory results. They are particularly beneficial for sickness peculiar to females. I am acquainted in a great many families in Cambridge and Belmont where this medicine is used and it is known to be a never failing relief.

Foreclosure of Mortgage.

ON the fourth day of September last, I took possession of a dwelling house in Portsmouth in the County of Rockingham, at the Point of Graves so called, bounded northerly by land formerly of Thomas Currier, deceased, easterly by the Piscataqua River, southerly by the wharf and buildings on said lot, and all the material and fixtures there in, being the same formerly called the Franklin Foundry, and have ever since held possession of the same for condition broken of a mortgage of the premises made by Phineas Drake Jr. to Alfred W. Haven, James W. Emery and Joshua W. Peirce, dated the twenty-third day of July A. D. 1853 and recorded in the records of said county Lib. 536 fol. 131, to secure three notes of said Drake of six hundred dollars each, one of which, payable to said Emery has been paid, and one payable to said Haven and one payable to Joshua W. REPUBLICAN MEETING.

The Republicans of this city are requested to meet at the Court House this (Monday) evening, to arrange for a celebration of the election and inauguration of Rutherford B. Hayes and William A. Wheeler as President and Vice President of the United States.

PER ORDER.

JOTTINGS.

Hon. Frank Jones having succeeded to the title of Ex-Congressman Jones, it behooves the republicans of the First District to confirm that title "by a large majority."

The North church bell-frame being now undergoing repairs, the bell will not be rung at one and nine o'clock P. M., nor as a fire alarm, until further notice. In case of fire the bell of the Methodist church on State street will give the alarm.

The reform club will receive about $275 from the Fair held last week.

On Saturday each window in the second and third stories of the old custom-house building, corner of Daniel and Penhallow streets, was decorated with a small American flag. The two stories are occupied by Messrs. Moore & Tilton, wholesale manufacturers of men's clothing.

Passed Assistant Paymaster Joseph Foster of this city, has been nominated to be a Paymaster in the Navy from February 23, 1877, vice Paymaster Rufus Parks, nominated for promotion.

A correspondent writes: "Why was the fourth of March selected as the Presidential Inauguration Day? In an ancient almanac I find perhaps the true answer, viz: for the reason that the date seldom occurs on Sunday. If this is a fact, it shows the regard our fathers had for the Sabbath. Twice in our history Inauguration Day has occurred on Sunday. First, the second inaugural of James Monroe, March 4th, 1821; second, the inaugural of Zachary Taylor, March 4th, 1849. Taylor's inauguration took place the next day. The third instance occurs this year, March 4th, 1877. This will occur three times in one century, or one year after every seven leap years."

The readers of the CHRONICLE who may this summer have occasion to visit Boston, will thank us for reminding them that the American House more than sustains its well-earned reputation as one of the best hotels of New England. Particular attention is paid to the comfort of guests, and a desire to please is apparent in all parts of the house. Put the American down in your note book, and stop there when in Boston.

The Forty-fourth Congress is a thing of the past—thank Providence!—and we are under the impression that our prediction that no appropriation for a fog-whistle on Whale's-back would be made by it has proved only too correct. We feared at the time that the Times was a little premature in offering the "united thanks" of "all the mariners doing business at this port and along this coast" to Hon. Frank Jones "for introducing and successfully managing the matter in Congress."

The question is often asked, "What is the difference between a registered letter and any other?" The difference is that a registered letter does not go in the mail proper. It passes from hand to hand outside the mail pouches, every person through whose hands it passes being required to sign a receipt for it on receiving it, and secure a receipt for it on passing it over to the next in transit. The person holding the last receipt is thus always able to show who is accountable for the loss. The responsibility rests upon the man who has signed a receipt for the registered package, and who is not able to produce the package or a receipt from somebody else for it. The safest way to send money is by money order. Where it does not go to a money order office it should always be sent in a registered package. Money ought not to be sent in an ordinary letter under any circumstances. There is no possible way of "tracking" such a letter.

Mr. I. O. Wright has been appointed ticket agent and telegraph operator at the Eastern Railroad station in Hampton, vice Mr. William Fairbanks, transferred.

It is with pleasure that we record the fact that the two democratic Congressmen from this State, Hon. Samuel N. Bell of Manchester and Hon. Frank Jones of this city, were not included in the squad of reckless and dishonorable men who were so eager to overthrow by trickery and violence the decision of a tribunal they helped create,—who in reckless contempt of good faith and brazen defiance of every principle of honor, so shamelessly violated the solemn compact entered into by both parties and especially endorsed by the democratic party, through the resolutions of its conventions, the declarations of its candidates and the columns of its party press, that the decision of the Electoral Commission should be accepted as final let it be what it might. Messrs. Jones and Bell voted steadily with Col. Blair, the republican Congressman from this State, and the other republicans and honorable democrats in favor of completing the count and in opposition to the filibusters; and if it is said that they could not in honor have done otherwise, as Bell and Jones voted to establish the Commission while Blair voted against it, it should be remembered that such consideration was not sufficient to prevent many other democrats from acting differently, and that it would not have taken a change of many votes in the House to have defeated the election entirely.

Political.

The Boston Post has at last discovered that Tilden isn't elected, and taken the standing heading, "Tilden's Election," from the place it has occupied for four months. It says the democratic rooster accepts the situation and "has gone into training for New Hampshire." That rooster won't need any training at all for all the crowing he'll have to do over the New Hampshire election; dy'e mind that now?

A plucky democrat in Salem, Mass., who had kept a big Tilden and Hendricks flag flying in front of his place of business ever since the election, on Thursday took it in, ripped off the names and ran it out again.

The Chicago Times (democratic) calls Hewitt "stale oyster;" Bayard is "a rock-rooted demagogue" and "paleozoic lizard;" Thurman is a "wabbler upon a pre-Adamite political swivel;" Le Moyne is "a lamb;" Carter Harrison is "a bag of wind;" Ben Hill is "a blatant Bourbon mountebank;" John Young Brown is "a bloviant humbug;" Lamar is "a backboneless poltroon;" Kernan is "a political invertebrate."

Three of the prominent anti-anarchists among the southern democrats during the disgraceful filibustering last week were Col. Henry Watterson, Milton J. Durham and John Young Brown, all of Kentucky. In the midst of the greatest confusion Mr. Brown, standing in the aisle by his seat, denounced the rowdy element in the House which was disgracing the name of the American Congress in unmeasured terms. It will be remembered that he was the member censured by a vote of the previous House for unparliamentary language toward Gen. Butler, who had enraged him by some remark.

Judge Abbott of Massachusetts, democrat, with Messrs. Sayler and Lawrence, signed a despatch sent from Columbia, S. C., on the 28th of December, certifying that after careful examinating of the returns from all the precincts of the State, they find that all the Hayes and Wheeler electors have a fair majority on the face of the returns. On Tuesday, Feb. 27th, Judge Abbott, as Electoral Commissioner, found arguments for throwing out the Electoral Vote of South Carolina and he and his six democratic colleagues voted to disfranchise the State. And this same Judge Abbott has been one of the loudest blowers about republican "partisanship" in connection with the Commission he disgraced!

It is quite evident that the bombshell of surprise which the filibusters kept hinting was to be exploded in the republican camp, was the return of the Vermont Cronin electoral college which they were informed had been forwarded by mail to Mr. Ferry, and which he would be obliged to open, thus affording an almost certain means of delaying the count until after the 4th of March. Mr. Ferry presented but one certificate, and on its reading inquired if there were any objections? Poppleton, of Ohio, jumped up, and, looking about in a dazed way, asked if there were not a contesting certificate from Vermont. Mr. Ferry answered in his passive way that he had received but one certificate of the vote of Vermont. Hewitt would not believe it, and, flourishing a packet which he said he had received by express—a package containing the electoral certificate from Vermont, insisted on sending it as such to Mr. Ferry. Very calmly, but inflexibly, Mr. Ferry said the law forbade his receiving any certificate at the time, and accordingly refused to take it.

Says the New York Sun: "Our respected cotemporary, the New York Times, seems anxious that returning board Hayes should be 'treated like a gentleman.' Then let him prove himself a gentleman. No gentleman keeps stolen property." Who, in Heaven's name, has been telling the editor of the New York Sun what a gentleman would or would not do in any contingency?

During the late Congressional election campaign in Massachusetts, one hundred and fourteen "independents" signed a published invitation for Congressman Charles P. Thompson to address the electors at Salem, he being a candidate for re-election, and Dr. George B. Loring his republican opponent. When the late democratic House voted to give Goode of Virginia the seat in Congress to which Mr. Platte was unquestionably elected by an overwhelming majority, "Our Charlie" denounced the outrage in the strongest possible terms; last week he was one of the worst filibusters on the floor of the House. The explanation is that his patriotic non-partisanship in the Platte-Goode case was a bid for re-election from a strongly republican district; but when the questions of the Presidency and democratic good faith were on trial he could afford to show himself in his true character, as he had been repdiated by his constituents. Dr. Loring fills the seat in the present Congress that "Our Charlie" ratled around in in the last one.

New Hampshire Items.

On Friday, at the trial of La Page in Concord, expert testimony was offered regarding the stains found on La Page's clothing and on Josie Langmaid's garments. Some of this evidence was entirely new, and proves conclusively that murder was not the only crime of which the unfortunate girl was the victim. Julienne Rousse, La Page's sister-in-law, whom he outraged and attempted to murder in Canada and the admission of whose testimony against him in the trial last year resulted in his getting a new trial on exceptions, was put on the witness stand Friday, but her evidence was mainly excluded by the Court. The general expectation seems to be that La Page will be again convicted; but if he is acquitted he will be at once re-arrested on a charge of having outraged and murdered Henrietta Ball at St. Albans, Vt., some years ago, the evidence being almost conclusive that that demoniac crime was his work.

—Dr. Young says man and wife are like soul and body, always at variance yet loth to part.

—A man stopping at a Chicago hotel was put into a room on the top floor, the bell in which was out of order. After wrestling with it for half an hour he went to the window and collected a crowd on the street by waving a pillow-case, whereupon he shouted loud enough to be heard in Omaha, "Some or you fellows go to that office and tell them to send up a cocktail."

A Valley of Bones.

Several acres of level ground in Boone county, Ky., surrounded by hills, were once a marshy quicksand. Now there is a fertile surface, under which is a vast quantity of bones of animals that, long ago, sank into the quicksand when they ventured on it to drink. The account of a week's excavating is given by a correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who says: "The bone bed is from ten to twelve feet beneath the present surface of the ground—I say present because the valley, having recently sunk, is annually inundated, till there is a deposit of several feet over the original earth. James Douglass in 1775 reported the bones to be so thick upon the ground that he could walk on them—teeth of ten pounds weight, tusks eleven feet long, thigh bones five and ribs ten. The first shipment made of these remains was by Dr. Goferth, who in 1803 loaded a flatboat with them, and sent them to England, where they are now in the British Museum. President Thomas Jefferson, then President of the American Philosophical Society, had a collection made in 1805, a portion of which he gave to the French naturalist Cuvier. In 1819, a third collection was made by the Western Museum Society. In 1833 a resident exhibited a skeleton twenty-two feet long and eleven feet high, with tusks twelve feet long, all of which are now in the Kentucky department of the British Museum." The new digging yields an immense number of large bones, and the deposit seems to be almost inexhaustible.

—A. T. Stewart & Co. advertise "Empress Eugenie laces." So do many other women. But is there any need of mentioning it in print?

—In the course of a lecture before a brilliant audience in New York recently Robert Collyer pronounced most emphatically for early marriages, and thought it was a great mistake for young people to wait until the bloom of youth had worn away. He said that a young man told him about a year ago that, having heard one evening, in company with a young lady friend, this lecture, he had proposed and been accepted before he had walked three blocks from the hall. At this there was a flutter and rustling through the hall, either of anxious expectancy or of shuddering dread. A nervous, now-or-never expression was observed to creep over the faces of many young men, and several couples near the door rose and left the hall.

DR. QUAIN'S

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I take one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I am gaining in strength; I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shal continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I feel bound to give them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work, at any, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had by me, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheuma ic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a story. I am not. I remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems is that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the sevens I think there is nothing so good as these pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they pills. I shall recommend them to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative as could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the bracing climate of New England;

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate each. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The reason is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. His offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Müller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $8.

The Magazine has attained in its one quarter century and more of existence to that point where it may be said of it, in the words of Dr. Johnson, "It is vain to blame and useless to praise." The lustre of its long-ago-attained reputation has increased as the years have passed, and its future seems as bright if not brighter than at any time since the golden hue of prosperity settled around its later and best years.—Brooklyn Eagle.
Harper's Monthly is marked by the same characteristics which gave it circulation from the first with the better class of readers. LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1877. The continued and increasing success of this publication (now over thirty-three years old) is doubtless owing to the fact that it still fills a comprehensive and cheap means of keeping well informed in the literature of the time, and of the day. With its weekly issue, and its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, it is enabled to present with freshness and satisfactory completeness able essays and reviews, choice serial and short stories, interesting sketches of travel and discovery, poetry, and valuable biographical, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature.
In its pages are represented such eminent authors as Prof. Max Müller, Mark Pattison, Mrs. Mulock, Mr. Gladstone, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Prof. Huxley, Richard A. Proctor, Frances Power Cobbe, the Duke of Argyll, Jas. A. Froude, Mrs. Mortimer, Dean Stanley, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Thackeray, Jean Ingelow, Geo. Meredith, Wm. Black, Matthew Arnold, Henry Kingsley, W. W. Story, Alernach, Ruskin, Carlyle, Tennyson, Browning, and many other leaders in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, criticism and art.
The subscription price ($8 a year), is cheap for the amount of reading furnished by those desiring the cream of both home and foreign literature, the publishers make it still the cheaper offering, viz.: to one postpaid, The Living Age and either one of the American $4 monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one of the American $4 monthlies, a subscriber will at small cost, be put in "command of the whole situation."
An extra offer, also, is made to new subscribers for 1877, viz.: to send them gratis the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first installments of a new and unusually powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.
The volume begins Jan. 1st, and we recommend the periodical to the attention of our readers. We know of no other way in which so much of the best work of the best minds of the time can be obtained so cheaply and conveniently as through this unrivaled weekly magazine. Published by Littell & Gay, Boston.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

An Old-Time Duel.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune writes that paper the following account of a famous duel fought long ago, as it was related to the writer by Mr. N. N. Jones of Normal, Ill., whose early life was spent in the South:

During the winter of 1836 I was stopping in Vicksburg, Miss. Early one morning a report was circulated through the town that a duel was to be fought on the other side of the river, which is in the State of Louisiana, and in which vicinity at that time no one lived. Following the example of others, I obtained a passage in a small row-boat and went over. The boatmen did a lively business that day. Some persons estimated the number of men and boys that were present, and who witnessed the duel, as high as three thousand. On landing I soon joined a group of persons, among whom was one dressed in a white suit, cut in military style. He was apparently about twenty-two years of age, was about five feet in height, and weighed about one hundred pounds. He was a handsome little gentleman, and was surrounded by friends. I soon learned that he was one of the two who were to exchange rifle-shots at thirty steps; that his name was Menafee (a brother of Dick Menafee, a member of Congress from Kentucky, much noted for his eloquence,) and a Vicksburg merchant of high standing. The white suit, I learned, was chosen because it was thought to be not as easy to draw a bead on white as on a dark color. The bosom of his coat had the appearance of being padded. He appeared to be a little nervous, and took a little brandy now and then, possibly to quiet his nerves or fortify his courage.

In about a half hour two men were seen coming up the bank of the river. They proved to be Colonel McClurg, a lawyer of Jackson, Miss., and his second. McClurg had acquired some notoriety as a duelist, having, as report said, already killed his fifth man. He was a Kentuckian by birth and education, as also was his opponent, Menafee. He was about ten years older than the latter, and in appearance he very much resembled Abraham Lincoln, though he was not quite as large a man. He soon afterward acquired notoriety for bravery during the war with Mexico. He volunteered and led the forlorn hope at the Bishop's Palace at Monterey, and after the war was sent by President Taylor as Minister to Brazil. On his return home from there he died. I read in a newspaper a short time afterward that he said before he died that he had but one desire to live to satisfy, and that was to fight a duel with Jeff. Davis. He said that he had challenged him twice already; that he was a bad man, and would bring trouble on this country some day if he lived—which has, as we all know, proved true.

The seconds, after throwing "heads and tails" awhile for positions, and who should give the word, etc., stepped off the distance—thirty yards—placed their men facing each other, neither of them speaking to the other. McClurg took from his pocket a large bowie-knife and a horse-pistol—there were no six-shooters made at that time—and gave them to his second; he then unbuttoned his vest and shirt, and showed to his opponent that there was nothing to prevent his bullet from an entrance to his heart. Menafee did not follow his example. The rifles were now handed to the principals by their seconds. One of the seconds took a position half way between the duelists, and about twelve feet out of the direct line in which the deadly balls were expected to pass. He then said, "Gentlemen, are you ready?" Each one answered and said, "All ready." He then said, "One, two, fire, stop!" At the word "two," Menafee fired; I think McClung did not fire; as I heard but one report, and saw the latter club his gun, throw it some distance from him and say to his second: "D—n you, you didn't cock it right!" The second probably had neglected to set the triggers.

No one being damaged, preparation went on for another round, and in about thirty minutes they took their positions again; the second said as before, "One, two, three, stop!" At the word "two," Menafee, after the report, reeled part way round and fell, being wounded in the head. Hundreds immediately surrounded the prostrate man. McClurg to all appearance was perfectly cool. I went to where he was standing, in about five minutes. His second came running from where Menafee lay, and said to him, "You have killed him!" McClurg then said, "Give me my pistol and bowie-knife, and let them come on!" evidently expecting to be mobbed by Menafee's friends. I was told afterward by one who was there that a brother of Menafee's did start to go to McClurg, but was stopped by a friend who told him that his brother had become conscious, and said he would fight again as soon as he was able. Poor fellow, he lived but two days. McClurg and his friend left the ground immediately.

McClurg, who had received a beating with a billiard-cue from Menafee, was the challenging party; Menafee accepted the challenge. Having the right to choose the place of meeting and arms to fight, also the distance, Menafee chose to fight at his own home, with rifles, at thirty steps. It was said that he had practiced with his rifle until he could hit a silver dollar at every shot. He did not shoot in the second encounter, and, very luckily, in his fall his gun was not discharged. Had it been, undoubtedly some of the spectators would have been wounded or killed, and as there was a wall of men several tiers deep on each side, and not more than thirty feet from the direct line of the bullet's passage; and what few trees there were close around were also full of spectators.

The Sheriff of the county was present, but did not make any attempt to prevent the duel from taking place. He was, however, prompt in doing his duty to prevent liquor being sold on the ground unlawfully. A man that had brought over the river a quantity for sale was prevented from selling it, unless he would pay to the Sheriff $50, that being the price for a license.

This was the first and last duel I ever witnessed. I could scarcely realize that which I saw was a reality. I was disgusted at the sight, and resolved that I would never see another.

President Hayes' Cabinet.

President Hayes was sworn in on Saturday evening, in the Red Room of the White House, in presence of Senator Sherman and General Grant, Chief Justice Waite administering the oath of office. The inaugural ceremonies took place on Monday, and though quite imposing were less extensive than in years past, owing to the brief time allowed for preparation.

The Globe's Washington correspondent telegraped on Sunday that John Sherman had been offered the Secretarship of the Treasury, and had accepted; that Gen. Joe Johnston of Virginia had been invited to be Secretary of War, Mr. Evarts to be Secretary of State, Mr. McCreary to be Attorney-General, and Carl Shurz to be Secretary of the Interior. Hancock of Texas, Key of Tennessee and Josiah G. Hill of Georgia were mentioned for Postmaster-General. Senator Cragin of New Hampshire was considered likely to be Secretary of the Navy. It was not considered probable that Joe Johnston would accept a Cabinet position.

The Forty-fourth Congress.

The second and last session of the Forty-fourth Congress ended at 12 o'clock, noon, on Sunday, by constitutional limitation. The army appropriation bill failed of a passage through a disagreement between the two Houses, and it is probable that a called session of Congress will take place in June, though a Washington correspondent says: "In regard to the question of an extra session, in consequence of the failure of the Army Appropriation bill, the reporter was informed by an official of the War Department, likely to be well-posted, that under some sections of an old law the War and Navy Departments can be carried on for two years without any special appropriation, and that the Departments of the Secretaries of War and Navy can be honored by the Treasury Department. If that be so, then the calling of an extra session is not altogether a matter of certainty." The legislative appropriation bill passed, with the President's salary unreduced. The navy bill appropriates $850,000 more for the pay of the navy than the bill of last year. The payment of claims allowed by Southern Claims Commission was provided for. The post route bill passed, with the provision for fast mail trains stricken out. The equalization bounty bill was indefinitely postponed in the Senate by a vote of 31 to 28, Senator Cragin voting for and Senator Wadleigh against the postponement. The Senate postponed the specie resumption bill until next December, by a vote of 27 to 22. Speaker Randall and Senator Ferry, at the moment of adjourning without day the houses over which they have respectively resided, made the customary farewell speeches. Mr. Randall's valedictory is somewhat criticised as a partisan harangue and not in good taste; but it had the merit of being short.

The Constitutional Amendments.

In the absorbing attention devoted to the National election, our State election has aroused less interest than usual, and the fact that important changes in the State Convention are to be voted on next Tuesday has been almost lost sight of. A full vote on these amendments is important, that the wishes of the entire body of voters may be manifested, either for or against the adoption of any of the proposed changes; they should neither be defeated or adopted by the failure of any large number of voters to do their duty; we therefore urge every citizen to vote "Yes" or "No" upon each of the questions submitted. The questions are as follows:

1. "Do you approve of striking out the word "Protestant" in the Bills of Rights, as proposed in the amended constitution?"

As we consider that the State has no business to interfere with any religion in any way, we shall make sure that one "Yes" goes into the box in answer to that question, if everybody else in the State votes against it.

2. "Do you approve of so amending the constitution that the General Court shall be authorized to provide for the trial of causes in which the value in controversy does not exceed one hundred dollars and title to real estate is not concerned, without the intervention of a jury, as proposed in the amended constitution?"

This amendment, if adopted, will save thousands of dollars annually to the taxpayers of the State, expedite the administration of the law, and make it possible for a poor man to collect a small debt without the cost of collection many times exceeding the amount recovered.

3. "Do you approve of the biennial election of governor, councillors, members of the Senate and House of Representatives, and biennial sessions of the legislature, as proposed in the amended constitution?"

It is urged in favor of this amendment that it would save one-half the expenses of running the Legislature, but we are not clear that it would do so; the Legislature has just about so much work to perform each year, and if every second year the amount should be doubled and the length of the session correspondingly increased, the saving effected by having no session in the "off year" would not amount to much. But the labor and cost and turmoil of the election would be gotten rid of one year in every two, which would be a decided gain.

4. "Do you approve of a House of Representatives based upon population, and constituted and chosen, as provided in the amended constitution?"

5. "Do you approve of a Senate of twenty-four members, to be constituted and chosen as provided in the amended constitution?"

These amendments will reduce the size of the House and increase the Senate to something near the proper proportions. That the Senate as now constituted is ridiculously disproportioned to the House, and the latter cumbrous and unwieldy to the last degree, is acknowledged on all hands; and the plan proposed to remedy these evils is as fair a compromise between the larger and smaller constituencies as could be devised. If this amendment is not adopted, one of the most important objects for which the Constitutional Convention was called will be defeated.

6. "Do you approve of the election by the people of registers of probate, solicitors and sheriffs, as provided in the amended constitution?"

Those who believe the special qualifications required for the efficient filling of the offices mentioned will be more likely to be found in the nominees of a party caucus than in the carefully-selected appointees of the Governor and Council, will vote "Yes" on this question.

7. "Do you approve of abolishing the religious test as a qualification for office, as provided in the amended constitution?"

As the religious test has for many years been a dead letter, it should be removed for that reason if for no other; and the State has no business to say anything about religion, anyway.

8. "Do you approve of prohibiting the General Court from authorizing towns or cities to loan or give their money or credit to corporations, as proposed in the amended constitution?"

As the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad "loan" is still fresh in mind, we shall not narrow up the feelings of the voters of Portsmouth by making any remarks on this question. We presume they will all vote on it.

9. "Do you approve of changing the time for holding the State election from March to November, as proposed in the amended constitution?"

This we hope to see approved; we shall thereby escape having to fire "the first gun" in every Presidential campaign, shall be able to keep our representation in Congress always full (we have no Representatives in Congress now,) and shall avoid having two elections every Presidential year. And November is a better time for election than March.

10. "Do you approve of authorizing the General Court to provide that appeals from a justice of the peace may be tried by some other court without the intervention of a jury, as proposed in the amended constitution?"

11. "Do you approve of authorizing the General Court to increase the jurisdiction of justices of the peace to one hundred dollars, as proposed in the constitutional amendment?"

Those who vote in favor of question second will also vote for numbers ten and eleven, and for the same reasons. Those who vote "No" to question second will vote against these.

12. "Do you approve of the proposed amendment prohibiting the removal of officers for political reasons?"

Bosh.

13. "Do you approve the proposed amendment prohibiting money raised by taxation from being applied to the support of the schools or institutions of any religious sect or denomination, as proposed in the amended constitution?"

This question should be answered "yes," for the same reason that questions one and seven should be. No government has any right to say that any man must be a Catholic, a Protestant, a Hebrew or a Pagan, or that he shall not be either one he chooses, so long as he does not infringe on the rights of other men; and no government has a right to take a Pagan's money to support a Christian school or a Catholic's money to support a Protestant school. We hope this amendment will be adopted, as we have no doubt it will be.

In conclusion, we again urge every man to vote on the amendments, that there may be no question as to what the people of the State desire, whether it be to adopt or reject the various amendments proposed.

News and Notes.

Joe Coburn, the notorious prize-fighter and bully, has been convicted in New York of assault with intent to kill. It is to be hoped this ruffian will get the extreme penalty of the law.

The body of an unknown man, about forty years old, was found Saturday night in a field in Cranston, R. I., having become exposed by the melting of the snow. He was clad in new clothes throughout, had sandy beard and whiskers and had been dead several months.

Miss Bertha Von Hillern completed her walk of 100 miles in twenty-eight hours at Boston Music Hall, Saturday night, with thirteen minutes and thirty-two seconds to spare. A brilliant audience of some 4000 Beacon Hill and Back Bay residents witnessed the last ten miles of her walk, and gave her something very like an ovation at its close.

A three-masted schooner, supposed to be named "Mary L. Lucy" or "Mary L. Lunt," went ashore at Barnegat Friday night and all hands were lost.

The Philadelphia Ledger says: The four steamships of the American Steamship Company, the Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, all built in this city and of American iron, have made such favorable impression on the English underwriters that they have been accorded a rate of insurance lower than that of any other steamers in the Transatlantic trade, except two of the Cunard ships, and those two pay the same rate as the American line.

New Hampshire Items.

The identity of the man found dead in a Nashua canal is established. His name was John McDonald, a native of the Province of Quebec. His death was accidental.

The republicans of Dover opened the State campaign Saturday night by a meeting, which was addressed by Hon. Daniel Wheeler, Judge Leonard of Louisiana, and Hon. Jacob H. Ela.

The Hayes and Wheeler Continental Guards, of Dover, are to have a torch-light procession this week.

The Manchester prohibitionists on Saturday night nominated H. H. Huse for Mayor.

Professor A. C. Young, of Dartmouth College, has accepted the chair of astronomy at Princeton, to the great disappointment of the students and faculty of Dartmouth.

The case for the government in the La Page trial was rested on Saturday, and the defence opened. The line of defence will be an attempt to prove an alibi. It is considered that the government has made out a stronger case than at the first trial.

Political.

Abram S. Hewitt has resigned the position of chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The New York Sun is in a state of mind over President Hayes' election, comes out in mourning, and urges unceasing war on the new administration. What's the matter with Dana now? Everybody knows the motive for his long-sustained course of reckless slander and falsehood about President Grant—rage at having been refused the Collectorship of the port of New York; but Hayes hasn't refused Dana any office.

REPUBLICAN CELEBRATION.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the republicans of Portsmouth was held in the Court House on Monday evening, Dr. B. W. Curtis in the chair, Ephraim Urch, secretary. It was resolved to celebrate the National victory by a torchlight procession on Wednesday evening, in which the Hayes and Wheeler Guards and Boys' Battalion will take part. Republicans generally, of this city and surrounding towns being cordially invited to join. Citizens on the route of procession (which will be announced to-morrow) are invited to illuminate their houses. The following committee of arrangements was appointed:

Edward B. Primo, H. C. Locke, J. H. Locke, Ward One; Joseph P. Morse, Thomas E. Call, Samuel Adams, Ward Two; Charles H. Hayes, William Sladen, Charles A. C. Gray, Ward Three; Michael J. Vaughan, Oliver D. Locke, William H. Rollins, Ward Four. On motion, the following were added: B. W. Curtis, Wm. H. Sise, Wm. O. Sides, W. A. Hodgdon, W. R. Foster, D. J. Vaughan. B. W. Curtis was chosen chairman of the committee.

A meeting of the committee will be held at half-past ten o'clock this (Tuesday) forenoon, at the republican committee room over Henry M. Clark's store.

Oil for torches will be furnished at Rufus K. Oxford's store.

JOTTINGS.

Two young men of Kittery, named Haven Fernald and John Brooks, neither being yet twenty-one years of age, started from Gloucester, Mass., at twelve o'clock Thursday night, in a fourteen-foot dory containing all their trawl-fishing gear, and arrived at this port at ten o'clock Friday forenoon, having rowed the entire distance.

A good many democrats in this city are boiling over with indignation at Hon. Frank Jones' course in voting against the anarchists during the last three days of the Presidential count, and not a few of them declare in the most emphatic language that they will not vote to send him to Congress again. We have heard a good deal of just such talk before; but when election day came the "straight ticket" was carried all the same, and it will be this time, too. Don't talk too savagely, boys; the more you blow about it now the more "crow" you will have to consume next Tuesday. Talk is cheap; draw it mild, please.

The republicans of Kittery fired one hundred guns at noon on Monday in honor of the inauguration of President Hayes and Vice President Wheeler. They also had an inauguration ball in Trefethen's Hall in the evening, the attendance being very large.

The announcement of the immediate issue of the Portsmouth Weekly, by Frank W. Miller & Co., will be found in another column. It would seem to be rather a hard time to start any new business, particularly a new paper in Portsmouth; but Mr. Miller will make it go if anybody can.

Steamer Perkiomen sailed for Philadelphia shortly after four o'clock Monday afternoon, having discharged her cargo of coal.

If any republican feels moved to vote for Frank Jones on account of his having voted against the shameful breach of faith attempted by the Proctor Knotts and Hewitts and Springers and Poppletons in the Presidential count matter, let him remember that there would have been no question and no anxiety as to how Gilman Marston would have voted had he been in Congress at the time. If their respective records as Congressman are to decide the election, it will take more than three figures to express Gen. Marston's majority. As to which of the two candidates will make the most creditable Representative, no just comparison can be instituted, for Gen. Marston is eminently fitted to represent with credit the District and the State, while Mr. Jones simply is not.

The rite of confirmation was administered to eighteen persons at the evening service in St. John's church, Sunday, by Bishop Niles.

NO "TRADE" DOWN HERE.

The republican papers in other parts of the State report the democrats as exceedingly desirous to trade votes with the republicans,—to give democratic votes to the republican nominee for Governor, in exchange for republican votes for a democratic Congressman. They may have some success at this business in other places, but we have not heard of their attempting to engage in it in this city, and they will meet with no success if they do. The republicans of this section are as well aware as are the democrats that there is not a ghost of a chance of Mr. Prescott's defeat and Mr. Marcy's victory; and they also fully appreciate the vital importance of New Hampshire's representation in the present Congress being unanimously republican, and propose to do their share toward making it so. If the inland districts will do as well proportionately as the seacoast will, Gen. Marston's majority over Mr. Jones will be larger than was that of Hayes over Tilden in this district; there will be no trading off of votes in Portsmouth, in Frank Jones' favor. On the contrary, if their own statements can be relied on, not a few democrats will "scratch" Mr. Jones, even if they do not go the length of voting for Gen. Marston; and it is more than hinted that some democrats who think the beer interest more prominently represented on their ticket than it should be, to the neglect of interests of more importance to the welfare of the community, will vote for Emmons B. Philbrick in preference to Marcellus Eldredge.

RYE.

RYE, March 5th.

The meeting at the Town Hall, on Saturday evening, 3d inst., was fully attended, and presided over by Emmons B. Philbrick, Esq. The proposed amendments to the constitution were discussed by G. H. Jenness, Esq., Ex-Judge C. T. Garland, and David Jenness, Esq., the latter gentleman being the delegate from this town to the Convention. There was some difference of opinion in regard to the proposed amendments, although it seemed to be the general idea that a majority of them should be adopted. The music by the Rye Cornet Band, who kindly volunteered their services, was a pleasant feature of the evening, and take it all in all the meeting was a success.

Not much is said as yet about election. The democrats, of course, are not feeling quite so jubilant as they did the day after they voted for Tilden, while the republicans are much better satisfied than they were then. The latter's joy is deep, but quiet. They never like to hurt any one's feelings, so they concluded to dispense with ringing the "town bell" when the news came that Gen. Hayes was to be the next President sure, for fear that it might cause anguish among their democratic friends, who perhaps consider it a "democratic bell" and nothing else, for they did ring it until their arms got tired, for three nights, when they thought Tilden was elected!

The check-list is posted, and on it are the names of 341 voters. The population of Rye is about 1000, so it would seem that the proportion of the "sturdy yeomanry" to women, children and "aliens" is more than one to three,—a showing which it is not probable that many towns in this State or any other can equal. The Jennesses make the largest show on the list, thirty-two, all of whom reside in the South and West school districts. Next come the Rands, twenty-four; Philbricks, twenty-one; Lockes, sixteen; Browns, fourteen; Fosses, thirteen; Seaveys, Odiornes and Caswells, eleven each. As far as writer of this is aware there is not a naturalized or colored voter in the list, and nearly all are to the "manor born." The "members from Gosport" may be exceptions.

The parties stand at present at about two to one, the democrats of course having the majority, as they have had for fifty years. The largest democratic vote since 1856, when the republican party was organized, was 212, in 1868; the smallest 153, in 1873. The largest republican vote was 104, in 1875; the smallest sixty-three, in 1863. The largest democratic majority during this time was 142, in 1863; the smallest fifty, in 1873. The above refers to State elections. Gen. Scott in 1852 received but thirty-one votes in Rye.

YOURS, NAT.

MR. JONES' RECORD.

PORTSMOUTH, March 5th.

Eds. Chronicle:—Doubtless your readers have been much interested as from time to time you have informed them through your columns of the great things ex-Congressman Jones has done or has failed to do during his term of service at Washington. We believe in giving to all their just due, whether they are political friends or foes, and were pleased to see Mr. Jones recording himself on the side of law and order during the early stages of the great filibustering movement of the past few weeks in Congress; but your statement of this morning does injustice to the great brewer, from the fact that at the moment when every true friend to a republican form of government was needed to record himself on the right side, Mr. Jones "lost his head" and voted with those who did their level best (or worst) to destroy all government. The Boston papers of Friday last record "Jones of New Hampshire," when the question was put on Mr. Knott's amendment to Mr. Caulfield's resolution then under debate, as voting "Yea." The amendment required the bogus Vermont Electoral package to be opened, and declared that the House would not meet the Senate in joint convention until it was opened! The excitement was intense. It was immediately following the most riotous proceedings that had taken place during the whole of the count, and was the time of all others that "Jones of New Hampshire" should have voted with Bell and Blair as he had previously done. We hope every voter will examine this record for himself, and then consider the cheek of such a man coming home to his constituency and asking for a re-election.

Messrs. Editors, we have heard a great deal about a "fair count," and no doubt but we have had it; now let us have

Breathing Miasma Without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in fever and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive. It has frequently happened, and the fact has been amply attested by the parties themselves, that persons surrounded on all sides by neighbors suffering the tortures of this shivering and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute immunity from it, disease, simply protection afforded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard anti febrile cordial less efficacious in remedying than in preventing chills and fever, bilious remittents, and disorders of a kindred type. Taken between the paroxysms, it speedily mitigates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, appeal with peculiar force to travellers and sojourners in malarious districts.

After much study and a long series of experiments, Dr. A. J. Flagg, of Claremont, N. H. has succeeded in producing a remedy which will cure almost every form of disease of the Throat and Lungs. Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption yield to it more readily and naturally than to any other known remedy. This medicine goes directly to the immediate seat of the disease, and its beneficial effects are at once manifested. The ingredients of the Cough and Lung Syrup are of the very best kind, having been prepared regardless of expense, and the patient can rest assured that the medicine is perfectly pure. It can be procured of any respectable druggist.

One of the pleasantest recollections of the Centennial trip to Philadelphia thousands of people will connect with their pleasant quarters and agreeable treatment at the Colonnade.

Bad Specks.

Bad specks on the teeth are almost as unpleasant as bad specs in the money market. To prevent them or to get rid of them, use SOZODONT. It is literally a specific for every blemish that disfigures the teeth, and whitens them without endangering the enamel.

BELMONT, MASS., Feb. 17, 1877.

I have used the Little Giant Pills for bilious headache with the most satisfactory results. They are particularly beneficial for sickness peculiar to females. I am acquainted in a great many families in Cambridge, and item out where this medicine is used and it is known to be a never failing relief.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extended practice with marvellous success, and I know it to be all that he claims for it.

—That was a fearful joke of Lord Norbury's, on sentencing to death a thief who had stolen a watch: "You made a grasp at time, my lad, but you clutched eternity."

—The following sympathetic story is told in the English papers of Mr. Robert Lowe: When on the Continent, in the enjoyment of his long vacation, he and a friend in the course of a walk came across a man who appeared to be lying asleep on the ground. As they returned they found the man in the same position, and his companion, going up to the body, exclaimed, "Good God, the man is dead!" Mr. Lowe coolly took his friend's arm, remarking, "Come along; custom of the country; no business of ours."

—M. Herold's bill for repressing dueling in France, which is now under consideration in the Senate, makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a period of imprisonment ranging from a month to a year and a fine ranging from $20 to $200. When a wound is inflicted the penalty will be imprisonment for from three months to three years and a fine of from $40 to $400. If the wounds result fatally, the minimum period of imprisonment will be one year, and the maximum five years, and the amounts of the fine from $200 to $2000. Any provocation to a duel, or an insult having that object in view, will render the person guilty of it to from six days to three months' imprisonment and a fine of from $20 to $200; and the same punishment is applicable to those who make any accusation in public charging a man with having refused a challenge or failed to propose a duel. The seconds fare nearly as badly as the principals.

—Captain Johnsen, the Gloucester sailor who crossed the Atlantic in the dory "Centennial," to Liverpool, last Summer, has just returned. The "Centennial" is but sixteen feet long and five and a half wide, decked over, and with room for but one occupant. After he had been out a few days, a heavy gale struck his craft, in which she shipped so much water that some of his provisions were spoiled, but fair weather for several weeks succeeded. He met his chief mishap toward the last of his trip, when a heavy sea capsized his vessel, and Johnsen was thrown into the water. He soon righted his boat, but found most of his provisions soaked, and his clock ruined. In this extremity, he was so fortunate as to fall in with a brig which supplied him with food, and he made the voyage in sixty-six days. He was the lion of the day in England, and intends to exhibit himself and his diminutive galley in this country.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 8th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be bought or, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yea, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know of quite a number of others and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and consulted the only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as these pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves when they get a fair trial. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of these Pills.

MRS. F. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative as could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lurking climate of New England!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate each. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

ECLECTIC MAGAZINE OF FOREIGN LITERATURE.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, B. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $8.

Postage free to all subscribers. Address,

PRESIDENT HAYES' INAUGURAL MESSAGE.

Fellow-Citizens: We have assembled to repeat the public ceremonial begun by Washington, observed by all my predecessors and now a time-honored custom which marks the commencement of a new term of the Presidential office.

Called to the duties of this great trust, I proceed in compliance with usage to announce some of the leading principles in the subjects that now chiefly engage the public attention by which it is my desire to be guided in the discharge of those duties. I shall not undertake to lay down irrevocably principles or measures of administration, but rather to speak of the motives which should animate us, and to suggest certain important ends to be attained in accordance with our institutions and essential to the welfare of our country. At the outset of the discussions which preceded the recent Presidential election, it seemed to me fitting that I should fully make known my sentiments in regard to several of the important questions which then appeared to demand the consideration of the country. Following the example and in part adopting the language of one of my predecessors, I wish now, when every motive for misrepresentation has passed away, to repeat what was said before the election, trusting that my countrymen will candidly weigh and understand it and that they will feel assured that the sentiments declared in accepting the nomination for the Presidency will be the standard of my conduct in the path before me, charged as I now am with the grave and difficult task of carrying them out in the practical administration of the Government, so far as depends under the Constitution and laws on the Chief Executive of the nation.

The permanent pacification of the country upon such principles and by such measures as will secure the complete protection of all its citizens in the free enjoyment of all their constitutional rights is now the one subject in our public affairs which all thoughtful and patriotic citizens regard as of supreme importance. Many of the calamitous effects of the tremendous revolution which has passed over the Southern States still remain. The immeasurable benefits which will surely follow sooner or later the hearty and generous acceptance of the legitimate results of that revolution have not yet been realized. Difficult and embarassing questions meet us at the threshold of this subject. The people of those States are still impoverished, and the inestimable blessing of wise, honest and peaceful local self-government is not fully enjoyed. Whatever difference of opinion may exist as to the cause of this condition of things, the fact is clear that in the progress of events the time has come when such government is the imperative necessity required by all the varied interests, public and private, of those States. But it must not be forgotten that only a local government which recognizes and maintains inviolate the rights of all, is a true self-government.

With respect to the two distinct races, whose peculiar relations to each other have brought upon us the deplorable complications and perplexities which exist in those States, it must be a Government which guards the interests of both races carefully and equally. It must be a Government which submits loyally and heartily to the Constitution and the laws of the Nation and the laws of the States themselves, accepting and obeying faithfully the whole Constitution as it is. Resting upon this sure and substantial foundation the superstructure of beneficent local government can be built up and not otherwise. In furtherance of such obedience to the letter and the spirit of the Constitution, and in behalf of all that its attainment implies, all so called party interests lose their apparent importance, and party lines may well be permitted to fade into insignificance.

The question we have to consider for the immediate welfare of those States of the Union is the question of government or no government, of general order and all the peaceful industries and the happiness that belong to it, or a return to barbarism. It is a question in which every citizen of the nation is deeply interested, and with respect to which we ought not to be in a partisan sense either republicans or democrats, but fellow-citizens and fellow-men to whom the interests of a common country and a common humanity are dear. The sweeping revolution of the entire labor system of a large portion of our country and the advance of four millions of people from a condition of servitude to that of citizenship upon an equal footing with their former masters, could not occur without presenting problems of the gravest moment, to be dealt with by the emancipated race, by their former masters and by the General Government, the author of the act of emancipation. That it was a wise, just and providential act fraught with good for all concerned is now generally conceded throughout the country. That a moral obligation rests upon the National Government, to employ its constitutional power and influence to establish the rights of the people it has emancipated, and to protect them in the enjoyment of those rights when they are infringed or assailed, is also generally admitted.

The evils which afflict the Southern States can only be removed or remedied by the united and harmonious efforts of both races, actuated by motives of mutual sympathy and regard, and while in duty bound and fully determined to protect the rights of all by every constitutional means at the disposal of my administration, I am sincerely anxious to use every legitimate influence in favor of honest and efficient local self-government as the true resource of those States for the promotion of the contentment and prosperity of their citizens. In the effort I shall make to accomplish this purpose, I ask the cordial co-operation of all who cherish an interest in the welfare of the country, trusting that party ties and the prejudices of race will be freely surrendered in behalf of the great purpose to be accomplished in the important work of restoration of the South. It is not the political situation alone that merits attention.

The material development of that section of the country has been arrested by the social and political revolution through which it has passed, and now needs and deserves the considerate care of the National Government within the just limits prescribed by the Constitution and wise public economy; but at the basis of all prosperity for that as well as for every other part of the country lies the improvement of the intellectual and moral condition of the people. Universal suffrage should rest upon universal education. To this end liberal and permanent provision should be made for the support of free schools by the State Governments, and if needs be supplemented by legitimate aid from National authority.

Let me assure my countrymen of the Southern States that it is my desire to regard and promote their truest interests, the interests of the white and of the colored people, both and equally, and put forth my best efforts in behalf of a civil policy which will forever wipe out in our political affairs the color line and the distinction between North and South, to the end that we may have not merely a united North or a united South but a united country.

I ask the attention of the public to the paramount necessity of reform in our civil service—a reform not merely as to certain abuses and practices of so-called official patronage, which have come to have the sanction of usage in the several departments of our government, but a change in the system of appointment itself; a reform that shall be thorough, radical and complete—a return to the principles and practices of the founders of the Government. They neither expected nor desired from public officers any partisan service. They meant that public officers should owe their whole service to the Government and to the people. They meant that the officer, should be secure in his tenure as long as his personal character remained untarnished and the performance of his duties satisfactory. They held that appointments to office were not to be made or expected merely as rewards for partisan services, nor merely on the nomination of members of Congress as being entitled in any respect to the control of such appointments. The fact that both the great political parties of the country, in declaring their principles prior to the election, gave a prominent place to the subject of reform of our civil service, recognizing and strongly urging its necessity in terms almost identical in their specific import with those I have here employed, must be accepted as a conclusive argument in behalf of these measures. It must be regarded as the expression of the united voice and will of the whole country upon this subject, and both political parties are virtually pledged to give it their unreserved support.

The President of the United States of necessity owes his election to office to the suffrages, and the zealous labors of a political party, the members of which cherish with ardor and regard as of essential importance the principles of their party organization; but he should strive to be always mindful of the fact that he serves his party best who serves the country best.

In furtherance of the reform we seek and in other important respects a change of great importance, I recommend an amendment to the Constitution prescribing a term of six years for the Presidential office and forbidding a re-election.

With respect to the financial condition of the country I shall not attempt an extended history of the embarrassment and prostration which we have suffered during the past three years. The depression in all our varied commercial and manufacturing interests throughout the country which began in September, 1873, still continues. It is very gratifying, however, to be able to say that there are indications all round us of a coming change to prosperous times. Upon the currency question, intimately connected as it is with the topic, I may be permitted to repeat here the statement made in my letter of acceptance that in my judgment the feeling of uncertainty inseparable from an irredeemable paper currency with its fluctuations of values is one of the greatest obstacles to a return to prosperous times. The only safe paper currency is one which rests upon a coin basis, and is at all times and promptly convertible into coin. I adhere to the views heretofore expressed by me, in favor of Congressional legislation in behalf of an early resumption of specie payment, and I am satisfied not only that this is sure, but that the interests, as well as the public sentiment of the country, imperatively demand it.

Passing from those remarks upon the condition of our own country to consider our relations with other lands, we are reminded by the international complications abroad, threatening the peace of Europe, that our traditional rule of non-interference in the affairs of foreign nations has proved of great value in past times and ought to be strictly observed.

The policy inaugurated by my honored predecessor, President Grant, of submitting to arbitration grave questions in dispute between ourselves and foreign powers, points to a new and incomparably the best instrumentality for the preservation of peace, and will, as I believe, become a beneficent example of the course to be pursued in similar emergencies by other nations. If unhappily questions of difference should at any time, during the period of my administration, arise between the United States and any foreign government, it will certainly be my disposition and my hope to aid in their settlement in the same peaceful and honorable way, thus securing to our country the great blessings of peace and mutual good offices with all the nations of the world.

Fellow Citizens: We have reached the close of a political contest marked by the excitement which usually attends the contests between great political parties, whose members espouse and advocate with earnest faith their respective creeds.

Circumstances were perhaps in no respect extraordinary, save in the closeness and the consequent uncertainty of the result. For the first time in the history of the country it has been deemed best, in view of the peculiar circumstances of the case, that the objections and questions in dispute with reference to the counting of the electoral votes should be referred to the decision of a tribunal appointed for this purpose. That tribunal, established by law for this sole purpose, its members all of them men of long established reputation for integrity and intelligence, and with the exception of those who are also members of the supreme judiciary, chosen equally from both political parties, its deliberations enlightened by the research and the arguments of able counsel, was entitled to the fullest confidence of the American people. Its decisions have been patiently waited for and accepted as legally conclusive by the general judgment of the public. For the present, opinion will widely vary as to the wisdom of the several conclusions announced by that Tribunal. This is to be anticipated in every instance, where matters of dispute are made the subject of arbitration under forms of law; human judgment is never unerring, and is rarely regarded as otherwise than wrong by the unsuccessful party in the contest. The fact that two great political parties have in this way settled a dispute in regard to which good men differ, as to the facts and the law, pursued in solving the question in controversy, is an occasion for general rejoicing. Upon one point there is entire unanimity in public sentiment—that conflicting claims to the Presidency must be amicably and peaceably adjusted, and that when so adjusted the general acquiescence of the nation ought surely to follow.

It has been reserved for a Government of the people, where the right of suffrage is universal, to give to the world the first example in history of a great nation in the midst of a struggle of opposing parties for power, hushing its party tumults to yield the issue of the contest to adjustment according to the forms of law.

Looking for the guidance of that divine hand by which the destinies of nations and individuals are shaped, I call upon you Senators, Representatives, Judges, fellow citizens, here and everywhere, to unite with me in an earnest effort to secure to our country the blessing not only of material prosperity, but of justice, peace and union—a union depending not upon the constraint of force, but upon the loving devotion of a free people; that all things may be so ordered and settled upon the best and surest foundations, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us for all generations.

Frank Jones a "Ring" Candidate.

[From the Concord Monitor.]

It seems that Frank Jones's candidacy in the First District is by no means popular with many democrats. Even the happy and generous thought of contributing gilt-edged Congressional Directories to his adherents, containing information of a thrilling character and calculated to arouse a spirit of lofty emulation in the youth of his district, has not sufficed to exercise the spirit of dissatisfaction rife in certain parts thereof. We have before us a letter written by one of the "faithful," in which some hard but truthful statements concerning the honorable Frank are put down with a refreshing directness of speech which ought to cause that individual's ears to tingle, if there is any truth in the old maxim. The writer begins by averring that Jones's nomination was uncalled for, and is a disgrace; that Jones's influence has been overrated; that even at home he has lost ground; and that the young Irishmen and the longshoremen of Old Strawberry Bank are by no means pleased with his patronizing airs. But the writer's chief objection to Jones is in consequence of his railroad ring connections which secured for him the Congressional nomination—a nomination which belonged to Carroll county, whose choice was ex-State Senator Mason. Dr. Mason, who favored retrenchment and nominations effected on the merits rather than the financial power of aspirants, is able, moderate, self-sustained, and of the strictest integrity. He was supported by the best men of his party,—among them the venurable Isaac Adams, whose support no man connected with rings of any description could secure. This was well understood. Hence the Jones Ring began a systematic depreciation of Dr. Mason and of Mr. Adams. Nevertheless, says the writer of the letter before us, Hon. Paul Wentworth, John H. Plummer, Hon. M. H. Marston, Hon. S. H. Jackson, honest John L. Hersey, J. B. Whittier, Hon. A. Haley, W. H. Hobbs and L. G. Moulton, supported Mason as did prominent democrats in Belknap county. But the ring, of which Jones was the head, J. W. Sanborn the body and J. Q. Roles the tail, (the tail wagged the dog) set up a great cry of money, money,—and money secured Jones' nomination by inducing men to act as delegates who had no right to do so. For example, a Newmarket man cast the vote of Tamworth for Jones, and nearly all the undelegated towns in the district were "gobbled" in like manner. How the Jones-Sanborn ring rewarded their henchmen for their work is recorded in this letter. "Col." A. L. Meserve, Roles and Sanborn, Commissioners in 1876, and Roles defeats Frank R. Hobbs for Treasurer; but the writer says this was done to get the resolution in favor of Jones' nomination in, after which, as one of Jones' henchmen put it, "Adams' man, Friday, may now shift for himself." The writer goes on to say:

Now it may be too much to ask that Dr. Mason shall come out from his dignified retirement to defeat Jones, but as a democrat of almost a half hundred years, as a man who holds party dear, but rights dearer, and the democratic party too dear to vote for Jones, and for the sake of the young men of the party, I appeal to the democrats of old Carroll to save us from the disgrace of electing Frank Jones. Shall we leave our young men to vote for Jones, or desert their standard and vote for Gen. Marston, the republican candidate? Let us have a democrat and a man in the field. Let Isaac Adams, if he will, lend us in this hour of our trial his great name. If not, let John H. Plummer, (doomed by Roles and Sanborn to defeat) John Hale Moulton or Hon. S. H. Jackson, men whose names will be long held in remembrance as men not afraid to "bolt" when it meant honest democracy, come forward, or let Frank K. Hobbs of Ossipee be a young man's candidate. Gentlemen, have you forgotten the Wolfborough Convention? Have you forgotten Roles and Sanborn? Have you forgotten Putnam and his base refusal to call a new convention? Have you forgotten how you have been outraged, beaten, humiliated? If not, then "up and at them!"

Washington Matters.

Senator Ferry was re-elected President pro tem. of the Senate, at its first session, Monday. The credentials of Messrs. Kellogg of Louisiana, Morgan of Alabama and Lamar of Mississippi, were referred to committee, objection being made to the men being sworn in. "Gobble" Grover, of Oregon, did not appear.

In the Senate, Tuesday, objection was made to the swearing in of Lamar. Mr. Blaine advocated his immediate admission, but it was refused, and the Boutwell report on Mississippi affairs was read as part of the objection. After a long discussion, it was decided by a vote of 57 to one to seat Mr. Lamar.

A delegation of New Hampshire gentlemen, including Senator Wadleigh, Senator Rollins, Governor Cheney, ex-Governor Smyth, General Natt Head, Colonel N. G. Ordway, Hon. Samuel Emery, Colonel Waterman Smith, Captain Thompson, Hon. John C. Tasker and Colonel James C. Christie, called upon President Hayes on Monday evening to urge Ex-Senator Cragin for Secretary of the Navy.

New Hampshire Items.

The republicans of Concord had a grand torch-light procession and illumination, and displays of fireworks, Monday night. The Hayes and Wheeler Guards of Manchester, one of the finest campaign organizations in the State, gave a concert and ball Monday evening, in honor of the inauguration of the President of the people's choice. About 200 couples participated in the grand march.

The first regular meeting of the Rockingham Silver Mining Company was held at Newmarket on Monday evening, and a Board of five Directors chosen. John C. Love of Philadelphia, President; George F. Hollis of Boston, Secretary and Treasurer; W. H. Huntington of Newmarket, Clerk. Work is progressing favorably at the mine, under the direction of Orin Murray, the Superintendent.

Warnum Greene's dwelling in Exeter was burned on Saturday night. Cause, defective chimney.

Jimmy Blanchard, the "St. Alban's pet," is in trouble for burglarizing a store in Mont Vernon, in company with his brother.

The drug and grist mill of I. D. Edgerly at Wadley's Falls, in Lee, four miles from Newmarket, was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday morning, together with eighteen to twenty tons of drugs, new machinery, etc. The loss is estimated at $12,000; insured for $6000.

Political.

The New York Sun displayed an American flag at half-mast and union down, from the flag-staff on its building, on inauguration day. A crowd of roughs attempted to force an entrance to haul down the flag, but were beaten back by the police. Why any crowd of roughs should wish to prevent Dana from advertising himself as an ass is a mystery.

Moses M. Butler, republican, was elected Mayor of Portland, Monday, over Roswell M. Richardson, democrat, by 584 majority. The republicans carry five out of the seven wards. The republican candidates in Auburn, Saco and Lewiston were elected.

The late House of Representatives passed a resolution declaring Tilden elected, and after the adjournment the democratic caucus issued an address to the country,—a perfectly legitimate method of getting rid of their superfluous indignation.

A squad of republicans commenced to fire a salute at St. Albans, Vt., Monday morning, but were attacked by a mob of democratic roughs and their cannon thrown into the lake. Let us have peace.

Fernando Wood was roundly abused by the minusters during the closing hours of the electoral struggle. He took it all with great good nature. Late in the evening some democrats spoke of him as "the great high priest of the republican party." Subsequently Mr. O'Brien of Maryland, one of the most persistent of the revolutionists, but neither a strong man nor a popular speaker, occupied ten minutes in debate without commanding the attention of half a dozen members. When he closed Fernando Wood met him in the aisle, and extended his hand in mock congratulations. Mr. O'Brien refused to receive it, whereupon Mr. Wood raised his hands over Mr. O'Brien's head as if in the act of conferring a blessing. The scene was so funny that the entire House broke out into loud roars of laughter.

The Boston Post has returned to its old occupation of extracting sunbeams from cucumbers, and says: "the decision of the Electoral Commission has caused the same demoralization among republicans there [in New Hampshire] that is evident here" [in Boston]. It congratulates the democrats of New Hampshire that they "have the privilege of giving the first word of assurance that all is well, and we look to hear them speak up loud." But it carefully avoids making predictions of democratic success in this State—the first time it ever failed to do so just previous to election here. The prospect is too hopeless for even the Post to be happy over.

So far as known Cronin and John Morrissey are the only democrats who have got anything to show for their labor in the cause of Tilden and reform. Tilden himself is out about half a million dollars and whatever character he had when he entered the contest. Hewitt confesses that he is out a hundred thousand dollars. Pelton is bankrupt in reputation and probably in purse; and so on through the list. But Cronin and John Morrissey were shrewder than the rest. The former demanded his pay in advance, and he is ahead about $3,000 that he knows of, while Morrissey pocketed big commissions on the pools deposited with him, and then declaring all bets off saved his own losses. These two, therefore, are model reformers and stand in a first-rate position to represent the democratic party four years hence. Let the word be passed around—Morrissey and Cronin in 1880.—Indianapolis Journal.

News and Notes.

By the burning of the Bateman House, in Kansas City, Butler County, Penn., Monday morning, Mrs. Bateman, her three daughters and a lodger named Mr. Byron, of the firm of Sprague & Co of New York, were burned to death. N. Bateman was badly burned in endeavoring to save his family, but could only rescue his son, and he was fatally injured. About sixty persons were in the hotel when the fire broke out.

Patrick Fitzgerald was set upon by four young fellows as he was crossing a bridge at Ansonia, Conn., Sunday night. As they refused to heed his warning to stand clear he very properly opened fire on them with a revolver, and in consequence of being hit in the abdomen with a bullet John Bressel will die.

At an adjourned meeting of the Direct United States Cable Company, held on Monday in London, a committee of investigation was appointed, composed of gentlemen nominated by Mr. Pender, Chairman of the Globe Telegraph Company. This is a victory for the amalgamationists, as far it goes.

The wholesale dry goods store of Simmons & Gregory, in St. Louis, was burned on Monday. Loss $500,000; insurance heavy, in eastern companies.

A "rakish schooner" is reported as cruising off the Bahamas, boarding Spanish vessels and taking whatever is fancied.

Bosnia is again in insurrection against the Porte.

The man found dead in Cranston, R. I., has been identified as Patrick Clinton, of Providence, missing since Nov. 20th.

Chief Justice Moses of the South Carolina Supreme Court, died on Tuesday. He was the father of the "robber Governor" Moses.

Five bodies from the wreck of the three-masted schooner Margaret and Lucy have washed on shore at Barnegat. The number of her crew is unknown, all hands having been lost. She was only one day out from New York when wrecked.

—Mr. James Merry, a prominent Scotch iron-master, horse-racer, and Member of Parliament, who has lately died, was apparently, in spite of his blood and training, more Calvinistic in heart than in head. Once upon a time, happening to meet Mr. James Baird, his opponent in politics and rival in iron, shortly after the latter had given his celebrated half-million to the Church of Scotland, he taunted him with it, and hinted that the patronus, whose praises are in all the pulpits of the Scotch Establishment, knew nothing about its theology. Baird challenged him to proof, and Merry bet a sovereign that his friend could not repeat the Lord's Prayer from beginning to end. Baird, who was not without a stratum of fun in his composition, quickly repeated the psalm beginning "The Lord is my shepherd," whereupon Merry, ignorant and discomfited, produced a sovereign, with "Well, I could not have believed it."

—Vermont is a remarkable State. The Governor has pardoned one Hobbs of St. Johnsbury, who has been some months in jail because he couldn't pay a fine for drunkenness, and we are told that under the present laws there is no way by which a man unable to pay a fine for drunkenness can escape imprisonment for life, except through the pardon of the executive.

—When they cry "Wolf!" in the Government of Saratoff, Russia, it means something. During the last two years the wolves there have devoured, according to the official returns, 11,000 horses, 10,000 horned cattle, 33,000 sheep, 5,000 swine, 1,000 dogs and 18,000 fowls. They have also, during the same period, attacked 68 persons, devouring two on the spot, and inflicting fatal wounds on twelve others.

—An old Comstocker, being reproached by his prospective mother-in-law that he was much too old for her daughter, that he was even bald-headed, replied: "Madam, my baldness is no indication of age—it runs in the family. In fact, Madam," said he, in a sudden gush of confidence, "I was born bald-headed!"

The eternal fitness of things is illustrated in the announcement that Rev. Dr Shimeon, who has recently arrived in this country from Jerusalem, is the guest of Rev. Dr. Shurtoff.—Worcester Press.

The Report of the Examination by the Insurance Department.

ALBANY, February 1, 1877.

HON. WILLIAM SMYTH, Acting Superintendent New York Insurance Department:

In accordance with instructions received from you under appointment No. 983, I report the completion of the examination into the affairs of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Made at a time when the annual investigation by the Trustees—as called for by the Company's charter—was in progress, the work was considerably facilitated by each department representative acting with one of the said Trustees, thus giving a double force with a check that was invaluable as to the correctness of the labor performed.

The valuation of the Policies in force has been made in the department under the supervision of Mr. D. H. Keefer, our Actuary, and have occupied his attention with that of the rest of our actuarial force not engaged in New York.

The investments of the Company, with other admissible assets, make a total of $82,076,706.87.

Thus the Company has been successfully managed in everywhere conceded; and it is very necessary that the custodians of this sacred trust fund should be men eminently competent to guard zealously the moneys that in the future afford the protection guaranteed by contracts with the holders of ninety, two thousand, one hundred and twenty-five policies.

The Company does not need other endorsement by the Department than is shown in the assets and liabilities enumerated below, exhibiting a surplus, as regard policy-holders, of $ 6,262,879.44.

A schedule giving in detail the information necessary for valuation of property, verification of title, &c. each of the seven thousand, one hundred and fifty six (7,156) mortgages has been compiled, and with a list of uncollected and deferred premiums is now on file in the Department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN A. McCALL, JR., Deputy Superintendent.

The Superintendent in person was present during the examination of the United States securities, bonds and mortgages and other stocks and bonds owned by the Company, and took part in said examination. He desires to join with his Deputy in assuring the public that the system of management and accuracy of detail, as well as the checks and individual responsibilities imposed on each person who has anything to do with the loaning or investing the funds of the Company, command his most hearty approval. The President and all other officers of the Company were most prompt and courteous in affording every information; while so perfect is the organization of each department that any special item required was at once furnished with all its necessary and satisfactory vouchers. This will account for the fact that a corporation of such vast magnitude and importance could be fully and satisfactorily examined in a few weeks, which under ordinary circumstances, would have required as many months.

E. G. PIERCE, Jr., P. M.

GRAND REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION.

This evening the republicans of Portsmouth and adjacent towns will celebrate the great National Victory with a torch-light procession, for which the following programme has been arranged:

Procession will form at seven o'clock P. M. sharp, as follows: 1st Division, on Congress street, right resting on Market square; 2d Division, on Congress street, right resting on Fleet street; 3d Division, on Pleasant street, right resting opposite North church. The order of procession will be as follows:

FIRST DIVISION.

Platoon of Police.
Chief Marshal, David Urch.
Aids, John S. Perry, O. M. Knight, H. H. Ham, Jr., Wm. A. Payson, Charles C. Akerman.
Battalion of Cavalry.
Portsmouth Cornet Band.
First Battalion Hayes and Wheeler Guards, D. J. Vaughan commanding.

SECOND DIVISION.

Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band.
Second Battalion Hayes and Wheeler Gaurds, W. O. Stokes commanding.
Boys' Company Hayes and Wheeler Guards, Clinton Stokes commanding.
Hayes and Wheeler Broom Brigade.

THIRD DIVISION.

Visiting organizations and citizens.

The procession will march at half-past seven o'clock, over the following route:

Up Congress street to Summer, through Summer, State, Pleasant, Washington, State, Chapel, Daniel, Market, Deer, Vaughan, and Elm, countermarch on North street, through Railroad avenue to Deer, Bridge, Islington, Cabot and Middle, countermarch at Cass street, through Middle, Court and Pleasant streets to Market square, and dismiss.

Oil for torches will be furnished at Rufus K. Oxford's store. Citizens on the line of march are requested to illuminate their houses.

JOTTINGS.

A grand instrumental and vocal concert, complimentary to the Nowell brothers, Willis and George, will be given under direction of Julius Eichberg, of the Boston Conservatory of Music, in the Middle street church on Monday evening, March 19th. The instrumental portion of the concert will include a quartette of violins, organ playing by Mr. Cowles, said to be one of the best organists in the country, violin solos by Willis Nowell, (including the celebrated "Hungarian Airs" by Ernst,) and a duet for violin by Nowell and Van Raltie. Mrs. Jenny T. Kempton and Mr. W. H. Fessenden will be the vocalists of the evening. Tickets at fifty cents each, (securing reserved seats,) will be on sale at Preston's on Wednesday, March 24th, and the first comers will get the best seats, as no favoritism will be shown. This will be one of the most remarkable concerts given here for years, and the low price of the tickets will undoubtedly fill the church. All lovers of first-class music should attend.

Thomas H. Philbrick, for drunkenness, was ordered to pay $9.90, fine and costs. For brawl and tumult, Philbrick was sent to jail for thirty days, costs being taxed at $6.90.

Robert E. Williams, an Eastern Railroad freight conductor, dropped dead in the saloon car at 10:45 Monday evening, when his train arrived at Newburyport. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause. Deceased was a member of the Ancient Land Mark Lodge of Masons, about forty-one years of age, and resided at Portland, where he leaves a wife and two daughters.

The Times is anxious that we should know that the appropriation committee of the late national House of Representatives kept the promise they made to help Ex-Congressman Jones to a re-election by appropriating money for a fog-whistle on Whale's-back. We are well aware that an appropriation was made—$2300! They might as well have appropriated twenty-three cents, for the sum devoted for this much-needed signal wouldn't pay for the whiting needed to keep the brass-work of it clean, not to mention putting the condemned tower in a safe condition for its reception.

A further reduction of tolls over the Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph Company's wires is advertised in another column.

We have not yet seen in a single democratic paper of this State an expression of confidence in Mr. Marcy's election. Considering that "bluff" is one of the strongest points in democratic electioneering, this total absence of bragging is a striking illustration of the hopelessness with which they look upon his prospects. Nor are they any more demonstrative about the matter in private conversation, for many of them frankly acknowledge that they expect Mr. Prescott's majority to be much larger than Gov. Cheney's was last year. Under these circumstances we do not think many republicans will vote for Frank Jones for Congressman or Marcellus Eldredge for State Senator, for sake of taking the same number of democratic votes from Daniel Marcy, who won't have enough by thousands to elect him anyway. The full republican vote of this district will be thrown for Gilman Marston for Congressman and Emmons B. Philbrick for Senator—and both will be elected, too.

WELL DONE, NEWCASTLE.

The annual town election, held at Newcastle on Tuesday, was carried by the republicans by forty majority, a gain of twenty-nine over the vote of last March, and of twenty-five over the majority given for Hayes at the Presidential election. This is very encouraging for Frank Jones. The following were elected as officers of the town for the ensuing year:

Town Clerk—Howard M. Curtis; Selectmen—Charles E. Whitehouse, John W. Bickford, George Vennard; Prudential School Committee—J. Mahlon Bickford, Veranus C. Rand, Rufus A. Preble, Jr.; Super. School Committee—Rev. B. F. Grant.

A GOOD OMEN.

The democrats are promising to make a lively campaign from now to the 13th. A political meeting in this city, addressed by Mr. Patrick A. Collins of Boston and Hon. E. S. Cloveland of Hartford, Conn., was held on Tuesday evening; and one is to be held on Thursday evening, which will be addressed by Ex-Speaker Randall (we shall never call him Salary-grab Randall any more, even if he did have as much as Ben Butler to do with engineering the back-pay steal through the House, and still has his share of the plunder in his pocket,) of the National House of Representatives, who refused to entirely suit his rulings to the wishes of the late filibusters in Congress, and Hon. George M. Beebe of New York, the furious filibuster who had to mount a desk to get his voice up to a satisfactory pitch in denouncing Mr. Randall and his rulings, and all the democrats—including Frank Jones, who would not vote to defeat the electoral count. Mr. Beebe we believe is a remarkable man, though we must acknowledge that we never heard of him until his wonderful performances in the last days of the late Congress, one of which is described as follows by the New York Tribune:

"It was filibustering, to be sure, and they made a bear garden of the chamber, and they all talked together at once, and it was the sort of thing that doesn't set up republican institutions very much in the estimation of foreign nations; but then let us get one crumb of comfort out of it all—it did reveal Beebe. In the midst of the confusion, high above the uproar, Beebe, mounted on a desk, waved his wild arms with the strenuous motion of a lame windmill, and howled with the unquenchable anguish of a storm-driven mule. Up to this time the country, which in various capacities he has assiduously served whenever called on for at least sixteen years, hardly knew Beebe—if we may be allowed the expression—from a side of sole leather. It was worth going through all the tempestuous scenes of Thursday in the House to have Beebe revealed to us. Heart disease was nothing so impressive as the abrupt and precipitate appearance of Beebe on a desk. It is to be regretted that Beebe's remarks were lost in the confusion; up to this hour no one knows what Beebe definitely wanted except to out-howl his fellow patriots who were engaged on the floor in a determined effort to reform the Government from the inside. But though we have not his remarks, nor the remotest idea whether he cried 'Fire,' or 'Auction,' or 'Man overboard,' thank Heaven and the industrious reporter we have his attitude in all its picturesqueness, and the general effect he produced, as of a great outspread hovering clamor. Beebe has not heretofore been conspicuous. He became so on Thursday, and the world will not willingly lose sight of him. * * * Mr. Josh Billings, we believe it was, who remarked that one hornet with his business end in working order could break up a whole camp-meeting. The wonder is that Beebe, whose business end seems to be his chin, which that day was in uncommonly good working order, didn't break up Congress."

That's the kind of a hairpin Mr. Beebe is, who is to be imported to instruct the voters of New Hampshire as to their duty to vote for Frank Jones.

In addition to these meetings in this city, others are advertised for Epping, Rye, Raymond, Candia, Dearfield and other places in this District. We simply speak the entire truth when we say we are glad to see these indications of activity on the part of the democrats; we are not in the least afraid of their winning even a partial victory in a sharply contested election; but we are afraid of them—as they have shown us we have good reason to be—when they go on a "still hunt" and the republicans persistently refuse to wake up. When the democrats "lay low" it is impossible to get out the full republican vote; but when they conduct an open campaign, with speeches and brass bands and processions, the reserve vote of the republican party always comes out—and it will do so this year, in force enough to more than overcome the influence of the "still hunt with money" of the three democratic candidates.

Our Greatest Financial Institution.

The Leading Life Company of the World. In these times when the "Mushroom Life Companies" are going to the wall and are compelled to wind up, it will afford the public great satisfaction to know that the old "Mutual Life Company, of New York," is beyond question as sound and reliable as the Bank of England. In consequence of the failure of the Continental, Security and other Life Companies which created a distrust in the public mind, the Trustees of the Mutual called upon the Superintendent of Insurance, at Albany, to make a thorough examination of its affairs in order to satisfy its policy holders and the public, that everything with them was "sound to the core." This has been done and the Annual Statement contained in our columns this morning speaks for itself.

It will be seen that its assets are now more than $82,000,000, with a surplus of over $10,000,000,—a gain of over $3,000,000 the past year, its receipts being over $20,000,000, having paid for death claims and endowments nearly $4,500,000, with an excess of interest receipts, over losses and Endowments, paid in 1876, of $420,000. Its business is conducted on the most economical system, its ratio of expenses upon income being less than 7 per cent. for the year. The figures are truly immense, showing the remarkable progress and success of this great Company during the past thirty years; in 1848 its assets were only $550,000. Managed by men whose past fidelity and success are witnessed by the prosperity which has attended the Company, it offers to those who desire life insurance an opportunity to obtain it with perfect confidence that the money they invest in this way, will not fail them in time of need.

Those who are disposed to insure, and especially young men, should look into the office of Mr. Bartlett, where they may be posted up on the subject of Dividends and other advantages of insuring with this great financial institution.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many year- trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it has effect has seemed almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

CURES COLDS, CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extended practice with marvellous success, and I know it to be all that he claims for it.

DR. FLAGG My Dear Sir: Your Cough and Lung Syrup has proved a great benefit to me, giving relief from severe Coughs and Soreness of the Lungs, when all other remedies and physicians had failed. I have never taken a medicine more pleasant to the taste or more satisfactory in its results.

Breathing Miasma Without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in river and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive. It has frequently happened, and the fact has been amply attested by the parties themselves, that persons surrounded on all sides by neighbors suffering the tortures of this shivering and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute immunity from it, thanks to the protection afforded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard and reliable cordial less efficacious in remedying than in preventing chills and fever, bilious remittents, and disorders of a kindred type. Taken between the paroxysms, it speedily mitigates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, appeal with peculiar force to travellers and sojourners in malarious districts.

After much study and a long series of experiments, Dr. A. J. Fiske, of Claremont, N. H. has succeeded in producing a remedy which will cure almost every form of disease of the Throat and Lungs. Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption yield to it more readily and naturally than to any other known remedy. This medicine goes directly to the immediate seat of the disease, and its beneficial effects are at once manifested. The ingredients of the Cough and Lung Syrup are of the very best kind, having been prepared regardless of expense, and the patient can rest assured that the medicine is perfectly pure. It can be procured of any respectable druggist.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taxed four years ago I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shal continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I feel it my duty to give them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing of them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been a free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What good him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story, I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, NOV. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for one, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The improvement here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend them to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative it could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before e was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxurious climate of New England!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—ONLY—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and wholesome literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving, usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $8; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $6.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1877. The continued and increasing success of this unrivalled work over thirty-three years old) is doubtless owing to the fact that it alone is a comprehensive and cheap means of keeping well informed in the literature of the day. With its weekly issue, and its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, it is enabled to present with freshness and satisfactory completeness able essays and reviews, choice serial and short stories, interesting sketches of travel and discovery, poetry, and valuable biographical, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature.
In its page are represented such eminent authors as Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Huxley, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Prof. Huxley, Richard A. Proctor, Frances Power Cobbe, the Duke of Argyll, Jas. A. Froude, Mrs. Mulock, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Thackeray, Jean Ingelow, Geo. Meredith, Wm. Black, Wm. Morris, Mrs. Lynn Linton, Hesby Kingsley, W. W. Story, Auerbach, Ruskin, Carlyle, Tennyson, Browning, and many other leaders in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, criticism and art.
The subscription price ($8 a year,) is cheap for the amount of reading furnished, and for those desiring the cream of both home and foreign literature, the publishers make a still cheaper offer, viz.: to one, postpaid, The Living Age and either one of the American $4 monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one of our leading American monthlies, a subscriber will at small cost, be put in possession of the world's literature.
An extra offer, also, is made to all new subscribers for 1877, viz.: to send them gratis the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first instalments of a new and unusually powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.
The volume begins Jan. 1st, and we recommend a periodical to the attention of our readers. We know of no other way in which so much of the best work of the best minds of the time can be obtained so cheaply and conveniently as through this standard weekly magazine. Published by Littell & Gay, Boston.

Suggestions for March Work.

The American Agriculturist for March 1st gives seven columns of practical hints and directions concerning work to be done on the Farm, Garden, Orchard, etc., from which we extract the following:

Barley.—Skillful management is required to succeed with this crop. Peculiar soils are required to produce a clear, thin-skinned, bright-colored sample, such as brings the best price in the market. A friable, clean, mellow, dry, limestone clay-loam is perhaps the best soil, but some lighter soils, that are warm and rich, will produce good barley. The soil must be thoroughly worked, and free from weeds. Barley should always be drilled, and the seed placed at an even depth below the surface. There is no better crop with which to sow to clover.

Oats will succeed upon soils where barley would fail. A rough sod and a moist soil will grow good oats; it is the best spring crop for a reclaimed swamp or a newly broken clayey meadow. Two-and-a-half bushels of seed per acre, is light seeding; 3 bushels, if drilled, or 3 1-2, if broadcast, is sometimes sown with good results. The thick seeding yields a finer stalk, which makes a more desirable fodder than stouter straw.

Oats and Peas, sown together, produce a very nutritious fodder. The two crops together, upon one acre of good soil, will yield nearly, if not quite, as much fodder as would an acre of each sown separately. We have sown two bushels of oats and six pecks of peas to the acre. If sown early, the fodder may be cut for soiling cows or horses in May or June, and a succession for continuous use may be sown every two weeks until early in May. Roll the ground after sowing, so that the crop may be cut with a mower, which may easily be done, as the oats support the peas and prevent lodging.

Clover Seed may be sown upon the snow, or when a frost has hardened the surface. One great advantage of sowing upon the snow is, that a very even spread can be made, as the seed can readily be seen, and the foot marks remain as a guide for the next breadth sown. The most inexperienced need make no lapse or misses. A good quantity of seed for each cast, is as much as can be held between the first and second fingers and the thumb. Walking at an easy gait, this will use up about 8 quarts of seed per acre. If the wind is blowing, walk so that it blows across the path; the effect is then equal both going and returning, but it is not so if it blows first on the face and then on the back.

Standing Water.—A very important work is to let off any water that accumulates upon the surface. This requires constant attention, and the use of the hoe or a shovel. Whether there is a crop in the ground or not, it is equally necessary to do this thoroughly, else the soil is soaked and dries very slowly. The amount lost through water remaining upon fields, would each year buy for every farmer who permits it, a good paper and more books than he could well study in a year.

Pigs.—The high price of pork has greatly stimulated the breeding of a good class of pigs. With the prevalent diseases, which now destroy so many hogs in the West, there will be a premium for good management. It is very clear that cleanliness, and a variety of healthful food, will prevent diseases. Make a good start now, with the young pigs. Provide warm, clean pens for the brood sows, as a beginning, and so arrange that they may have a clean pasture lot to run in; not a bare, muddy piece of waste ground, but a good piece of clover or grass, in which they may procure the bulk of their food. Breed only from thoroughbred boars; keep the best stock, and keep them healthful and growing.

Poultry—Cleanse the poultry-houses and nest-boxes from lice. We have lined our poultry-house with Johns' Asbestos roofing, at a cost of a few dollars only, and there is no fear of vermin of any kind in it hereafter. The smell of carbolic acid from the tar is very strong, but not disagreeable, and will thoroughly disinfect the house. Provide a warm corner in the stable for the earliest brooding hens, and give extra care to the young chicks. March and April chicks will give a plenty of eggs next winter.

Asparagus.—When the weather is settled, rake off the litter and fork in the fine manure lightly. In inland places, sow on refuse or other salt, 2 lbs. to the square yard. Set new beds with one-year roots. In field culture 3x3 and even 4x6 feet are allowed between the plants. For the family garden 2x2 feet or 18x18 inches is usual. Give each plant a shovelful of good manure, cover this with 2 inches of earth, set the plant with its crown at least 6 inches below the surface, and cover it; when the shoots appear, fill up the furrow gradually.

Novelties.—While we very often caution against trusting to novelties for a main crop, there is nothing more interesting than to test and compare these. One sometimes draws a real prize, but he must be prepared for some disappointments.

—The following, from the Lowell Courier, is poetry: "Eight Democratic Commissioners were to insure Tilden's chances to the White House heaven—One tumbled into John A. Logan's seat in the Senate and then there were seven."

Cabinet Nominations.

On Wednesday President Hayes sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Secretary of State, Wm. M. Evarts.

Secretary of the Treasury, John Sherman.

Secretary of War, George W. McCrary.

Secretary of the Navy, Richard W. Thompson.

Secretary of the Interior, Carl Schurz.

Attorney-General, Charles Devens.

Postmaster-General, David M. Key.

The Senate went into executive session, but adjourned without acting on any of the nominations.

Political.

The one vote against the swearing in of Mr. Lamar as Senator from Mississippi was given by Senator Wadleigh of New Hampshire, who said that he voted against the admission of Pinchback of Louisiana, and considered Lamar's case precisely similar. Senator Spencer was paired with Merrimon of North Carolina.

Mr. Tilden has been generally credited with making some pretty heavy outlays during and since the Presidential campaign. He can reimburse himself by disposing of some of the useless wares left on his hands. The Albany Journal attempts a catalogue of these as follows: "One livery of Reform; a large and varied assortment of campaign lies done up in wrappers; one bureau and one cabinet. The bureau is rather the worse for wear, but the cabinet—which was made early on the morning of Nov. 8, last—has never been used; one verbal fidelity entitled 'usufruct,' protected by patent and pronounced by Rickard Grant White and others the most eminent word in the language; a coil of telegraph wire sufficient to connect New York City with central Oregon; one dictionary (very rare); one bunch of keys—to cipher; one bob o' link; one nephew; job lot of nincompoops."

Kellogg's credentials as Senator from Louisiana were referred to the committee on privileges and elections, (when appointed,) Wednesday.

Senator Sargent of California is chairman of the Senate Naval Committee, in place of Cragin; Spence on Military Affairs, in place of Logan; Dawes on Claims, in place of Wright; Morrill on Appropriations in place of Sherman, transferred to the Cabinet.

News and Notes.

Japanese troops captured four steamers from the insurgents of Satsuma at Kumamoto, and the other provinces are quiet.

The military court at Matamoras, before which Gen. Cortina was tried, have found him guilty of kidnapping, the penalty attached to which in Mexico is death.

While the democrats of Wiscasset, Me., were saluting their Tilden and Hendricks campaign flag previous to its final removal, on the afternoon of the 6th, a premature discharge of the cannon blew off both arms of Dennis Munsey, and John Jones, Jr., lost one hand and a finger of the other.

L. G. Bishop of Princeton, Ky., recently eloped with a widow in that town, leaving behind him a wife and children, and taking $4000 in money belonging to his father-in-law. The same day another married man left home to elope with the same woman, but upon arriving at the depot he found her company engaged by Bishop, whereupon he went home again as if nothing had happened.

John Q. Hoyt, of New York, has failed, with liabilities of $1,578,000.

By the burning of three stores in Bond street, New York, Wednesday, property to the value of $1,500,000 was destroyed and 300 persons thrown out of employment.

The Minnesota legislature has just passed a law restoring the death penalty. The escape of the Missouri banditti from a summary punishment for a crime most atrocious in itself and dangerous to society, in spite of the universal feeling that they should suffer it, has produced a sudden revolution in public sentiment, and once more murderers will pay with life for life. In a State like Minnesota, which is to some extent a frontier State, and notwithstanding the general peaceableness of its inhabitants, it is felt that with more or less border desperadoes, the death penalty cannot be safely dispensed with. The severity of earthly punishment for crime, must depend to some extent upon its frequency and danger. A solitary assassin may be locked up for life, but a dozen must be hanged. Punishment has a deterrent as well as a reformatory aspect, and in spite of theory about the horror of life imprisonment, there is nothing so powerful as the dread of death upon the minds of the criminals. Mercy to them is cruelty to society, and for every guilty man that escapes, an innocent man is endangered.—Providence Journal.

New Hampshire Items.

Since the declaration of the election of Hayes and Wheeler, the republicans of Chester have kept their flag, with the names of the successful candidates thereon, flying from their flag-pole, annoying many of the democracy exceedingly. Monday night some of the latter attempted to blow the pole to pieces, by putting a charge of powder in an augur-hole at the bottom. The report was heard some distance. It proved a miscarriage, and the old flag waved Tuesday morning as usual. The same thing was tried in 1861 by boring a number of holes around the base, but it was discovered in time to save the pole.

Paul Morrill, Esq., who was nominated a few days since for the office of Surveyor of Customs at San Francisco, is a son of John M. Morrill, who was born in Henniker, March 10, 1787, and a grandson of Ephraim Morrill, who took his wife on horseback from Stowe, Mass., to Henniker, in August, 1772. Mr. Morrill was at one time a resident of Concord, but for the last twenty-five years he has been a publisher, in connection with William Disamore, a native of Henniker, of one of the most influential journals of the Pacific Coast.

The Punishment of the Future.

"Shall punishment punish?" is the title of an article in a late number of the Galaxy. The writer strongly advocates the re-introduction of the "whipping-post," on the grounds that many offenders against the law purposely continue their offences for the sake of enjoying the shelter and food that the State furnishes its criminals, and also that the punishment of deprivation of liberty and disgrace are mental, and therefore felt most by the least hardened criminals, and that physical pain is the only real punishment felt by a hardened conscience, a dead sensibility and a determined laziness that prefers prison support to hard work in freedom. The writer of this article claims, and with justice, that because the whipping-post has been proved a cruel tyranny in the hands of the slave-owners, the absolute monarch of a ship's crew or the unwatched master of an old-time prison, is no sign that physical penalties should never be inflicted by carefully administered law.

There is much in this paper for thoughtful persons to consider. It is a fact that sentiment may run into such excesses, and through such channels, as to defeat its own ends. It is a fact that physical penalties seem to be the only real punishment for the man to whom the prison has become nothing but an easy place in which to get a living. It is a fact that tramps who stroll the country places in summer, endangering the life of women by their nameless crimes, and robbing men of property, throng to the cities in the autumn, and often commit some petty crime sufficient to give them a steady home through the winter, when travelling is not comfortable.

After ages of Christian teaching, there is no danger of our returning to barbarous treatment of criminals, and it might be difficult to convince the public generally of the necessity for corporal punishment; but still the question "shall punishment punish?" is a pertinent one. When the sentiment of pity for the criminal, high or low in station, seems to be stronger than for his victim; when society, unconsciously to itself, seems to discriminate in matters of physical ease between the very poor honest and the very poor dishonest man, in favor of the latter, the question of duty becomes paramount to any mere feeling, however lovely that may be. We are learning that philanthropy needs careful watching, lest it cultivate the ills it seeks to exterminate. Wisdom in charity has come to be the watchword of those who see how zeal, without knowledge, may harm society. And when we come to the matter of crime and criminals, the first question is, what penalties will best prevent transgressions of the law? and the second, what course of treatment will have the best effect upon the offender? To consider the prisoner first and only, and the claims of the State not at all, is to have bad perspective, and fail of a clear view. No excessive sentimentality should react sufficiently to make us forget that reformation is the best process to apply to the criminal; but, on the other hand, no teaching should lead us to forget that magnanimity, pity and personal sympathy must grow out of the soil of justice and wisdom if they are to live and blossom.—Providence Journal.

Disinterested Benevolence.

Many years ago, while W. J. Florence, the actor, was under an engagement at the Winter Garden theatre, New York, he formed the acquaintance of a young girl who played in minor parts in the dramas then represented. One day after rehearsal, he invited her to dinner at a Broadway restaurant. Both were hungry, and they ordered a plentiful supply of food. When their appetites were satisfied, Florence called for the bill, and to his utter dismay discovered that he had no money. In changing his clothing in the morning, he neglected to take the money from his discarded pantaloons. He told the girl of the fix he was in, and asked her for a loan. Mortified and chagrined, she answered that all she had was just sufficient to pay her fare home. Then the actor called the restaurant keeper and told him the truth about the money. The quickly excited man raved and stormed at Florence, saying that he had resolved not to be swindled by any one and that he should send for the police. At this time a short, stout old gentleman stepped up to the proprietor and firmly said:

"How dare you speak to a gentleman in the way you have done? His mistake is a perfectly natural one, and such as might occur to any man. I am ashamed of you! I'll dine no more in your house, nor permit my friends to do so in the future. Here, take this!" and the old gentleman took a fifty-dollar note from a fat wallet and handed it to the discomfitted landlord, saying, "Deduct the amount of the young man's bill, and return me the change."

The proprietor's apologies were unheeded. He handed the old gentleman $47.50, and again essayed apologies. When in the street Florence handed his benefactor his professional card and address, adding that he should certainly reimburse him. The old gentleman's indignation quickly passed away, and, beginning to smile, he added:

"That's all right, young man; I've been trying to pass that counterfeit bank note all day."

One More About the Commodore.

Arbitrary as the Czar, he was wont to govern in his private affairs with a rod of iron. The husband of one of the daughters of the Commodore being unfortunate in business, many years ago, she went to her father for assistance, which was refused in a manner more forcible than elegant. She abruptly withdrew to fight for complete independence. The next morning the New York of those days was highly surprised to read the following advertisement, specially displayed:

Mrs. —— desires to state that she has excellent table board and accommodations for families or single gentlemen. Refers to her father, C. Vanderbilt.

That advertisement appeared exactly one time, for the Commodore realized the situation and advanced backward promptly, and there was no more dissension in that branch of the family forever afterward.—Buffalo Advertiser.

—About twenty years ago a somewhat abusive opponent of the Baptists was publishing a book against them at the office of the printer of the acts of the Mississippi Legislature. By some inadvertence the sheets got mixed, and before the confusion was detected, several copies of the acts were so bound as to exhibit the following astonishing piece of legislation, the grand result of a thirty years' war against immersion: "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Mississippi that bap means to put under the water and tizo means to pull out."

—Among the many useless and cumbersome appurtenances of the nineteenth century that will go down to posterity is the man who laps his spoon with his tongue and then dips it in the sugar.

The Report of the Examination by the Insurance Department.

ALBANY, February 1, 1877.

HON. WILLIAM SMYTH, Acting Superintendent New York Insurance Department:

In accordance with instructions received from you under appointment No. 353, I report the completion of the examination into the affairs of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Made at a time when the annual investigation by the Trustees—as called for by the Company's charter—was in progress, the work was considerably facilitated by each department representative acting with one of the said Trustees, thus giving a double force with a check that was invaluable as to the correctness of the labor performed.

The valuation of the Policies in force have been made in the department under the supervision of Mr. D. H. Keefer, our Actuary, and have occupied his attention with that of the rest of our actuarial force not engaged in New York.

The investments of the Company, with other admissible assets, make a total of $82,076,706.87.

That the Company has been successfully managed is everywhere conceded; and it is very necessary that the custodians of this sacred trust fund should be most eminently competent to guard zealously the moneys that in the future afford the protection guaranteed by contracts with the holders of ninety two thousand, one hundred and twenty-five policies.

The Company does not need other endorsement by the Department than is shown in the assets and liabilities enumerated below, exhibiting a surplus, as regard policy-holders, of $10,052,579.44.

A schedule giving in detail the information necessary for valuation of property, verification of title, &c. each of the seven thousand, one hundred and fifty six (7,156) mortgages has been compiled, and with a list of uncollected and deferred premiums is now on file in the Department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN A. McCALL, JR., Deputy Superintendent.

The Superintendent in person was present during the examination of the United States securities, bonds and mortgages and other stocks and bonds owned by the Company, and took part in said examination. He desires to join with his Deputy in assuring the public that the system of management and accuracy of detail, as well as the checks and individual responsibilities imposed on each person who has anything to do with the loaning or investing the funds of the Company, command his most hearty approval. The President and all other officers of the Company were most prompt and courteous in affording every information; while so perfect is the organization of each department that any special item required was at once turned to with all the necessary and satisfactory vouchers. This will account for the fact that a corporation of such vast magnitude and importance could be fully and satisfactorily examined in a few weeks, which under ordinary circumstances, would have required as many months.

E. G PIERCE, JR., P. M.

S'BLOOD! S'DEATH!

Have we a hero among us? At the democratic meeting in Franklin Hall, Tuesday evening, a prominent democrat of this city announced from the platform his entire willingness to "wade through seas of blood" in defence of democratic rights. [Voice in audience, "give him a chaw of tobacker!"] He also alluded thrillingly to the time,—now not far distant if such frauds as democratic defeats by the republicans are permitted,—when the ballot will have to be handed up in the muzzle of the pistol, to secure the rights of freemen. If that time ever comes there is one man in Portsmouth who won't hand his ballot up at all, nor be around to see others hand up their votes,—and that man is the blatant demagogue who spouted blood and thunder Tuesday evening; had he said he would wade through a sea of trickery to get an office he would have been believed, but that talk about seas of blood fell awfully flat on the ears of men who know that however willing he has been to hatch out schemes for others to put in force he has never shown any personal courage in himself assisting in their execution.

JOTTINGS.

Every man who has signed the Reform Club pledge has "solemnly promised before God and these witnesses" that he "will do the utmost of his power die-courage the manufacture, sale and use of spirituous or malt liquors," etc. Can any such vote for a brewer without breaking their pledge? Do they not thus encourage the manufacture and sale?

At a meeting of the Portsmouth Heavy Artillery on Tuesday evening, Major Daniel J. Vaughan was elected captain in place of Capt. Frank Williams, who is unable to accept.

Frank Jones' paper is indignant that we should mention his occupation and the source of his wealth, and intimates that any item containing the word "beer" is a "nasty little slur" on the democratic candidate for Congressman. Why the Times should get mad over anything we have said about "beer" or "brewers" we cannot see, for we have never asserted that there was anything disreputable in the manufacture of beer, (as its rage would indicate there is,) but have simply stated the undeniable facts that Mr. Jones and Mr. Eldredge are both wealthy brewers, and of course represent the beer interest more especially than any other. We have not intimated that being a wealthy brewer should be regarded as in any way a disqualification for public office; but we have said that when a man's sole qualification for public position is that he is a wealthy brewer, he is not fit for member of Congress. If Mr. Jones has any other especial fitness for the office to which he aspires, he did not make it manifest during the two years he spent in Congress.

The North church bell-frame having been repaired, the bell again rings at one and nine o'clock P. M.

Mr. Charles A. Wiggin, Chaplain of the Portsmouth Temperance Reform Club, delivered an excellent lecture before the Club at Franklin Hall last Sunday evening; but owing to the lack of notice by handbills or in the newspapers, the attendance was not as large as the services merited.

In the same item in which it talks of the "nasty little slur" of calling a brewer a brewer, and beer beer, the Times says: "The CHRONICLE writer, having doubled up and swallowed himself and his utterances in relation to Gen. Marston made before the nomination, now spends a good deal of time in trying to make it appear that Hon. Frank Jones has offended members of his party by his votes in Congress." As we gave no "utterances in relation to Gen. Marston" whatever, good, bad or indifferent, before the nomination, we have not yet been able to make a meal on such utterances; but what we have said about him and his opponent since the nomination does not seem to have met the approval of the Times, so we may assume that it has not helped Jones' prospect any. As to Frank Jones' having "offended members of his party by his vote in Congress," (which the Times denies,) it is the truth, as the Times well knows. We have been personally informed by several old-line democrats that they will not vote for Jones anyway, and have been credibly informed of similar statements on the part of many others; not that we place much dependence on these threats, for the malcontents probably will be whipped into line on election day and made to vote the straight ticket to a man, "independence" not being a characteristic of the democratic voter. But a lot of them denounce Mr. Jones for "his votes in Congress," however they may vote.

Mr. Albee's tenth and last lecture of the valuable and interesting course on English literature, will be given at the Unitarian Chapel on Court street, on Monday evening next, March 12th. Subject, Milton. Evening tickets 35 cents.

When the late House of Representatives was about adjourning for the last time, a vote of thanks to Speaker Randall was passed, it was at first supposed unanimously; but on calling for the contrary a sonorous "No" rang out from the democratic side, and was credited to Mr. Beebe of New York, the desk-prancing lion of the filibusters—though he did not get on his desk on this occasion, which throws some discredit on the story as to his authorship of the big "No!" To-night the lion and the lamb will "lie" down together on the platform at Franklin Hall.

A week or two ago we chronicled the sinking of the upper channel can buoy in this harbor; it has not yet been raised, and the other buoy went to the bottom to keep it company, on Wednesday.

The regular Thursday evening meeting of the Temperance Reform Club has been postponed from this evening to next Thursday night, one week, on account of the political meetings, and the usual excitement attending the last week of a campaign.

The parade of the Hayes and Wheeler Guards in honor of the National victory took place Wednesday night. Owing to the armories of the several companies having been given up and the committee of arrangements having been unable in the short time allowed them to secure any indoors place of meeting, the muster was a little tardy and the procession did not start until nearly eight o'clock; but it made a fine show when it did get under way, though many even of the uniformed men were without torches. The route as advertised was gone over, and at the close of the march a bonfire was kindled on Market square. Many houses along the line of march were illuminated, among the best shows in that line being at the residences of Samuel Adams, Esq., and Mayor Broughton. Though the night was cool—in fact uncomfortably cold, after the long spell of warm weather—a great many spectators were on the streets.

The first train for Boston over the Conway division of the Eastern Railroad ran off the track at a side track in Great Falls, Wednesday morning. The passenger car jumped the track and was dragged about five hundred feet, finally bringing up against a freight car on the siding, which separated it from the baggage car. The passengers were badly shaken up, but none injured. A loose wheel is the supposed cause.

A SUGGESTION.

We wish to offer a kindly suggestion to the democratic managers, in relation to their grand rally in Franklin Hall this evening. We may take it for granted that such a heavy gun as Samuel J. Randall and such a very light piece of artillery as Beebe have not been imported to overcome democratic disaffection to Frank Jones, as the Times asserts that there is no such disaffection; so we must conclude that the democrats hope to capture republicans through the aid of the gentleman who assisted Ben. Butler in engineering the back-pay steal through the House, backed by the gentleman who gets up on a desk and howls when things don't suit him. Now the imported statesmen cannot convert republicans unless the republicans attend the democratic meeting; and if the democratic managers wish to assure their attendance we can tell them how to do it, viz.: let them provide a desk on the platform, and have Mr. Beebe get on it and show how he pranced around at the time he was denouncing Speaker Randall as a traitor and all democrats who voted to complete the electoral count as cowards—let the democrats advertise such a performance as this, and their "great moral show" will draw the best house of the season.

WHY IT WAS CHOSEN.

Eds. Chronicle: The reason given in your issue of March 5th for the choice of March 4th as Inauguration Day does not seem to me to be the right one. Our fathers undoubtedly revered the Sabbath, but it is not probable that they showed this in choosing the 4th of March for that ceremony. That March 4th seldom occurs on Sunday is not true. It happens on Sunday as often as any other day, excepting February 29th. For instance, the 4th of March has occurred three times on Sunday during this century, in inauguration years; the 3d of March has happened on Sunday three times during the same period, the 2d of March three times; and the 1st of March only twice during that time. In order to get a clear idea of the reason why the 4th of March was chosen it is necessary to go back to the time when our Constitution was formed. The convention which draw up our Constitution met at Philadelphia in May, 1787. Their deliberations were continued until the 17th of September of that year, when the Constitution was finally adopted and signed. The convention provided that it should go into operation when agreed to by nine States. The ninth State to ratify it was New Hampshire, and knowledge of this event reached Congress on the 2d of July, 1788. On that same day a committee was appointed by Congress to report an act for putting the Constitution into operation. On the 14th of July in the same year the committee reported the draft of an act providing that the Presidential electors should be chosen on the first Wednesday of the following December. On the 28th of July the act was amended so as to read "the first Wednesday of January," instead of "the first Wednesday of December," and the act as amended was passed unanimously on the 13th of September. Wednesday, the 7th of January, was probably chosen because New Year's was a holiday in many places, and the middle of the week was a good time for the voters to assemble. The act further provided that one month later—on the first Wednesday of February—the electors should meet and vote for President and Vice President; one month after that, on the first Wednesday of March (which was the 4th) the new government was to go into operation. Ever since that time this precedent has been followed, and the incoming President has been inaugurated on the 4th of March, with two exceptions before the present, when on each occasion the ceremony was performed on the next day. Dr. A. J. Flagg's

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

—o—

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

—o—

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption its effect has seemed almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual by than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Rectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

Remember that it

CURES COLDS,
CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH
CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extensive practice with marvellous success., and I know it to be a I that he claims for it.

CLAREMONT, N. H., September, 1875.

DR. FLAGG My Dear Sir: Your Cough and Lung Syrup has proved a great benefit to me, giving relief from severe Coughs and Soreness of the Lungs, when all other remedies and physicians had failed. I have never taken a medicine more pleasant to the taste or more satisfactory in its results.

Kicked by His Friends.

The Washington Sunday Herald, which was a strong supporter of Tilden from his nomination up to his final defeat, is an article ridiculing the talk of his friends about "Tilden and victory in 1880" says:

"We charge that the nomination of Mr. Tilden was obtained by disreputable means. In this case office did not seek the man, but the man sought the office by the use of agencies with which wealthy and unscrupulous politicians are familiar. Paid emissaries, some of them at least well known in Washington lobby, were engaged at different State capitals for months before the St. Louis Convention met, working up the Tilden interest. A political intriguer of the old regime occupied rooms during the last session at a fashionable hotel here, and headed the Tilden clique at the national capital. The system which in State and municipal politics is known as "cooking the primaries" was assiduously worked, and the result was that the convention which met at St. Louis did not represent the feelings and wishes of the democracy of the country, but that a majority of its members came there already pledged to Mr. Tilden. At St. Louis it was found that the town had been, as politicians called it, "salted," and as overpowering lobby, to maintain which it must have cost somebody a large sum of money, fairly drowned the expression of any sentiment which was not attuned to the key-note given out from the office of the Governor of New York. The common answer of the Tilden clique to the remonstrances of those who pointed out how obnoxious his nomination would be to the democracy in the great pivotal border States in which the initial combat of the campaign must take place, was that Mr. Tilden and his friends would spend millions of money to carry the election. It is need less to say that this was a revolting idea to any but machine politicians, though but a fitting sequel to the lavish expenditure of money and low intrigues by which the nomination was secured. But to show how hollow and false political promises of this kind are, it may be added that the hopes of those who expected Mr. Tilden to spend money lavishly to secure his election were never realized."

That last statement will injure Mr. Tilden's future political prospects. That his nomination was secured by unexampled trickery and corruption was well known, but did not injure him with his party; but that he did not spend the money with a promise of which his nomination was bought, will ruin his reputation as the specimen reformer. Another strong Tilden paper has been the Chicago Times, which now says:

"The simple fact that is Tilden is politically played out. The old grave-yard party corpse which he and his special admirers thought themselves capable of bringing back to life again, is not more effectually done for by the pusillanimous abdication of their representative function by the Tildenites in Congress than is Sam Tilden. If he should ever again be a candidate for President, the number of electoral votes he could expect to get would be no less than the number given last fall for the venerable Peter Cooper."

—A spendthrift, who had wasted nearly all his patrimony, seeing an acquaintance in a coat not of the newest cut, told him he thought it had been his great-grandfather's coat. "So it was," said the gentlemen; "and I have also my great-grandfather's land, which is more than you can say."

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as one of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and forty-six, so I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shal continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship and no end of good. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving testimonial; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or cut any wood at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been a free from the rheuma tic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and neck. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had in their practice. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. Enclosed I recommend these Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of these Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England!

AND

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate each. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy elief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Profr. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, B. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving, usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

President Hayes' Cabinet Appointments.

SECRETARY OF STATE.

William Maxwell Evarts, who is about sixty years of age, was born in Boston, where his father, Jeremiah Evarts, was known as lawyer, editor, teacher, author and philanthropist. He graduated at Yale in 1837, as his father had done thirty-five years earlier, and after studying law at Harvard, commenced the practice of that profession in New York city. He soon gained a high rank at the bar, and has long been at the head of one of the most successful legal firms of the country. He has held office only for brief periods, having been for a short time a member of the Cabinet of President Johnson, and recently a member of the New York Charter Commission. His services as a counsel at the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson, as one of the counsel before the Geneva Commission, and as leading counsel for the defence at the Tilton-Beecher trial have made his name and abilities known to the people of this country, and his published discourses and addresses afford evidence of his scholarship. He has been regarded as a conservative republican, though at times he has been as positive in his support of the principles and measures of his party as the most radical of his associates.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

John Sherman, born in Ohio, of good Connecticut stock, is now fifty-four years of age. Without the advantage of a collegiate course of training, he studied law with an elder brother, and was licensed to practice that profession on his twenty-first birth-day. Beginning in 1857, he was four times elected to the lower house of Congress, when he succeeded Chief Justice Chase in the Senate, where he has since remained by successive re-elections. He has been one of the hard-working members of that body, steadily growing in influence, and always a steadfast republican. He is a positive hard-money man, and the friends of specie payment are well pleased with his appointment.

SECRETARY OF WAR.

George W. McCrary is a comparatively young man, little known to the people of the country, except as an able and influential member of Congress. He is forty-two years of age, and was born in Indiana, but when he was one year old his parents settled in the territory comprising what is now the State of Iowa. After receiving an academic education he studied law, and was admitted to the bar at the age of twenty-one. He soon became a leader in the local politics of that State, and eight years ago he was elected to Congress, where he has since remained. He is a sound lawyer, a man of unquestioned character and a reliable republican.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

Richard W. Thompson, now in his sixty-eighth year, and a "republican warhorse," is the oldest member of the Cabinet. He is a native Virginian, and after graduating at college he started westward, reaching Indiana, where he has resided about forty-five years, by easy stages. After teaching school and selling goods, he found his true place when, in 1834, he became a member of the bar, and took to politics. It took him but two years to reach the State Senate, and during the first term of service there, he was for a short time its presiding officer. From 1841 to 1849 he served in Congress, since which time he has not held office. But he has been a leader of the republican party, always prominent in its national conventions, and always respected far and wide for his ability and integrity.

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

Carl Shurz, one of the most widely known of the new Cabinet, has had an eventful life of forty-eight years. Educated at Bonn, in his native Germany, he adopted the profession of journalist, and was a participant in the exciting scenes of 1848 and succeeding years, and become a political refugee. He came to this country a quarter of a century ago, and soon became an active participant in the anti-slavery movement. He has resided in two or three different States, and has been a Washington correspondent, editor, lecturer, Senator from Missouri, major general in the army, and Minister to Spain. He is one of the most popular speakers in the country, and is credited with extreme political independence and reformatory principles.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Charles Devens, now about sixty years of age, was born within the present limits of the city of Boston. He is of good Revolutionary stock, of which he has proved a worthy scion. He graduated at Harvard in the class of 1838, and after studying law was admitted to the bar, and removed to Worcester, where he resided for some years. During the administration of Millard Fillmore he held the position of United States Marshal. When the war broke out he led into the field one of the earliest of the regiments raised in Massachusetts, and was an efficient officer. During the war he was the candidate of the Massachusetts democrats for Governor, though it was understood that he did not fully accept their platform; and since then he has been regarded as a moderate republican. After a short term of service on the bench of the Superior Court, he was appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court—a position he has most creditably filled. He is very popular with the soldiers, and enjoys in a very large measure the confidence and esteem of the whole community.

POSTMASTER GENERAL.

David M. Key, of Tennessee, was hardly known outside of his native State until his appointment to the National Senate to fill out the unexpired term of Andrew Johnson. He is fifty-four years of age, a lawyer by profession, has won distinction on the bench, and commanded a Confederate regiment during the rebellion. Although nominally a democrat, his course in the Senate was often of an unpartisan character, and he enjoys in so large measure the esteem of men of all parties at the South, as to make him a good representative man of that section.

To Republicans!

On Tuesday next the State election will occur, and the political complexion of the New Hampshire delegation in the National House of Representatives for the next two years will be decided. We hope to be able to record the triumphant election of all three of the republican candidates, and believe that we shall have that pleasure; but the republicans of this district have only to look out for the election of their own candidate, they being responsible neither for defeat nor victory in any other district. All that the republicans of the First Congressional District have to do to insure victory is to bring out the party strength and vote the party ticket. We have a decided majority of the voters, and our ticket is decidedly better than that of the democrats—in fact, our ticket is positively good and theirs as positively bad, for our candidate, Gen. Gilmore Harrison, is eminently qualified by training and education to fill the position of Member of Congress with honor to himself and advantage to the District and State, while the democratic candidate, Hon. Frank Jones, possesses the single qualification of great wealth.

In the First Senatorial District also, the republicans have a majority of the voters,—not a majority large enough to admit of many voters neglecting their duty, but quite large enough to make certain the election of our unexceptionable candidate, Mr. Emmons B. Philbrick, of Rye, if the party turns out as generally as in times past. Mr. Marcellus Eldredge, of this city, the democratic candidate for Senator, resembles Hon. Frank Jones in that he represents the beer interest and possesses large wealth, but in other respects he is not the equal of Mr. Philbrick.

Our only fear is that the republicans may not take proper measures to bring out a full vote, through an over-confidence in the success of their ticket, relying on the discouragement of the democrats more than the facts will warrant. The democrats always fight hard, even when they know they have no possible chance of success, and they are ever ready to take anvantage of any apathy of their opponents. The republicans must depend for victory on their own full vote and not on their antagonists' light one; if they do this the result will be all that can be desired, for we do not believe all the money of the democratic candidates for Governor, Congressman and Senator will suffice to overcome the legitimate republican majority in this district, though it sufficed to procure their nomination over the heads of abler men in the democratic convention.

Vote, and see to it that your republican neighbors do the same.

Washington Matters.

On Wednesday, "Gobble" Grover of Oregon appeared in the Senate to take the oath of office, but Senator Hamlin objected and Grover's credentials were referred to the committee on privileges and elections when appointed.

Senators Bayard, Blaine, Morton and others spoke on the question of admitting Kellogg of Louisiana, but no decision was reached.

"A split inevitable," "Hayes and the republican leaders at war," "Morton and Blaine united," "Evarts and Schurz to be sacrificed in their wrath," are some of the headlines with which the democratic and "independent" papers preface their accounts of the recession in the Senate of President Hayes' Cabinet nominations. According to their reports Messrs. Blaine and Morton would join forces against the confirmation of Schurz, and Conkling would help them, in return for which they would back Conkling in opposing the confirmation of Evarts. It was admitted that the other nominations would probably be confirmed without serious opposition.

News and Notes.

New Orleans, after being afflicted for months with status quo, now has a gunpowder plot. Eight kegs of powder and a trunk containing candles have been seized in a house opposite the Supreme Court building, by the Nicholls police. The democrats intimate that Packard is the Guy Fawkes, but what the evidence against him or any one else is, or who it was intended to blow up or how the job was to have been done, is not yet made public.

On Wednesday, in Utah, Judge Boreman passed sentence of death on John D. Lee, the leader of the Mormons in the Mountain Meadows Massacre. He is to be shot on Friday, March 23d.

Matilda Heron, the celebrated actress, died in New York on Wednesday, aged forty-eight years.

On Wednesday afternoon a half dozen men surrounded D. A. Weber in the Court House yard at West Felicians, Louisiana, and shot him to death. Mr. Weber had been several years a tax collector, and was a brother of State Senator Weber, who was recently returned to a seat in the Packard Senate.

John Brassel of Ansonia, Conn., who was shot by Fitzpatrick, Sunday night, on a bridge in Ansonia, died of his injuries Monday noon. Fitzpatrick has been bound over to the Superior Court for trial. It appears that Brassel and his companions were drunk, and had been insulting and interfering with many people who were passing on the bridge before they attacked Fitzpatrick.

The wonderful stories that were told early last year as to how cheaply a valuable quality of pig iron could be manufactured in the State of Ohio have been realized by the work of the season. The metal is produced at a cost of only $12 or $13 a ton. They have the iron, limestone, and coal sometimes on the same land, and always near together. Ordinarily the same grade of metal has cost from $17 to $23 to produce. Cheap iron is assured to the United States.

Walter P. Thompson, twenty-two years old, a graduate of Phillips Academy at Andover, committed suicide by shooting, in Boston, on the night of the 16th. No cause is assigned for the act. On the same date Ethel Warren, a young lady of twenty-two, attempted suicide by poison, but will probably recover. Domestic trouble was the cause.

New Yorkers are to have a Mardi Gras festival, after all, on the 4th of April.

Joe Goss, the pugilist, has been arrested in New York on a requisition from the Governor of Kentucky, for engaging in a prize-fight with Tom Allen in Kentucky last September.

William F. Speakman, an Englishman, fifty years old, murdered his wife at Worcester, Mass., on Thursday, and attempted to murder his sister, while him crazy.

Ship Fannie Tucker, Capt. Roberts, of Wiscasset, at Boston on Thursday from Calcutta, reports having taken off crew of British ship Kate Gregory, fifty-one in number, the latter ship having been burned in the Indian Ocean. After being on board some days the rescued crew, headed by their captain, attempted to force Capt. Roberts to run out of his course to land them at Mauritius, but Capt. Roberts armed his own crew and refused to accede to their demands. Fifteen days afterward the British crew demanded the Fannie Tucker's boats that they might leave the vessel to intercept a British ship coming up astern. This was refused, and the troublesome crew were finally landed in Algoa Bay, southeast coast of Africa.

Political.

"Now, Mr. Jones," said his sympathetic wife, "there's no use of kicking around and wearing out the sheets if you are dying." And this gentle rebuke is extended to those turbulent democrats who refuse to compose themselves for a temperate and tranquil departure. It is no proof that a man dies game because he kicks around and wears out things.—N. Y. Tribune.

The republican State committee of Louisiana met on Wednesday and unanimously demanded Pinchback's resignation of the Presidency of the committee, and also the resignation of his membership in the National Committee.

Hon. J. B. Barnaby has been nominated for Governor of Rhode Island by the democrats. As usual, the democratic prospects are good for "overwhelming success," etc.

The Washington Union, the democratic newspaper established to influence the Electoral Commission in Tilden's favor, is dead.

New Hampshire Items.

The report that Prof. Emerson had resigned his position at Dartmouth is authoritively denied. Prof. Emerson was elected associate Professor of Natural Philosophy and Mathematics five years ago, and has had no thought of resigning. He will in all probability be advanced to the full chair of Physics left vacant by the resignation of Prof. Young. He was appointed inspector four years ago.

The next Legislature is likely to elect Mr. Wadleigh's successor in the United States Senate. His term doesn't expire until March, 1879, but as under the constitutional amendment that will be adopted at this election, the succeeding Legislature will not meet until June, 1879, the law would plainly throw the matter in the hands of the Legislature to be elected on Tuesday.

The citizens of Pembroke are about to erect a handsome monument, costing $500, on the spot where Josie Langmaid was murdered in October, 1875. The citizens of Pembroke had better erect the handsome granite monument over the spot where the unfortunate girl's remains lie buried, if they wish to perpetuate her memory, and let the recollections of the sickening horror of the tragedy die out if they will, after La Page is disposed of.

A horse and sleigh, stolen from E. C. Richards of Winchester, N. H., was found on Hardwick common, Mass., without a driver, Sunday evening, and it is supposed that three tramps who inquired at the hotel for the almshouse at about the same time were the thieves, and had driven as far as the sleigh would allow. A woman's suit of clothes was found about two miles from the village, part of it in a brook, from which it is thought one of the tramps had come that far in disguise.

There was a $10,000 fire in Suncook, Wednesday night, four business blocks being burned. Incendiary.

Newspaper Men's Trials.

One of the great trials of the newspaper profession is, that its members are compelled to see more of the shams of the world than any other profession. Though every newspaper office, day after day, go all the weaknesses of the world—all the vanities that want to be puffed, all the revenges that want to be reaped, all the mistakes that want to be corrected, all the dull speakers who want to be thought eloquent, all the meanness that wants to get its wares noticed gratis in the editorial column in order to save the tax of the advertising column, all the men who want to be set right who were never right, all the cracked-brained philosophers with stories as long as their hair and as gloomy as their finger nails in mourning because bereft of soap—all the bores who come to stay five minutes, but talk five hours. Through the editoral and reportorial rooms all the follies and shams of the world are seen day after day, and the temptation is to believe neither in God, man nor woman. It is no surprise to me that in this profession there are some skeptical men; I only wonder that journalists belive anything.—De Witt Talmage.

—A lady, whose cook went to a wake, was given notice by her a fortnight afterward that she was going to be married. "Who to," asked the mistress. "Please mam, to the husband of the corpse." "Why, does he love you?" was the next question. "Oh, yes, mam; he said I was the light of the funeral."

Renovation, not Prostration.

Did any catechisd human being ever become strong under the operation of powerful cathartics or salivants? It is sometimes necessary to regulate the bowels, but that cannot be done by active purgation, which exhausts the vital forces and serves no good purpose whatever. The only true way to promote health and vigor, which are essential to regularity of the organic functions is to invigorate discipline and purify the system at the same time. The extraordinary efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in cases of debility or irregularity of the organs of digestion, assimilation, secretion and discharge, is universally admitted. Appetite, good digestion, a regular habit of body, active circulation of the blood, and purity of all the animal fluids are induced by this superb tonic and corrective. It has no equals, moreover, as a preventive of chills and fever, and other types of malarial disease. To emigrants and travelers it is particularly servicable as a medicinal safeguard.

The Grand Central Hotel, New York, maintains its famous reputation as a model first-class house. Its reduction from $4.00 to $2.50 and $3.00 per day makes it more popular than ever.

More cases of remarkable cures of coughs, colds, asthma and consumption have been effected in the past four years by Adamson's Botanic Balsam than all other medicines that have been advertised for twenty years past. Price 35 cents. Try it.

After much study and a long series of experiments, Dr. A. J. Flagg, of Claremont, N. H. has succeeded in producing a remedy which will cure almost every form of disease of the Throat and Lungs. Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption yield to it more readily and naturally than to any other known remedy. This medicine goes directly to the immediate seat of the disease, and its beneficial effects are at once manifested. The ingredients of the Cough and Lung Syrup are of the very best kind, having been prepared regardless of expense, and the patient can rest assured that the medicine is perfectly pure. It can be procured of any respectable druggist.

One of the pleasantest recollections of the Centennial trip to Philadelphia thousands of people will connect with their pleasant quarters and agreeable treatment at the Colonnade.

The Report of the Examination by the Insurance Department.

ALBANY, February 1, 1877.

HON. WILLIAM SMYTH, Acting Superintendent New York Insurance Department:

In accordance with instructions received from you under appointment No. 363, I report the completion of the examination into the affairs of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Made at a time when the annual investigation by the Trustees—as called for by the Company's charter—was in progress, the work was considerably facilitated by each department representative acting with one of the said Trustees, thus giving a double force with a check that was invaluable as to the correctness of the labor performed.

The valuation of the Policies in force have been made in the department under the supervision of Mr. D. H. Keeler, our Actuary, and have occupied his attention with that of the rest of our actuarial force not engaged in New York.

The investments of the Company, with other admissible assets, make a total of $82,976,706.87.

That the Company has been successfully managed is everywhere conceded, and it is very necessary that the custodians of this sacred trust fund should be men eminently competent to guard zealously the moneys that in the future afford the protection guaranteed by contracts with the holders of ninety-two thousand, one hundred and twenty-five policies.

The Company does not need other endorsement by the Department than is shown in the assets and liabilities enumerated below, exhibiting a surplus, as regard policy-holders, of $16,392,878.44.

A schedule giving in detail the information necessary for valuation of property, verification of title, &c. each of the seven thousand, one hundred and fifty six (7,156) mortgages has been compiled, and with a list of uncollected and deferred premiums is now on file in the Department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN A. McCALL, JR., Deputy Superintendent.

The Superintendent in person was present during the examination of the Uni ed States securities, bonds and mortgages and other stocks and bonds owned by the Company, and took part in said examination. He desires to join with his Deputy in assuring the public that the system of management and accuracy of detail, as well as the checks and individual responsibilities imposed on each person who has anything to do with the loaning or investing the funds of the Company, command his most hearty approval. The President and all other officers of the Company were most prompt and courteous in affording every information; while so perfect is the organization of each department that any special item required was at once furni hed with all its necessary and satisfactory vouchers. This will account for the fact that a corporation of such vast magnitude and importance could be fully and satisfactorily examined in a few weeks, which under ordinary circumstances, would have required as many months.

A DEMOCRATIC DISPLAY.

When the republican torch-light procession, Wednesday evening, reached the head of Richards avenue on the way down Middle street, they found there a large crowd several hundred in number, we should judge from all accounts,) of democrats from the brewery district, Water street and the North end, including about all the noted strikers" who figure most prominently in the occasional street rows and police court pieces, all full of democratic enthusiasm and evidently all ready for a nice fight. The reason for the assembling in that respectable neighborhood of such a representative democratic crowd was that a number of Frank Jones' supporters, under the lead, we are informed, of Ex-Policemen Marden and Watkins, had at that point stretched from tree to tree across the street a line, on which they displayed an American ensign, draped in mourning and Union-down. The mourning we can understand; it was expressive of sorrow at the failure of Tilden's "reform," which would have enabled all the mourning crowd to have secured nice billets on the navy yard, where they would have got good pay for working—for the democratic ticket; but why they should have hung out a signal of distress, unless it was intended to call attention to Mr. Jones' condition, we cannot very plainly see. On reaching the flag the processionists quietly opened their ranks and passed on either side of it, extinguishing their torches as they did so; but one of their number, a colored man, very improperly reached up his torch to set the flag on fire, and was immediately struck by one of the democratic roughs, a "Creek ranger." For a few moments a general row seemed imminent, which was undoubtedly just what the democrats wanted and would most probably have resulted in their favor, as they were all prepared for it and most of them are used to that kind of entertainment; but nothing serious resulted. The colored man was clearly and entirely in the wrong; that the brewery Irishmen or the Water street wharf rats should have any respect for the American flag is hardly to be expected; but a republican should not forget that the flag is sacred, no matter in whose hands it may be. We presume this display of democratic spite and ruffianism was most satisfactory to the men who made it; and it may make votes for Mr. Jones—but we don't believe it will, for respectable people will not be over-anxious to get into such company as was gathered about that flag on Middle street, Wednesday evening.

We are informed that several lady members of some of our most respected families were grossly insulted, and one of them pelted with pieces of ice, by some of the democratic chivalry on the corner.

"MY DISTRICT."

Hon. Frank Jones writes to the Boston Post stating that he has reliable information that circulars "purporting to be a call by dissatisfied democrats in my District for another Congressional Convention to nominate a candidate to run in my place" are to be sent "into every town in my District," and denouncing something (probably the circular, though it may be the "reliable information") as "a base falsehood, worthy of the source from which it emanated." Mr. Jones adds; "This is a mode of warfare I am not accustomed to." Mr. Jones evidently regards the First Congressional District as his private property—"my District"—bought with the gilt-edged Congressional Directories, probably; but it is gratifying to have an acknowledgement over his own signature that he is not accustomed to partisan tricks in political warfare!

AN IMPORTANT ELECTION.

Let no republican miss voting next Tuesday, from a mistaken idea that the election this year is of minor importance and that Mr. Marcy is sure to be defeated anyway. Really, it is of comparatively little importance whether Daniel Marcy or Benjamin F. Prescott fills the gubernatorial chair, for no one imagines that Mr. Marcy as Governor would countenance anything dishonest or injurious to the financial standing of the State, his ultra-Bourbon partisanship being the main objection to him as a candidate, and with a republican legislature he could not, if he would, go far wrong; but the equally honest and far more capable, experienced and progressive candidate of the republicans will be elected. This, however, as we before remarked, is not the most important consideration connected with the coming election; it is of far greater moment that New Hampshire should send a solid republican delegation to the present Congress than that her Governor for the next year should be a republican. Says the Boston Post of Thursday:

The organization of the next National House of Representatives may turn upon next Tuesday's result in the three districts of New Hampshire.

The importance attached to this election by the democratic leaders is shown in their strenuous endeavors to secure the re-election of Frank Jones. The noted men of the party, such as Ex-Speaker Randall, the desk-dancer Beebe, P. A. Collins of Boston and others, are engaged to urge and implore the democrats of this district to put forth extra exertions, and their adjurations are to be supplemented by those of Heister Clymer of Pennsylvania,—sometimes called "coffee-pot Clymer," in commemoration of his alleged services once upon a time in giving to a lot of "naturalization papers" the orthodox tint of age, by dousing them with weak coffee the night before election. All the work of the democrats is in behalf of their Congressional candidates, Mr. Marcy being almost wholly ignored; and it is necessary for the republicans to be equally in earnest in behalf of their candidates, for (as the democratic Post truly observes) the organization of the National House of Representatives may depend on the election of next Tuesday.

Let no republican be idle until after the vote is cast, counted and returned, and we shall be able to announce on Wednesday morning the triumphant election of Messrs. Marston, Briggs and Blair to Congress.

JOTTINGS.

The republican caucuses for the nomination of candidates for Representatives to General Court, to be supported at the polls next Tuesday, meet this evening. Full particulars as to time and places are given in our advertising columns. If some one of our friends at each caucus will furnish us with a list of the nominees as soon as convenient after the caucus closes, we shall esteem it a favor.

After the procession, Wednesday evening, Gen. Gilman Marston addressed the people in front of the Kearsage House. Owing to there having been no public announcement of his coming, but few people comparatively were aware that he was in the city or that there would be any speaking; hence the audience, though much larger than could all hear an open-air address, was not nearly so large as it otherwise would have been. Gen. Marston's remarks, though necessarily brief, were of course appropriate and forcible and were enthusiastically received.

Eds. of Chronicle :—While we republicans are so liberal and general in our criticisms of the democratic beer nominations for Senator and Congressman,—do pray let us see to it that our own nominations for the Legislature (and elsewhere) shall be such at least as shall not publicly disgrace our city and our delegation in the Great and General Court. REFORM.

The prohibitionists of the First Congressional District propose to do all they can to aid the re-election to Congress of Hon. Frank Jones. They have nominated Caleb Moulton of Hampstead as the prohibition candidate, and it is said he has accepted the nomination.

At the recent term of the supreme court at Exeter, Annie M. Clark of this city was divorced from Albert Clark.

Hon. Daniel Marcy's letter in answer to the open letter of John N. Clark and others concerning the "general injustice and the public expense caused by the cost of jury trials in small cases," and asking his opinion as to the proper remedy, is published. Mr. Marcy's answer is somewhat similar to that of Mr. Prescott, and suggests that an affirmative answer to questions "two" and "ten" on the printed slips which will be furnished voters for expressing their will on the proposed Constitutional Amendments, is the only way he knows of for securing the desired reform. Mr. Marcy was a member of the Constitutional Convention, and his answer shows that he has given the matter earnest consideration. As both the gubernatorial candidates heartily endorsed the proposed reform there can be little doubt of amendments "two" and "ten" being adopted.

Rev. J. W. Hubbell of Hartford, Conn., has accepted the call of the North Congregational church, his pastorate beginning on Sunday.

Schooner Satellite, Adderton, of Bath, from Boston for Dover, in ballast, went ashore on Pavilion Beach, Cape Ann, on Wednesday. She came off next tide, but little damaged.

Hon. Samuel J. Randall did not come here on Thursday night, to orate to the democrats and appear as the Siamese twin of Mr. Beebe of New York, as advertised. But the use of his name served to "draw an audience," including many who would not have gone a step to hear and see the gentleman who expressed his displeasure at Mr. Randall and the democrats who voted with Hon. Frank Jones on the electoral-count question, by dancing a jig on top of his Congressional desk.

—"Too muchee smartee," was what the moon eyed child of the Orient said to the ticket seller at the wharf when gold was demanded for three tickets to Stockton, at $3.-50 each, making $10.50. "Too muchee smartee; you no cashee gold alle time." "Yes, John, I must have gold for these tickets—ten dollars and and a half. Come out." "How muchee one ticket?" Three dollars and a half." "Alle light; me takee one," and he paid his $3.50 in silver; then bought another one and paid three dollars and a half in silver, and bought a third in the same way, having paid out ten dollars and a half in silver without showing any gold. With a look of triumph the mild-eyed son of Confucius gathered in his last ticket and said, "Too muchee smartee." California paper.

—At one of the Detroit churches where a revival is in progress the clergyman asked those who wanted to be prayed for to stand up. Quite a number rose to their feet, and after services were closed one lady was heard asking another at the door, "Why didn't you stand up?" "Oh, I didn't want to," was the reply. "Why, you are a very foolish woman. I wouldn't have missed the opportunity for anything." "Opportunity for what?" "Why, for standing up there and showing off your seal-skin sacque! There wasn't another in the whole church."

—Careful experiments indicate that dark colored substances absorb and emit odors to a greater extent than those which are light colored. With a knowledge of this fact, nurses should invariably dress in light colors. A black cotton dress is bad, a black wool one worse, a black silk worst of all. As black is the most absorbent and most emissive of odorous and other effluvia, physicians should discard dress of that color on account of danger to themselves and patients.

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the Worst Cases. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION,

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it's effect has seemed almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectually than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

CURES COLDS, CURES COUGHS, CURES CATARRH, CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extensive practice with marvellous success, and I know it to be a 1 that he claims for it. WM. M. LADD, M. D.

Stand By Hayes.

New Hampshire will go republican in all departments next Tuesday, if the republicans do not trip themselves by over confidence. This is the only danger, and it will come from four classes of republicans, namely:

Republicans who are indifferent;
Republicans who are absent;
Republicans who are busy;
Republicans who are lazy.

The indifferent class is always a large one except when a national contest or a local interest arrests their attention. When an election is lost through the failure of this class to vote, as sometimes happens, no class is more astonished or feels worse than the indifferent class. Instead of blaming themselves the indifferent men blame the active ones, and are very sure if they had managed matters that no defeat would have resulted. Let the indifferent republicans throw away their indifference this year and vote.

There are some two thousand New Hampshire republicans, most of them young men, who are employed out of the State. They generally come home to vote, but not always. If you know of one such, write him and get him home. It will do him good to visit the old folks and vote the republican ticket again!

Republicans are men of business generally, and they are just as apt to be busy on election day as on any other. But it has always seemed to us that a business man is under the strongest possible bonds to do his duty at the polls. Honest administration and low taxes conduce to the prosperity of all legitimate business, but such results cannot be secured by business men neglecting their political duties, either in the caucus or at the polls. It should be a habit with business men to attend punctually and persistently to these duties, and by so doing they will serve both themselves and the public. Let all business men do their duty this year.

There are, fortunately, but a few republicans who are too lazy to go and vote. If the ballot-box could be passed around, like a contribution-box, they would drop a ballot in; but they must be taken as they are. They must be sent for. They must be carried to the polls, if necessary, in a coach and four. Their votes count, and they are wanted this year just as much as ever. Get out the lame and the lazy.

The last man is wanted. He doesn't always vote but he should be got out this year. Vote the check-list clean. Get out the last man.

We want a full republican vote on Tuesday so that President Hayes will understand that he has the sympathy and support of the State that elected him. He has a difficult task before him, and it will be rendered doubly difficult if the people do not sustain him. Vote—vote—vote the republican ticket and stand by Hayes.—Nashua Telegraph.

Irish Wit.

Aninside car full of travellers was toiling up one of the long hills in the County Wicklow. The driver leaped down from his seat in front, and walked by the side of the horse. The poor beast toiled slowly and wearily, but the six insides were too busily engaged in conversation" to notice how slowly the car progressed. Presently the driver opened the door at the rear of the car and slammed it to again. The "insides" started, but thought the driver was only assuring himself the door was "securely closed. Again the fellow repeated the same action; he opened the door and slammed it to again. The travellers turned around angrily and asked why he disturbed them in that manner. "Whisht," whispered the fellow, "don't spake so loud, she'll overhear us." "Who is she?" "The mare. Spake low," he continued, putting his hand over his nose and mouth. "Sure, I'm decavin' the creature! Every time she hears the door slammin' that way she thinks one of yez is getting down to walk up the hill, and that rises her sperrits." The insiders took the hint.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.
Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shal continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldier, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package. JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 16, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another bottle. I am happy to have been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and have tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What did he him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember, I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried it so not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have tried traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Dobbs, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that your pills will cure anything, yet will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Scarrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend these Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. F. L. ELLIOTT.

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxurious climate of New England!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As a stitch in time saves nine, so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, etc.,

Use—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

1877. ECLECTIC MAGAZINE OF FOREIGN LITERATURE.
THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent. A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Profs. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, B. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving, usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $8.

II.—IT IS IMPARTIAL AND INDEPENDENT. Believing in intelligent suffrage, it aims to furnish voters the fullest and fairest information, to qualify them for the wisest discharge of their responsibility.

III.—IT IS, AS IT ALWAYS WAS, ESSENTIALLY REPUBLICAN. It may quarrel in the future, as it has done in the past, with errors of republican leaders or corruptions in the republican party; but can never cease to be the advocate of republican principles, and especially to those golden doctrines of civil service reform, hard money, the sanctity of the National faith, and equal justice to all classes at the South, which formed the corner-stones of Gov. Hayes' admirable letter of acceptance.

IV.—ITS MORAL TONE IS PURE AND ELEVATED. The family circle is never profaned by anything which appears in the columns of THE TRIBUNE.

V.—THE CHOICEST STANDARD AND CURRENT LITERATURE of the day is presented in its columns, including Correspondence, Stories, and Reviews from the most talented and popular writers.

The History of Skating.

It can only be conjectured when skating was first practiced, but it was certainly very long ago. In that ancient collection of Scandinavian songs and legends known as the "Edda," Uller, the handsome god, is described as being the possessor of a pair of skates. This proves that skating is at least a thousand years old. It is supposed to have been introduced into England about the twelfth century, and into the central parts of Europe somewhat earlier. It is curious that, although all Northern nations possessed the sledge, those of America knew nothing of the skate, while the people of Europe did not have the snow shoe. The course of invention varied, according to requirements. In America, in high latitudes, the snows are heavy, and open ice is comparatively rare. In the corresponding parts of Europe there is much more clear ice, and proportionately less snow.

The ancient skates were nothing but the shin bones of oxen or other large animals, pierced with holes to receive the cords or thongs which bound them to the feet. Fitzstephen's "History of London," written in the thirteenth century, is the earliest English book in which skating is spoken of; and we learn, from its description, that the performers upon those bone skates kept themselves in motion by striking against the ice with an iron-shod pole. Sometimes specimens of these bone skates have been discovered, in the progress of excavations, in several European countries; and a very well preserved pair, so found in England some years ago, can now be seen in the British Museum.

It is unknown when or where iron was first employed in the construction of skates. It was probably in Holland; for skates, of a pattern very much like that of the ones we have now, not only were known in that country, but were extensively used by all classes of its people, long before the pastime of skating became general elsewhere. Skating is something more than a pastime in Holland. There it is one of the useful arts, and is universally practiced and highly esteemed. It offers a very convenient mode of travel in winter over the canals that almost entirely supply the place of roads in the Land of Dykes; and people skate from farm to farm, and from town to town, and to church, and to market, often carrying heavy burdens. The Russians have constructed an ice locomotive, with roughened driving wheels to lay hold of the slippery surface, and it has proved a success; but in Holland every man is his own ice locomotive. And so is every woman—for it has long been customary for ladies to skate in Holland; whereas in other countries, until recently, this most excellent of out-door exercises for them has been almost tabooed.

The first skaters in our part of the world were the honest Dutchmen of the "Province of Nieuw Nederlandts," who doubtless brought their skates with them in that celebrated vessel, the "Goede Vrouw,"—which, we are told by the learned Diedrich Knickerbocker, "had one hundred feet in the beam, one hundred feet in the keel, and one hundred feet from the bottom of the stern post to the tafferel." The Dutch certainly deserve high honor for having introduced skating and Christmas presents into America if for nothing else. As they did so, the worthy St. Nicholas must be esteemed the patron of all American skaters.

Packard's Assailant.

William Henry Welden, who shot Gov. Packard in New Orleans on Feb. 15, was admitted to bail in the sum of $5000 by Recorder Stais of that city on Thursday last, and arrived in Philadelphia in company with his father, Rev. C. F. Welden, yesterday morning. Mr. Welden left here for New Orleans on Feb. 19 to intercede for his son. He reached there on the Friday following, and through Gen. Busey was presented to and accorded an interview with Gov. Packard. The latter was very cordial and sympathetic, and heard Mr. Welden attentively. At first he believed the assault upon him was premeditated, and grew out of a conspiracy to murder him, for the day before he had been warned by mail that such an attempt was to be made upon his life within twenty-four hours. But Judge Kelley telegraphed from Washington that he knew Welden and his people well, and that the young man, whatever else his motives might have been, was incapable of entering into a conspiracy to murder. This telegram, together with Welden's previous good character, led Gov. Packard to believe that his assailant was under the influence of liquor when the assault was made, and not morally responsible for his actions. With this view he was disposed to be lenient with Welden, and offered no resistance to his release on bail. Indeed it was intimated to the young man's father that neither the Governor nor any one of the witnesses to the shooting would appear against him before the Grand Jury. As for the Nicholls Government, they said they had no official knowledge of the crime charged against Welden, and did not propose to interfere with him. It has been ascertained that Welden left the employ of Pepper & Co. of Mobile just a week before the shooting, and that he had been in New Orleans but about twenty hours when it occurred. He thinks he would have been shot dead by Gov. Packard's attendants after the assault had it not been for that gentleman's interference in his behalf. After the shooting he was attended by Gov. Packard's own physician, and his treatment, he says, was kind and humane during his confinement in prison.—Philadelphia Ledger, March 5.

Hayes and Tilden as Candidates.

The democrats still maintain that Samuel J. Tilden has a better right to the Presidency of the United States than Rutherford B. Hayes, and if he who strives most earnestly and persistently for the prize is best entitled to it, we must acknowledge that the democrats are right. For what did Gov. Hayes do to secure the Presidency? Not even the most trifling thing. From the time he was first spoken of as a possible candidate up to the time he was declared elected, he stood entirely aloof, and had less to say about the campaign than any fourth-rate ward politician in the country. He had no agents employed before the Cincinnati convention, working up "spontaneous enthusiasm" in his behalf, nor was he represented at the convention by any save volunteer representatives; his letter accepting the nomination was but a concise, straightforward declaration of his principles, and neither praised himself nor denounced others; he took no part in the campaign, established no literary bureau, gave no instructions to his supporters to "claim everything," and instead of looking after his own election wasted his time in attending to his duties as Governor of Ohio; after the election he made no attempts to buy up electors, or to "Gobble" in any way an electoral vote to which he was not entitled; he sent no criminal-court trickster to Congress to act as his attorney; and after the Electoral Commission was established the only declaration a skilled "interviewer" could get out of him on that subject was that he would not, if he could, say a word to influence the Commission one way or the other. If ever a man was sought by office instead of seeking it, that man is Rutherford B. Hayes.

Compared with Mr. Hayes' entire avoidance of campaign work, how brightly does Samuel J. Tilden's energy as a tireless toiler in his own behalf appear. Long before the St. Louis convention met, Mr. Tilden's emissaries were at work all over the Union, striving by all the arts known to the wire-puller who works for a wealthy employer, to secure the election of Tilden delegates; thousands of dollars were spent through the advertising agency of Bates & Locke, to secure the admission of paid-for puffs of himself as a reformer in the columns of the party press; when the convention met, St. Louis was filled with his subsidised retainers, and his right-hand man, John Morrissey, the eminent reformer, gambler and pool-swindler, was there with a large and select crowd of supporters and plenty of golden arguments in his favor; in his letter of acceptance he said "usufruct;" he contributed $300,000 to the democratic campaign fund; he established a "bureau of nincompoops" to furnish original editorial matter for all the democratic papers in the Union; he ordered the democratic press to claim the Colorado election as a great democratic victory for a week after the facts were known all over the country, for the sake of the "moral" effect it would have in the October elections; he wasted no time on his duties as Governor of New York, not visiting his gubernatorial office for months; he (or his immediate supporters) tried to buy up electors in South Carolina and Louisiana, and the much-talked-of Returning Board of the latter State; he did buy an elector in Oregon, but as the people of that State had omitted to elect him the investment was not a paying one; he took away his old friend Tweed's legal adviser, and sent him to Congress as his own attorney; in short, he worked harder to get the office to which he aspired than any man ever did before, or ever will again, probably. But in spite of his striving another bore off the palm of victory; and it must be an annoying reflection to him that while he was unable to achieve greatness, his unconcerned rival had greatness thrust upon him.

La Page Doomed.

The second trial of the Frenchman Joseph La Page, for the murder of Josie Langmaid of Pembroke, was concluded at Concord on Thursday, and the miserable wretch was again convicted of the terrible crime committed on the 4th of October, 1875. Attorney-General Tappan's argument for the prosecution occupied five and a quarter hours in delivery, and was a masterly effort. Judge Stanley charged the jury, the delivery of the charge taking two hours and five minutes. The jury retired at ten minutes past six o'clock, and at seven o'clock sent for the Court. The room was filled immediately to overflowing. La Page was brought from prison at 7:38, the jury came in two minutes later, and in the usual form the foreman announced the verdict, "Guilty of murder in the first degree." The Attorney-General moved for sentence. Judge Aaron F. Sawyer then said:

"Joseph La Page, you have been convicted by a jury of your own selection, and the Court entertains no reasonable doubt of your guilt. You have been convicted of the murder of Josie A. Langmaid on the 4th day of October, 1875, at Pembroke in this county, for which, by the law of New Hampshire, you must suffer death. Have you anything to say why the death penalty should not now be pronounced on you?"

This being repeated by an interpreter La Page said: "I have two answers. Let me have the priest, and then God shall decide who has done the deed, and find out who has done it before long."

Judge Sawyer—"Has Mr. La Page anything further to say?" Answer—"Not now. I have nothing else to say. The judgment is rendered."

Judge Sawyer continued: "I will not speak of the enormity and heinousness of the crime; the counsel in your behalf and for the State have fully delineated its horror and atrocity, and everything has been done in your behalf to prove your innocence to a jury of this county. You have once, yes, twice, been convicted by twenty-four good men, and true, from this county. You have, but a short time, sir, to live in this world. Reflect, I beseech you, on the world of spirits. Dream not of annihilation or death as an eternal sleep. It is not in your power, however it may consist, both with your wishes and your interest, to cease to be or to divest yourself of the responsibility. The Holy Scriptures represent God as infinitely just, and also a God of love and mercy. We could hardly conceive of a God as just if a wicked man, after committing crimes and murders, were permitted to escape punishment by ceasing to exist. I recommend you to prepare for another world. God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him might not perish but have everlasting life; but that dear Son came into this world and gave Himself a propitiation for your sins and for mine, and for the sins of the whole world. I advise you to apply to your Heavenly Father for pardon; murderers have been pardoned by repentance; you can be pardoned by repentance. The blood of Jesus Christ cleanses us from all sin. May God appropriate that blood to your salvation. You are a young man, cut off by vice in the morning of your days. Your sun has scarcely risen before it will set, I hope not under shadows everlasting, but that on the morning of the resurrection, you may shines in robes of innocence purchased by that Son of God; and now to the grace, mercy and goodness of God, I recommend you. Sir, the sentence which the law prescribes for murder in the first degree the Court awards; it is, that you be taken from this place to the State Prison in Concord, in the county of Merrimac, and State of New Hampshire, and there remain until the fifteenth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and that on that day, between ten o'clock in the forenoon and two in the afternoon, you be hanged by the neck until you are dead; and may God have mercy upon your soul."

La Page was then handcuffed and taken to prison.

On Thursday the Senate confirmed the nomination of John Sherman as Secretary of the Treasury. No other nominations were acted on. Senators-elect Morgan of Alabama and "Gobble" Grover of Oregon were sworn in.

Mr. Thurman said that at the former session of the Senate the credentials of J. B. Eustis, claiming to be Senator from Louisiana, were referred to the committee on privileges and elections. The committee reported against the right of Mr. Eustis to a seat, on the ground that the vacancy had been filled by the election of Pinchback. Subsequently the Senate decided that Pinchback was not elected. He therefore submitted a resolution that the credentials of Mr. Eustis be taken from the table and referred to the committee on privileges and elections. Laid over.

News and Notes.

The Helena (Montana) Independent special from Bozeman, Mont., says the Sioux have killed Irwin McClure and Lawry, of Deer Lodge, Muggins Taylor, Yankee Jim, Seed Daniels and Bill Randall, of Bozeman, and several others, at or near Stillwater.

Officer Ellison of Biddeford stopped a peddler on High street in that city Thursday afternoon, and demanded money. The peddler showed his license but the officer insisted on the cash. James Harvey, a bystander, ventured a remark, when the officer struck him over the head with his billy. A crowd collected, wrested the billy from Ellison and broke it over a post. The Marshal stripped the badge from Ellison, who is alleged to have been drunk. The matter will be fully investigated.

Hon. Oliver Ames, brother of the late Oakes Ames, died in Easton, Mass., Friday morning.

Secretary Morrill has had a relapse, but serious consequences are not anticipated.

A very heavy storm raged along the coast from New Jersey to Nova Scotia, Friday. Heavy rains in Vermont and northern New Hampshire caused fears of freshets.

St. John, N. B., had a destructive fire on Friday, doing damage to the amount of $250,000.

The wind blew at the rate of seventy-two miles an hour in Boston on Friday, the highest velocity ever recorded there. Numerous chimneys were blown down.

The Workingmen's Five Cent Savings Bank of Hartford, Conn., is in trouble. The trouble is that the "bank" owes $5000 to depositors, and has $17 to pay it with. The workingmen will have hard work to get much dividend out of that lot. They had better shake the dice to see who shall take the whole amount.

Charles Burroughs, late an actor in Portland, was killed in Rhode Island on Thursday while on his way to New York, by being knocked off a train by a bridge.

Hon. E. H. Rollins, United States Senator from this State, on his departure from Boston for Washington, March 1, placed in the hands of the directors of the Union Pacific Railroad his resignation of the position of treasurer of that company. On the 6th his resignation was accepted, and resolutions very complimentary to the retiring officer were passed.

A panic occurred in the church of St. Francis Xavier, in New York city, Thursday night, caused by a woman having a hysteric fit. The church was densely crowed with women and children, it being "woman's week" in Lent. In their frantic efforts to get out, the occupants of the gallery crushed and trampled upon each other; and six women and a boy were killed, and a large number of others seriously injured.

An explosion took place on Thursday in the Worcester colliery, near Swansea, Wales. All the miners were at work. The number lost is not yet known. Sixteen bodies have been taken out. It is thought that six more are in the pit.

It is rumored that Gravelin, just sentenced to death for the murder of Joseph White, in Vermont, has made a full confession. The report is probable, from the fact that the murderer has been very depressed ever since he arrived at Windsor. He is said to have first struck White with a scythe-snath, and completed the murder with an axe.

The Niagara suspension bridge is closed until farther orders, for repairs.

The most violent snow-storm of the winter occurred in St. Louis on Thursday. The storm was of wide extent.

Renovation, not Prostration.

Did any enfeebled human being ever become strong under the operation of powerful cathartics or salivants? It is sometimes necessary to regulate the bowels, but that cannot be done by active purgation, which exhausts the vital forces and serves no good purpose whatever. The only true way to promote health and vigor, which are essential to regularity of the organic functions is to invigorate discipline and purify the system at the same time. The extraordinary efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in cases of debility or irregularity of the organs of digestion, assimilation, secretion and discharge, is universally admitted. Appetite, good digestion, a regular habit of body, active circulation of the blood, and purity of all the animal fluids are induced by this superb tonic and corrective. It has no equals, moreover, as a preventive of chills and fever, and other types of malarial disease. To emigrants and travelers it is particularly serviceable as a medicinal safeguard.

Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption yield to it more readily and naturally than to any other known remedy. This medicine goes directly to the immediate seat of the disease, and its beneficial effects are at once manifested. The ingredients of the Cough and Lung Syrup are of the very best kind, having been prepared regardless of expense, and the patient can rest assured that the medicine is perfectly pure. Hon. C. C. Van Zandt was nominated for Governor of Rhode Island by the republicans on Thursday.

The democrats in the Ohio Legislature passed a resolution declaring that "Hayes had received 185 votes by fraud, perjury," etc., "and that we are sorry for it, because it destroys our faith in the mercy, justice, and beneficent goodness of the Almighty God, whom we have been taught to believe was the defender and protector of right, in this, that he has allowed villainy and moral perjury to triumph over truth, honesty, and virtue." The democratic faith in the mercy, justice, and beneficent goodness of the Creator becomes destroyed every time the republican party triumphs, and it only shows how weak that faith is.

Foreclosure of Mortgage.

ON the fourth day of September last, I took possession of a tract of land in Portsmouth in the County of Rockingham, at the Point of Graves so called, bounded northerly by land formerly of Thomas Currier, deceased, easterly by the Piscataqua River, Southerly by the city privileges of the city of Portsmouth, and westerly by Mechanic street, together with the wharf and the buildings on said lot and all the machinery and fixtures therein, being the same formerly called the Franklin Foundry, and have ever since held possession of the same for condition broken of a mortgage of the premises made by Phineas Drake Jr. to Alfred W. Haven, James W. Emery and Joshua W. Peirce, dated the twenty-third day of July A. D. 1853 and recorded in the records of said county Lib. 356 fol. 131, to secure three notes of said Drake of six hundred dollars each, one of which, payable to said Emery has been paid, and one payable to said Haven and one payable to Joshua W. Peirce have been assigned with said mortgage to me. Said possession was commenced and is held for the purpose of foreclosing said mortgage.

A WORD TO THE VOTER.

Do you consider the business interests of the country, and the manufacturing interests that give employment to so large a percentage of the population, of vital importance? and if so, do you desire to vote in favor of their revival and advancement? If you do, look around and abroad, and see on which side the great majority of the business men, manufacturers and other employers of labor vote, and vote with them. Business is sensitive, and the business men of the country—certainly as intelligent and far-seeing a class as there is in it—are as keenly alive as any to their own material interests; and if you desire to vote for a revival of business you can only do it by voting with the business men—for it is a rank absurdity to suppose that they vote against their own welfare.

Do you wish to vote in favor of good order, education, sobriety, and obedience to the law? If so, consider with which party the majority of orderly, intelligent, sober, law-abiding men among your personal acquaintances vote, and vote as they do. Enquire from which party-ranks the jails and houses of correction are mainly recruited; which party furnishes the vast majority of defendants before the police courts; which party the parents of street Arabs generally support; which party the keepers of low drinking saloons and dens of infamy almost universally belong to; which party the roughs and bullies are most frequently honored (about election time) leaders in; which party the street-brawlers love,—in short, enquire carefully with which party the great mass of the ignorant and vicious vote, and then carefully vote the other way yourself. Thus, and thus only, can you vote in favor of order, decency and obedience to the law; for it is absurd to assume that those who set order and decency at defiance in their daily lives, and who are ever ready to break the law when they see a chance of escaping its penalties, are desirous or even willing that law and decency should rule.

JOTTINGS.

We are happy to bear testimony to the superior management of the American House, Boston. Order, neatness and comfort reign throughout the establishment in all its parts. Boston will doubtless be crowded this summer, and all will find at the "American" facilities for comfortable enjoyment such as are offered at few first-class hotels.

We have received from Mr. Edmund W. Noyes, 63 Kilby street, Boston, a handsome colored engraving of the Moody and Sankey Tabernacle, and as they retail for the low price of five cents each, every one interested in the great revival now in progress in that city can procure a copy. Sent on receipt of two three cent stamps.

While Hon. Samuel J. Randall is engaged in the arduous task of arousing an enthusiasm for Frank Jones in this Congressional District, would it not cheer his heart to read a few scathing democratic editorials on the "infamous radical back pay steal?" Suppose our democratic brethren of the quill try it; Mr. Randall could correct any inaccuracy of detail into which they might fall, for nobody knows more about the back-pay steal than he,—and nobody knows so much about what became of his share of the plunder after he pocketed it. Do, brethren of the democratic press, just favor us with one more good, loud, old-fashioned democratic howl about "the infamous back-pay thieves."

Subject at Bow Mission, Sunday afternoon, "Temperance." Appropriate pieces will be sung. Reformed men are especially invited.

The North Parish Corporation at their annual meeting elected the following gentlemen Wardens for the ensuing year: Charles E. Myers, John S. Rand, John H. Bailey, Valentine Doane, Jr., and John H. Hutchinson. The Treasurer's report was rendered, showing that the expenditures of the past year have been kept within the appropriations, and that a balance of $191.53 was in the treasury. The appropriations for the ensuing year were made, amounting to $3832.50.

A republican friend assures us that we gave Ex-Policeman Marden and Watkins a prominence that was not their due in connection with the disgraceful democratic demonstration on Middle street Wednesday evening, as they had no more to do with it than any others of the late democratic guardians of the peace, nearly or quite the whole force having been present and assisting. We willingly make this correction, that each participant in that affair may have the share of "honor" honestly belonging to him.

The New Hampshire democracy, annually, just before election, draw a good deal of encouragement from the glowing predictions of the Boston Post regarding the glorious democratic victory in prospect, and the utter demoralization and discouragement of the republican hordes and leaders. Its prophecies this year are amusingly similar to those it made a year ago on the eve of our State election, except that then it was much more bolsterous in its assurances than now. Just how much the Post's statements are worth the following editorial note in its columns of March 14, 1876, will show: "They are betting on a thousand democratic majority in New Hampshire, Tuesday. Not enough." Yet in spite of the "fact" that "they were betting" that way Choney's majority over Marcy was 3,204, and Marcy's total minority was 3,628!

British Schooner Emma E, Potter, of Annapolis, Nova Scotia, arrived at this port on Friday from Turk's Island with a load of salt to Walker & Co. This is the first foreign arrival for many months

Quite a large turn-out of the democratic clubs went to Dover Friday night. There were nine cars on the train, the forward two being reserved for the regular passengers; the remaining seven were pretty well filled with Mr. Jones' uniformed men, there being probably not far short of four hundred of them.

A large number of fishing vessels were at the wharves on Friday, in for shelter.

Major Daniel J. Vaughan has accepted the position of captain of the Portsmouth Heavy Artillery.

The enterprising Concord correspondent of the Boston Post has discovered that "in the First District the republicans are thoroughly frightened and almost disheartened" and "have evidently given up the struggle," and that "Hon. Frank Jones is to be re-elected." The same issue of the Post announces that "there seems to be every prospect of electing the entire democratic ticket" in Rhode Island! The Post has been rather late in commencing its regular game of "bluff," but it is doing very well now it has got started.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

At the republican caucuses, Friday evening, candidates for Representatives to General Court were nominated as follows:

Ward One—Richard H. Waldron, George E. Hanson, Frank W. Hackett.

Ward Two—William A. Hodgdon, William H. Sise, Titus S. Tredick, Thomas E. Call.

Ward Three—Samuel S. Whidden.

Ward Four—William H. Rollins, John E. Ham.

Mortimer, John C. Lewis.

The committee on claims reported on claim of Henry Peyser, that he be paid $15; report adopted.

Repair of stairs at Haven school-house was referred to the committee on school-houses.

A bill entitled "An Ordinance providing for a Convention," etc., which had been passed by the Common Council, was read a first time. The rules were suspended and the bill was read a second time and amended by inserting March 22nd, and passed as amended. The Council concurred in the amendment.

A bill entitled "An Ordinance relating to the removal of night soil," which had been passed by the Common Council, was read and referred to committee on second reading of bills.

A Brilliant Student's Fate.

Emil Schwerdtfeger, a student in the Senior class of Cornell University at Ithaca, shot and killed himself in the residence of Prof. Morris on the University grounds, Sunday night. Schwerdtfeger was regarded by the Professors and students of the university as a prodigy in Philology. At the last inter-collegiate contest in New York he bore off the $300 prize for the best examination in Latin, and, when he was in the Freshman class he received the prize offered by the Portsmouth Philological Society for the best essay on the English verb. His bright talents made him almost the constant companion of the professors, although he was not over nineteen years of age. His health was exceedingly poor, and his eyes were almost useless to him. He was much depressed on account of these afflictions, and fearing he would never be better he was thrown into despair. His lifeless body was found in the chair at his study table. The pistol was on the floor. A freshly-written paper, headed "The last will and testament of Emil Schwerdtfeger" was on the table. It provided that $300 which was to his credit in bank should go to pay his debts and funeral expenses. The occurrence creates the profoundest regret among the professors, who regarded the young man as the most brilliant student the university has yet produced.

Capt. J. W. Strout, commanding ship "Independence" of Boston, has been presented by the British government with a large silver goblet, gold-lined, about thirteen inches high, and very handsomely engraved and suitably inscribed, in recognition of services rendered by him in rescuing the shipwrecked crew of the British ship Scotstown, on the 17th of August last.

and all people who appreciate the value of keeping a memorandum of business transactions, daily events, and items of interest or importance, for future reference, should call on their druggists and get Dr. Pierce's Memorandum book free. The Doctor's Grand Invalids' Hotel at Buffalo, which costs, when finished, two hundred thousand dollars, will be opened early in June next, for the reception of patients afflicted with chronic diseases and deformities. It will afford the most perfect facilities for the cure of such affections, and its Faculty of physicians and surgeons will embrace graduates from both American and European Medical Schools who have become distinguished for their skill. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, a work of over nine hundred large pages, illustrated by two hundred and eighty-two engravings, and elegantly bound in cloth and gilt, is sent to any address by the Author on receipt of one dollar and and fifty cents. Almost one hundred thousand copies have already been sold.

S. A. Craig, Esq., druggist, of West Alexander, Pa., says: "I sell more of Dr. Pierce's preparations than all others combined. They give satisfaction in every case and I can cheerfully recommend them to the public."

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

—o—

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

—o—

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it effects such a marvelous change as almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual y than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

Remember that it

CURES COLDS,
CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH
CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extended practice with marvelous success, and I know it to be all that he claims for it.

WM. M. LADD, M. D.

CLAREMONT, N. H., September, 1875.

DR. FLAGG My Dear Sir: Your Cough and Lung Syrup has proved a great benefit to me, giving relief from severe Coughs and Soreness of the Lungs, when all other remedies and physicians had failed. I have never taken a medicine more pleasant to the taste or more satisfactory in its results.

Restitution.

In 1865, Edgar C. Martin, of Baltimore, was employed as the agent of a number of Philadelphia capitalists to purchase oil land for them in Venango county, Pennsylvania. He being an expert in that line. He selected a location near Pithole, and negotiated for the purchase of twenty-five acres of land at $1,500 an acre. A cash payment of $20,000 was required, and that amount of money was placed in his hands to invest in the property. Instead of investing it, however, he went to Pithole City, then the metropolis of the oil regions, where he had formed an intimacy with a young woman named Estella Warren, a chambermaid in a hotel there, and the two decamped together. No trace of them could be found, although adroit detectives were engaged to find them. Martin was about forty years of age, and left a wife and six children in Baltimore.

The chambermaid with whom he eloped was about eighteen years of age, and went to Pithole with a variety show which disbanded there. She was a very handsome blonde, and was the wife of the bartender of the hotel. After about a year's search for the faithless agent his employers gave up the chase. The losers by Martin's robbery were William and James Harper and Joseph Brewer, forming the hardware firm of Harper & Co. The two latter are dead, and the former became bankrupt in 1873 and removed to Forest county, Penn., where he now lives.

About the first of February last Mr. Harper received a letter postmarked San Francisco, addressed to W. & I. Harper, to their old number in Philadelphia, from which place it had been forwarded to him. It was from E. C. Martin, the absconding agent of twelve years ago. The letter stated that if an agent of his victim would meet him in San Francisco, and he was guaranteed immunity from arrest and punishment, he would repay the $20,000 with interest and all costs connected with completing the arrangement. Mr. Harper, as the only survivor of the three, started for California at once and met Martin at the address he had given in the letter, which was an aristocratic boarding house.

Martin was living in the most luxurious of apartments, which were shared with him by the former chambermaid of Pithole City, richly dressed and blazing with diamonds. Martin met Mr. Harper as if nothing had ever happened to alter their friendship. He said he had gone direct to Peru after absconding, and had made $2,000,000 there in opening and developing silver mines and building railroads. He had come to San Francisco on a pleasure trip, and had made some business engagements that would keep him in the country for some time, and he desired to be exempt from any possibility of arrest. Mr. Harper gladly agreed to Martin's terms, and has returned with $36,000, principal and interest, of the stolen money. Martin's deserted family is in England, Mrs. Martin's native country.

Brutal Parents.

Ellen Belben was acquitted in Bridgeport, Conn., on the 7th, of the charge of attempting to murder her father. Her father and mother have never allowed her to attend school or church, and, although sixteen years old, she can neither read nor write, and is profoundly ignorant in general. She has frequently asked her parents for the privilege of going to the public school or to the Sunday-school, but they always refused on the ground that all her time was needed to work on the farm. She has been made to work in the field, planting, hoeing, etc., and to perform the usual avocations on the farm in which a boy would be engaged. Besides being a household drudge and a farm hand, she has been treated in the most cruel manner by her father. After a brutal punishment from her father she put Paris green in his coffee, not, as she stated to the Court, to kill him, but to make him sick so that she could have an opportunity to escape. Her counsel therefore asked for the acquittal of the accused, on the ground that there was no intent to commit murder, and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The girl's father was sent for by the Court, but he had run away from home. He should have Paris green administered to him by law—about a quart of it.

The Eucalyptus Globules.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company have arranged to have 40,000 eucalyptus trees set out along 500 miles of the right of way of the company. It should not be understood that that is the whole number of trees to be set out. It is but the first installment, and is for commencing the work. As there are 5280 feet in a mile, if the trees are planted 20 feet apart in longitudinal lines and three rows deep in the 50 feet right of way on each side of the track, it will take nearly 800,000 trees for the 500 miles of valley where they are to be cultivated.

The object of this plan is to note what effect the planting of these trees will have upon the climate. It is the theory that large numbers of them will increase the humidity of the atmosphere and lessen the liability to droughts. The denuding of hills of their timber, and the clearing away of forests, has a direct effect upon climate, as is well established, and the intention now is to see how far artificial means will be effective in restoring the balance believed to have been lost by the clearing out of our forests, as well as the scattered groups of valley trees. In districts which are liable to malarial influences, it is established that experiments with the tree as a sanitary agent have been highly successful, notably that of the English government at the Cape of Good Hope, and of the local government of a region in Belgium.

—"We're in a pickle now," said a man in a crowd. "A regular jam," said another. "Heaven preserve us," said an old lady.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick three years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh the summer, by the use of the Pills. I shal continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you testimonial. My friends have been troubled with rheumatism for twenty years or more, and have tried everything that could be bought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or so any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story, I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent nostrums with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered much intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that pills will cure no disease. I believe will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Lane, Sherrill Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

CONDITION PILLS!

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative and could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before it was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trving climate of New England;

—AND—

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with sparcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, B. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 120 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving—usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $8.

Postage free to all subscribers. Address,

II.—IT IS IMPARTIAL AND INDEPENDENT. Believing in intelligent suffrage, it aims to furnish voters the fullest and most trustworthy information, fitting them for the wisest discharge of their responsibility.

III.—IT IS, AS IT ALWAYS WAS, ESSENTIALLY REPUBLICAN. Its main object in the future, as it has done in the past, with errors of republican leaders or corruptions in the republican party; but it never ceases to be true to republican principles, and especially to those golden doctrines of civil service reform, hard money, the sanctity of the National faith, and equal justice to all classes at the South, which formed the corner-stones of Gov. Hayes' admirable letter of acceptance.

IV.—ITS MORAL TONE IS PURE AND ELEVATED. The family circle is never profaned by anything which appears in the columns of THE TRIBUNE.

V.—THE CHOICEST STANDARD AND CURRENT LITERATURE of the day is presented in its columns, including Correspondence, Reports, Stories, and reviews from the most talented and popular writers.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1877. The continued and increasing success of this periodical (now over thirty-three years old) is doubtless owing to the fact that it affords a comprehensive and cheap means of keeping well informed in the best literature of the day. With its weekly issue, and its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, it is enabled to present with freshness and satisfactory completeness able essays and reviews, choice serial and short stories, interesting sketches of travel and discovery, poetry, and valuable biographical, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature.

In its pages we represent such eminent authors as Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Tyndall, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Prof. Huxley, Richard A. Proctor, Francois Pavre Coube, The Duke of Argyll, Jas. A. Froude, Mrs. Muloch, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Thackeray, Jean Ingelow, Geo. McDonald, Wm. Story, Auerbach, Ruskin, Carlyle, Tennyson, Browning, and many other leaders in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, criticism and art.

The subscription price, ($8 a year,) is cheap for the amount of reading furnished; while for those desiring the cream of both home and foreign literature, the Editors have taken a still cheaper offer, viz: To new subs., postpaid, The Living Age and either one of the American $4 monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one or other of our leading American monthlies, a subscriber will at small cost, be able to command all the leading periodicals.

An extra offer, also, is made to all new subscribers for 1877, viz.: to send them gratis the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first installments of a new and unusually powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.

The volume begins Jan. 1st, and we recommend the periodical to the attention of our readers. Bangles.

A correspondent has written to ask the World to lift up its voice against the use of bangles in church. She says that bangles may be worn with propriety in the street or at theatres, but their tinkling during divine service startles the devout listener into the notion that the contribution-box is coming, draws the attention from the sermon and distracts the mind from prayer. Moreover, there is such a fascination about a set of bangles on a pretty arm that has once become conscious of their presence, to forget them; and there are instances mentioned in which one set of bangles has spoiled the devotion of several very devout pews. On consulting the dictionary we find that bangles are Oriental ornaments worn about the wrist and ankles. They are compound, complex or combination bracelets and ankles strung together, and jingling gayly with the motion of the wearer. The Hebrew women wore bangles on their ankles, constituting the "bravery of their tinkling ornaments about their feet" which Isaiah declared so fiercely should be taken away from them; and it may be that the phrase "the chains and the bracelets" which he uses in the same connection, refers to bangles for the wrist. There is little doubt, therefore, that the prophet looked with very great disfavor on bangles, but he cannot be quoted as an authority against them without drawing into jeopardy earrings, crisping-pins, wimples, changeable suits of apparel and several other articles which he denounced with the same severity that he showed toward the light fantastic bangle. The general prohibition of St. Paul against "broidered hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array," would include bangles, but there it would include so many other things that it is well to smooth the text over by interpreting it as applicable only to the women of Ephesus. Besides, St. Paul was an old bachelor, who couldn't probably distinguish one feminine garment from another, and should not therefore be quoted as an authority in matters of dress. We are, consequently, very much disinclined to make a crusade against bangles in church, and only venture to lay down the general principle that whatever tingrasses upon that modesty and sobriety of apparel befitting such a place should be laid aside. The women of New York—so few as we know—restrain their use of bangles to the ornamentation of their arms, and so long as they continue to be thus moderate, and take care not to make too great a jingling of silver adornments as they wave their fans or readjust rebellious curls, nothing shall induce the World to assail them. But if they should venture to extend the use of bangles to the ornamentation of their ankles, and move about like the dancing-girls of the East, who wear golden bells tinkling at their feet, or like the chief's wife described by Livingstone, who stepped about mincingly to display her metal anklets and their musical pendants of sheetiron—then it will be time for the newspapers to interfere. The subject is so intricate that we trust some new Izaak Walton may arise and furnish the public with "The Complete Bangler."—N. Y. World.

Americans and the North Pole.

The London Daily Telegraph in a recent issue says.

Americans seem determined to continue their friendly rivalry with us in the neutral field of Arctic exploration. Roused by the strictures passed on their Arctic explorers by Sir George Nares, Hon. Justice Daly, president of the Great Transatlantic Geographical Society, while paying the members of our recent Arctic expedition many handsome compliments in his inaugural address, gives their commander a dignified rebuke on account of his ungenerous references to the researches of his predecessors, Kane and Hayes. By way of testing the work done by the crews of the Alert and the Dispatch, it appears that the organization of an American expedition is now being proposed to carry on the grand story of Polar adventure through Smith's sound. Already a bill has been brought into Congress for that purpose, and men like Captain Howgate, Dr. Hayes, and Professor Loomis, the eminent meteorologist, and others, are advocating in the States renewed activity in the cause of Arctic discovery. It is gratifying to note that, in the discussion now going on in the American papers with reference to this subject, it is admitted that Sir George Nares has at least demonstrated the superiority of the Smith's sound route over every other. It appears to be thought that, as he succeeded by following this channel in sailing a ship nearer the apex of the earth than any previous navigator—nearer by far than the most successful explorers were able to get by other passages—the superiority of the Smith's sound route, long vindicated by Mr. C. R. Markham, has been strikingly verified. The Americans evidently consider that the chief success of the English expedition lies in showing that by attacking the Arctic mystery via Smith's sound, the closest base of operations yet discovered is made available. By following this up, by taking a firmer grasp of the clue where it fell from the hands of the British expedition, it is thought that the coveted glory of planting the Stars and Stripes at the pole will be achieved. Of course, all such anticipations are, we now know, over-sanguine. The Americans, however, reason shrewdly and well in arguing that the chess nel by which Sir George Nares succeeded in sailing nearer to the pole than any of his predecessors must necessarily be the one that will be most certain to lead them with the greatest ease to the most valuable discoveries. Whether it will lead them to the pole is, of course, another question. It ought, however, to enable them to achieve what is nearly as grand a feat, that is, to determine how the mysterious continent of Greenland ends—a discovery which our explorers were on the verge of making when they gave up the glorious quest. We have little doubt that the officers of the British expedition will be among the first to bid the American expedition "God speed," when it sails away into the icy North for skepticism with which Sir George Nares' theory of a permanently unnavigable Paleocrystic nas been opposed.

News and Notes.

The Senate on Saturday confirmed all the Cabinet nominations.

It is not a little surprising, although it is known that the beef trade of this country with England has been rapidly increasing, to find that during the week ending Feb. 17th the quantity of American beef and matter received in Liverpool from New York was 1,200,000 pounds. Figured loosely, this would be a thousand head of cattle at an average of a thousand pounds each, when dressed, with 200,000 pounds of mutton besides. Here is a trade which opens immense possibilities to American commerce, and the supremacy of England's old Sir Lois will be disputed in the future.

Advices just received here from the Sandwich Islands give an account of a submarine volcano that occurred there in Kealakekua Bay. No damage was done. The natives feel quite comfortable and steamboats make excursions to the locality.

A "mission" is being held in St. Patrick's Church, Montreal, and the preacher speaks plainly to his congregation. Addressing the unmarried men, recently, he said "if there was an anomaly in the world it was a bachelor; there was an excuse for a poor old maid; she could not get a husband, but a man can always get a wife and he should do so. Old bachelors did not, he said, remain single from any desire of purity, but, on the contrary, that they might not be troubled with a wife and children to watch and keep them from being independent. This was not a life for a man to lead, and he counselled his hearers to make a good choice of a Catholic girl, not a Protestant, as he held mixed marriages were a source of great trouble."

Henry Cobenno & Co., of Boston, have established a diamond-cutting factory, and sales room for diamonds both rough and polished, at No. 22 Beach street, Boston. They have procured seven first-class workmen from Europe, and propose to do the diamond cutting which has hitherto been sent from this country to Europe to be done, at home, in as good style as can be done in Europe, and much cheaper.

The authorities of New York city by evincing firmness have won a victory over the gas monopoly. The combination last December put in bids demanding $36 per year for lighting each street lamp. All of the companies put in bids almost exactly alike, and this aroused the suspicions of the authorities. The bids were promptly rejected and a notification given that no such extortion would be submitted to. The result is the lamps will now be kept lighted for $19.90 each, and the companies will keep the posts painted and tend the lamps. This great saving was brought about through the leverage of competition. A company of capitalists stood ready to light the city for $20 per lamp, on a contract for five years, and to furnish gas to citizens for $2 per 1,000 cubic feet.

By the great fire in St. Johns, N. B., Friday, property was destroyed to the value of $500,000. A building fell in upon a number of persons; eight dead bodies were recovered up to Saturday night.

An English mechanic has contrived to make a steam engine do its own stoking. A large sheet-iron hopper is set above the mouth of the furnace and in front of the boiler. This is the receptacle for coals. Below the hopper a steel crusher is made to run somewhat rapidly, and, as the coals fall by reason of their own gravity upon this grinding apparatus, they are reduced to the uniform size of cob-nuts by the action of the crusher. Thence the equalized fuel drops upon a pair of iron disks, or fans inclosed in a box, and running in opposite directions at a high velocity. The fans are in fact the furnace-feeders, for as the box has but one opening, and that leads to the fire, they literally blow the coals into the latter and distribute them equally over the whole surface of the fire-bars. The feed is regulated in quantity, according to the heavy or light work the engine may be doing, by means of a single adjusting set-screw. This is the automaton stoker. The furnace fires are fed and steam is kept up in the boiler without the turning of a shovel, and all that the fireman has to do is to smoke his pipe and whistle, "Down in a coal mine."

The man who cut a big hole and a little hole in the door so that the big cat and the little cat could both go in and out, is matched by a Lowell man who put up a single bell in his front entry and attached a wire from it to both his front and back doors. It now takes two journeys to discover at what door his visitor is.

Miss Emma C. Thursby, the American soprano, has signed a contract with Maurice Strakosch to sing in concerts under his direction in America and Europe for three years for $100,000 and hotel, travelling and incidental expenses of herself and her sister. She is allowed to retain all present engagements to the 20th of May, including one to sing at the forthcoming Handel and Haydn festival in Boston.

The Winnesqoam House at Mosquito Bridge, owned by the Laconia Savings Bank, was burned Saturday. Loss $10,000; insured $4,500.

Political.

The Democratic National Committee in selecting Senator Barnum for its Chairman did a characteristic act. His wealth is his only qualification for Congress. He has always considered money as a proper agent to secure an election. As Representative to Congress he bought his nomination and his elections. When he took a fancy to go into the United States Senate, he simply estimated what it would cost to purchase a majority of the democratic Legislature of Connecticut, and then set his agents about the work. The transaction was so open and shameless that the country rang with the scandal.

A republication of a few of those democratic editorials printed before election, wherein it was conclusively proved that Hayes would be a supple tool in the hands of Senators Conkling, Cameron and Morton, would be juicy reading just now.

The democrats are gleeful over the signs of trouble in the republican ranks, and after their recent affliction, nobody will begrudge them a little innocent enjoyment. Let them make the most of it however, for the same causes which breed dissension in republican ranks will break up and scatter their own.—Worcester Gazette.

Senator David Davis, who was not chosen as the "fifth judge" on the Electoral Commission but was chosen to the Senate from Illinois, has been classed as a republican by the republican Senatorial caucus, and placed upon committees as such—whereat the democratic Senators are displeased. He goes upon the judiciary committee as a republican.

The Philadelphia Times, an ardent supporter of Mr. Tilden under the guise of a very thin coating of "independence," and a paper which was largely quoted by the democratic press during the campaign as a "republican" journal, after looking over its democratic exchanges is led to remark: "To read the current issues of many of the democratic organs one would hardly believe that the Tilden whom they denounce is the Tilden under whose banner they marched to victory a few months ago, and whom they lauded to the skies as the great reformer and ideal statesman of the age. Yet he is the same. Had Mr. Tilden been inaugurated as well as elected, Cox and Knott and Blackburn and Springer and all the other curs with democratic collars on their necks, who now bark at his heels, would have been found supplicant and whining at his feet, thankful for any bone of patronage that might be bestowed upon them."

The democratic Cincinnati Enquirer brings to light the following incident of the Presidential contest; "The committee which investigated the management of Hayes' campaign narrowly escaped falling into a trap. It seems that Chandler started to assess the clerks for election purposes, and a paragraph to this effect was sent around the papers. Hayes instantly wrote to Chandler demanding that this policy be abandoned. Dick McCormick had the letter, and was ready to go on the stand, but the committee for some reason discharged him."

The Storm.

British barque W. F. Marshall was wrecked on Nantucket, Friday morning; crew saved.

British barque Bethany, from Hong Kong for New York with a valuable cargo of silk and tea, was totally wrecked on Turtle Gut Bar, Friday afternoon.

Schooner Hiram Wells sunk off Bull's ferry, N. J., and the cook was drowned.

—There's nothing new under the sun. Herodotus mentions the blue glass theory.

—When a king goes skating and falls down, it is always announced that "his skate struck in a crack." Truth courtesies to kings.

—Servant (answering door-bell ring by little ragged boy)—"Come, go right away; we have got nothing for you." "Hain't asked you for nothing yet, have I?" "Well, what would you have asked for?" "Didn't know but this house was for sale, and if it was, I wanted to buy it."

—Rachel Arnold, better known as "Old Annie," starved herself to death at No. 90 Ridge street. She was found by officer O'Connell, of the Eleventh precinct, and sent to Bellevue Hospital. She was worth $1600 which was deposited in the German Savings Bank, but being a miser preferred to die than draw a cent of it. Her plea before death was that she was saving it for her brother.—N. Y. Herald.

—The sales of bibles in Chicago is said to be three times as great as it was a year ago. Mr. Moody drew attention to the work, and they think it is a new book. Rochester Dem.

—To ruin oil-cloths, clean with hot water or soap-suds and leave them half wiped, and they will look very bright when wet and very dingy and dirty when dry and soon check and peel off. But if you wish to preserve them and have them look new and nice, wash with soft flannel and lukewarm water and wipe thoroughly dry. If you want them to look extra nice after they are dry, drop a few tablespoonfuls of milk over them and rub them with a small cloth.

—Buffalo, N. Y., has a "law and order society" of one hundred members, which is doing brilliant work. They subscribed $100 each, payable as needed, and hired a smart lawyer, who brought the whole police force to the Supreme Court to answer for neglect of duty in not enforcing the Sunday law. The result was that 1,600 saloons usually open on that day, were closed. The next week some unlocked their back-doors, but spent the night in the lock up, and stopped. Buffalo has a vigilant police force, now, for they are in mortal fear of that faithful one hundred.

Renovation, not Prostration.

Did any enfeebled human being ever become strong under the operation of powerful cathartics or salivants? It is sometimes necessary to regulate the bowels, but that cannot be done by active purgation, which exhausts the vital forces and serves no good purpose whatever. The only true way to promote health and vigor, which are essential to regularity of the organic functions is to invigorate discipline and purify the system at the same time. The extraordinary efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in cases of debility or irregularity of the organs of digestion, assimilation, secretion and discharge, is universally admitted. Appetite, good digestion, a regular habit of body, active circulation of the blood, and purity of all the animal fluids are induced by this superb tonic and corrective. It has no equals, moreover, as a preventive of chills and fever, and other types of miasmatic disease. To emigrants and travelers it is particularly serviceable as a medicinal safeguard.

Nothing in the Quaker City has received more unlimited or well-merited praise from its guests than the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, for liberal management and excellent courtesy.

More cases of remarkable cures of coughs, colds, asthma and consumption have been effected in the past four years by Adamson's Botanic Balsam than all other medicines that have been advertised for twenty years past. Price 35 cents. Try it.

After much study and a long series of experiments, Dr. A. J. Flagg, of Claremont, N. H. has succeeded in producing a remedy which will cure almost every form of disease of the Throat and Lungs. Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption yield to it more readily and naturally than to any other known remedy. This medicine goes directly to the immediate seat of the disease, and its beneficial effects are at once manifested. The ingredients of the Cough and Lung Syrup are of the very best kind, having been prepared regardless of expense, and the patient can rest assured that the medicine is perfectly pure. It can be procured of any respectable druggist.

BELMONT, MASS., Feb. 17, 1877.

I have used the Little Giant Pills for bilious headache with the most satisfactory results. They are particularly beneficial for sickness peculiar to females. I am acquainted in a great many families in Cambridge and Belmont where this medicine is used and it is known to be a never failing relief.

NOT A CHURCH BELL.

On Sunday evening, at Franklin Hall, a temperance lecture was delivered by Rev. J. E. Bell of Providence, R. I., under the auspices of the Reform Club, on "Rumocracy, Rumology and Rumatism." A praise meeting was held for a half-hour before the lecture, and five cents admission was charged. But it is not of this Sunday evening lecture we sat down to write, but of another one, delivered by Mr. Bell at Seabrook on Friday evening, in which he declared that on the evening of the republican procession here last week Gen. Gilman Marston was so disgracefully drunk that he could not stand, and Mayor Broughton had to hold him up. The promulgation of this flat-footed, gratuitous lie occasioned a marked sensation in the meeting, and a good deal of talk afterward; and a gentleman of this city, who is not only a prominent republican but one of the earliest, most earnest and most persistent advocates of the Reform Club movement, heard the matter discussed on the cars next morning, and knowing from his own personal knowledge that the story was a malicious and absolutely baseless falsehood he sought out the reverend gentleman and demanded to know if he spoke on his own authority or on the information of others. Mr. Bell at once gave as his authority Mr. John S. Treat of this city! The gentleman then told Mr. Bell that he did not believe Mr. Treat had willfully given currency to a falsehood, but must have been misled, and advised him to see Mr. Treat and exhibit as much alacrity in refuting the outrageous lie as he had in spreading it abroad. On reaching this city the republican at once telegraphed to Providence, R. I., for information as to what kind of a man the reverend lecturer is, and the answer indicates that he is not "the churchgoing bell" spoken of by Cowper, by any means. We give the substance of a letter from a Providence clergyman to one in this city, which indicates that this reverend swift witness against others is not so very much better than he should be himself:

"I regret to hear that J. E. Bell is in your neighborhood preaching and lecturing on temperance. He has attempted to do this here, as President of the Reform Club of Rhode Island, but is repudiated by the temperance societies. He has no ecclesiastical connection with the Baptist denomination, and not a Baptist minister in the State would recognize him at all."

The Reform Club has done a noble work in this city, and we hope this onshaught of Father Bell upon Gen. Marston will not prove to be an attempt to ring in the Club as a political agent in Frank Jones' interest, for the moment it becomes the tool of either party it is bound to die.

READING MATTER WANTED.

It may interest friends of missionary work in this city to know that something is being done toward furnishing poor families not otherwise provided for in that line, with interesting and instructive reading matter. This work was commenced about a year ago, and has become very interesting to those engaged in it, the city being divided into six districts, each of which is regularly visited by a Sunday-school class of young ladies. A monthly meeting has been established, for the reception and consideration of reports, and for conference. We find a great need of more books, such as many of our friends no doubt have laying unused on their library shelves; and we earnestly ask all who can to aid us in this direction, by contributing such books as can be spared. The invitation, like the work, is for all. Magazines and papers, also, are needed for the seamen, the City Farm, the County House, etc. Contributions may be sent to No. 16 Deer street, or left with Mr. Ames Foster at the post-office.

W. A. LOYNE, Volunteer Missionary.

JOTTINGS.

The Boston Post has encouraging words for the prohibitionists of the First Congressional District of New Hampshire. Of course; every one (except the honest enthusiasts of that party, who are led by the wire-pullers,) is aware that the prohibition party in this district is but a democratic side-show, and that its Congressional nomination was made with especial reference to assisting a great brewer to a seat in Congress. Mr. Caleb Moulton did not accept the prohibition nomination until after he was registered for a night at the Rockingham, Frank Jones' big hotel.

British schooner Emma E. Potter, Capt. Mann, before reported as having arrived at this port from Turks Island with salt, experienced very rough weather on the passage and was badly damaged in sails and rigging; also lost her gulley and had her boat stove. All hands suffered much from the incessant gales she encountered, and two of them were seriously injured.

Number one of the first volume of the Philadelphia Weekly Times was issued on Saturday, March 3d. It is a large eight-page paper, contains an immense amount of reading matter, and will be furnished subscribers at $2 per year, single copy. The contents are varied and interesting; the initial number contains an article from the pen of Hon. Gideon Welles, giving an inside view of matters connected with the construction of the Monitor and the panic occasioned by the Merrimac. A long list is given of noted men who fought or schemed on either side during the rebellion, each of whom is to contribute chapters of the unwritten history of the war that must be of permanent value.

The Providence Journal of Saturday says: "Three counterfeiters, two Italians and John Sinclair, of Saybrook, Conn., were sentenced to prison at New Haven, yesterday, for counterfeiting. Special Agent J. Horace Kent was largely instrumental in bringing the gang to justice."

Two years ago Frank Jones' majority in this city was 267,—that is, the returns gave him that majority; but this year only the votes actually cast will be counted and only legal voters will be allowed to cast them, which will make an immense difference. We suppose money will be as openly and freely used as ever in the interest of the democratic candidates for Governor and Congressman, for they were nominated for their money and their willingness to "put it out," and for nothing else, but they won't be able to carry through the outrageous wholesale frauds perpetrated in Wards Six and Three two years ago. Frank Jones won't have any 267 majority in Portsmouth this year; nor will Daniel Marcy have 73 majority, either, as he had a year ago.

The Board of Inspectors of Checklists will be in session to-day from nine o'clock A. M. to noon, and from two to five o'clock P. M., for the purpose of putting on checklists the names of any qualified voters whose names are not there now, and of striking off any names that shall be shown to have no right there. Let every republican personally make sure that his own name and the names of all his republican friends are on the lists.

Let every house with its windows all whole and its front yard clean send all its voters to the polls to-morrow, and early in the day; the slums always poll their full strength, and the more reputable districts should not neglect their political duties.

The Rice Free Public Library of Kittery now contains some 1050 volumes, about one-half of which are generally out at a time. There have been added during the past year over four hundred and fifty volumes. The reading room is supplied with magazines and newspapers, and is the resort of very many residents of Kittery at all hours. There being a regular income, the increase of the number of volumes in the library will continue until it will be one of the best collections of books in York county.

On the occasion of the parade of democratic uniformed companies, Friday evening, some of the men in the ranks made use of such profane and grossly insulting language to persons on the sidewalk as had rarely or never been heard in this city under similar circumstances. One man, who was carrying a transparency, turned it around and called the attention of a republican to it by yelling out "Look at that, you son of a —!" whereat the rank men in his immediate vicinity applauded,—and no notice was taken of the ruffianly conduct of the men by their officers, they thus giving it at least their tacit approval.

"The life of Capt. Francis Champernoune," by Charles W. Tuttle, Esq., of the Suffolk Bar, and a well-known historical writer, which has been in preparation for some time past, will be issued during the present year. It promises to be a paper of unusual interest and will contain a large amount of valuable and interesting historical matter relating to the early settlement of Maine, never before published. Champernoune, who was a nephew of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, was a resident of Kittery and was of much distinction during the early Provincial period.

Two years ago the democracy boasted that a number of prominent republicans voted for Frank Jones for Congressman, having been deceived by split tickets closely resembling the straight republican ones, but with Jones' name substituted for that of the republican candidate. The same game will be tried to-morrow, and every republican should closely inspect the ballot he deposits.

THE AWFUL NAVY YARD.

Said a democrat to us the other day, "I voted for Mr. Jones in the hope that he would have done something for Portsmouth, but I have seen enough of democratic policy in what they call reform, which means, that no money shall be expended unless their people disburse it. I care not who gets employed on the Navy Yard, we all get the benefit of the money that is circulated, and Jones ought to have seen that, and urged the democrats in Congress, if he had any influence there, to allow some money to be expended here the past winter." Journal.

That the total stoppage of work on the navy yard is now acknowledged to be a misfortune by democrats as well as republicans, is no secret; a democratic storekeeper remarked to us, months ago, that he would be glad to see two or three thousand men put to work there at once, even if every man of them voted the republican ticket, as the stopping of work there had borne as hardly on the merchants and workingmen of this city as the shutting down of the mills in a manufacturing town would bear upon the mill employees and the traders with whom they dealt. Mr. Marcy, however, approves the shutting down on the navy yard, and foreshadowed what would take place when he told a republican (at the time Marcy, Hatch and Hodgdon were engineering the Portsmouth gerrymander through the legislature, and just after Hatch had made his standing speech against the navy yard,) that "When we get a democratic Congress there won't be much money laid out on the navy yard." He told the truth; there hasn't been; but a good many democrats would like it full as well if there had been.

Whether Mr. Jones, if re-elected, would do any more toward getting work sent to this navy yard during the next two years than he did during the last two, we cannot say; but as he would not have the "distribution of the patronage" we do not think he would exert himself greatly in behalf of this district. The House is so evenly divided between the two parties that the election in this State may turn the scale one way or the other; should the democrats secure the advantage, we may reasonably anticipate a continuance of the statu quo on the navy yard, which,—while it may not trouble Mr. Jones, who does not depend on a day's work for the next day's bread, nor annoy Mr. Marcy, who has no objection to employing skilled workmen at the lowest possible rate of wages,—is certainly not conducive to the general prosperity of the city nor of the working and business classes.

—Celery is good for the nerves, but a good salary is better.

—Bartholdi, the Paris sculptor, has completed all the plaster casts for his statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World," which is to be placed in New York harbor, and will immediately begin to mould the various parts. The statue will be completed and ready for shipment within a year.

—An Irish girl was ordered to hang the wash clothes on the horse in the kitchen to dry. Her mistress, shortly after, found a very gentle family horse standing in the kitchen, completely covered with the articles that had been washed that day. Upon interrogating the girl, the reply was: "Och, to be sure, ye told me to hang the clothes upon the horse in the kitchen, and the baste is the kindest I ever saw, shure."

Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of valuable, price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichol's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting he Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

—o—

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

—o—

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extensive reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it effects such a almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectually than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

Remember that it

CURES COLDS,
CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH
CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extended practice with marvellous success, and I know it to be all that he claims for it.

The Bible.

On Monday evening Dr. Gingsburg, one of the members of the committee engaged in the revision of the scriptures, delivered a lecture at the Town Hall, Wokingham, on "The Bible—The Manner in which it has been Preserved, Transmitted, and Copies Multiplied." The lecture was illustrated by ancient manuscripts and old editions of the Bible. There was a large attendance. Mr. Walter, M. P., presided, and in introducing the lecturer said no subject could be of greater interest to an assemblage of Christian people than the history of the ways and means by which the contents of that sacred volume which was so precious in their eyes had been handed down to them from ancient times, and had been transmitted in their present form for their use and comfort

Dr. Ginsburg in the course of his lecture explained that the earliest records of Scripture were written on stone, and that previous to the existence of parchment manuscripts they were inscribed upon the barks of trees or upon rolls made from the peel of the papyrus. In many cases the records consisted of pictures; for instance, in the Book of Esther the ten sons of Haman were represented as being hung up with their father in the manner described in the Old Testament, or as in the Book of Kings, where all the battles recorded there were exhibited in pictorial form. A tabulated statement was placed against every line of the text in the old records, showing how many times a certain letter, word, or phrase occurred; this was summarized at the end of every page, again at the end of every 32 pages, and afterward at the end of every book, and at the end of the whole Bible the sum total was given.

This would give some idea of the care with which the Bible had been guarded and preserved, and such a gigantic work as he had described could not, he undertook to say, be accomplished by a dozen men if they lived for five hundred years. The new Testament had not been treated in this way at all. They would not find anything of the kind in the codex Alexandrinus, which was presented to King Charles, and was now in the British museum, or in the codex of Sinaiticus, of similar antiquity, which Tichendorff found at the convent of Sinai. The latter was now at St. Petersburg, and was the one which the Emperor of Russia had had published and circulated to public libraries and scholars. He thought, when they heard so much about the Emperor of Russia, it was only due to render to him the greatest honor for the reproduction of this codex and its distribution; and although they could not compare the English with the Russian government, because the former had the reputation of being one of the most, if not the most, liberal government in the world; yet they never found it doing anything of this sort.

Having referred to the rapid advances made in the circulation of the Bible after printing was introduced, the lecturer stated that at the time the first Bible was printed by Gutenburg, a copy of which he produced, Roman Catholicism prevailed all over Europe, and it was only fair to say of the Roman Catholic Church that it printed and circulated the Scriptures to a large extent, and did not, as was mistated, endeavor to keep the Bible from the people. Dr. Ginsburg told some amusing facts connected with the preparation of the Authorized Version. One of the editions which King James I. declined to allow the revisers to use as a help contained marginal notes which he considered heretical and republican. The marginal note to the passage in the Epistle of St. Peter, "Fear God and honor the King," was as follows: "That depends upon circumstances; if the word of the King is in harmony with the word of God, obey the King; but if it is contrary to the word of God, obey God rather than the King."—London Times, Feb. 7.

Hunting Bears.

Texas Jack has returned from a hunt in the Sweetwater country with a party of Englishmen, and has had a talk about it with a writer for the Spirit of the Times. There were seven men in the company. The game consisted chiefly of elk, black tailed deer, antelope, and mountain sheep. No hostile Indians were encountered. The only dangerous brute in the West, to hunt, Jack says, is the bear. He is cunning, swift, and always ready for a fight. He thinks that the best place to hunt bears is where they are not to be found, and of the grizzly he says:

He will stand in the middle of the road, growling and getting his mad up, when there isn't a live creature within forty miles of him. If you meet one and turn out for him he will probably leave you alone, but if you say a word look out for him. Many a time I have made such remark to a bear, as "Where are you going, Tommy?" when in an instant his arms would be ready to tear me to pieces. No, sir, we don't go bear-hunting very much. You see they can run as fast as a horse, and you have to put a bullet into just such a place to kill them, and until they are dead, they are dangerous. Jack, in conclusion, tells this story:

I was once out with a party in Texas, and we came across a big cinnamon bear. A fellow proposed to capture him with his lasso. He made a good throw, and got the loop around the bear's neck. When old cinnamon felt it get tight, what do you think he did? He just sat up on his haunches, felt of the rope with one paw, and then began pulling it in hand over hand. There was a horse and man fast to the other end of the rope, but they had to come, both of them. As for the hunter, he jumped off and escaped, but the bear drew the pony right up to him and killed him.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.
Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1876.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and write you February 22d to tell a wonderful cheer. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and sixty pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of their aches and pains from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.
JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and how glad you have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no avail. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been an hour from the Rheumatism for twenty years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yea, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent nostrums with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have tried traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and this was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Riddle, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as these pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me twelve packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.
MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Spoil Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxurying climate of New England

AND

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate each. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. His offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF
THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Profs. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Green, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains articles adapting to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10th.

The inauguration of President Hayes passed off much as other events of the same kind have for the past sixteen years. There were great crowds of people present, and extensive displays of bunting. Ex-President Grant and President Hayes appeared to be equally popular with the masses, who cheered them as they rode from the Executive Mansion to the Capitol together; and the ceremonies in the Senate Chamber and at the East front of the Capitol were witnessed by enthusiastic thousands, who often interrupted the reading of the inaugural address with rounds of applause. The torch-light procession of the evening closed the formal observances, the torch-bearers parading the principal streets and avenues, which were brilliantly lighted, and many of the buildings beautifully illuminated and decorated. The utmost good feeling animated almost every one encountered, in striking contrast with the partisan strife which for many months had divided temporary and permanent residents into two factions, often wrought up to the highest pitch of political excitement, in many instances amounting to absolute frenzy. All that is past, and we are left in a condition of relaxlation which is the penalty always exacted for an undue indulgence in stimulants.

A little flutter of excitement rather startled us from our reclining positions in which we hoped not to be disturbed for four years, when it was noised abroad that the nominations for Cabinet officers had been received by the Senate and some of them had proved very obnoxious. Some of the more excitable hastily got inside their suits of armor, preparing promptly to take up the quarrel, but the majority very reluctantly took their places in the ranks. The emblems of democratic mourning were rather prematurely cast aside, as the intelligence from both ends of the arena this morning was of a more pacific character than we had expected or the democrats hoped for. The name of Mr. Schurz seems most distasteful to republican Senators, and his confirmation will probably meet the most sturdy opposition. He is not a popular man, his alleged egotism and dictatorial manners having operated to bias many officially or socially brought in contact with him; he is also regarded as holding very transcendental and impractical views relative to almost everything with which he would have to deal as Secretary of the Interior. He also has the reputation of being very irascible. Hence he is held to be not only personally objectionable, but incompetent. The career of Mr. Key in Congress made him quite a favorite with republican Senators. His ability is unquestioned, and the opposition to him is of a much milder type than that against Schurz; nor is it at all personal, but springs entirely from the indisposition of republicans to vesting in his hands as a democrat the immense patronage of the Post Office Department, and it cannot but be confessed that it is a startling innovation and an exhibition of party magnanimity which democracy, as at present led, would not probably be slow to take advantage of, if the opportunity offered. At least that is the feeling. Mr. Evarts' selection for a Cabinet position seems to be objectionable to but very few, and with them chiefly because such an appointment materially curtails the power of dictation as to appointments which have come to be too much regarded as Senatorial appendages in the past.

The feeling which pretty generally obtained in republican Senatorial circles at one time, that President Hayes was in danger of being led by sentimental views to turn over the white and black Unionists of the South to the tender mercies of the envenomed White Leagues, may have been founded upon a misapprehension of his purpose relative to the dual governments existing in Louisiana and South Carolina. However that may, it is conceded that those seeking to controvert Mr. Blaine's position are reduced to the most painful expedients of hair-splitting, and even then, have to beg some points in order to establish the validity of any other line of procedure than that indicated by him as the proper one to be taken. But a mutually yielding disposition looking to a reconciliation of seemingly antagonistic views and an avoidance of any misunderstanding that must necessarily prove embarassing is more apparent than forty-eight hours ago. And it may after all turn out that there is not any material difference of opinion as to what ought to be done, an exact coincidence of views as to the methods to accomplish it, and that, regardless of political consequences, a needless strife between President Johnson and Congress, prays that we may be spared another such experience. The White House is overrun with those desirous of seeing our new Executive and with those having favors to prefer; and Mrs. Hayes cannot complain of the inattention of her country-women.

The intelligence of another whisky murder upon the very steps of the Capitol shocked our citizens Thursday morning. It appears that two intoxicated men got into an altercation with one or more colored men, one of them receiving a blow that dislocated his neck, producing instant death. Of the half score of murders that have disgraced the National Capital within the past six or eight years, nearly all are traceable directly or indirectly to the vile traffic in intoxicating liquors which is carried on here, virtually unrestricted.

Inauguration Day opened cold and gloomy, with promise of snow; but the sun appeared about noon, giving us cloudless weather for the balance of the day,—since which it has been a medley of sunshine, clouds, cold and violent rain storms.

LOGAN.

Washington Matters.

Washington advices say that confirmation of all the Cabinet nominations by the Senate on Saturday was unexpected, as it was generally believed that the Senate would postpone action until Monday. As soon as the Senate went into executive session the nominations were reported from the several committees to whom they had been referred, each with the unanimous recommendation for confirmation. A motion was made to take up first the nomination of David M. Key of Tennessee for Postmaster-General. No objection having been made the vote on confirmation was taken by yeas and nays, resulting fifty-four yeas, two nays. The two voting in the negative were Thurman of Ohio and Eaton of Connecticut. The votes on the confirmation of Schurz for Secretary of the Interior and Evarts for Secretary of State, were also taken by yeas and nays. The vote on Mr. Schurz's nomination was forty-four for confirmation and two against. The vote on Mr. Evarts' nomination was about the same. Quite a number of Senators on both sides abstained from voting. The few negative votes in each instance were cast by democrats. Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania voted for Messrs. Evarts, Schurz and Key. He remarked that his vote for Mr. Evarts was under what he regarded as the instructions of his committee, which had instructed him to report favorably upon the nomination. Mr. Conkling refrained from voting on this nomination. Mr. Blaine voted for Evarts, but did not vote for or against Schurz. He stated, however, after the adjournment, that before the doors were closed he was warmly in favor of confirming Mr. Schurz. The nominations of Mr. McCrary for Secretary of War, Mr. Thompson for Secretary of the Navy, and Mr. Devens for Attorney-General, were confirmed without a roll-call, or even a division of the Senate in either case. There was no discussion on the republican side, and very little on the democratic. Messrs. Thurman and Eaton, who voted on all nominations in the negative, took the ground that the democrats ought to avoid every act which can be construed as a recognition of Hayes as President, and that they ought not in any way to take any responsibility for his Administration. In the committees the discussions were animated. On the question of recommending Mr. Schurz's nomination, the vote in the Finance Committee was very nearly unanimous. All three democratic members of Committee, Messrs. Bayard, Kernan and Wallace, voted in the affirmative, and the only vote in the negative was, it is reported, cast by Senator Howe. The news of the confirmation of the Cabinet was received at the White House and executive departments almost as soon as the votes were taken. The President simply said he was very glad of the Senate's prompt action.

It is considered probable that Ex-Senator Frelinhuysen will be sent to England as Minister, General Banks or Gov. Jewell to France, Gen. Logan to Russia and Ex-Secretary Bristow to Spain. Ex-Gov. Noyes and Gen. Hawley are also set down for important missions. At any rate, there is to be an entire overhauling of the diplomatic service, and the country is to be represented abroad by some of its ablest and most eminent citizens.

The Assistant Secretary of the Treasury on Saturday issued the forty-second call for the redemption of 5-20 bonds of 1865, May and November. The call is for $10,000,000, of which $7,000,000 are coupon and $3,000,000 registered. The principal and interest will be paid at the Treasury on and after the 10th of June next, and interest will cease on that day.

It was reported on Monday that Simon Cameron had resigned his position as U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania. His son, "Don" Cameron, is expected to succeed him.

News and Notes.

The famous order No. 216, issued last summer from the Navy Department by Secretary Robeson, by which a large number of naval officers were placed upon furlough pay, which is about half that they are entitled to receive while on waiting orders, was on Saturday rescinded by order of Secretary Robeson, and as Congress passed a deficiency bill by which an appropriation was made to pay the amount due between waiting orders and furlough pay, officers who were affected by this order will receive back pay due them, and will hereafter receive their waiting orders pay as long as they are upon that list.

At a special term of the Supreme Court at Schenectady, New York, on Thursday, the Attorney General made application for appointment of receivers and the closing out of the business of the following companies: Guardian Mutual Life Insurance Company, Widows' and Orphans' Life Insurance Company, Reserve Mutual Life Insurance Company, New York State Life Insurance Company, North America Life Insurance Company.

Schooner Julia E. Gamage, from Perth Amboy for Boston, went ashore at Lyme, Conn., night of 8th inst. She is supposed to be a total loss. Schooner S. A. Howes sailed from Lawsville, Mass., Dec. 5th, for Baltimore, with a cargo of paving stones, and has not since been heard from.

Two children were suffocated to death and two others nearly so, by a tenement-house fire in New York, Saturday night.

Four years ago one Tannebaun left New York with $200,000 worth of diamonds, which he obtained under false pretenses from jewelry firms in Maiden lane. His brother, the past week, obtained about $40,000 worth of jewelry from firms in John street, and now they cannot find him, his securities, nor the jewelry.

The second trial of Alexander Sullivan in Chicago for the murder of Francis Hanford some months ago terminated on Friday, and the jury, after brief deliberation, brought in a verdict of acquittal, and Sullivan was discharged from custody.

Elisha Weed of Pond Ridge, New Canaan, Conn., met with a horrible death a few days ago. On his way home from Norwalk with a load of clams he got drunk at a hotel, and started for home lying in the bottom of his wagon. In the morning his family found the horse and wagon at the door with the wheel spokes besmeared with blood and hair, and a search discovered Weed's body in the road with the head shockingly mutilated. It is thought the jolting of the wagon as he lay in the bottom brought his head in contact with the wheel, where it was battered by the spokes until the body fell to the ground. The temperance people of Canaan are going to prosecute the man who sold him the liquor.

An old man named Horatio M. Messenger was robbed and murdered in his house at Norfolk, Mass., some time Thursday night. The murder was not discovered until Friday afternoon, when the neighbors broke into the house and found the old man dead in bed, his hands and feet tied, and smothered to death. Robbery was the object; and no clue to the murderers has yet been discovered.

It is not always the old vessels that are the first to yield to the fury of the elements. Of the vessels lost during the year ending June 1, 1876, 921 were from 7 to 14 years old; 1262 of from 15 to 20 years; 597 of from 30 to 50 years; 74 of 50 to 60 years; 31 of 60 to 70 years; 18 of from 70 to 80 years; 3 of 90 to 100 years; and 3 above 100 years old. It might with plausibility be returned that the wreckage among old vessels must necessarily be smaller than of new vessels, because they are in the minority; but authorities on the subject assert that old craft very often withstand a gale much better than new vessels. American builders are proud of the manner in which their craft weather the roughest gales, and not without reason.

Political.

The Nicholls legislature of Louisiana was announced to elect a United States Senator on Monday, and there were numerous candidates. If all the so-called Senators from Louisiana should be admitted, the Senate would have pretty nearly a quorum without any members from other States.

The real contest will be made in the Congressional districts. In the First, or Portsmouth District, Frank Jones, the rich brewer, is a candidate for re-election, and though his opponent, General Gilman Marston of Exeter, is a very strong and popular candidate, and there was a republican majority of 784 in the district at the November election, the prospect is that beer and money will carry the day. Those who are familiar with New Hampshire politics know how potent a factor money is. It is seldom that they have a candidate there so rich and so lavish with his wealth as Mr. Jones, and, with so small a margin to overcome, he is well-nigh invincible. It is not creditable to the sturdy yeomanry of the Granite State that so many of their votes are to be had by the highest bidder, but it is a deplorable fact. General Marston has served three terms in Congress, was in the army four years and is a staunch and faithful citizen. He deserves to be elected and will be if qualifications are regarded.—Globe, March 12th.

The body of an unknown man found in the Merrimac river at Manchester Saturday afternoon proves to be that of a Scotchman, forty-five years of age, named Robert Derry, who has been missing since December 25. It is supposed that he committed suicide, no marks of violence being found upon the body. No cause is assigned for the act. He resided on Merrimac street and was employed in the mills.

Dr. S. L. F. Simpson, a physician of Manchester, died suddenly Saturday evening of rheumatism of the heart. He was Surgeon of the Amoskeag Veterans, and was about forty-five years old. He leaves a wife.

Thomas Haskell of Worcester, Mass., has been appointed Agent of the Union Manufacturing Company at West Peterboro. Mr. Haskell will take charge immediately and both mills will be started.

The water in the Merrimac River is fast rising, the ice breaking up and coming down in large quantities. Nothing serious has happened yet, although the usual spring troubles are anticipated.

D. J. Cresby's bakery and Charles French's store at Milford, were broken into Saturday night, and a small sum of money taken from each. It is supposed that two Milford juveniles were the perpetrators.

THAT CLANGING BELL.

There was a temperance meeting in Franklin Hall on Sunday evening, at which "Rev." J. E. Bell of Providence held forth, under the auspices of the Portsmouth Reform Club. THAT is: it was advertised that such a meeting would be held; but it turned out to be a democratic campaign meeting, run in the interests of Hon. Frank Jones, brewer, by Brother Bell and John S. Treat, Esq., Ex-President of the Reform Club. Brother Bell had not spoken five minutes before it was evident that he was speaking —not for temperance but for beer. Some true friend of temperance and beer had brought to Brother Bell's notice the following paragraph, which appeared in last Thursday's issue of this paper:

Every man who has signed the Reform Club pledge has "solemnly promised before God and these witnesses" that he "will to the utmost of his power discourage the manufacture, sale and use of spirituous or malt liquors," etc. Can any such vote for a brewer without breaking their pledge? Do they not thus encourage the manufacture and sale?

Now Brother Bell, "reverend," of Providence, R. I., did not happen to have seen a copy of the CHRONICLE of last Thursday, but had heard of the paragraph in question. Then occurred one of those little episodes which show how wonderfully nature has provided that no emergency shall arise but a man shall be found to meet its requirements. Mr. John S. Treat arose in the audience; he "happened" to have in his pocket a copy of the CHRONICLE of the proper date; he passed the same to Brother Bell; Brother Bell read the obnoxious (to him) paragraph, and then, with all the vim and empressement of a clergyman in good standing and of unimpeached reputation, and well paid for his services, he announced that a temperance man could vote for a brewer for Congress and still be a consistent temperance man—in the estimation of Brother Bell. [Cheers, loiture and vigorous applause from Mr. Jones' men.]

It has been suggested to us that possibly the whole thing was a put-up-job between Mr. Treat and Brother Bell, to ring in the Reform Club into Frank Jones' support, and that Brother Bell was liberally paid for his share in the business. Perish the unworthy thought! As soon would we believe that Brother Bell, "reverend," of Providence, R. I., was perfectly aware that he was giving utterance to an atrocious lie and slander when he stated at Seabrook, on the authority of John S. Treat, Esq., Ex-President of the Portsmouth Reform Club, that Gen. Marston was helplessly drunk in this city last week, as to credit to anything but happy accident Brother Bell's reference to the CHRONICLE and Mr. Treat's opportune pop-up in the audience with the very copy wanted. True, envious and unregenerate men have said things about Brother Bell. A correspondent of the Boston Journal openly calls him a "scamp;" a clergyman in Rhode Island writes one in this city (we have read the letter) that Brother Bell is "repudiated by the temperance societies" of that State, that he has "no ecclesiastical connection with the Baptist denomination," and that "not a Baptist minister in the State would recognize him at all;" and a Providence gentleman whose business it is to know everything about everybody, telegraphs to a gentleman in this city (we have the telegram before us) as follows: "J. E. Bell does not belong here—is known here and is said to be a fraud; reputation bad." We give no credence to these injurious reports; we are satisfied that Brother Bell, "reverend," of Providence, R. I., is estimated at his true value in this region; and we would not, if we could, say anything to lower him in public estimation.

We would not have Brother Bell, "reverend," of Providence, R. I., nor the general public, entertain for one moment the ruinous idea that the CHRONICLE is an irreligious paper and wanting in reverence for "the cloth;" hence we most meekly bow to the reproof of that great and good man, Brother Bell, "reverend," of Providence, R. I., and humbly acknowledge that he has decided that it is not incompatible with true temperance principles for a man to vote and work for the election of a brewer. We would not have believed it had it been told by a man of common mould; but when uttered by so pure and earnest a "reformer" as Brother Bell we cannot but coincide.

An evil-minded individual at our elbow a moment ago suggested to us to ask if the money paid by Mr. Jones for the purpose of securing the influence of the Reform Club went into the Club's treasury, was paid in bulk to Brother Bell, "reverend," etc., was divided between Brother Bell and Mr. Treat, or in what other manner it was disposed of; also, if Mr. Jones now thinks his purchase worth the money? We resented the insinuations of the evil-minded individual in a proper manner, and his funeral will take place to-morrow.

JOTTINGS.

Election Day.

Vote early, and look out for split tickets.

A Washington despatch last week said: "Speaker Randall was called out of town somewhat suddenly by business." Speaker Randall's "business" was to stump this Congressional District in the interest of Frank Jones, and incidentally in the interest of Ex-Speaker Randall, who hopes to be again elected Speaker of the House.

Look out for spurious tickets to-day. Honest republicans have sometimes been cheated by spurious tickets printed in imitation of the genuine. Sometimes one or more names are changed—sometimes a genuine name misspelled, or a middle initial letter of a name left out or added. Pains should be taken to examine all tickets circulated, especially in a time like this when fraud claims precedence of truth.

The Times of Monday has an item headed "Comfort for tax-payers," in which it shows that the expenditures for the year 1876 exceeded those for 1875; but it neglects to give the reason, which is that the late democratic city government expended the entire appropriations for the year "in the interests of the party," before the republicans took control and that supplementary appropriations had to be made in almost every department as soon as the democrats went out.

The first annual ball of the Portsmouth Cavalry comes off Thursday evening next.

Tickets for the grand concert complimentary to the Nowell brothers, will be for sale at Preston's on and after Wednesday, the 14th. The first comers will get the best seats.

The automatic buoy, which was imported from New York and placed at the mouth of Halifax (N. S.) harbor, is reported by captains of vessels which have arrived at Halifax to have been heard at a distance of four and five miles. This kind of a storm and fog signal, moored somewhere about where Kittz' rock buoy now is, off Whale's-back, it seems to us would be just the thing needed for this harbor. It would cost less in the first instance than a whistle on Whales'-back, which must be repaired at heavy expense before it is fitted to receive any kind of a signal; it would be in the best possible position a guide to the harbor could occupy; and if the reports of mariners regarding the efficiency of the buoys off Portland harbor and the southern coast can be credited, the automatic signal has proved itself one of the most powerful and reliable storm-signals yet invented.

It seems that the "Rev. J. Edwards Bell," of unsavory reputation in Rhode Island, has got into notice in New Hampshire by going into a temperance meeting and declaring that Gen. Marston, one of the republican candidates for Congress, was so drunk upon a recent occasion that he could hardly walk, a story which is denounced as a falsehood and an outrage. We think Bell deserves a more thorough exposure than the religious and temperance communities have yet given. His capacity for mischief should be curtailed.—Providence Journal, 12th.

People who may wonder that Albert R. Hatch, Esq., is not running for office this year on the democratic ticket, as usual, are hereby informed that he now lives in Ward Two, a strongly republican ward. That accounts for it.

About five o'clock, Sunday afternoon, the dam of the Woodward saw-mill (recently burned) in York burst away from a heavy flow of water caused by the rain of Friday.

By the way, does Brother Bell, "reverend," of Providence, R. I., consider himself sufficiently remunerated for his efforts in behalf of Frank Jones' election and the cause of prohibition?

Which are you going to vote to send to Congress, to-day, money or a Representative?

The democrat who fails to get at least $25 for voting his party ticket to-day is unwise. Lots of money has been sent into the district from Washington and New York to buy republican voters, and the leading democratic candidates are wealthy men and accustomed to putting out their money liberally where it will do them the most good politically; and it is hard indeed if the faithful cannot get at least as great a reward as shaky republicans.

Can any one tell what Hon. Frank Jones, the Representative from the First Congressional District of New Hampshire, has accomplished as a statesman? What has he done for the legislation of the country, or for the special benefit of his constituents? There is, and can be, no answer. True, he is claimed to be "a good fellow," but New Hampshire is full of such, too full to think of making that a ground of electing them to Congress, or of keeping any one of them there when he happens to get in. If Mr. Jones' first term of service, then, has been so utterly unimportant, why should he be allowed to keep out an able, more experienced and more useful man? Hon. Gilman Marston has served three terms in Congress with marked efficiency. He is a strong debater and a sound business man. He has fought under the flag of his country, but he is devoted to the interests of peace. He will be in accord with the new Administration, and will from the outset have a much greater influence on public affairs than Mr. Jones could ever attain to. Let the First District of New Hampshire, then, consult its own interests, as well as its own credit and the welfare of the whole country, by electing Gen. Marston by a handsome majority.

VOTE ON THE AMENDMENTS!

Vote on every one of the proposed Constitutional amendments,—"yes" or "no." Do not let any of them be adopted or lost through your failure to express your wishes at the ballot box. Most of the amendments we presume will be adopted by a very large majority, and possibly all of them will be. If we could vote against biennial sessions of the legislature without voting against biennial elections, we would do so; but as we cannot vote against one without voting against both we shall offer an extremely large "Yes" as our answer to "Question third." Question six, "Do you approve of the election by the people of registers of probate, solicitors and sheriffs, as provided in the amended constitution?" we hope to see defeated, as we believe the appointees of the administration of any party likely to be better men for those positions than the nominees of the party caucus. On Question Eight, concerning a constitutional prohibition of town aid to corporations, there is likely to be a difference of opinion, as many persons will consider that if a majority of the citizens of a town wish to lend the town's credit to corporations, it is none of the State's business. But whatever opinion may be held on any of the proposed amendments, we again urge every voter to make known his will by his ballot.

—To make a good broil—Leave a letter from one of your old sweethearts where your wife can find it.

—Quail, birds' nests, sharks' fins, fungi, ducks, mushrooms, bamboo sprouts, Chinese brandy served in thimbles, tea, and Roederer. This was the menu at a banquet given in San Francisco a fortnight ago by a Chinese merchant. Major-General Ingalls, Pay Director Cunningham, Col. F. A. Bee, and a large company of Caucasians were among the guests. The dinner was eaten with chopsticks to slow Chinese music, and then the table was cleared and as a compliment to the guests an American dinner was served.

ESTABLISHED IN 1855.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL
— IN THE —
UNITED STATES.

No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y
SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1855 by Dr Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichol's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Motte's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting Dr Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to Dr. S. Y. R. YOUNG, 9 Beaver St., Albany, N. Y

Office Hours—Daily from 9 A. M., to 8 P. M. Sunday to 10 A. M., and 2 to 5 P. M. Gmay47

Dr. A. J. Flagg's

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it has effected almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectually than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

Remember that it

CURES COLDS,
CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH
CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extensive practice with marvelous success, and I know it to be a valuable remedy for it.

CLAREMONT, N. H., September, 1875.

DR FLAGG My Dear Sir: Your Cough and Lung Syrup has proved a great benefit to me, giving relief from severe Coughs and Soreness of the Lungs, when all other remedies and physicians had failed. I have never taken a medicine more pleasant to the taste or more satisfactory in its results.

—The girl who said she would not marry the best man living, compromised by marrying one of the worst.

—The Rochester Democrat is of the opinion that "it is very sad to lose a wife who brings in several thousand a night. The heart of Patti's ex-husband must be nearly broken."

—A Halifax dispatch says: The captain of the steamer Newfoundland, arrived here, brought the life buoy of the steamer George Cromwell, which was picked up in Placentia bay. Some flour and pork drifted ashore at the same place. No further trace of the vessel and crew has been discovered. The wreck of the George Washington is covered with fifteen feet of water at Cape Race. Twenty-two bodies have been recovered and buried. It seems probable that on striking the rock the boilers exploded, as the bodies picked up are disfigured, mutilated and denuded of clothing.

—A St. Louis Charley Ross case has had a sequel not altogether complimentary to the judicial wisdom of that State. A little boy named Lochmuller was stolen about eighteen months ago by two men, and was finally recovered by his father in Clinton, Ill., after search had been made all over the country, and even in England. Lochmuller began a prosecution against the kidnappers, but the astute judge decided that the boy was too young to testify, and the rascals were discharged. They then brought suit against the father for false imprisonment, with $21,000 damages, and brought accomplices who swore that the boy was not Lochmuller's at all. The mother identified him positively, but the judge again ruled that she could not testify in her husband's behalf, though he dismissed the suit for damages. If the men should now sue for the recovery of the child they would doubtless get him.

Renovation, not Prostration.

Did any enfeebled human being ever become strong under the operation of powerful cathartics or salivants? It is sometimes necessary to regulate the bowels, but that can not be done by active purgation, which exhausts the vital forces and serves no good purpose whatever. The only true way to promote health and vigor, which are essential to regularity of the organic functions is to invigorate discipline and purify the system at the same time. The extraordinary efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in cases of debility or irregularity of the organs of digestion, assimilation, secretion and discharge, is universally admitted. Appetite, good digestion, a regular habit of body, active circulation of the blood, and purity of all the animal fluids are induced by this superb tonic and corrective. It has no equals, moreover, as a preventive of chills and fever, and other types of malarial disease. To emigrants and travelers it is particularly serviceable as a medicinal safeguard.

Nothing breakable that Spalding's Glue won't mend.

After much study and a long series of experiments, Dr. A. J. Flagg, of Claremont, N. H. has succeeded in producing a remedy which will cure almost every form of disease of the Throat and Lungs. Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption yield to it more readily and naturally than to any other known remedy. This medicine goes directly to the immediate seat of the disease, and its beneficial effects are at once manifested. The ingredients of the Cough and Lung Syrup are of the very best kind, having been prepared regardless of expense, and the patient can feel assured that the medicine is perfectly pure. It can be procured of any respectable druggist.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of written testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1876.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and twenty-nine, an I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will not be you, advertise them direct to the soldier, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship in the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 16, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled for twenty-five years or more, and has tried every thing that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been an ite from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and mouth. I dread I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have now suffered to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and had suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought it was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The package of Pills seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. FATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 22, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL,

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative as could prescribe, almost dozen years spent in experimenting with it before e was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate each. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy elief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent. A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. MacDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Müller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

POPULAR LITERATURE, SCIENCE, and ART.

Announcement for 1877.

The number for January begins the nineteenth volume of this Magazine, and while its past record will, it is hoped, be deemed a sufficient guarantee of future excellence, no efforts will be spared to diversify its attractions and to render the Best and Most Emphatic Sense. The great object and constant aim of the contributors will be to furnish the public with Entertainment of a Refined and Varied Character, as well as to present in a graphic and striking manner the most recent information and soundest views on subjects of General Interest, in a word, to render LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE strictly illustrative in those tastes that are most attractive in Magazine Literature. The contributions now on hand or specially engaged, embrace a highly attractive list of Tales, Short Stories, Descriptive Sketches, Narratives, Papers on Science and Art, Poems, Popular Essays, Literary Criticisms, etc., etc., by selected well known writers. A large proportion of the articles, especially those descriptive of travel, will be profusely and beautifully illustrated. Typ-ictorial embellishments of the Magazine constitute one of its many attractive features.

In addition to the general attractions of LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE the Publishers would invite attention to the following Fashion.

Rich gauze fabrics now show the bright Oriental combinations of colors which a year ago would have been considered very strange.

Undressed kid, grants de Suede, are very fashionable for general wear. Lisle thread gloves in all the new shades are in great demand.

If dark gloves are worn, they should be somewhat lighter than the costume, black gloves are only admissible with black costumes.

The side cut glove is new and different from all others, the buttons being scarcely perceptible when the arm is raised. Its fit is perfect and renders the glove easier to put on. The gloves are shown only in light shades and for evening or full dress have a great advantage over the style center cut.

The dolman is the mantle par excellence for Spring wear. They are made of almost all kinds of material and in a variety of shapes. The "Selika" mantle is newer and quite becoming to the "princess" style of dress. The "Burnons" scarf is pretty and convenient either in cashmere or the striped Oriental fabrics.

Buttons will be largely used, and while some may admire a dark blue or black button, the contrast afforded by ivory and beautiful papier mache the majority will prefer. For woolen costumes, large buttons covered with the material, not very large, but sewn on in clusters or a number of rows, on the front, cuffs, or wherever the design of dress may suggest, will be used.

Black cashmeres are, of course, always desirable, and always will be patronized by persons of quiet tastes. This Spring the manufacture is simply perfect. They are light and soft, not too warm or too cool, and lend most beautifully to the draperies and combine admirably with plain silk fabrics, especially with twilled foulard. In colors the India cashmere is sought, while in black the favorite is the "grand opera." The latter is a clear, beautiful black, soft and fine.

Fashion decrees a complete revolution in sunshades. The stale and sombre sun umbrella is to be superceded by tasty and dainty parasols, in all the fashionable shades of color, and a new Spring suit will not be considered complete without this coquettish screen from the sun. They come in two sizes, and nothing could be more stylish than the turnover top or fan parasol for carriage or Spring promenade. Some are trimmed with embroidered ruffles, while others have ruffles lined with a contrasting color and edges frisé so as to form a soft, feathery mass that is very attractive. The "Mariposa" is the larger of the two, and upon one gore is a butterfly embroidered in its natural gay colors. The handles of ivory, pearl and rosewood are in various patterns, but the little French parasol, which is designed to become the favorite, has a handle tipped with a plated ball and large ring, which can be slipped on the wrist, consequently of no trouble when not in use.

The coarse straws which are provided for early Spring wear are presented in great variety as to color, but the shape of nearly all fit closely to the head. Many of them show combinations of color, but black and white straws are to lead. The colors are to keeping with the deep shades which prevail in dress goods. For general wear we find round hats in black straw; some show roll ing brims; others with plain round brims, and others still with fancy, caught-up brims; but, with rare exceptions, the brims are close, while the crowns are large and square. The close-fitting chip hat is in favor; the fronts rising only high enough to admit of a ruching below. The shapes are really elegant. The capote is too pretty a shape to be relinquished, and we find bonnets of this shape showing a crown of silk or a delicate chenille gauze, while the entire brim is composed of the choicest flowers and leaves.

Carrying Weights on the Head.

The Hindoo girls are gracefully formed. From their earliest childhood they are accustomed to carry burdens on their heads. The water for family use is always brought by the girls in earthen jars, carefully poised in this way. This exercise is said to strengthen the muscles of the back, while the chest is thrown forward. No crooked backs are seen in Hindoostan. Dr. H. Spry says that "this exercise of carrying small vessels of water on the head might be advantageously introduced into boarding schools and families, and that it might supercede the present machinery of dumb bells, blackboards, skipping ropes, etc. The young lady ought to be taught to carry the jar as the Hindoo women do, without ever touching it with her hands." The same practice of carrying water leads to precisely the same results in the south of Spain and Italy as in India. A Neapolitan female peasant will carry on her head a pile full of water to the very brim, over a rough road, and not spill a drop of it; and the acquisition of the art gives her the same erect and elastic gait and the same expanded chest and well-formed back and shoulders. Herald of Health.

STATE ELECTION!

A Republican Triumph!

3000 Majority for Ben. Prescott!

TWO OF THE THREE CONGRESSMEN.

Blair and Briggs All Right!

JONES ELECTED

IN THIS DISTRICT!

ELDREDGE CHOSEN SENATOR.

THE LEGISLATURE REPUBLICAN.

By Atlantic & Pacific Line

CONCORD, 9 P. M., 13th.

Sixty towns give Prescott 10,378, Marcy 9,171, scattering 99. Same towns in 1876 gave Cheney 10,645, Marcy 9282, scattering 97. Republican net loss 106.

LOWELL, 10:30 P. M.

One hundred and thirty towns show a net republican gain of 149 votes. Republicans claim Marston's election over Jones in first district, but have but few figures to show for their assertion. There is no doubt of Briggs' and Blair's election in second and third districts. The legislature will not be materially changed from last year.

CONCORD 11th. 1:15 A. M.

If the result of to-day's election in New Hampshire is anything of a guide, the political state of the country has not been very materially changed in the last few months. The voting throughout the State so far as the returns indicate to-night has been about the same as it was at the Presidential election in November and it is found that Hon. Benj. F. Prescott the republican nominee, has been elected Governor by about 3400 majority over Daniel Marcy, the democratic candidate. The republicans have also elected two out of the three Congressmen in the persons of Hon. James F. Briggs of Manchester, in the second district, and Hon. Henry W. Blair, present incumbent, in the third district. The only democratic Congressman chosen is Hon. Frank Jones of Portsmouth, in the 1st district, who is returned by an unexpected majority, which is claimed to be not less than 500. The whole campaign has been stupidly mild on both sides and the result of the voting to-day has been in accordance with general anticipation. Mr. Prescott's election by the majority indicated was expected all along, and the only contests between the parties were in the several Congressional districts. Here in Concord, to-night, where the returns from the whole State are received, there is an absence of enthusiasm and interest never before witnessed. Neither headquarters, newspaper offices, telegraph offices, or hotels are crowded, and so far as any public demonstration or jollification is concerned the idea has not been entertained for a moment. Even the presence of Mr. Prescott, the Governor-elect has not inspired a particle of enthusiasm. He arrived on the last train from the South, went up to the Monitor office and talked over the situation for a few moments then indicted a brief telegram to President Hayes and left immediately for his appartments at the Eagle.

In an interview with his Excellency-to-be your correspondent learned that the result of the election was in accordance with his anticipation, and he also interpreted it as a renewal of allegiance on the part of the republican party. The lack of excitement over the contest, remarked he, was because the result was a foregone conclusion, weeks ago, and furthermore he believed that latterly the people had been supplied with a surfeit of politics, and were only anxious to return to the former walks of thrift and industry.

Washington Matters.

At ten o'clock Monday morning all the members of the Cabinet except the Secretary of the Navy proceeded to the White House. Secretaries Sherman and Schurz having been sworn in on Saturday, all the other members present were sworn in by Judge Carter of the District Supreme Court. Postmaster Key tak by the usual oath. After administering the oath Judge Carter retired and the President and his Cabinet held the first session, the entire time of which was occupied by statements made by the President to his representative officers of the condition of affairs in their departments as made to him by the retiring Cabinet. The plans of the Administration relative to the general conduct of business were also discussed. At 12:30 Secretary Evarts arrived at the State Department and was received by Mr. Fish, and after a short conversation the latter formally surrendered the control of his department and withdrew. Secretary of War McCrary also took formal possession of the War Department. Secretary Robeson received Secretary Thompson on Tuesday. Hon. Frederick W. Seward of New York, son of Ex-Secretary Seward, has accepted the position of First Assistant Secretary of State, vice Cadwalader, resigned. Attorney-General Devens, Secretary of the Interior Schurz and Secretary Sherman all assumed charge of their respective departments on Monday. Secretary Sherman assigned J. Kelpton as acting chief clerk.

Mrs. Hayes held her first reception at the White House on Saturday a ter oon. It was very numerously attended, principally by ladies resident in Washington, and included a large and distinguished representation of the unofficial as well as official society of the Capital. During the day Mrs. Hayes received a beautiful bouquet of rosebuds and violets, accompanied with a card bearing the words "From a Mississippi republican, who stands by the statesman who has said that he who best serves his country serves his party best."

Postmaster General Key is credited with some excellent intentions. He will, it is said, so manage the affairs of his department that every act will be guided by respect for the broad national policy laid down in his inaugural by the President. He also intends making a tour through the South, and will make these statements to the southern people with the view of creating an era of good feeling, and thus endeavor to re-establish a better understanding and more friendly relations between the sections. He speaks quite enthusiastically upon these points. In his appointments he will be guided by the wishes of the President.

A Cheap Administration.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is able to keep its doors open day and night and is yet free from debt. A glance at its salary list, which is as follows, as significant:

President, Henry Bergh	$00,000
Counsel, Elbridge T. Gerry	00,000
Treasurer, Charles Lanier	00,000
Secretary, N. P. Hosack	00,000
Superintendent, Agents, Veterinary Surgeon and Janitor	7,565
Total	$7,565

—A backwoods chap sent an Iowa editor a poem. The next day the paper poured out half a column of sarcasm against the young man and said that the poetry was not worthy of an eight-year-old schoolboy. Then the rural lad sent the editor a copy of Horace's Odes, with the leaf turned down whence he had copied the "trashy poem."

—In Berlin, Germany, girls find employment in the telegraph offices, and one of the published restrictions in regard to dress is that the employes shall not paint nor wear their hair loose on their duties.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an insect melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to revitalizing the physical organization, it establishes regularity among those organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, cont nued vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving agent in cases of debility, liver complaint, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

Certain Pleasures Vanish

Nothing in the Quaker City has received more unlimited or well-merited praise from its guests than the Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, for liberal management and excellent courtesy.

BELMONT, MASS., Feb. 17, 1877.

I have used the Little Giant Pills for bilious headache with the most satisfactory results. They are particularly beneficial for sickness peculiar to females. I am acquainted in a great many families in Cambridge and Belmont where this medicine is used and it is known to be a never failing relief.

Haven, James W. Emery and Joshua W. Peirce, dated the twenty-third day of July A. D. 1873 and recorded in the records of said county Lib. 356 fol. 131, to secure three notes of said Drake of six hundred dollars each, one of which, payable to and Emery has been paid, and one payable to said Haven and one payable to Joshua W. Portsmouth voted for all the proposed amendments to the constitution, the majorities being as follows: 1—1386; 2—2143; 3—1972; 4—1907; 5—2015; 6—855; 7—1647; 8—2174; 9—2092; 10—2149; 11—1240; 12—72; 13—2147. Average majority for the amendments 1693.

A REPEATER DETECTED.

Tuesday morning, shortly after the opening of the polls in Ward One, three voters appeared, one of them being Hon. Frank Jones, Ex-Congressman and candidate for re-election. Two of the party "went through" all right,—although they didn't vote right, for they carried the straight democratic ticket; then Mr. Jones handed up his ballot, the Moderator took it and called the name, "Frank Jones," and the Ward Clerk commenced an anxious search among the "J's" on the check-list. Things were thus at a stand-still for a moment, and then a republican propounded the following conundrum:

"Mr. Moderator, how long is it since Mr. Jones moved into this Ward?"

Then light dawned. The Ward Clerk snoze a wonderful sneeze in a futile endeavor to smother a chuckle, the Moderator's eyes twinkled and his moustache gradually extended itself each way until its points threatened to meet, and a look of blank astonishment swept o'er the countenance of the voter like the shadow of a cloud on the placid bosom of the South Millpond on a summer afternoon. "Sorry we can't take your vote, Mr. Jones," said the Moderator as he handed back the ballot, which was accepted with a somewhat confused remark about having "forgotten which Ward I was in, anyway;" and amid such jibes from some of his personal friends among the republicans as "Oh, that's too thin, Mr. Jones!" the gentleman retreated in tolerable order, and we presume proceeded to the voting place in Ward Three, where no doubt his name was found on the check-list and his ballot deposited in the box. One man in Ward One wanted to know "What chance have the republicans got to carry this election, when the democratic candidate for Congress sets the example of voting early and often?"

We are sorry he should attempt such a thing? Who'd ha' thought it?

ELECTION DAY.

Tuesday opened with a lowering sky and a few flakes of snow, the walking being "sloshy" and disagreeable from the partial melting of the light snow-fall of the previous night. Voting commenced briskly in all the Wards, and was fairly kept up through the day, as the total vote polled shows. There was an eager rivalry between the rival brewers as to which should lead at the polls in this city; and the most potent "arguments" known in democratic circles were liberally advanced to influence voters. At three o'clock the republicans considered their chances fair for carrying the city for Messrs. Prescott and Marston by a light majority, but it was feared the personal popularity of Mr. Eldredge, the democratic candidate for Senator, would send him ahead so far as to defeat Mr. Philbrick, the republican candidate. The result of the balloting is given in other columns.

THE ENTERPRISE.

The U. S. S. "Enterprise," will go into commission as soon as her crew is received from the "Wabash" at Boston. The marine guard arrived from the Navy Yard at New York on the 13th, comprising twenty-four as fine, soldierly-looking men as one would care to see. The "Enterprise" was built at this Yard, and is one of the eight sloops-of-war ordered to be built by Congress in 1874; she is also one of the two which were ordered to be built by contract at the navy yards—and was accordingly built by John W. Griffiths. She is about 640 tons, and is barque rigged; her battery consists of one eleven-inch and four nine-inch guns, and one sixty-pounder rifle gun on the forecastle. Her engines were built by contract by the Woodruff iron Works of Hartford, and are the newest patterns of compound engines. She is to be commanded by Comd'r Geo. C. Remey, an officer who won his position by gallant service during the war. Her crew will number one hundred and eleven men; she will in all probability be ordered to the North Atlantic Squadron for a few months. The following is a list of her officers:

Commander, Geo. C. Remey;
Lt. Comdr., Geo. E. Wingate;
Lieut., Chas. Seymore;
Lieut., Walter Goodwin;
Master, L. G. Spalding;
" J. C. Cresap;
Ensign, W. H. Nostrand;
" J. W. Beane;
" Frederick Tyler;
1st Lt. Marines, C. E. Sherman;
Surgeon, M. L. Rush;
Paymaster, Geo. H. Griffing;
Chief Engineer, E. Laws;
Passed Asst. Engineer, W. H. Mintzer;
Asst. Engineer, Walter S. Jewell;
Captain's Clerk, Wm. A. Jones;
Pay Clerk, Jas. Van Franklin;
Boatswain, S. J. Allen;
Carpenter, G. W. Greene.

MR. AUSTIN'S RESIGNATION.

As I feel the weaknesses of old age fast coming upon me, added to the sad affliction of deafness, so that if I longer retain office, I might probably seem to myself driven, unwittingly and unwillingly, (as in some of the latest meetings of our Board,) to accept and sanction measures, which, upon reflection, I could not approve; therefore, without consultation or advice from any person, nay, against the known wishes of many, I have come to the conclusion to resign, and do resign my office of President of the Board of Trustees of the Rice Fund; cherishing still the heartiest goodwill and hope, for success of the Kittery Town Library.

Its true friend, DANIEL AUSTIN.

WILLOW-BANK, Kittery, Me.

March 12th, 1877.

A SUGGESTION

We are told by the "favored few" that a delightful theatrical entertainment was presented at Franklin Hall on Friday evening last, in which some of our best known citizens signalized themselves by their vivid and skillful delineations of character. Professional actors must look out for their laurels if home talent can give so much pleasure. There is but one complaint to make, which is that our gifted friends have no right to put their light under a bushel, but should let all share the benefit. We understand that the most amusing of all comedies, "The Good Natured Man," is the next treat to look forward to. From the talent of those cast for the play, we may be sure of enjoying rare fun, and at the same time refreshing ourselves in this classic play, pronounced by Dr. Johnson "the greatest play of the age." We respectfully offer to the management this wholesome democratic advice: "Open the doors to all who will buy a ticket and behave themselves."

JOTTINGS.

Mr. James S. Waterhouse had an attack of apoplexy on Tuesday,—the second one he has experienced, we are informed. Mr. Waterhouse is an active and earnest republican, and was on the street when stricken down; later in the day he so far recovered as to be able to bear conveyance to the polls and to deposit his vote. We trust his recovery will be speedy and permanent.

The returns from Gosport will be sadly missed this year. Mr. John R. Poor was not able to send a democratic representative from his hotel to the Great and General Court of the State of New Hampshire, and the "Oceanic" is unrepresented.

Sagamore Lodge, No. 258, Knights of Honor, are making arrangements to appropriately observe their annual anniversary.

Among the persons mentioned for Postmaster are Messrs. William O. Sides, Marcellus Bufford, John W. Stavers and Plumer D. Norton. Postmaster Pierce is confident, however, that he has already a "pat-up-thing" in that quarter.

A rock maple tree on the farm of Deacon Samuel French, of North Hampton, was felled recently, and when cut up into cord-wood and piled it measured five cords. The tree was set out about fifty years ago, and was a stake taken from a fence at that time.

Hampton has elected Lucy E. Dow as Superintending School Committee for the ensuing year.

The store of William Robinson at Eliot Depot was entered on the night of the 10th inst., and money and goods to the value of about fifty dollars stolen.

YORK.

YORK, ME., March 12th.

The report of the Auditor of York was rendered March 8th, and from it we take the following:

Total receipts for last fiscal year, $17,652.08; disbursements, $16,148.27; Cash in Treasurer's hands, $1503.81. Indebtedness last year, $13,290.52; indebtedness now, $10,322.86; all town orders paid, $7124.19; all interest on notes paid, $1148.33; notes cancelled, $3562.13.

Tickets for the grand concert complimentary to the Nowell brothers, will be for sale at Preston's on and after Wednesday, the 14th. The first comers will get the best seats.

News and Notes.

An Egyptian man-of-war was recently burned in the Gulf of Suez, with the loss of twenty of the crew. Four hundred escaped.

President Hayes has appointed Ex-Secretary Lot M. Morrill Collector of the port of Portland. He was unanimously confirmed by the Senate.

It is reported that La Farge will soon make a confession.

The republicans of the Pennsylvania legislature have unanimously nominated Don Cameron for U. S. Senator, and passed a resolution endorsing the policy of President Hayes.

A citizen of New York city asks the Tribune if the City Hall of that city "is the capitol of Ireland, the wigwam of Tammany or the State House of the American metropolis." The "citizen" is led to ask the question because when an American President is inaugurated no flag at all is displayed from it "but let a Fenian procession pass, and nondescript flags are hoisted; a Spanish rebel dies and the stars and stripes are placed on exhibition beside the rebel standard. The Tribune appears to be struggling with the citizen's question.

"A lawyer of national reputation" is said to have promised the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Senate that he will prove Mr. Evarts guilty of improper practices as an attorney, and that he has "received large pay for political services." The probabilities are that this "lawyer of national reputation" is troubled with a sore head in a very aggravated form, and that the promised revelations have been engendered in his own venom.—Chicago Times, dem.

Colored Men and White Loafers.

I claim to know the negro, and want to be fair to him. I know him—French, Spanish, English and American; I am also acquainted with the white "loafer" of the South and the imported citizens who gives a democratic majority to New York; and I have no hesitation in saying that as raw material out of which to make good members of society, I prefer the poor colored man. When their respective antecedents and opportunities of improvement are considered, the feeling is strengthened. This is "flat burglary" in the white man's code, though the implied advantage of the negro is made comparative only. The white loafer is ignorant, unclean, dishonest and violent; the negro is dishonest, unclean, ignorant and timid. The latter has had opportunities of education for about ten years; the former for perhaps as many generations. The comparison is not drawn wantonly. It is not intended to hurt anybody's feelings, but to suggest a danger which, in my humble opinion, might arise should a democratic government, not strong enough to put a curb on the class now affectionately known as "the boys," come into power.

—Two actresses, calling themselves Frou-Frou and Hazel, have been playing "The Two Orphans" in Texas "with peculiar sweetness and grace," according to a Texas critic. In Dallas Frou-Frou got drunk and bit off one of Hazel's thumbs.

Dr. A. J. Flagg's

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a chronic cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed, in the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in all cases of advanced Consumption it effects a wonderful saving of vital forces, restoring to full strength and almost uniform health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectually than any other remedy, by simply removing the causes. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Chest. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL symptoms of consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

CURES COLDS, CURES COUGHS, CURES CATARRH CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his preparations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extensive practice with marvellous success, and I know it to be a thing to be relied on.

—A book agent, who has retired from active labor upon the hard-earned accumulations of a life of industrious cheek, says that the great secret of his success was that when he went to a house where the female head of the family presented herself, he always opened by saying: "I beg your pardon, miss; but it was your mother I wanted to see. That always used to get 'em. They not only subscribed for my books themselves, but told me where I could find more customers."

—"Not mad!" said a man who had been bitten, when the owner undertook to soothe him by telling him the dog was not mad; "not mad! What in thunder's he got to be mad about, I should like to know? It's me that's mad."

ESTABLISHED IN 1825.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL
IN THE
UNITED STATES.

No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y
SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1825 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation, and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving them of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—144 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts of the world by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—Dr. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

Dr. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Patients out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Feel Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep 2 nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $5.00.
Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 8th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agents for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking Dr. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.
JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be brought at, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been a bit from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What I said him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they were all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and spent a fortune in medicine, but also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight months in winter, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians prescribed my entire teeth and most stubbo n that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; that I must let the gum grow and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. J. Mullin, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will re-commend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

PULMOCINE.

MAGIC
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative as could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before e was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF
THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Profs. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, R. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving (usually a portrait)—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

AMONG THE BEST PEOPLE.

I.—IT PUBLISHES ALL THE NEWS. The servant of no man, the slave of no party, it can afford to and does tell the truth about all.

II.—IT IS INDUSTRIAL AND INDEPENDENT. Believing in intelligent suffrage, it aims to furnish voters the fullest and fairest information, to qualify them for the wisest discharge of their respective duties.

III.—IT IS, AS IT ALWAYS WAS, ESSENTIALLY REPUBLICAN in its warfare in the future, as it has been in the past, with corrupt and fraudulent leaders or corruptions in the republican party; but can never cease to be true to republican principles, and ever ready to throw aside selfishness of clan or vice reform, hard money, the sanctity of the National faith, and equal justice to all classes at the South, which formed the corner-stones of Gov. Hayes' admirable letter of acceptance.

IV.—ITS MORAL TONE IS PURE AND ELEVATED. The family circle is never profaned by anything which appears in the columns of THE TRIBUNE.

V.—THE CHOICEST STANDARD AND CURRENT LITERATURE of the day is presented in its columns, including Correspondence, Poems, Stories, and reviews from the most latest and popular writers.

VI.—IT IS THE BEST AND CHEAPEST FARMER'S PAPER PUBLISHED. "THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE has done more to make good farmers than any other influence which is exerted."

VII.—THE MARKET REPORTS of THE TRIBUNE are indispensable to every buyer and seller in the country. Quotations are given daily and weekly of almost every article which is produced in the country of the world, and with unvarying and almost infallible accuracy. Grain, Flour, Provisions, Cheese, and other Markets are the recognized standard.

VIII.—MORE COPIES of THE TRIBUNE are paid for and read by the American people than of any other newspaper of equal price in the country—a fact which is the best demonstration of the value of the paper.

IX.—THE READERS of THE Tribune represent largely the best enterprising and progressive minds of the country. Politically, it is independent in its pure politics; the advance of science, and the progress of opinion, will find their demands met by THE TRIBUNE.

X.—PUBLIC APPROVAL AND PROSPERITY have rewarded the independent and self-respectful course of THE TRIBUNE. Its large and able editorial corps of earnest workers among its friends than ever before, and constantly receives from old and new readers words of encouragement.

Testing a New Rocket.

Some experiments are to be made at Sandy Hook about the middle of this month with a new life-saving rocket, which Capt. F. E. Atkinson, of the British army, is introducing into this country, and which has already been adopted by the English Board of Trade. It is an adaptation of the rocket which proved so successful in destroying life and villages in the late Ashantee war. The great advantages claimed for it over the old stick-rocket are certainty, power, simplicity, and cheapness, its cost being only half that of the ordinary rocket. It is a long cylinder, in which there are four tubes filled with powder; the end of the tube is closed by a plate of iron, in which are four holes, corresponding to the four tubes; firmly fixed on the plate, so that it cannot revolve, is a four-bladed screw. When the fuse is ignited the gas generated by the combustion of the powder, rushes violently against the helicoidal surfaces and imparts to the rocket a rotary motion, which gives it a steadiness similar to that of a conical rifle bullet. The war rockets have a shell-head, which is filled with Greek fire, nitro-glycerine, or any other explosive or inflammatory substance. In the life-saving rockets this shell may be omitted, or a magnesium light can be placed there for the double purpose of a danger signal and of showing the position of a wreck. The line is made fast to a small chain, attached to the rocket by a double swivel, thus preventing the destruction of the line by fire. The rocket is discharged from a V-shaped steel slide mounted on wheels, which may be replaced in case of necessity by two boards nailed together. In the early part of December, the inventor, Mr. J. Singleton Hooper, in the presence of the Sussex Coast-Guard in England, drove six rockets, carrying the ordinary line a distance of three hundred and fifty yards, over a vessel sixty feet in length, each rocket falling within a few feet of the other, thus showing their great accuracy. Captain Atkinson states that the largest size may be thrown three miles, with nearly the same results. When they are fired the operator stands back and a good deal to one side of them, so as to keep out of the way of the flames.

Rev. Mrs. Hanaford's Dismissal.

The Rochester Democrat explains Mrs. Hanaford's dismissal from the pastorate of the Jersey City congregation as follows: "Mrs. Hanaford is a widow, we believe, with one son. She may or not be a young and pretty widow, but it is suggestive that the whole male part of the congregation are evidently satisfied with her. The dressing-gown is made for her in vain, however. The smoking-cap can never adorn that classic brow, or be thrown negligently back on the protecting ear. Slippers she may wear, undoubtedly; but they may not be of the gorgeous kind, be-flowered and otherwise ornamented, and several sizes too large. There shall be no cigar-holders for this woman, and the matches she uses may have no legitimate receptacle. Neither can she befriend in the proper way the unmarried lady of uncertain years who is so close an attendant on many sermons and services; and the matron with the homely but excellent daughter will yearn for her in vain, or rather she may not soothe her soul with a proper ambition in behalf of her younger tenderness; she dare not yearn at all. At the evening gatherings there can be no silent but intense controversy as to whom Phebe Hanaford shall go home with. At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony she may give no heart melancholy ecstasy by kissing the bride; and we dare say she doesn't even kiss the groom. As a widow she can receive none of those touching evidences of sympathy which are visited upon the bereaved of the other sex. As a woman she can give, in many cases, no legitimate consolation to the bruised heart. As a widow and a woman she is too good a judge of the articles which go to make up a donation to have things pleasant—a pound of clothespins in her eyes is a pound of clothes pins, only that and nothing more. 'The ladies wanted a male pastor.'"

—A clergyman was preparing his discourse for Sunday, stopping occasionally to review what he had written, and to erase that which he was disposed to disapprove, when he was accosted by his little son, who numbered five summers: "Father, does God tell you what to preach?" "Certainly, my child?" "Then what makes you scratch it out?"

—Anecdotes concerning the late General Changarnier abound. One story, which is told of his behavior when he was a subaltern shows him to have been at that time rather a chivalrous friend than a young man with a sense of justice and a regard for general propriety. He and two comrades had been dining together, and they had dined so well that one of the comrades overcome with wine and the heat of a discussion which ensued, lost his head and struck Changarnier, who turned deadly pale and felt that he must fight somebody. But he was far too generous to fight his intoxicated friend. He left the room without saying a word, went into a neighboring coffee-house where the students of the place were wont to assemble, and administered a couple of cuffs to the first unoffending student he came across, and when swords were drawn followed this outrage up with a severe wound in the shoulder. He then returned to his friend, who had no recollection of anything that had occurred, and said to him, "What a bore you are! You're obliged me to run a poor devil in the shoulder who never did anything to me. It's perfectly ridiculous." And so the two entwined, and no more was said.—Pall Mall Gazette.

News and Notes.

Jacob Hirschfield, a German Jew, was found dead in his house in Boston on the 13th with two bullet-holes in his body and a handkerchief stuffed in his mouth as a gag. A revolver was laying beside him, with two chambers discharged. Several persons were at once arrested on suspicion of murder, but it is believed the deceased committed suicide.

The war in the East which has been "inevitable" for months is now twice as inevitable as ever it was before, and Turkey and Russia will inevitably be at logger-heads before long. Turkey refuses to concede Niesic to Montenegro, and the Montenegrins are preparing to render themselves objectionable to Turkey. It is reported that Bismark is in accord with Russia on the Turkish question, which is much better for Russia than for Turkey.

Strawberries are beginning to be plentiful in market. If you've got a spare dollar, go and try a couple.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

Should it be determined to send an American team to Dellymount to shoot a match with the Irish rifleman next summer Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Dakin will head the list. In that event six out of the eight marksmen chosen would undoubtedly be Brooklynites, so that in reality the contest would be Brooklyn versus Ireland.

William Henry Harrison, grandson of ex-President Harrison, who attacked and badly wounded Miss Mary Moore of Boone county, Ky., some time ago, and was sent to the asylum at Lexington as insane, has been cured and released. Since his release Harrison has become the husband of a Miss McIntyre of Cleves, Ohio. He has disposed of his farm at North Bend. The trouble arising from debt on this unsettled his mind.

The following important news has been received at Panama from the Darien Canal Expedition: Notwithstanding some difficulties, it is certain the Commission will return with a favorable solution, and that the canal will be constructed. The labors of exploration will not be ended before the last of March.

The Railway Age makes a careful estimate of the liabilities of 200 railroad companies in the United States that have failed to pay interest on their bonds. The conclusion is that $1,800,000,000, or 38 per cent., of the money nominally invested in our railways is wholly unproductive to its owners, and is in great part lost.

On Monday the locomotive Exeter, of the Boston and Maine road, Joshua Jellison, engineer, ran into some coal cars at Exeter, demolishing three and staving the fire head of the engine, letting out the water. The damage is several thousand dollars. The engineer is a green one and was running about thirty miles per hour over switches. The engineer and fireman jumped and saved themselves.

The British Customs Commissioners announce that the Colorado potato beetle has been discovered at Bremen on goods brought from New York. The Commissioners have issued a circular to Collectors of Customs in the United Kingdom, directing that the instructions already given to detect the beetle be applied to potatoes imported from Bremen or any German port.

Ex-Senator Henderson of Missouri has been tendered the Assistant Secretaryship of the Interior, and ex-Postmaster General Tyner has been tendered the First Assistant Postmaster Generalship.

—The unattractive spectacle of several great musical artists who have tried and are trying to anyoke themselves from the marriage relation with the titled rakes and spendthrifts whom they call husbands ought to carry a healthy lesson for the wealthy American girls who try so desperately to unite their fortunes with those of counts, barons, etc. It has been pretty well demonstrated to the world that Patti and Lucca made very poor matrimonial trades. The specimens of humanity that they undertook to support for better or worse turned out decidedly worse, as might have been known in the first place. Neither Marquis nor Baron was a gentlem n in a single particular. Both were unprincipled spendthrifts and incorrigible gamblers, or common report does them great injustice. And yet they were probably not bad representatives of the seedy and effete nobility in ordinary of continental Europe. Patti and Lucca had beauty, wealth, wit and talent, and if, with all that capital, they could make no better bargains than they did, what fiad of a conquest can the average American belle hope to effect among the scions of a worn-out aristocracy with nothing but a pretty face and papa's money to re-enforce her claims? She can marry a title, but the chance is hardly one in ten thousand that she will marry a man. We advise American girls to take this desperate course only when there are no more marrying Americans to be had.—Post.

—Mr. Frederick May has attained to more fame. A German newspaper mentions him as "a frightful duellist who in Dresden has written his name with his saber on the cheeks of a great many Saxon officers."

—Some of the fashionable New York barbers have adopted the commutation system, and issue packages of twelve tickets for one dollar, entitling the purchaser to a dozen shaves—in perfect silence.

The republicans will doubtless have from 50 to 75 majority in the House, though the returns are not sufficiently full to tell precisely. Of the Senatorial Districts the republicans have probably carried eight (Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10 and 11) and the democrats four (Nos. 1, 6, 8 and 12.) Four of the five Councillor Districts are claimed by the republicans, while they concede the Fifth to the democrats. District No. 2 is close, and is claimed by the democrats. The republicans carry five out of ten counties, viz.: Rockingham, Strafford, Hillsboro, Cheshire and Sullivan. The democrats carry Belknap, Carroll, Grafton, Coos and probably Merrimac, though the latter is close.

The Boston Globe of Wednesday has the following summary of the result in the first district:

"Official returns from forty-five towns in the First District, give Jones 7499, Marston 8005; scattering 44; Marston's plurality, 509. The remaining twenty-nine towns gave a democratic majority of 229 last March, which it is estimated will be increased to 300, electing Marston by about 200 majority."

The Post in its head lines claims Jones' re-election by an increased majority, but gives no figures for it in its reading columns.

A Concord dispatch of the 14th says Prescott's majority for Governor will probably not be less than 3500. In 54 towns in the First District, Marston has 10,897 votes, Jones 10,460. Marston's plurality 437. The republicans claim his election, but there seems but little doubt that Jones will gain enough to elect him in the remaining 25 towns. Briggs has 900 to 1200 majority in the Second District, and Blair 700 to 1000 in the Third. All the Constitutional amendments are probably carried.

The Manchester Mirror's figures from 50 towns give Marston 10,307, Jones 9561. Marston's plurality 746. The remaining towns last year gave a democratic majority of 475. Were the vote the same this year Gen. Marston would be elected by 271 majority.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an abject melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to vitalizing the physical organization, it establishes regularity among those organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, continued vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving agent in cases of debility, liver complaint, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, malaria, intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

THE POSTMASTERSHIP.

The Times is in error in placing the name of Geo. W. Marston among its list of candidates for Postmaster. Mr. Marston would not accept the position under any circumstances, but is most emphatically of the opinion that an eight years' tenure of the office should suffice for any one man With due regard for the efficient management of the office during Mr. Peirce's administration, we take this occasion to express the hope that the good of the republican party will be not lost sight of in the bestowal of the office, and that some other than the present incumbent may receive the appointment. Any other course seems but a direct declaration that the only sure way to secure a change of office-holders is to aid the election of a democratic President. Scores of men have been driven into the democratic ranks in the past by the belief that an office-holder at present has a permanent lien on his position. When it becomes fully evident that their course was consistent after all, there will be a well-beaten track over which many others may travel as the only path leading to the overthrow of self-perpetuating political "rings" and scheming "bosses," who abuse the power which they have assumed until it appears to them theirs by right. We would like very much to see a Postmaster appointed who will be content to attend solely to his duties as Postmaster, and not be desirous of dictating the employment of men at the Navy Yard or elsewhere, and who shall not have the power to prevent the employment by Government of men who have displayed their independence in caucuses and have sufficient manliness to decline to follow the beck of any political "autocrat." When freedom from undue influence brings republicans to cast their ballots for the good of the party, the old time majorities of 600 in Portsmouth will again be rivalled, and the paltry majorities now occasionally thrown for republican candidates be largely increased.

A LOOK BACK

Considering all the circumstances connected with the recent election, we cannot see that the republicans of Portsmouth have any reason to feel ashamed of the showing they made. The democratic candidates for Governor, Congressman and State Senator are all wealthy men and all residents of this city, and two of them put out their money freely; Capt Marcy, we opine, did not do so well in that direction as he has in years past, as even he could see from the first that this party had abandoned him to his fate and would make no effort to elect him, and he has too much sense to throw his money away when there is no hope of gaining an equivalent in any way; but he did shell out pretty liberally to influence the vote in Portsmouth, we believe, as he did not desire a back-handed endorsement from his native city. But wherever the dollars came from, they were as plenty in the hands of the democratic wirepullers as leaves in Vallambrosa, (whatever that may mean,) and the open purchase of votes was never more nauseatingly and extensively carried on in this city—which is saying a great deal—than it was on the 13th in the interests of reform and the democratic candidates. Then beer (and stronger fluids, we are informed) was free as water all election day for the unterrified, and there are voters so debased as to be influenced even by a fill-up of beer. And Marcellus Eldredge's name also stregthened the democratic ticket in this city; for though Frank Jones may wield more influence, and polled fifteen more votes in the city than he, yet Mr. Eldredge is certainly the more popular man of the two among their personal acquaintances.

Mr. Jones this year lacked one great advantage which he possessed two years ago and which was made the most of at that time; old Ward Six was not in existence this year, and even in Ward Three the checklists could not be inflated with the names of men who had long since died or had never been born, or who, if in existence, had no claim to the right to vote except that they voted the democratic ticket. That this different state of affairs made a decided difference to Mr. Jones the figures show. He worked as hard this year for an election, and put out as much money, as he did two years ago, and he is about as popular with his party now as then,—for all the fierce talk of a week ago, among the extremists who vowed they wouldn't vote for him on account of his course in Congress, of course amounted to nothing, as they came up to scratch on election day with the straight ticket, almost to a man. But the head-stones in the cemetery at Point of Graves were not counted as democratic votes this year; the Cambridgeport foundry-men, the marines from the navy yard barracks and the sailors from the "Sabine," and the crews of the Gloucester fishing-schooners, failed to put in an appearance; and the result was that all the money put out, all the enthusiasm aroused by the parades of Mr. Jones' uniformed men, and all the arguments of Mr. Randall (we don't call him Salary-grab Randall now) and the Congressional jig-dancer Beebe, failed to keep Mr. Jones' majority up to the cheering figures of two years ago.

In March, 1875, Frank Jones' majority in Portsmouth was 267; this year his majority is 85—quite a difference. Hon. Daniel Marcy, also, felt the evil influence of an honest vote,—honest, at least, as far as the officers of the election were concerned. Last year Mr. Marcy carried the city by a majority of 73: this year Mr. Prescott's majority is 21, and Marcy's minority is 41.

Considering the large amount of money expended in the city by the democratic candidates and managers, and that the republicans had no money but what they contributed themselves to pay even the most necessary expenses, we think they need not be ashamed of the showing they made on Tuesday.

THE REFORM CLUB

"This campaign has killed the Reform Club, if it hasn't done anything else," said a republican temperance man to us on Tuesday morning; and the same thing has been repeated with variations a score of times since, by others. We most earnestly hope this prediction will not prove correct, for the Reform Club movement has done much good here and has a chance to do much more. The election is over, and the unpleasant incidents connected with it, whatever they may be, may well be forgotten. The employment of the "clerical" hammer, J. E. Bell, to turn the Reform Club meetings into political campaign gatherings, was ill advised and is to be regretted; but politics had previously been kept out of the club, and the one big blunder—a big blunder it was in every sense, for it did not help the cause it was intended to help a bit—should not lead its friends and supporters to condemn it entirely. Don't give up the organization yet, men; don't let it be said that such a man as J. E. Bell could send the entire Reform Club on a permanent "bust."

JOTTINGS.

We owe thanks, and hereby tender them, to the capable and obliging managers of the Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph Line in this city, to whose courtesy and evident desire to accommodate the patrons of the line we were largely indebted for the interesting and far from meagre election returns we were able to lay before the readers of the CHRONICLE on Wednesday morning. To the Ward Clerks of the several wards in this city, also, we express our obligations for their courtesy in furnishing us with the returns which came under their immediate supervision.

"Our Boys" at the Franklin Opera House next Saturday night.

Over a hundred tickets have been sold for the first annual ball of the Portsmouth Cavalry, which takes place this evening in Franklin Hall. The arrangements will be of an elaborate character, the orchestra large and under the direction of Mr. Henry L. Harlow, and a choice picnic supper will be served in the banquet hall.

The Boston Post of March 14th perpetrated the best joke ever produced in its columns. After bewailing the defeat of Sullowway and Kent for Congress in the second and third districts, it said: "The democrats, however, can derive no small consolation from the success of Hon. Frank Jones in the first district. He will redeem the delegation from weak mediocrity, and continue to make New Hampshire respected in the National councils." Frank Jones will "redeem from weak mediocrity" a delegation numbering among its members James F. Briggs and Henry W. Blair! Everybody can enjoy that joke.

Go and see "Our Boys" next Saturday night at the Opera House.

In the Boston Globe's election returns from this State, in its Wednesday morning's issue, we find under the heading of "Senators Elected" the following: "First Dist. Emerson B. Philbrick, of Rye, dem." It would not be easy to crowd more errors into a single line; Emmons R. Philbrick (not "Emerson") was the republican candidate, and was not elected.

There were more drunken men and boys—boys, many of them, not far advanced in their teens—on the streets Tuesday night than we ever saw before. There was some noise during the day, particularly at the South End, where four or five young fellows in their first voting year got howling drunk and made public spectacles of themselves, every one of them voting the democratic ticket; but there was very little quarelling, so far as we have heard, day or night, and the noisy crowds of inebriates that made night hideous with their shouts and songs seemed good-natured way through.

The great comedy of "Our Boys" at the Opera House on Saturday night.

Tickets for the grand concert complimentary to the Nowell brothers, will be for sale at Preston's on and after Wednesday, the 14th. The first comers will get the best seats

—If persons would take more trouble about living they would be less troubled when dying.

—Little drops of water, little grains of corn, make the festive Bourbon, and the morning horn.

—A late book is entitled "Half Hours with Insects." What a lively half hour one can have with a bee!

—Of all the various methods proposed for reduction of postage none are so practical as this: Get married.

—"My son," said a doting mother to her eight-year old, "what pleasure do you feel like giving up during the Lenten season?" "Well, ma, I guess I'll stay away from school," was the reply.

—After all, mankind has changed very little with the lapse of time. In a little tavern, recently dug out at Pompeii, the usual slate and pencil were found hanging on the back of the door.

—In Eaton County, Mich., they have found the skeleton of an animal which, it is thought, must have weighed more than fifteen tons.

—If you own a Spitz dog you mustn't let your judgment be warped by what the papers say. Let him bite you and then wait for results.

—It is thought that the time will yet come when members of the choir will be expected to behave during divine service just as well as other people.

—Baldheaded men are so numerous in Chicago that an audience in that city is said to look, when viewed from above, like a cobblestone pavement.

—Thirty participants in a recent masquerade ball at West Troy, N. Y., are sick with small-pox, supposed to have been disseminated by hired costumes.

—Recently two young women at Lexington, Ind., tried to cowhide a man. He refused to be punished, but seized a club and mauled them as if they were men.

—The present style of weather calls to mind the remark of a sable brother, that "he had 'mos' allers noticed, if he lived fro de month of March, he lived fro de year."

—Mlle. Lola, the trapeze performer, has challenged Miss Bertha Von Hillern to walk twenty-four hours for $500 a side at the Metropolitan riding academy, New York, the first or second week in April, the party making the greatest number of miles in that time to receive the stakes.

—Two Baltimore politicians, a republican and a democrat, are out $1000 each. They "put up" $1000 each on the result of the Presidential election, but being unable to agree which had won, they took their dispute into court, where the District Attorney appropriated the stakes under a State law and turned them into the city treasury.

—Moncure D. Conway tells a story of a British judge, who was moved to righteous anger. A case came before him presenting a combination of every kind of villainy in the defendant, and as the clear evidence came out, the Judge grew red and white, and was fairly boiling when the time came to charge the jury. "Gentlemen of the jury," said the Judge, "it is perfectly clear, and a most nefarious one. The defendant has unquestionably robbed the plaintiff, and has basely betrayed his daughter and abandoned her in a foreign land. I—I only wish it had been my daughter." The lawyers gasped as this thunder rolled, and beheld the irate Judge shaking his fist across the room at the cowering caitiff.

—That "murder will out" is a proverb in every tongue. Schiller has celebrated the cranes which aided in the discovery of the assassins of Ibycus the poet. Now we hear from Algeria that a cake of bread has proved the means of bringing home their crimes to some robbers. The house of the Caliph of the Beni Ouazen was entered by a hole in a mud wall, and a box with 25,000 francs stolen. In their haste to escape, the thieves had, however, left behind them an Arab cake bearing a peculiar mark, which one of the bakers of the town recognized as the sign used by Ben Xerafas, each family in sending their bread to the oven, marking it so as to distinguish the loaves. The police in consequence descended on the hut, and caught the thieves asleep with a portion of the plunder still in their possession. The obvious moral of all which is that thieves ought to take supper at home.

ESTABLISHED IN 1825.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL

IN THE
UNITED STATES.
No. 9 Beaver Street - - - Albany, N. Y.
SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1826 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gifted German; but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, four doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and comfort, entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, that depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—300 pages—full plates, price $2 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Motte's celebrated Gravenic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a foul state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 23, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep a night without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to work on my day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of their aches and pains, and though a part of it froze up last winter, we can see no injury done. The Pipe was laid by you in a thorough manner, and we believe it to be the Best Water Pipe known, and if we lay any more shall survey lay the same, and you are to do the job if alive and well. Yours, D. CUMMINGS & CO

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been so free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all you claim they are. Recommended to lie. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twenty years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines, but to no good result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten weeks, and have been trying, and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst they had ever seen, they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. H. Hadley, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Shepreil Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., June 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend these Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-tiring climate of New England

AND

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. He offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

OF
THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, B. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something to interest every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel Engraving—usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

In its pages are represented such eminent authors as Prof. Max Müller, Prof. Huxley, Dr. Hom. W. E. Gladstone, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Prof. Huxley, Richard A. Justice for Nebuchadnezzar.

He was tall and slim, and hungry-looking, and his hair was long. He dropped in upon our reporter at this office, and after taking a seat and producing a huge roll of manuscript, he said—

"My name is Simms. I've got something here that I want you to publish. It's a 'Vindication of Nebuchadnezzar.'"

"A what?"

"I say I've got a 'Vindication of Nebuchadnezzar.' The object of it is to set Nebuchadnezzar right with the public, to clear up his record, and give him some kind of a chance."

"My dear sir, the public don't care anything about Nebuchadnezzar. Our space is too limited for anything so very unimportant."

"I think you are wrong. For about three thousand years people's minds have been prejudiced against that great and good man. I've found some new records about him on some Babylonian bricks in the Patent Office at Washington, which present the matter in a new light. My intention now is that the Bulletin shall create a sensation by publishing these facts, together with fac-similes of a cart-load or two of the bricks, and then I shall ask you to head a list for a Nebuchadnezzar monument fund. How much'll I put you down for?"

"Mr. Simms, you must excuse me. The subject is too unimportant for my attention."

"You make a mistake. I tell you the public mind is excited about the matter. Look at the frightful consequences of permitting these erroneous impressions about Nebuchadnezzar to continue! Your young men are learning them in the divinity schools. They carry them out into the world, into heathen lands. The ignorant African upon the banks of the Niger is taught to stay awake at night in order to denounce Nebuchadnezzar. The deluded Esquimau, amid the frozen seas, puddles about in his canoe harpooning seals with the conviction that Nebuchadnezzar was a tyrannical old fraud. The red Indian, bounding over his native plains or removing the hair from the summit of his enemy, is instructed to howl as he reflects upon the misconduct of Nebuchadnezzar. The almond-eyed children of China mingle execrations of Nebuchadnezzar with their most ordinary conversation. The whole race is down on him. He is the victim of universal disapprobation, now isn't he?"

"I don't think he is."

"Now, how would you like it if for the next 3000 years everybody was to believe that you were a bald-headed old reprobate who ate grass?"

"I wouldn't care a cent."

"Oh, well, maybe you ain't a sensitive man. Nebuchadnezzar was. His feelings were easily hurt. Old Babylonian bricks all mention that. Now this vindication of him will run through your paper about two years, and it's bound to create such enthusiasm for the old man that people'll go without food to contribute money to run up some kind of a tombstone for him. And when I get through with him I've got another serial, vindicating Belshazzar, that'll run for a couple of years more, and then people'll be hungry to get a monument for him. Now, you mark me, this nation'll not be ten years older before all those old chaps'll have monuments strung along everywhere to them. There's going to be an awakening on the subject in the popular mind. I'm going to set it up so's when anybody says anything against Nebuchadnezzar the folks'll turn out and hang him to the nearest tree. A popular idea, you understand. Just wild about him."

"I'm going to try to remain calm."

"Now, what'll you pay me a line for this thing?"

"F-F-F-ive! Why, I wouldn't print it if you'd pay me a dollar a line."

"What! Wouldn't give a lift to an old man that has been imposed on for three or four thousand years? Wouldn't do him a good turn, now he's in his grave and can't help himself?"

"Certainly not."

"Well, well! I've heard a good deal about the liberality of a free press, and about journalistic enterprise, but I can't see it. I thought, of course, that any newspaper'd come to the rescue of an unfortunate fellow-creature when he's in a heap of trouble."

"Well, I won't."

"Oh, all right; all right; but mark me! I'm going to scratch in a brick somewhere that you are a reprobate, with the instincts of a hyena and the intellect of a shrimp; and I'm going to bring that brick where it'll be turned up in three or four thousand years so the people of those times'll know what to think of you. I'll fix you, old boy, you see if I don't."

Then Mr. Simms rolled up the vindication, and went down stairs, warm with indignation.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Vitality and Cunning of the Locust.

In 1865 I made experiments to see how soon locusts would drown. After confining them in water twelve hours they soon showed signs of life when placed in the sunshine, and in a few minutes began to move. I tried freezing, and came to the conclusion that they could be frozen up any length of time, and the warm sunshine would revive them. In 1874 I tried animal poisons to see what effect they would produce on locusts. I put the poison on celery, which the locusts prefer to other vegetables, and after observing the effect formed the opinion that they could eat their weight of any animal poison without ill effect to them. As soon as they hatched out and began eating in April, 1875, I took a can of oil and a pan for the purpose of making a fagot to burn some that had just begun to eat my wheat, coming from a sandy knoll in the field. I poured the oil in the pan, and in moving about the pan I caused two or three to leap into it. I perceived that they changed color instantly, and to all appearance were dead. I then forced them in and observed the same results. On placing them in the sunshine it failed to bring them to life again. I afterward tried contact with the same happy result. Turpentine, alcohol, alkali and croton oil will kill them, and from the results of my experiments I believe that anything that will kill vegetable life will destroy locust life under the same conditions.

I know no insect that exhibits the cunning of locusts after they are four weeks old. When very young they appear to have no sense, as they will leap into water or fire if in their course. After four weeks old they will perform acts of cunning that are incredible to the unobserving. In 1875, after they ate my neighbor's crop on the east, they set out for my field. I turned water between his and my field, and caused it to flow four or five feet wide in places, and let it flow through the wheat ten or fifteen feet wide in places. I soon found them crossing by thousands, swinging from blade to blade of the wheat that stood in the running water. I then cut the wheat out, but at the junction of a ditch I had left two fence poles in the form of the letter V, the lower ends crossing near the water of the creek, and the upper ends on either side of the ditch. They soon found passage, and would and did climb down a pole fifteen feet long over the water of Bear Creek, and up the other pole into my field. They were making the passage in one continuous stream when I made the discovery, and the ground and wheat were covered near the passage by those that had crossed.—Correspondence of the Milwaukee News.

News and Notes.

The dead body of James Kingan of New York, a member of the Produce Exchange, was found near the track not far from Welford, a station on the Intercolonial Railway, forty miles north of Moncton, N. B. On his person were found about $8770 in United States bonds, American and Bank of England notes and gold; also a gold watch and chain, as well as other articles of jewelry, a ticket from Portland for Liverpool by steamer Scandinavian, and other articles conclusively identifying the body. It was at first believed to be a case of suicide, but later developments indicate an atrocious murder, and that Kingan was seized on getting out of the cars at Welford, taken a short distance away, stabbed and his throat cut, and the body then placed where the train would run over it. The large sum of money named was found in the pistol pocket in the rear of his pants, a much larger sum having been taken from two pocket books, found empty. The body, when found, showed that it had been struck by the cow-catcher and thrown off the track, only one of the arms being broken. One arm shows three cuts, as if received from a knife while Kingan was defending himself.

Peter Dana, chief of the Penobscot Indians, was arrested in New York on Wednesday for being drunk, and next day was sent to his home in Maine.

Mrs. Stanley Matthews is a sister of Mrs. Watterson, the mother of the Kentucky editor.

The war between Russia and Turkey, which has been "inevitable" for a long time, has been sat upon by the newspapers once more and now "all danger of war is past."

Five negroes were to be hung at Aiken, S. C., on Thursday, for the murder of two white men in November last. The time set for the execution of Gen. Matthew C. Butler and the other white leaders in the butchery of colored men at Hamburg, S. C., in July last, that has yet been made public.

A bold safe robbery was perpetrated on a Pennsylvania railroad on the night of the 13th. The express messenger on the Buffalo express train for Pittsburg, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, was relieved of forty that night at Templeton by a man named J. H. Brooks, who produced an alleged order from Express Superintendent Bingham to that effect. After reaching Pittsburg the goods were placed in an express wagon, in which, without the knowledge of the driver, Brooks opened the safe and escaped with the money packages, amounting to $4000. The messenger had previously received a bogus telegram to turn over the charge to Brooks.

A negro boy, seventeen years old, was taken from jail in Franklin, Mo., where he was confined on a charge of attempting to rob and murder a woman, and hung by a mob of masked men, Wednesday night.

About noon on the 5th, a man passed through the upper gate of Prospect Park, Niagara Falls, and walked along the bank to a point just below the "tail-race" that empties into the river. One of the guides, who followed him to tell him where he could get the best views, was astonished to see him wading out into the rapids. "Come back, you fool; you will go over the falls!" The stranger paid no heed to the warning but throwing himself forward on his face struck out for the brink of the cataract. Just below where he entered there was a small cascade, over which he was carried. When he emerged his hat was off, and a moment later he obtained a foothold in the rapids and stood waist-deep in the foaming water. The guide was by this time at Prospect Point, whither he had hastened in the hope of being able to reach the man. The stranger, standing in the rapids, instantly struck out again, swimming lustily out further from the shore, and successfully placing himself beyond the aid of the man on the bank. He clasped his hands over his head and went down to his death. This suicide is as extraordinary as that of the Canadian chemist, near Detroit, who two days before had ended his life in order to test the efficacy of a resurrection powder.

An extra session of Congress will be called, to provide for the maintenance of the army.

Barque J. F. Whitney, Capt. George D. Spicer, in making ten successive voyages across the Atlantic — from ports in the United States to ports in the United Kingdom and Continent—has made the unprecedented average time of 21 days to the eastward and 31 days to the westward. This, for all seasons, winter included, may be called fast sailing. During all the ten voyages, underwriters on cargo or vessel have not been called upon to pay a dollar damage.

The Signal Service Observer at Cape Lookout, N. C., reported on the 14th to the Chief Signal Officer as follows: The barque Sansbierghans, with a cargo of salt, bound from Liverpool to Baltimore, went aground on Lookout Shoal at 9 P. M., on the 12th inst. The crew attempted, at 1 A. M., on the 13th, to leave the wreck in three boats. Two of the boats were capsized and six out of a crew of thirteen were drowned. The captain and two sailors reached the shore, and four men still on the wreck will probably be saved. The vessel is twelve miles from shore and will certainly go to pieces.

An examination of the cables of the Niagara Suspension Bridge has been made and some of the weak points in the structure have been revealed. The cables at each end of the bridge, before they are anchored in the pit, are divided into seven strands, each strand numbering 420 wires and terminating in a "collar" which is fastened to the anchor-bar. On examining those strands it was found that nine of the wires on the under side of the "collar" had corroded and parted. These, it is said, can easily be replaced by splicing. One piece of the corroded wire about three feet in length has been removed and it was found to sustain 1,350 pounds, and drew down to half its size before parting. None of the wires on the bridge have as yet shown any tendency to elongation, and when a weight is removed from the bridge return to their normal condition with the natural spring.

During the past winter there have been various petty thefts of buffalo robes, blankets, etc., in Nashua, they being stolen from sleighs, and from off horses, when standing on the streets. On Wednesday officers Flood and Barry discovered at Pepperell, Mass., quite a number of robes and horse blankets, which have been taken to Nashua for their owners. The thieves prove to be two young men named John Roberts and Samuel Lanning, who are awaiting trial.

Political.

Secretary of the Navy Thompson has never served two years before the mast, but it is affirmed that his nautical acquirements are more varied than were those of Pres't Taylor's Secretary of the Navy. When this official first boarded a man-of-war at the Gosport Navy Yard he paused before the hatchway, gave a startled glance downward and exclaimed, "Great Cæsar's Ghost! if the — thing isn't hollow!"

It is noticed by the Chicago Times that all the members of the new Cabinet save one present a remarkable similarity in their party antecedents. Mr. Evarts was a Whig. Mr. Sherman was a Whig. Mr. Devens was a Whig. Mr. Key was a Whig. Mr. Thompson was a Whig. Mr. McCrary was a Whig. The Times also observes another remarkable coincidence: That Morton was a Locofoco. Cameron was a Locofoco. Butler was a Locofoco. Logan was a Locofoco. Grant was a Locofoco.

It is difficult to analyze the demonstrative distress of the democratic editor, but the cause of his anguish lurks somewhere between the poles of this dilemma. If the Administration of President Hayes makes total shipwreck of our institutions it will be very uncomfortable for us all; but if it does not, then the door of political hope swings shut in the face of the democracy, and they are left without in a nipping and an eager air, and this is even more uncomfortable for them.

Presto, change! The Boston Post's Washington correspondent tells that paper that "Mr. Hayes' strongest points are firmness and common sense."

The gales that sweep from the north bring to our ears no clash of resounding arms. Put your ear very close to the political telephone and you may be able to hear Beebe up in New Hampshire; but even Beebe is subdued and roars as gently as a suckling dove. And when Beebe doesn't climb right up on top of things and just coop, it is safe to assert that this is the offest kind of a year.—Tribune.

Col. Robert G. Ingersoll of Illinois lectured in Steinway Hall, New York city, Wednesday night, to a large audience, on political questions and answers. In the course thereof he said: There must be peace between the North and South, and President Hayes has taken proper and noble means for bringing about unity and friendship. He has joined the hands of the North and South and asked that hatred be buried and friendship shine forth. In the speaker's opinion the President had a perfect right to select his own Cabinet without reference to party or politics, and the country and all honest men will stand by him in his actions. If the President finds his present policy fails, he can and will change it, but he ought to get a fair trial. He has offered the olive branch to the Southern States and let us hope they will accept it.

A letter from Senator Blaine to Hon. W. E. Chandler of New Hampshire, dated Washington, Dec. 15, 1876, is published in the Concord Monitor. The following is an extract: "I certainly hope that all republicans will unite in striking from your organic law a proscriptive test which the democrats maintained during their long supremacy in your State. It will be specially gratifying and specially significant to see this disability removed from the Catholics by a Republican Constitutional Convention, at the very time of all others when the members of that Church are massed in well-nigh absolute unanimity and inflamed with unreasonable hate and bitterest rancor against our party. It is easy and natural for any political party to extend the franchise and liberties of its allies and supporters; but it is the peculiar merit and honor of the republican party that it has extended franchise and liberty to friend and foe alike. It has removed political disabilities from a large mass of influential men in all the Southern States, with the absolute certainty that the power thus freely given would be used for the defeat, and, if possible, the destruction of the political organization that conferred it. While removing all disabilities from Catholic voters in your State, do not fail at the same time to strengthen your system of free common schools with all the sanctions and safeguards of organic law."

—A mail agent on the Union Pacific Railroad had a wife and little daughter at Omaha. Whenever he left home for a fortnight on the rail he would take the little girl with him a block or two from the house, and then kissing her good-by would send her back to her mother. Jealousy took possession of him without cause, and one morning, about two years ago, he carried off the child from the wife whom he believed to be faithless. The mother waited for the patter of the little feet and the sound of the little one's voice, and finally ran to the station, where she learned that her husband had gone West with the child. She telegraphed to him, she wrote to him; but received no reply. Convinced that he had deserted her, and would never return, she sold her furniture, paid a visit to some friends in Wisconsin, and procured a divorce and a decree giving her the custody of the child. She then went to Oakland, Cal., where her husband and her daughter were boarding, and took legal measures for the recovery of the child. About a fortnight ago husband and wife met in a law office—she with countenance cold and stern, and he with a hang-dog, sheepish look. The lawyers went out to lunch and left the estranged couple together. When they returned, husband and wife were holding hands. The writs were not served; there was a remarriage the next morning.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an abject melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to vitalizing the physical organizat on, it establishes regularity among those organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, our mental vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving agent in cases of debility, liver complaint, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

THE REFORM CLUB

Eds. Chronicle: In your issue of the 8th inst. there was an article which in substance told the members of the Reform Club that at the then coming election they could not, without violating their pledge, vote for a brewer to represent them in Congress. That was the firebrand that has created the present feeling among the members of the Club. This (Thursday's) edition says that J. E. Bell was employed to turn our Reform Club meetings into political campaign gatherings; that statement to my certain knowledge is untrue in every particular. John H. Coles, of Boston, was announced to speak to the Club Sunday evening, the 10th, but I received telegrams Thursday informing me he could not come here. In casting about on Friday to find some one to fill his place, I was informed that Mr. Bell was in the city, and that we could probably get him. I called on him and engaged him to speak on Sunday evening. He showed me a list of five subjects in connection with temperance, one of which he would like to have put upon the handbills announcing the lecture, which was done. I had no talk with him at all in regard to politics at that interview. The next evening (Saturday) I saw him at Franklin Hall a few minutes, when he explained to me his course in Seabrook. I told him I deprecated any allusion to politics in our meetings, as I thought it would do more harm than good. I was not aware that the article referred to in the CHRONICLE was to be read in the meeting, or I should have opposed it. I do not know who wrote the article, but I do know that it has injured our Club. I regard it as an insult to our members, to dictate to them what they should or should not vote; that is a matter to be settled by their individual consciences. It is well known, to every member of the Club at least, that no allusion to politics is allowed in any of our meetings, and although I have decided political convictions, yet I never allow myself to express them in our gatherings. If you will give this explanation or the substance of it you will greatly oblige one who has the best [illegible]s of the Club at heart.

JAMES JANVRIN,
President Portsmouth Reform Club.

[We willingly accord Mr. Janvrin space for his communication, for several reasons; our columns are (and always have been) open to any one who considers himself referred to unjustly by us; and we consider the Reform Club movement the most effective temperance agency ever devised, and do not wish to see it given up in this city. But he is in error in assuming that we "told the members of the Reform Club" that they would violate their pledge by voting a certain way; we told them nothing; we quoted a portion of the pledge and then asked a question,—but we made no assertion. Mr. Janvrin is sure that our statement that Bell was "employed to turn the Reform Club meetings into political campaign gatherings" is "untrue in every particular," and gives the details concerning his engagement to speak, to prove it; but he only shows that the active managers of the Club did not "employ" Bell for the purpose referred to—as we did not him they did; we said he was "employed," as there can be no doubt he was, for the whole affair betrayed a very thinly-covered "put-up-job." That the President or many members of the Club had any knowledge of Bell's intentions we did not intimate, nor do we imagine that more than one member was aware of what was coming until it came; but Bell certainly was "employed" by somebody. As to Mr. Janvrin's considering it "an insult to our members to dictate to them" how they should vote, which "is a matter to be settled by their own consciences," we entirely agree with him; and our "fire-brand" paragraph was but a brief appeal to the very consciences referred to. As to the Reform Club being broken up by this unpleasantness, we cannot see the need of it; politics had previously been tabooed, and the success of Bell's mission was not such as to lead to a repetition of the blunder—whoever was responsible for it this time; and we hardly think the "Rev." Bell will be around here again to afflict the Club—which is one good thing resulting from the trouble, anyway.—Eds. Chronicle.]

SEABROOK ELECTION.

The town meeting this year was the quietest ever held here. There were some few "spiritual" manifestations, but any symptoms of disturbances were promptly quelled by the town police. Early in the day one man got offended because a friend's name was not on the checklist, and for a little while the checklist and ballot-box were threatened with destruction; the town clerk was hustled and things looked squally, but Policeman Chase appeared and quiet was restored. It is said the matter will be brought before the courts. Clark Fogg and Jeremiah Locke were elected Representatives, receiving forty majority; Joseph Chase, Thomas A. Dow and Henry C. Chase, Selectmen; Town Clerk, Jonathan Gove; all democrats. The vote on State and county tickets was: democratic 213, republican 155, prohibition one. There are about 425 voters in the town, but the whole number voting was only 369. There was quite a celebration by the democrats in the evening, and gunpowder was freely burned.

Yours truly, R.

GREENLAND ELECTION.

At the annual election of town officers the democrats carried all their nominations except two assessors, and town clerk,—the two republican assessors elected, receiving about twenty-five democratic votes. The democratic nominee for town clerk was not elected, and the party foreclosed on that office by moving an indefinite postponement, which was carried, and a motion to reconsider lost. But the democratic party (who are preaching economy all the time in Congress and elsewhere) will learn that the minority have rights which they intend to maintain, and that it will cost more to dispose of the election of a town officer by the introduction of fancy motions, than it will to elect him in a legitimate and legal way.

CITIZEN.

JOTTINGS.

Revenue cutter Gallatin, Capt. Gabrielson, visited this harbor on Wednesday, replaced the missing upper channel buoys, and left for Boston at noon.

The U. S. S. "Enterprise," Commander Remey, will go into commission to-day at about two o'clock. The crew will arrive from Boston this forenoon.

The vacancy in the office of Paymaster of the Marine Corps, caused by the death of Major Cash, has brought forth a small army of contestants for the succession. It is reported from Washington that the probabilities strongly favor the appointment of Lieut. Frank D. Webster of this city to the position. Lieut. Webster is one of the most efficient, courteous and capable officers of the Corps, and his selection would be a merited promotion.

At the grand concert at the Middle street church on Monday evening, Mrs. Jenny T. Kempton, of the New England Opera Troupe, will sing "The Rose Bush," with organ accompaniment, a piece which has been received with great favor; Mr. W. H. Fessenden, of the famous Temple Quartette, will sing the beautiful song, "Above in the Chamber," with violin obligato; Mr. Harry Cowles, of the Boston Conservatory of Music, one of the first organists in America, will show to advantage the capabilities of the fine organ; a quartette of violinists,—Wilnis Nowell, Albert Van Raalte, E. A. Sabin and Benj. Cutter,—will give a concerto by Eichberg, which was performed by the same violinists at Tremont Temple, Boston, and was highly commended by some of the best musical critics in that city; and other choice attractions will be offered, as may be seen by the programme published in another column. Tickets at 50 cents each (securing reserved seat) are now on sale at Preston's.

"Rev. J. Edwards Bell" did not influence a great many votes in Seabrook by his slander on Gen. Marston. Prohibition vote in Seabrook, one.

It is said that every "colored citizen" (that's the way the Times refers to them), they having ceased to be negroes with two "g's") in this city carried the straight democratic ticket at the late election. The democrats always did insist that colored men were unfit to be trusted with the ballot, and it does really begin to seem so.

THE FIRST DISTRICT.

The Globe of the 14th had a special from this city, saying: "The contest in the First District is still in doubt, and is very close. Returns have been received from all but nine towns in the district, and the aggregate is as follows: Marston 12,855, Jones 12,897; Jones's majority, 42. If the nine towns to hear from give the same vote as last year, Marston will be elected by a majority of 38 votes over his competitor. The friends of both candidates are confident of success, but the chances are so far even." The Post special of same date says returns from all but nine towns "give Mr. Jones a net gain of sixty-one votes and increase his majority to three hundred and sixty-three votes. The remaining nine districts unheard from will probably still further increase this majority to between four and five hundred votes." There is an apparent discrepancy in these dispatches.

Footings from all but three towns in the First Congressional District give Marston 13,605, Jones 13,487. The towns not heard from are Nottingham, Tuftonborough and Eaton. Last year these gave Cheney 292; Marcy 385. If they are returned the same as last year Marston will have 25 plurality.

A telegram from a democratic source, received in this city on Thursday afternoon, claims that every town in this Congressional district has been heard from, and that Jones is elected to Congress over Marston by 17 majority. It is currently reported that Gen. Marston will contest the election on the ground that the result was accomplished by bribery.

It is thought that all the constitutional amendments were carried except those abolishing the religious test, the first and seventh propositions, which have probably failed.

The Cable War.

The directors of the Direct United States Cable Company have issued a circular to the stockholders, explaining the circumstances under which their charges were reduced on March 1 to a shilling per word. The Anglo-American Company, in declaring war upon its rival, had charged it with bad faith in granting rebates to customers. The Secretary of the Direct Cable Company resents such criticism, and attributes the success of the new line to the efficiency of its service. He says: "The constant growth of our traffic, which has now reached about 33 per cent of the gross traffic of the Atlantic, is a clear proof that the public do not share in the opinion of the Anglo-American Company that the proceeding of our company are either impolitic or unjust." Even if the charge of surreptitious rivalry were true (and it is not proved), the sympathy of the public would naturally be enlisted on the side of the Direct Cable Company, for it was not until that organization was in the field that cable rates were reduced. The public reaps the benefit when these rival companies fall out. A reduced tariff will undoubtedly cut down the receipts temporarily, but in the end more business at low rates ought to pay better than less business at high rates. Cheap telegraphing is what everybody wants.—Tribune.

—It was an old but a good thing said by a French paragrapher lately, to the effect that he hates a girl when she is trying to be a woman, and a woman when she is trying to be a girl.

—Only eighty thousand bushels of peanuts were raised the past year. The failure of several circuses dealt a severe blow to this industry.

—Cincinnati merchants employ handsome lady collectors with very gratifying results.

Tickets for the grand concert complimentary to the Nowell brothers, will be for sale at Preston's on and after Wednesday, the 14th. The first comers will get the best seats.

Dr. A. J. Flagg's

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

—o—

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

—o—

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption its effect is so remarkable almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Pharynx. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

Remember that it

CURES COLDS,
CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH
CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extended practice with marvelous success, and I know it to be a I that he claims for it.

DR. FLAGG My DEAR SIR: Your Cough and Lung Syrup has proved a great benefit to me, giving relief from severe Coughs and soreness of the Lungs, when all other remedies and physicians had failed. I have never taken a medicine more pleasant to the taste or more satisfactory in its results.

Cultivation of Peas for Family Use.

Dig trenches in a warm, sheltered location, soon after the frost leaves the ground, about one and a half feet wide and three feet apart; fill the bottom with old compost and cover the manure with loam, upon which sow the peas thickly; cover them six inches deep. After the first weeding, insert in the ground a row of sticks on each side of the trenches or rows, so that the tops of the sticks shall be at least five feet above the surface of the ground. The advantages of this mode of cultivation are, that this vegetable comes up strong and vigorous, is not preyed upon by fowls and pigeons, is not pulled up, is not so much affected by the drought of summer, is more prolific, and furnishes peas for a longer season, or about three weeks.

Story, Alexandre Dumas, Ruskin, Carlyle, Tennyson, Browning, and many other leaders in science, fiction, history, biography, philosophy, poetry, theology, politics, or fashionable art.

The subscription price ($8 a year) is cheap, for the amount of reading furnished; while the large-bearing prices—six of leading periodicals, foreign literature, the quarterlies—make it still cheaper, viz.: to one, except the Quarterly, which is $4 extra, the cost is less than 3¼ monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With The Living Age and one of the best of our leading American monthly or weekly periodicals, at much cost, be put in command of the whole situation."

An extra offer, also, is made to new subscribers, for 1877, to send them gratis the six numbers of 1876, containing, besides other valuable reading, the first instalments of a new and very remarkably powerful serial story by George MacDonald, now appearing in The Living Age from advance sheets.

Patti's Elopement.

Seldom has any scandal so deeply agitated the social world of Paris, as has the elopement of Adelina Patti with the tenor Nicolini. In America, where the fair diva is remembered only as the most wonderful and enchanting of girl-singers, her escapade will be but a nine days' wonder and no more. But here it is something different. Adelina Patti was not only a reigning star in the theatrical firmament, but she was a brilliant social luminary as well. Few were the houses whose owners would not have felt honored to welcome la diva as a guest, and that, too, not for the sake of her titled husband, but for her own. She was the petted darling of Parisian society, admired, feted, and followed wherever she would condescend to appear within its limits. Her beauty, her grace, her winning ways, her remarkable lingual acquirements, combined with her world-wide celebrity and her reputation, unsullied by seventeen years of theatrical life, made up a sum of perfections that were wholly irresistible. How fair she was, the lovely lady, with her dark eyes and slender figure, and the chi dish grace and sweetness of her smile and gesture! Truly, she seemed born to be the caressed and feted idol of society, as well of the public. All that is over now. At an age when women are usually supposed to have learned to conquer impulse by principle she flings reputation, friends, honor, all to the winds, for the sake of a lover. And what a lover! She at whose feet monarchs have sighed in vain, who turned a deaf ear to the wooing of the most fascinating and celebrated cavaliers of the day, has eloped with a man possessing, if all that is said about him be correct, few qualifications to win a woman's heart, save a burly person and a mellifluous voice. Nicolini, whose real name is Nicholas, and who is, I believe, a Frenchman, is a tall, stalwart-looking individual, with black eyes and beard, and a sweet, yet powerful, tenor voice. The scandal that culminated in the elopement, recently, has been a theme for gossip in all the prominent European capitals for some six months past. So violently jealous was the Marquis de Caux of this too fascinating singer, that, when his wife went to Russia, he stipulated Nicolini should never be allowed to sing with her, and therefore Masini was engaged in his stead. One night, however, when "La Traviata" was announced, Masini fell ill. Instantly Nicolini, who had been prowling about the theatre watching his opportunity ever since the commencement of La Patti's engagement, came forward and offered his services. They were accepted, and when the curtain rose M. de Caux, who occupied a front seat in the orchestra stalls, beheld with mingled wrath and horror, the hated tenor at his fair wife's side. Those who were present on the occasion declare that never was the opera so sung before. The impassioned wooing of Alfredo, the tender responses of Violetta, were given with a fervor and a reality that were simply unsurpassable. As soon as the curtain fell on the first act, the Marquis quitted his seat and hastened round to the stage door. There a file of soldiers confronted him, and denied him entrance. He went round to the door at the other side of the theatre, but was met by the same denial. It was not till the performance was over, and the audience dispersed, that he managed to make his way to his wife's dressing-room. Then and there the stormy scene took place which has already been chronicled in the papers, in the course of which the Marquis is said to have taunted Mme. Patti with having made her a Marquise, whereupon the diva threw the magnificent set of diamonds she had worn in the opera full in his face, exclaiming: "Take these as pay for your miserable Marquisate." It is reported that, before the scene was ended, M. de Caux so far forgot himself as to strike his wife, and that it was this fact that impelled her to leave him. Had she only gone alone, who could have blamed her?

The fact of the matter lies simply in this—the marriage of Adelina Patti was an immense mistake. Whether, after the European fashion, it was a simple barter of money for a coronet, or whether, as has been reported, the lovely prima donna was really fascinated by the social graces and accomplishments of the Marquis, who was noted at the Imperial Court as the best leader of the "German" within its limits, it is hard to say. Certain it is that the match never promised fair from the first. The noble husband was forced to relinquish his functions at court because he had sullied his escutcheon by espousing an actress. This humiliation was his marriage gift to his bride. It is indeed said that the match was made by the Empress Eugenie, who had a taste for matchmaking, but who managed such affairs neither wisely nor well, as witness the woful De Bouffremont case. M. de Caux soon sank into a reckless and greedy devourer of his fair wife's enormous gains. He flung away thousands in one night, and night after night at the gaming table. His conjugal infidelities were numerous and glaring. He treated the beautiful and gifted creature whom he had married as a mere money mill, destined to grind out perpetual sums to satisfy his wants. In other words, he was a fair type of that being to whose keeping so many of our American girls are ready and willing to entrust their property and their happiness, namely, a French titled husband. The match was bound to end in some disastrous way. Alas! that it should have ended thus—in the marring of a fair woman's fame, in the dimming of a star, in the smirching of the white plumage on our song-bird's wings! But one sentiment in regard to this melancholy affair is expressed throughout all gay and careless Paris—namely, true, sincere, and heartfelt regret.—[Lucy Hooper's Paris Letter in the Philadelphia Telegraph.]

Daily Chronicle.

MONDAY, MARCH 19, 1877.

Distinguished Arrival.

A New York dispatch, dated March 16, says: The steamship Labrador, which arrived at this port yesterday, brought back to our shores, after five years of exile, Peter B. Sweeny, of Tammany Ring renown. He looked well and happy, and doubtless rejoiced that his financial compromise with the people of the city and State of New York was about to be effected, and that henceforth he was to move among his fellow citizens a free man. He craved no notoriety, rather avoided it, and his name was modestly inscribed in the passenger list of the steamship as "Monsieur Sweeny." On the voyage he preserved his incognito thoroughly. For two days after the vessel left Havre the returning ex-banker hardly spoke to any of his fellow-passengers. His occupation during the great portion of each day was walking to and fro in such isolation as he could secure on the Labrador's hurricane deck. The moment the steamer touched the pier Sweeny came on shore and in a moment he had disappeared. Sweeny was indicted by the Grand Jury for complicity in the Ring frauds in February, 1872, but when he was wanted he could not be found. He had disappeared so mysteriously that not even a trace of him could be discovered. From time to time came rumors concerning him, and at last it seemed definitely determined that he was living in Paris in such splendor as would have entitled him instead of Tweed to take rank as "the American Baron." Then came whisperings of his unhappiness in exile, of his desire to return, and negotiations were actually begun looking to that end. He is now in the city in seclusion, under supposed pledges of immunity if restitution and needed information be given. The trial begins April 3d. None but his lawyer are allowed access to him. Rumors are again current that negotiations are in progress to compromise all the ring suits, and it is believed that Tweed, ere many days, will walk out of Ludlow street jail a free man.

News and Notes.

Postmaster-General Key has thirteen children.

The $10,000 libel suit of Llewellyn Powers against Theodore Cary of the Aroostook, Me., Times, for defamation of character, has been finally settled by an agreement on the part of Cary to pay $8760.

In South Brooklyn, N. Y., there is a factory in which glass is manufactured by the La Bastie method, which was patented in 1875. The glass is rendered tough and malleable by annealing it in a bath of tallow. Experiments lately made before a party of distinguished visitors proved the claims made for it to be not overstated. Cold water was sprinkled on hot chimneys and they did not break. Nails were driven into boards, chimneys being used for hammers. Tumblers, plates, globes, and other articles were tested by throwing them on the floor, without injury to them. One plate was thrown twenty-five feet into the air, and fell on a brick floor without damage. This is good news for housekeepers, whose temper is apt to prove as brittle as glass when tried by the havoc wrought among their crystal treasures, by careless and clumsy servants. The La Bastie works are manufacturing one thousand dozen lamp chimneys a day, and it would seem that they must soon be procurable anywhere.

Among the most interesting of the many historic houses in the ancient town of York, Me., is that owned and occupied by two maiden ladies, the Misses Barrells, containing all the original furniture, books, paintings, etc., with which it was furnished by the builder, Judge Jonathan Sayward, in 1713, whose full length portrait, with that of his wife, with the costume of their time, adorn the walls; also the elegant full-length portrait of their daughter Sarah, at the age of twenty-three, painted by Blackburn, a pupil of Copley. The latter was painted at Charlestown in 1716, says an inscription on the back. As works of art these paintings are pronounced by connoisseurs as exceedingly fine. The family coat-of-arms of the Saywards occupies a conspicuous place over the mantel-piece; also a commission from Gov. Shirley to Jonathan Sayward, the owner of the house, "to command the sloop Sea Flower in the expedition against Cape Breton," which took Louisburg in 1745. In this mansion are a great number of articles worthy the attention of those of historical and antiquarian tastes.

New Hampshire Items.

Amos D. Parington of Dover, a member of the Society of Friends, widely known throughout New England as senior partner of the firm of Parington & Ham, died Saturday morning, aged sixty-three years. He was a public spirited citizen, identified with the Board of Trade and, City Government, and foremost in any measure looking to the advancement of the interests of Dover or of humanity. His death is a great loss to the community.

News was received at Dartmouth College, Friday, from Prof. Samuel C. Bartlett, that he accepts the Presidency of Dartmouth College, notwithstanding the strong efforts of the Northwest and those interested in the Chicago Theological Seminary, of which he is the head, to retain him. He will remove to Hanover, and be inaugurated about the middle of May. This decision, which has been anxiously awaited for weeks, is received with great satisfaction by the faculty and students. The important petition of the Juniors for the abolition of the Junior exhibition has been referred by the Faculty to the Trustees, who will undoubtedly wholly abolish or change it materially.

R. Byron Kimball, one of the most prominent and wealthy citizens of Lebanon, died at his residence Friday, aged 49 years. He was formerly a leading merchant, and at the time of his death was a Director of the National Bank of Lebanon, which position he has filled for many years. He was particularly noted for his many acts of charity.

Hiram Hitchcock, democrat, and J. W. Patterson, republican, were chosen to represent the town of Hanover in the Legislature. Both received the unanimous support of the students, and to them is due the election of Mr. Hitchcock, for the republican majority in town is 104.

Official returns have been received from over one-third of the towns in the State, which indicate that ten of the thirteen amendments to the State Constitution are adopted. The exceptions, if any, are the first amendment, striking out the word "Protestant" from the Bill of Rights; the sixth, providing for the election by the people of Registers of Probate, Solicitors and Sheriffs, and the seventh, abolishing the religious test. It is a remarkable fact that nearly all the democratic towns thus far returned voted almost solid to retain the religious test, and against striking the word Protestant from the Bill of Rights. The next Legislature will be required to determine when the several amendments adopted shall go into effect. It will decide it to be next November, or in November 1878. If it is decided in favor of next November, then another State election will be in order at that time, and we shall soon be in the midst of another political campaign. If 1878 is fixed upon, then the Governor and other State officers will hold over, and it will be incumbent on the coming Legislature to choose a United States Senator in place of Wadleigh, whose term expires before the Legislature of 1879 could convene.

Political.

The San Francisco Bulletin expresses the opinion that the large fraudulent vote discovered in that city cannot well be charged to the republicans, or that they secured the benefit of it, for the reason that the democrats had charge of all the election machinery of the city. The registration was made under democratic auspices, and it was by a majority of democratic inspectors that the fraudulent votes were received.

A negro boy, seventeen years old, attempted to rob and murder a white woman near Union Ridge, in Tennessee. She was rescued by another negro. Walker, the criminal, was arrested and lodged in jail to await a trial. So far all was well; but a despatch to the morning papers brings the news that Walker has been taken from the jail by a dozen masked men and hanged. It is such interference as this with the due course of law which raises continual doubt in the North concerning the capacity of the Southern people for self-government. The carpet-bag government in Louisiana has not been able to prevent disorder, and it is hoped that Governor Nicholls will have sufficient authority to put an end to the reign of violence there. But how does it happen that in Tennessee, where there is no conflict of authority, the democratic State government cannot control the mob? The best service Mr. Key can render to the administration, the South and the whole country, is to inspire the Governor of Tennessee, if possible, with a sense of the indignity that has been put upon him by this lawless proceeding.—Portland Advertiser.

General Devens.

Presidents have often nominated for Cabinet positions men that the whole country did not know, and it has commonly turned out in such cases that the men were persons with whom the country did not greatly care to improve its acquaintance. But the nomination by President Hayes of the gentleman whose name is printed above is a surprise of just the other kind. It might, in fact, be called an ideal appointment in one important aspect. The people will never believe, they cannot believe, that the conspicuous and well known politicians of any party are the men most fit to fill great offices, and they always anticipate that the President will discover new men who are better types of the genius and culture and capacity of the nation. Commonly, as we have said, they are disappointed in this; for Presidents have gone out of the list of conspicuous politicians hitherto only to find failures. But Devens will not fail. His gallantry as the commander of the Fifteenth Massachusetts at Ball's Bluff; his splendid record as the commander of the famous old Second brigade in the Blue division of the Sixth corps, conjoined with his success as a capable lawyer, attest that he possesses all the kinds of talent necessary as an administrative officer. His appointment is a conspicuous recognition by Hayes of the kind of officer of which Hayes himself was a type—the quiet, cultured, brave and capable men who did splendid service in the war, and when it was over went home without any flourish of trumpets, satisfied with the approval of their consciences.—New York Herald.

A Puritan Pastor.

Some one in the Christian Union is giving some very amusing reminiscences of the Puritan ministry of New England. Among his stories is one of old parson C—, of Bedford, in Revolutionary times. He was very quaint and homely, not to say irreverent, in his prayers. His people requested him on one occasion to pray for rain, which he did thus: "O Lord, thou knowest it is very dry in these parts. O Lord, the grass is all dried up till it looks like red foxes' tails, and the grasshoppers sit on the fence rails, crying, crying, crying, and the cattle go Low, low low (suiting his sound to the sense,) and we pray thee, O Lord, to uncork the bottles of heaven and send us rain." The good parson's prayer was answered directly by a tremendous rain which flooded the country, washed away mill-dams, and tore up things generally. The parson returned thanks in this style: "O Lord, we prayed thee for rain, and that thou would uncork the bottles of heaven; but, O, Lord, we didn't pray thee to leave the corks out." His parish took great umbrage at his style of praying, and held a meeting to sever his relation with them. Parson C. was present, apologized and confessed with great humility, and assured them that the prayer business would give them no more trouble. As they had nothing else against him, they forgave him, and requested him to close the meeting by prayer, which he did: "O Lord, we pray thee that we all, pastor and people, may jog along together in harmony through this vale of tears, and afterward be permitted to hitch horses together in the horse-sheds of salvation on high!"—He left.

—Latimer Whittle, a veteran of the late war, died recently in Jersey city. He was in the Seventy-third New York Regiment, and was shot in the battle of Bristow, Va., in 1862, and was thought to be dead, but evidences of vitality being discovered, he was removed to a hospital. The surgeons ascertained that the ball had passed into the man's liver and penetrated the base of his lungs. They decided that the wound was mortal, but Whittle recovered. They told him after his recovery, that he might live ten or twelve years. Nine months ago the injured lung began to trouble him, and about four weeks ago the decay became so rapid that he was confined to his bed, and sank rapidly.

—"What does 'Good Friday' mean?" asked one schoolboy of another. "You had better go home and read your 'Robinson Crusoe,'" was the withering reply.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an aspect melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to vitalizing the physical organization, it establishes regularity among those organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, continued vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving tonic in cases of debility, liver complaint, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

TWO GOOD-NATURED MEN!

"Who shall decide when Doctors disagree?"

"Whenever acting it has been attempted, it (Goldsmith's "Good-Natured Man") has failed." — GOOD NATURE, Portsmouth, March 16.

"Next to the 'Provoked Husband' it is the very best comedy in the English language. The play—the acting of it—was a great success."—DR. JOHNSON.

Our last authority was an eye witness of the initial performance; our first has certainly never seen the piece acted. Let each have what weight he deserves. Sheridan's "Rivals" was hissed when new; Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" lay in obscurity for ninety-five years after its first performances; but now these two pieces are sufficient favorites to escape even "Good Nature's" criticism. How much better is it to present some trivial farce (even if it be sparkling and be it done never so well) than a standard comedy, from studying which the actors derive the same benefit that any one must from perusing a masterpiece of literary workmanship, and whence the audience can carry away something for future use? We agree with Fannie Kemble that there are many buried treasures of dramatic literature in our language, and we are under heavy obligations to those who bring them to the surface. Perhaps, too, "Good Nature" will inform us why a piece which when merely read, book in hand, to a audience of some eighty "staid burghers of our town," sufficed to convulse them with laughter, should not be at least as good with the accessories of costume, scenery and what action the limited talent can suggest? CRITIC.

A CORRECTION.

Messrs. Editors: An item in your paper of Saturday gives the credit of the results of the recent Temperance Fair to the Woman's Temperance League. This is wrong. The Woman's League had nothing whatever to do with the matter; and all that was done toward making the Fair success-ful was done by the ladies of the Reform Club. It is proper that the explanation should be made in order to place the credit where it justly belongs. A MEMBER.

JOTTINGS.

"Make no mistakes," Brother Guppy, and get news when you get new ideas. That was a temporary Centennial affair of months ago, and you have just heard of it! Now make "Brother George" Collector of the port of New York, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, or something worth mentioning, and people will begin to think you have "struck suthin!"

A Concord dispatch to the Boston Journal of Saturday evening says: 'In the First Congressional District Hon. Frank Jones of Portsmouth is re-elected by a plurality of forty-seven votes and possibly more. There was something besides money and beer that elected Mr. Jones. There was treachery to Gen. Marston in the republican party. But after all it must be admitted that the district has been mighty uncertain' for quite a number of years. Whenever the republicans get thoroughly united they will carry the district, and not till then."

Mr. Daniel Scott, formerly Superintendent of the City Farm, died very suddenly of heart disease on Friday night. He was an upright and worthy man in all the relations of life, and enjoyed the respect of all who knew him or knew of him.

J. E. Bell has published a card in the Boston Globe, setting forth that he had been refused a hearing by the Boston Journal, that he was engaged to speak in New Hampshire during the late campaign by the Prohibition Committee, and that his Seabrook statement was made on the information of Mr. John S. Treat, (who he says is "not a prominent democratic politician" of this city,) and that he (Bell) was "authorized to use the fact by Alonzo F. Craig, Esq., a member of the Prohibitory Committee." We think there has been as much talk about the man Bell as he is worth, already, so we shall only add in this connection that Mr. Treat himself must have laughed when he read that he is not a democratic politican,—and we have excellent authority for saying that Mr. Craig flatly denies Bell's statement concerning him, as he knew nothing of the matter at all until after the Seabrook speech had been made.

Don't forget the grand concert under direction of Julius Eichberg, at the Middle street church this evening. It will be one of the best instrumental and vocal entertainments ever given here. See published programme. Reserved seat tickets can be procured at Preston's to-day, at 50 cents each.

It seems quite likely that Hon. Frank Jones of Portsmouth is to be the "spared monument" of the New Hampshire democracy, and as his majority can hardly exceed a baker's dozen of votes, even if his re-election to Congress is conceded, it behooves him to be very modest about the result and give a qualified support to the administration of Hayes. The republicans have certainly two Congressmen now, where they had one before, if they have lost the first district, while the democrats have only one in place of two.—Worcester Gazette.

The Temperance Mutual Relief Association held a business meeting Friday evening, Vice President Janvrin in the chair. A constitution and by-laws were read, discussed, accepted and adopted, after which it was voted to hold a public meeting Wednesday evening for the purpose of explaining the design of the new organization, how it is to be conducted, etc.

Lippincott's Magazine for April, handsomely illustrated, is now ready, and contains eleven articles besides the "Monthly Gossip" and "Literature of the Day." The two most attractive articles are "A Chapter from Real Life," describing the experiences and struggles of an English lady of refined breeding, who some years since crossed the Atlantic in the steerage of an emigrant ship and lived for a time in squalid boarding houses in New York city; and an account of "Way Island," by Mr. Robert Wilson, who always writes graphically of the social manners and customs of the South, and in his present paper brings into vivid light a forgotten page of family history. "The Tartar and his Home," by Edward C. Bruce, is full of information and lucid and suggestive views in regard to the East. It is finely illustrated, as is also a second paper on the "Valleys of Peru." The fiction of the number includes an installment of "The Marquis of Lossie," by George Macdonald, a short and amusing story with the odd title of "K.", and the conclusion of Auerbach's "Gawk from America." J. B. Lippincott & Co., publishers, 715 and 717 Market street, Philadelphia; $4 per year, postage paid.

A very prominent member of the democratic party in this city was heard to say, soon after Tilden's nomination, "If we do not succeed this time we had better sell out and all go to h—l." He will have an opportunity now to migrate to that country, whither so many of his party are tending.

THE SENATORIAL VOTE.

On comparing the vote for Senator in this district at the late election with previous votes, we confess that we are rather surprised at the favorable showing made by the unexceptionable republican candidate, who certainly need not feel ashamed of the support given him, although that support was not sufficient to secure his election. It is well known that in redistricting the State last June, it was intended to make this district democratic under ordinary circumstances; or, rather,—for the redistricting was done with little or no reference to gaining political advantage,—the re-arrangement of district lines resulted in making this a probably democratic district. Two years ago, when Mr. Jones first ran for Congress, the democratic plurality in the district as it now exists was 239; but the plurality for Mr. Elbridge is now but 160,—and this reduction in the democratic plurality was made in face of the strongest combination ever made in one Senatorial district, viz: Daniel Marcy for Governor, Frank Jones for Congressman, Marcellus Eldredge for Senator, and Samuel P. Treadwell for County Treasurer,—and with a special effort concentrated upon the two positions, of Congressman and Senator. On the other hand, Mr Philbrick was left comparatively alone, for as there seemed no reasonable doubt that the republicans would elect eight of the twelve Senators without this district, it was probably considered that any special effort to carry the district would be wasted, even if it resulted in his election; at any rate, none was made. That Mr. Philbrick, in face of the powerful democratic combination and the republican apathy, and the lavish use of money in every town by the democrats, reduced the democratic plurality from 239 to 160, shows that he was one of the strongest candidates that could have been nominated by the republicans, and that under ordinary circumstances he would have been elected, even if the district is presumably a democratic one.

In his own town of Rye Mr. Philbrick made a splendid run, leading the republican Governor, vote nine and the Congressional vote ten, and cutting down the democratic majority, which was eighty on the Governor and Congressional tickets, to sixty-five on the Senatorial.

—"Ten minutes' rest," said the gondolier, when he reached the Bridge of Sighs, and quietly lighted his pipe. "Ten minutes' rest, and for what?" inquired the American. "For emotion and poetical contemplation," replied the gay gondolier.

—The other day a German looked up at the sky and remarked; "I guess a leedle it vill rain sometime pody queek." "Yees do, eh?" replied an Irishman at his side. "Well, I want yees to understand that yees have no business to come over to Ameriky and say anything furnist the weather. Past the divil do yees pur-end to know about American weather, anyhow, ye furrin gallout?" The German had no more to say on the subject.

—Under date of East Windsor, May 22, 1877, the following appeared in the Connecticut Courant: "Thomas Hutchins has advertised that I have absented myself from his bed and board, and forbid all persons trusting me on his account. I now advise the public that the same Thomas Hutchins came as a fortune teller into this town about a year ago, with a recommendation which with some artful falsehoods, induced me to marry him. Of the four wives he had before me, the last he quarrelled away; how the other three came by their death he best can inform the public; but I caution all widows or maidens against marrying him. Should he make his addresses under a feigned name, they may look out for a little strutting, talkative, feeble, meagre, hatchet-faced fellow, with spindle shanks, and a little warped in the back. (Signed)

THANKFUL HUTCHINS."

Good Living and Dyspepsia.

Good living is said to cause dyspepsia; but the most healthy people I have ever known are among those who live well—who eat freely several times a day of the most nutritious food. By some it is said that tobacco, snuff, tea, coffee, butter and even bread cause this complaint; but whoever will make enquiries on this subject throughout the community will find this seldom true. In fact, dyspepsia prevails, according to my experience, altogether the most among the temperate and careful—among those who are careful as regards what they eat and drink, and the labor they put upon the stomach, but exceedingly careless how much labor they put upon that more delicate organ, the brain. Such people often eat nothing but by the advice of the doctor, or some treatise on dyspepsia, or by-weight; nor drink anything that is not certainly harmless; they chew every mouthful until they are confident, on mature reflection, that it cannot hurt the stomach. Why, then, are they dyspeptics? Because, with all their carefulness, they pay no attention to the excitement of the brain. They continue to write two or three sermons or essays every week, besides reading a volume or two, with magazines, reviews, newspapers, etc., and attending to much other business calculated to excite the mind. To me it is not very strange that such persons have nervous and stomachic affections. The constant excitement of the brain sends an excess of blood to the head, and therefore other organs are weakened, and morbid sensibility is produced, which renders the stomach liable to derangement from very slight causes.—From Dr. Holbrook's "Liver Complaint."

—A New York lecturer says that a large thumb indicates strong will, a small thumb prejudice. Short fingers show hasty judgment, bold execution and high results. Long fingers show detail and minuteness.

—It takes one woman to describe another. Jennie June thus speaks of Aimee: "Aimee is a curious study to a student of the human. She dresses gorgeously, a different set of jewels with every dress, hosiery that cost $10 or $15 the pair, and shoes with heels that make you wonder how she balances herself upon them. She has a full bust and round, white arms, bare to the top, and hands which look as though they had once, but not lately, known work or worker; but her face is wonderful—it is ugly, yet she makes it fascinating. She can look more wickedness than any woman could talk, and seems to be the very incarnation of attractive sin. No one could ever think of her as having once been a baby and held in a mother's lap, or heard lullabies from a mother's lip."

—Poor Bartholomew, the American sculptor, used to give an amusing description of a visit Gibson once made to his studio. Bartholomew was an exceedingly tall, thin young man, who had received an injury to his right knee, in consequence of which he stood sometimes six feet high and sometimes five feet eight inches, according to the leg he rested upon. "Gibson sat down in front of my statue," said Bartholomew, "and silently examined it for some few minutes while I stood nervously waiting to hear his opinion. At last he began in his usual measured manner—'Now, Mr. Bartholomew, when your statue reaches London or New York'—and as he said this I gradually rose on my long leg, confident he was going to tell me my fame would be established—'yes, when it reaches London or New York, it will be smashed to pieces—yes, smashed to pieces;' and I dropped at once to the lowest level my short leg would let me." Bartholomew had neglected to give his model the necessary support required by the fragility of marble, and that was Gibson's manner of drawing timely attention to the omission.

Dr. A. J. Flagg's

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

In the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extensive reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many years trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the WORST CASES. Its purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a chronic cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it has effected a permanent and rapid cure, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the throat. TRY IT.

It will cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat.

TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

Remember that it

CURES COLDS,
CURES COUGHS,
CURES CATARRH
CURES CONSUMPTION.

DR. WM. M. LADD, a leading Druggist of Claremont, certifies as follows:

For many years I have known Dr. A. J. Flagg as a successful practicing physician, and can assure the public that his representations relative to the Cough and Lung Syrup can be strictly relied upon. It has been used in his extensive practice with marvelous success, and I know it to be a trust he claims for it.

—Mr. Hewitt expressed a willingness to hold Mr. Hayes' hat during the inaugural exercises. But as it was a very fine one, and the only one he had, the President wisely declined with thanks and sat down upon it till Mr. Hewitt disappeared in the shadowy distance.—Burlington Hawkeye.

—The standard of drunkenness varies between London and Edinburgh. A witness in a London court recently testified that "a man is properly drunk when he cannot walk;" in Edinburgh, at about the same time, a witness gave it as his opinion that "a man hasna' enough until he cannot speak."

—A western Manchester writes to a San Francisco paper a long account of a secluded tribe of Indians who in winter sink their children (wrapped in air-tight caskets of birch bark) under the deep waters of the lake in their vicinity, and in the spring raise them up from the bottom of the lake alive and well, after being six months dormant and unconscious.

—While Mr. Beecher was lecturing in Minnesota, last Friday evening, a very large and self-possessed grey cat was seen walking deliberately down one of the aisles of the church toward the rostrum. She ascended the steps of the platform, walked up to the lecturer, and very familiarly rubbed herself against his legs to the great amusement of the audience. Mr. Beecher simply stopped, looked down, and laughingly remarked, "Well, now I am beginning to feel at home."

My Babies in Prayer-Time.

I think I should feel easier about my youngsters—aged respectively a year and a half and three years—if I could account for their wickedness upon natural principles. But how on earth such ancestry as theirs—two long rows of unspotted deacons and ministers—could ever produce two such little imps is quite beyond me. All the wild oats that have been smothered under white ties for a couple of centuries have cropped out in my two boys; and all I have to say is, 'tis very hard on me. I have borne with them until patience is no longer a virtue; and now I bring them up before the religious public for discipline. Solomon says "Spare the rod and spoil the child;" but he was a wise old gentleman not to commit himself any farther. What would he have us do if after an unsparing use of the rod the child is still spoiled? From the time my small men step out of their respective cribs in the morning till they tumble into them at night our house is one "scene of confusion and creature complaints." One eternal howl, rising and falling, changing from sad to gay, from mad to repentant, but never dying away till the little eyes are closed and the fat fists punched into the pillow for the night.

We always have morning prayers in the sitting-room. There in front of the blazing fire, are two great easy-chairs, dobbed respectively, "the big bear's chair," and "the middle-sized bear's chair." Then there are two crickets for the "little bears." After we have our breakfast and the two youngsters have eaten a miraculous quantity of oatmeal, they know that the next thing is to go into the sitting-room and seat ourselves for "prayer." So they start pell-mell, trip over one another and sprawl headlong, one on top of the other, through the doorway. The upper one pounds the under one, and the under one roars and howls. Then sit down, in which process the baby is always sure to come short of his cricket, and sit down a little to one side, with a thump and a roar. Then each must have some sort of a book for a Bible. Baby prefers "Keble's Christian Year," because it has a red cover, whilst Charles has a leaning toward "Wild Sports in the Far West," because now and then he can steal a peep at the bloodthirsty engravings. We are about to commence, Paterfamilias looks solemn. "Charles," he says, "if you are not a good boy papa will have to punish you after prayers." Charles looks awe-struck and baby's lip quivers. We all feel solemn enough to commence. We have read a dozen verses and the children still sit motionless. I fall thinking what a beautiful thing it is to have the little ones worship with us. Their memories may treasure up words that are empty now, but in after years may be full of meaning. We read a few more verses. Bless me! The crickets and their owners have disappeared. They have "hitched" along noiselessly, and are punching one another behind the desk. A few more verses and they crawl around behind my chair, tandem-fashion. "Children," I say in an agonized whisper, "go back, go back, don't you remember what papa said?" But they are deaf to remonstrance, and the next thing they do is to get the tongs and poker and best the loudest kind of reveille on the coal-scuttle. "Children," I fairly shout, "go back to your seats this instant." They go, and we all kneel down for the prayer. Baby turns Methodist and his responses come near drowning the prayer. Charles finds a pin and is about to stick it into baby's leg when I restrain him. Then they both stand upon their crickets and make a simultaneous dive for the depths of my easy chair, nearly knocking me into the fire. Next they pull off their father's slippers and are about to commit assault and battery on him. Just then he says, "Our Father who art in heaven." They recognize this phrase as "the beginning of the end," and the transformation is wonderful. Little heads are bent and hands folded decorously, and in this attitude they remain for a full minute after we are on our feet, as proof positive that they have been "good." We hold a family council as to the degree of badness that merits a whipping, and end with giving them a solemn lecture and a free pardon.

We entertained a minister not long since for a week. Of course he conducted prayers, and I said, apologetically, that I hoped the children did not disturb him. Poor man! Like George W., he could not tell a lie. So he blushed and said they did distract him a little, but he hoped he should be able not to notice it.

Cannot any one who reads this tale of woe suggest a remedy? I appeal to those who have no children—their theories are always best—to tell me what to do.—Christian Union.

Do not Allow the Frogs to be Pared.

The frog of the foot of every horse is the natural support of the foot, and should never be cut away except to remove the rough edges which occasionally appear from common wear. At a late meeting of the farriers and horseshoers in Wilmington, Del., there was a great deal said in condemnation of the manner in which horses are shod, especially in the rural districts. A lecturer, a veterinary surgeon (according to the New York Herald,) said that "the frog of the foot was often pared away so artistically to make a neat job that the tendon or muscle that extended down the leg, over what is known as the pulley bone, and gave the foot its motion, was often injured, and then the horse would be weak in the legs, and blunder. He severely characterized the habit of burning the hoof with a red hot shoe to make it fit, and said there ought to be a law passed to hang any blacksmith who would use red hot shoes in this way. The shoe should be fitted to the shape of the foot, rather than the foot fitted to the shoe."

News and Notes.

General Pleasonton's blue glass theory is assailed by the Scientific American. His idea that electricity is generated by the passage of light through the glass is declared to be absurd. Nor have colored rays any beneficial effect on life, the reverse rather being the truth, as a pure, white light is best. The only good that can possibly come of blue glass is in its use as a shade for decreasing the intensity of solar light.

The World Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York—not the old and reliable "Mutual"—is in difficulties, with more liabilities than assets. It is to be wound up. It is a small concern, little if any known in this vicinity.

A person elected a constable in North Carolina has been fined $25 under a State statute, for refusing to serve.

John Cumming of Jamaica, L. I., on Saturday committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a locomotive.

Catherine New, an old German lady in Elizabeth, N. J., on Friday night threw herself into a cistern and was drowned.

Peter Dengan celebrated St. Patrick's day in Newark, N. J., by an attempt to kill his sister and himself, and accidentally fired the house, but the flames were extinguished. Both were the victims of liquor, and are reported dying.

There is something alarming in the increased frequency of that terrible malady, hydrophobia. A few years ago it was so rare that the question was seriously discussed whether belief in the existence was not a delusion, whereas now cases are reported every few days. A New York merchant, residing in Brooklyn, has just died of it. He was bitten in the hand by a small vagrant dog as he was trying to remove it from a basement window, where it persisted in lying. He had the wound promptly cauterized, and yet the disease developed five or six weeks after the occurrence, and the symptoms were unmistakable.

William Hayes, a San Francisco attorney, on Friday night attempted to kill Gen. John McComb, managing editor of the Alta California newspaper. He gave Mr. McComb five minutes in which to sign a retraction of an item which had appeared in the Alta. Hayes was very badly battered, knocked down and arrested by McComb, and his pistol taken from him.

By the explosion of a boiler in Hunter Brothers' saw-mill, near Worthington, Ind., Friday afternoon, twelve men were killed, and seven severely wounded.

Joe Goss has been fined $250 at Covington, Ky., for engaging in a prize-fight with Jim Mace. He went to jail, having no money to pay the fine.

Thomas Keeney was on Saturday sentenced to six months in the penitentiary for beating his wife, in New York. He was no sooner sentenced than he jumped over the railing, knocked his wife down and kicked her several times in the presence of the Court before officers could seize him. He was then sentenced to an additional year in the penitentiary.

Secretary of State Evarts was retained in the Vanderbilt will case before his name was mentioned in connection with the Cabinet. His retainer was $50,000, and to earn this vast sum required of him only a journey from Washington to New York and an attendance of an hour in court.

On and after the 26th inst. the Anglo-American Telegraph Company will transmit political and general news for publication between the United Kingdom and Canada and the city of New York at the rate of 6d. per word, such news messages to be transmitted when the cables are disengaged, and to be accepted expressly on the above conditions.

With her total debt of $6,000,000 Portland is as hard driven to economy as any New England city, and Mayor Butler is setting himself to secure a general and sharp reduction of salaries, beginning with his own. He recommends getting rid of the unfortunate Portland and Ogdensburg investment, and putting the proceeds into a sinking fund.

The extra session of the Senate closed on Saturday. No President pro tem. was elected, owing to the absence of Mr. Ferry.

The junior dean of Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, sent for the police on the last Sunday in February. At midnight a large number of students assembled in front of his residence and sounded fog-horns. The dean, on going out to intimidate them with threats of expulsion, was assaulted by students who wore masks and vails, and who pummeled him until a stalwart porter sprang to his rescue. Doors were torn from their hinges; bonfires were kindled; windows were smashed; the keys of the belfry were purloined and the bell was tolled. The emeute grew out of the unpopularity of the dean. He had fined a student for appearing without academic costume, and had put an end to a game of football. Before this outbreak the dean had been subjected to minor persecutions; his letter-box had been crammed with squibs, and when these exploded and he rushed out to find out what was the matter, skirmishers had entered his room, floored the porters, and smashed the furniture. Altogether the students seem to be the same boisterous, devil-may-care revelers whose portraits Charles Lever has sketched with a bold hand.

Bogardus accomplished the wonderful feat at New York, on Friday night, of breaking 1000 glass balls in 1 hour, 42 minutes and 50 seconds. He was matched to break the balls within 2 hours and 40 minutes, with one gun, and the privilege of two sets of barrels. The balls were sprung out of a patent trap, and Bogardus stood 18 yards from the trap. He fired at 1136 balls and broke 1002.

Chief Justice Cartter of the District of Columbia Supreme Court on Saturday dismissed the suit brought against ex-Secretary Bristow by parties inimical to him, and known as the "Kentucky mule case." The claim of the informant in the case was that this mule claim, for which Bristow was the attorney, and which was paid by the order of the Court of Claims, was a fraud, and that the money should be returned to the Government. Chief Justice Cartter said that but for the soreness with which the case was presented by the counsel for the plaintiff he would not have entertained the suit at all. There was no warrant for it whatever.

Steamer Rusland, Capt. DeHorsey, of the Red Star line from Antwerp for New York, went ashore 500 yards south of the West End Hotel at Long Branch, N. J., at eleven o'clock on Saturday night. All the passengers and crew and the passengers' baggage were landed next morning by the life-saving crews of Stations Four and Six. There were five cabin and 120 steerage passengers. The steamer filled with water, and the indications are that she will be a total loss. If the weather is good the cargo may be saved.

Fred Douglass was on Saturday confirmed by the Senate as Marshal of the District of Columbia, by a vote of 30 to 12, nineteen republicans not voting. Beck of Kentucky, Hill of Georgia, Morgan of Alabama, and Garland, democrats, voted to confirm Douglass' appointment.

The stranded steamer Amerique was hauled at least fifty feet southeastward Saturday night, and the prospect of soon floating her is considered good.

Barque San Eden, from Cape de Verdes for Portland, went ashore on Martha's Vineyard during the snow-storm of Saturday morning, and the schooner Jonathan May, from Boston for Philadelphia, went on Cape Cod near North Chatham Saturday afternoon; both vessels will be totally lost.

Ex-Governor Emory Washburn, of Massachusetts, died at Cambridge on Sunday, aged 77 years.

The schooner Christie Campbell, at Gloucester from Georges, Sunday morning, reports having seen a two-topmast schooner capsized, with all sail set, thirty miles off Cape Ann. It was blowing so heavy at the time that she could not go along-side. It is not known whether the crew were saved or not.

Rear Admiral Sir Edward Belcher, the explorer, who commanded the expedition in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852, died on Sunday in London, aged 78 years.

New Hampshire Items.

H. S. Watson's dwelling-house in Warner was partly burned Friday night. Loss $600; insured.

Elbert S. Moses, a prominent business man of South Franklin, committed suicide by hanging himself to a bed-post with a strap Friday night. General depression of spirits was the cause. He was about forty-nine years old, and left one son.

Rev. H. H. Lord, D. D., for thirty years pastor of the Congregational Church at Montpelier, Vt., son of the late President Lord of Dartmouth College, died Saturday morning, after a lingering and painful illness.

In Antrim, Sunday afternoon, two young men, named Campbell and Bailey, had some difficulty about political matters, which ended by Bailey striking Campbell several times in the face. Campbell drew a revolver and shot Bailey through the neck. It is thought that the wound will prove fatal.

Dr. Watson of Conway, formerly of Bethel, Me., left town suddenly on election day, fearing arrest for alleged attempted rape upon a lady patient. Threats of lynching were freely indulged.

Peterboro voted $22,000 and Hillsboro $10,000 for the proposed railway between those towns.

Rev. J. H. Collins, pastor of the First Unitarian church, Lancaster, has tendered his resignation, to take effect April 1st.

Jacob Hirchfield, who was murdered on Harrison Avenue, Boston, March 13th, formerly did business in Manchester, and at the time of his violent death was a member of Hillsborough Lodge, I. O. O. F.

A report prevails in the First District that Gen. Marston will contest Jones' seat on the ground that his election was secured by bribery. We hope the report is true, and we trust that the republican State Committee will furnish all the material aid that Gen. Marston may need for such a contest. Relentless war upon men who buy their way to Congress is the only remedy for this giant and growing evil. The fact that the House is democratic and a contest apparently hopeless should not deter Gen. Marston from a resolute attempt to oust Jones from his purchased seat. The duty which every man owes to posterity demands that he should strike a blow at corruption whenever it becomes his turn. It is Gen. Marston's turn, and we know of no man who can deal more effective blows. Strike and spare not, General, and you will do your State as splendid service as you did on the battlefields of Virginia fifteen years ago. Nashua Telegraph.

British Naval Failures.

Persons who consider the American navy the only one in which failures occur in the building and fitting out of ships, may gain new ideas on the subject from the following extract from "Iron," the leading engineering journal of England:

The "Wild Swan," six gun sloop, has made two very unsatisfactory trials of her machinery at Plymouth, the second trial being even more unsatisfactory than the first, as it was found that no efforts would make the boilers generate enough steam to work the engines at even half speed. She will therefore, although a new ship, have to undergo extensive repairs, which will occupy some time. * * A strict inquiry is being made at Sheerness by order of the Admiralty as to the repeated failures of the "Turquoise," twelve-gun screw corvette. This vessel has not been in commission yet, and was only launched last year, but it has been found impossible to do anything with her engines, and she has proved a very expensive failure. She is sister ship to the "Opal," Capt. F. C. B. Robinson, which left England last year with her machinery in a miserably defective state. So untrustworthy is the machinery of the "Opal" that several accidents have already occurred. On her passage to the Pacific she called at Madeira, and when coming to anchor her starting gear broke down, and, it being impossible to stop the ship, she came into collision with a merchant vessel. As she was ordered to go through the Straits of Magellan, at the best of times very intricate for men-of-war, Capt. Robinson had to take her through; and at a sudden bend in the passage, when it was necessary to ease the engines, the starting gear again broke down, and nearly the whole of the vessel's forefoot was knocked away by the rocks. On her arrival at Valparaiso, where she joined the admiral, several repairs were effected, and a trial trip, under the superintendence of the engineers of the flag-ship, was ordered. On this occasion the machinery, when working at only thirty revolutions, broke down altogether; and on the 28th of December the "Opal" sailed from Coquimbo for the east coast of Peru, her engineers having to make the best of her engines.

—There is a "corner" in marriages in New Castle, Lawrence county, N. Y. And thus it happened. The young damsels signed a pledge to the effect that they "will not court nor marry any young man who drinks intoxicating liquors or uses tobacco," and the young men of the same place say "they will neither court nor marry any young lady who laces, pads, wears a big bustle, palpitator or other patent appliance as an improvement on nature." This has "cast a gloom" over social life in that vicinity. It's a fine thing for the billiard rooms and sewing societies.

—The London Lancet says that ladies' high-heeled boots produce hysteria in the wearers.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an abject melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to vitalizing the physical organization, it establishes regularity among those organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, rest most vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving agent in cases of debility, liver disease, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

The great popular remedy of the day for coughs, colds, asthma and all lung difficulties is Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Inexpensive, reliable, pleasant to take, cures as by magic, and gives universal satisfaction. A trial is the best testimonial. Price 25 cts. Samples free.

Dr. A. J. Flagg's Cough and Lung Syrup will cure a cough and cold in a few days, and has proved itself to be the only remedy known that can arrest the development of tubercles on the lungs, or restore the vital functions of those organs. Try it.

THE "GOOD-NATURED MAN."

Messrs. Editors: I also noticed in your columns of Wednesday last the same item which attracted the interest of your correspondent "Good Nature." The effect on my mind was so opposite to that produced upon "Good Nature" that it affords an amusing illustration of the proverb that "what's one man's meat is another man's poison." I read with glowing satisfaction the announcement that there was a band of ladies and gentlemen in this town of sufficient culture, refinement and enterprise to put upon the stage a fine old English comedy, written by one of the "immortal few," containing incident, wit, and amusing situations enough to furnish material for forty of the cheap farces with which the modern stage is flooded. If there is anything as dreary and void of interest as most of the so-called side-splitting farces, I don't know what it is, unless it be a last year's almanac. OLD PLAY.

QUITE ANOTHER MATTER.

The Dover Democrat last week published the following dispatch, sent from Dover to a Boston paper:

"Prominent republicans here are claiming the election of General Marston on the ground of the action of Governor Weston in the case of Nat Head, asserting that Frank Jones' legal name is Frank in Jones, and has never been changed. They insist that Governor Cheney will be obliged to follow the precedent established by his predecessor and sanctioned by the Supreme Court of the State, and give the certificate to General Marston."

This suggestion seems to have affected the Democrat's editor as a red rag does a turkey-gobbler, and he charges upon it with much noisy wrath. He says for Gov. Cheney to do what this dispatch indicates would be an "act of infamy" and would make his reputation nasuvory in the nostrils "to the latest generation of man"—a long time, by the way—and suggests that to discover "the man whom the people intended to vote for and did vote for" is all the business the Governor has in the matter. Further, the Democrat "does not believe he [Governor Cheney] is any such man" as to pattern his conduct on the Weston infamy. We do not remember that the Dover Democrat, or any other democratic paper in the State opposed the shameless scoundrelism first advocated by the Concord People and to carry out which James A. Weston showed himself a willing tool, by which over three thousand voters were arbitrarily disfranchised to secure the election of a man whom the people had rejected, though it was not even pretended there was any doubt concerning "the man whom the people intended to vote for and did vote for;" on the contrary, there was much grandiloquent talk about "the letter of the law," but none about justice and honor. But we agree with the Democrat now, that for Governor Cheney to act as Weston did would justly expose him to the same contempt visited upon Weston, and that Gov. Cheney is not "any such man." And if he were to attempt any such villainy as Weston carried out, instead of being universally applauded by his party press, as Weston was, he would be denounced by every republican paper in the State. The Democrat need not fear that Gov. Cheney will duplicate the Weston "act of infamy."

JOTTINGS.

Another triumph for blue glass. On last Saturday a laboring man who has been out of work all winter and whose treasury was reduced to the last two-dollar bill, put two panes of blue glass in his kitchen window, and that afternoon his wife found $4.87 in a broken-nosed teapot in the cupboard.

We have received the April number of the Folio, which contains, besides the usual amount of miscellaneous reading and choice music, a portrait of Miss Emma C Thursby, who enjoys the distinction of receiving the largest salary as a church choir singer, she receiving, in Brooklyn, $3,000 per year, coach hire, and hotel expenses. The Folio is published by White, Smith & Co., No. 516 Washington street, Boston.

The following item we clip from the Boston Post of Monday: "Mr. A. O. Child, late a resident of Brooklyn, was accidentally drowned at Callao, Peru, on the 16th of February last. Deceased, at the time of his death, was first officer of the ship Theobald, and was originally from Portsmouth, N. H."

The Concord Monitor has received returns from all the towns in this Congressional district, and publishes the vote as 13,924 for Frank Jones, 13,875 for Gilman Marston, and 98 for Moulton, the prohibition candidate. Plurality for Jones, 49.

Parts 33 to 36 inclusive of "Zell's Popular Encyclopedia" have been received from the publishers, T. Ellwood Zell, Davis & Co. Few serial works issued in this country have met with such remarkable success as this. In issuing the present edition, the former ones have been most carefully scanned and revised, while several thousand additions have been made. The complete work will contain, in addition to the several thousand illustratio s, eighteen valuable maps, engraved on steel and finely colored. It may justly be said that no work of the kind can compare with this in comprehensive range of information, clearness, and conciseness of statements, readiness of answer to any inquiry, and economy in price. The general agent for New England is Horace King, Thompsonville, Conn.

The democratic New Haven Union says: "Blind prejudice and bigotry still lurk in the granite hills of New Hampshire. The one constitutional amendment rejected on Tuesday removed the requirement that members of the Legislature 'shall be of the Protestant faith.' The clause has been a dead letter for some time, but solely for the reason that men of enlightened views have been chosen to the Legislature and no member's religion has been questioned. For the past five years the two most useful members of the Legislature were Catholics." Who those "two most useful members of the Legislature" are the Union does not say, and we do not know of any Catholic member who has wielded remarkable influence for five years past; but we may remind the Union that if the religious test is still retained it will be mainly due to the vote of the strongly democratic towns of the interior.

We have just received the Annual Report of the former Superintendent of Public Instruction in this State, Hon. J. W. Simonds of Franklin. It is a voluminous work, comprising nearly six hundred duodecimo pages, and containing an abundance of useful information to every one interested in the welfare, improvement and present standing of the common schools of New Hampshire. Mr. Simonds has reflected much credit upon himself in thus gathering so many items of interest relating to the subject of education. We have no time at present to examine and compare the condition of our schools with those of other New England States, but reserve the task for some future opportunity.

Political.

The Northern democrats in Washington are a good deal alarmed at the progress made toward securing a republican organization of the next House. Those interested in the movement say that at least fifteen democratic votes are already pledged for a republican Speaker. Clerk McPherson, who was for twelve years Clerk of the House, has said that he shall be a candidate for Clerk of the next House.

A Portland barber has announced his intention of not recognizing the Hayes government. And lawyer Beach only recognizes the government under protest. And so the revolt goes on.

Detective Officer James White of Cincinnati, Ohio, was sentenced to thirteen months in the penitentiary, Saturday for being implicated in the democratic election frauds engineered by Eph Holland, the "sport," which elected Banning to the U. S. House of Representatives over Stanley Matthews, at the October election last year.

—Rev. Joseph Cook lectured in New Haven, Conn., last Friday night, on "Scepticism in Eastern Massachusetts." He attacked Harvard College with such vigor that the Yale men in the audience positively licked their chops for joy. "If Harvard had had a Dwight," said he, "the history of that institution and of Boston would be different." At this point a big fellow in the audience ejaculated: "Hoop it up for Dwight! Was he in the crew?" It was Bob Cook.

—That invaluable publication the London Court Journal, chronicles the great event that the other night Lady Holland's poodle was suddenly taken sick, and when its noble mistress arose to take it to the nurse she made a misstep and fell to the bottom of a flight of stairs.

—It is said of a bankrupt Michigan firm: "The schedule of liabilities is fifteen feet long; assets very small."

The Verdict.

The progress of a valuable invention is like the progress of truth, suspected at first, though very beneficial to those who have the courage to try it; abused as its popularity seems to spread, and establishing its triumph at last by carrying happiness into palace and cottage by the resistless efforts of time and its own virtues. Such is the history of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines. Their signal triumph is proof positive that they have virtues which neither suspicion, abuse, nor time, can invalidate. Dr. Pierce's Memorandum Books given away at all drug stores.

Contest over the Adoption of our Constitution.

In this country the opponents of the Constitution of 1787—our happy Constitution—were quite as sure that that terrible instrument would destroy popular liberty as Lord Shelburne was that the British star would set if America became independent. "'Tis really astonishing," said Richard Henry Lee, "that the same people who have just emerged from a long and cruel war in defence of liberty should now agree to fix an elective despotism upon themselves and their posterity." "Some of the powers must be abridged," said Samuel Chase, "or public liberty will be endangered, and in time destroyed." Joshua Atherton congratulated anti-Constitution members of the New York Convention that they had the opportunity "to save our devoted country from impending ruin." George Clinton said of the same Convention: "The friends to the rights of mankind outnumber the advocates of despotism nearly two to one."

Nor was the opposition confined to words. The spirit of party was fierce. Mr. John C. Hamilton asserts that there was a party combination to take the life of his father, the great champion of the Constitution, by the duel; and Colonel Oswald did certainly challenge him, but upon explanation withdrew the challenge. On the 3d of July, 1788, twenty days before the New York Convention adopted the Constitution, came the news of the ratification by Virginia. The friends of the new charter marched to the fort in Albany, read it aloud with exultation, and fired a salute. The next day, the Fourth of July, the opponents of the Constitution, who believed that its adoption would be the setting of the star of American liberty, marched to the fort and burned the charter. Its friends, rejoicing in prospective victory, attempted to pass triumphantly the house where the other party were holding their celebration. But the latter fell upon them and drove them back. The Constitutionalists rallied, and approached by another street. But again the other party were ready, and had planted a small cannon loaded with stones to repel the assaulting column. The Constitutionalists pressed on, and as the dragoons at their head began the charge, the anti-Constitutionalists tried to fire the cannon. But it had been spiked, like the gun in Governor Dorr's assault upon the Providence arsenal in 1842, or the priming was wet, and it would not explode. A conflict followed, and the stony battle of Green Street is historical.

In the city of New York, after the Constitution was adopted, its friends resolved to punish its opponents by destroying the press of the publisher Greenleaf, whose paper had been the organ of opposition. They assaulted his house. He fired a pistol among them, and gallantly defended his castle. But the mob triumphed. Greenleaf and his friends fled, and the publication of the paper was suspended for many days. The rioters also proposed to visit General John Lamb, a tough old soldier of the Revolution, who was Collector of the Port under the State government, and who was subsequently appointed to the same position under the new Constitution by President Washington. Lamb was as brave as a lion. He made due preparation. Four veterans of the war, two young men, and a colored servant who had attended Lamb at the battle of Monmouth, composed the garrison of the house. The general directed in person. His house was on the south side of Wall Street, midway between Pearl and William Streets, about the present site of the banking house of Brown Brothers. He had lain in fifteen or twenty stand of arms, with proper ammunition and side-arms. The lower doors and windows were barred, the hall was barricaded with the furniture of the dining-room, the stairway was obstructed in the same manner, and the garrison was massed in the second story. The boys were stationed at the magazine to hand fresh muskets and to load. The general placed each man, with strict orders not to fire until he should begin the action, and all the lights in the house were extinguished except at the arsenal. Loop-holes were cut in the window-shutters for observation, and the general calmly awaited the assault. The rioters arrived. They filled the street in a dense throng. They roared, threatened, and challenged. But there was no reply. The house was dark and silent. The leaders of the mob held a council of war. They decided that the house was either deserted or garrisoned. They knew General Lamb, and concluded that it was probably not deserted. Then embracing the better part of valor, and shouting defiance, they withdrew.

The Constitution so bitterly opposed was adopted. But it has not ruined our devoted country, as Joshua Atherton feared, nor have the rights of mankind been imperilled, as George Clinton believed. The desponding American to-day, as he hears gloomy forebodings that we have surely reached the end, that liberty has now been finally overthrown, and that only accumulating disaster remains, should carefully inquire whether Jeremiah belongs to a party that has won or lost, and remember Lord Shelburne, Burke, Benedick, Clinton, and the Constitution that was to destroy America.—Harper's Magazine for April.

Daily Chronicle.

—A Pennsylvania jury, in Lancaster county, has agreed to condemn the subterfuge of "homicidal mania." In the case of Pannell, convicted of the murder of his wife, the sole defense was "insanity." All the plain people in every-day contact with him believed he was of sound mind and responsible for his acts. Some medical experts who had never seen the prisoner until he was placed on trial for his life, were brought forward to consider his mental condition when the murder mania was on him, as presented by other experts, and they no doubt convinced themselves that he was insane at the time he did the bloody deed. The jury, however, thought differently, and illustrated their sound sense by brushing aside the confusing sophistries of the experts, and delivering a righteous verdict. Another Pennsylvania jury has justly condemned Boardman Reed to pay $1000 and costs for publishing a libel in the Philadelphia Sunday Press, to the effect that Mrs. Annie Bailey had abandoned her husband and eloped with another man.

—Senator David Davis, whose chair-filling capacity has a national fame, found the huge arm-chair, which no Senator has been large enough to occupy for several years, too small for him, and after one day's trial he ordered it returned to the Capitol lumber room and had his measure taken for a new one. In the mean time he hovers about the cloak room or sits on a settee.

—Why do we never hear of an Old Men's Christian Association?

DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1825 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 10 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their recreation, and are so arranged that patients can not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage, 300 pages—full of plates—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting Dr. Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to DR. S. V. R. YOUNG, 9 Beaver St., Albany, N. Y.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty-four, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been already since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldier, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or go any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been an free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know of, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a trial and you will say so, too. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, E. D. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried to do not know how many physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, and I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten years, and have been travelling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most terribly. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that your pills are good, they do not cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves to all who try them. I shall recommend them to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Yours truly, THOS. TO THE INVENTOR, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS are put up only by the AMERICAN MEDICINE CO., Manchester, N. H., THOMAS W. LANE, Agent.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the long trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the cause of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc..

USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordail.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

ECLECTIC MAGAZINE
OF

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR.

THE ECLECTIC reprints from the foreign Quarterlies, Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, their choicest contents, including Essays, Scientific Papers, Biographical Sketches, Reminiscences of Travel and Adventure, Tales, Stories, and Poems. The field of selection is very large, and it is believed that the ECLECTIC presents a greater variety and higher standard of literature than any periodical can hope to do that depends exclusively upon home talent.

A knowledge of the current literature of other countries is indispensable to all who would keep pace with the progress of the human mind; and the ECLECTIC offers the best, and, indeed, the only opportunity for obtaining this knowledge within a reasonable compass, and at a moderate price.

Among the writers represented in recent numbers of the ECLECTIC are: The Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, James Anthony Froude, Matthew Arnold, Charles Kingsley, Robert Buchanan, Geo. McDonald, John Ruskin, Alfred Tennyson, Thomas Hughes, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Thos. Hardy, William Morris, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Alexander, Prof. Huxley and Tyndall, Richard Proctor, B. A., Prof. Owen, Dr. W. B. Carpenter, Max Muller, J. Norman Lockyer, Herbert Spencer, and others equally eminent. Besides the regular articles in the body of the magazine, there are four original Editorial Departments: Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties.

With regard to the character of the selections, the aim of the ECLECTIC is to be instructive without being dull, and entertaining without being trivial. While each number contains something for every member of the family circle, it addresses itself particularly to that great body of intelligent readers who seek profit as well as amusement in solid and healthful literature.

Besides the 128 pages of reading matter, each number of the magazine contains a Fine Steel-Engraving —usually a portrait—executed in the most artistic manner.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy one year $5; two copies, $9; five copies, $20. Trial subscriptions for three months, $1.

The ECLECTIC and any $4 Magazine to one address, $8.

The Prayer Test in China.

The prayer test has been tried in China with good success. Chao Ta-yung of Wachang Fu is a needy schoolmaster and a model philanthropist. His house is empty as a bell and his pockets are as empty as his house, and he starves and groans unceasingly. A year ago there was a man weeping in the street, crying out that his mother was dead and that he had no money to give her a burial. Chao took off a fur coat he was wearing and pawned it, giving the money to the mourner and going without a coat the rest of the Winter. Last November there was sore distress in the neighborhood; there was a great famine and many were crying with the cold and hunger, going through the streets with faces like the faces of starving birds. Chao was moved with compassion, but he had not enough rice even for himself. He entreated his relations and friends to assist the helpless, but they only laughed at him and called him a fool. At last he took a piece of yellow paper, wrote on it an account of the people's sufferings, took it into the temple and laid it before the image of his god; then prostrating himself upon the ground, he prayed and wept the whole night long until his eyes streamed with blood. The floor of his house was made of earth, hard, smooth and dry. After his return his son chanced to be playing with a small hoe near a hole in the floor and suddenly the mother fancied she saw something white shining inside. Lo! the hole was filled with quicksilver. She called her husband's attention to it, and when they looked again they found an enormous pool of the precious metal. "My prayer is answered!" cried the pious schoolmaster. The treasure was sold and rice was bought for the starving people of Hupeh, the stores being placed in the hands of the mandarins for distribution.

Carried Round by a Steamer's Paddle Wheel.

Captain Albert Stein, of the steamer Charles Morgan, has always enjoyed the reputation of possessing remarkable energy and vigor, and a constitution that an ox would envy. But nobody ever reputed to him the physical ability of performing a feat that would make the most fearless acrobat or trapeze performer pause and shudder in contemplating it; Paul De Lemoine, who balanced an elephant on a ten foot pole on his eyebrow, and then went up and brought the elephant down, would never have ventured to accomplish such a daring feat as performed by Captain Stein at Point Pleasant two months since, when the Morgan was aground there. If anybody thinks we refer to the Captain's cold water bath they have struck the key, but the remarkable part of the adventure remains to be told. The facts briefly related were as follows: The Morgan grounded hard at Point Pleasant, eighty-miles below Cairo; all night the spars were kept at work, and there, at his post, stood the Captain, like a faithful sailor, issuing orders, until the sable mantle of night that, just before daybreak, shadows the earth with impenetrable darkness, threw its shroud of gloom around him, as black as the concentrated hue of a nigger's heel. Under this pall of Egyptian inkiness all that disturbed the stillness of the night was the occasional order of the Captain to the pilot to "come ahead," on one or both wheels, or "stop her." Yet with the coming of daybreak the gallant boat was still hugging a sandbar, while the Captain was hugging the delusive hope that, if he took "a round or two in the starboard wheel-house," he might work up an appetite for breakfast and be fresh for another day's labor, so, giving the command to "come ahead on the starboard wheel," he descended to the lower deck, where the left heel of his moccasin tackled on an orange-peel, which made quick work in introducing him to his morning ablutions in the frigid waters of the Mississippi. In the next moment of time he took a couple of rounds in the wheel-house (which feat stands unrivalled,) and then "fanned" himself ashore, where upon reaching the water's edge, he got down to business again, commanding the pilot to "stop that starboard wheel, and send a couple of Russian towels ashore."—Cincinnati Times.

Perils of the Deep.

The uncommonly long list of disasters with which the marine records of the past winter have been burthened, has been tinged with just enough of romance to give the requisite amount of shade to the dark picture of wretchedness, suffering and death. The details of the wreck of the Yarmouth, N. S., ship "Ellen Goudy" in the Pacific Ocean is a case in point. The ship sailed from San Francisco, Aug. 28th, for Antwerp, and on the 6th of October went ashore on Elizabeth Island and was abandoned. The officers and crew landed on the island, and found shelter in a cave. Several attempts were made to obtain stores from the wreck, but all failed. In exploring the island the men found an encampment, which had probably been occupied by some shipwrecked crew. A number of empty cans, tins, bottles and a flour barrel were near it. The barrel was rebooped and repaired to hold water. A tub of sauipand bouilli was also found, and some good cocoanuts were obtained from the trees. Sea fowl were plentiful, and many were killed. Several heavy showers enabled them to replenish their water. On the 12th of October, the captain, his daughter, and six men left in the boat for Pitcairn's Island, leaving five men behind. On the 18th the boat was seen from the ship "City of Vienna," bound from San Francisco for Liverpool, and her crew were taken on board. The ship proceeded to Elizabeth Island and rescued the men left there. Considering the circumstances attending the wreck, it is wonderful all hands were saved.

Assistant Secretary Conant.

For two or three days stories implicating Hon. Charles F. Conant, of this State, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and Daniel Baker, chief of the loan branch of the Secretary's office, in alleged irregular transactions, have been industriously circulated, but when traced down are found to have originated with W. B. Moore, Chief Special Agent, who acknowledged the authorship, but said they were true, and that he was determined to have Conant and Baker removed. Secretary of the Treasury Sherman, when asked what foundation there was for the stories affecting the integrity of Conant and Baker, said they were scandalously false; that he had looked into the matter, and was fully satisfied that there was not the slightest truth in any of the allegations. He had directed an enquiry to be made into certain alleged fraudulent affidavits relating to the payment of unclaimed interests, but with which Conant had no more connection than the man in the moon. Secretary Sherman said farther he had authorized a positive denial of the statement that he was dissatisfied with Conant and contemplated his removal. Mr. Conant's New Hampshire friends have given no credit to the report of his implication in any interest fraud or any other fraud in connection with his department. They understand that he has been the uncompromising foe of corruption ever since he entered the Treasury Department as a subordinate clerk years ago, from which he has steadily risen by virtue of his fidelity and capacity to be one of the most valuable officers in the Government. When suspicion points at such a man he is entitled not only to a suspension of judgment but to unshaken confidence. If Mr. Conant is not a square man, then we shall despair of finding one in Washington, and shall think there is a moral poison in the atmosphere of that city more noxious than its pestilential malaria.

News and Notes.

Howe & French, wholesale druggists, of Boston, are charged with crookedness in alcoholic dealings, but flatly deny that they have been guilty of any offence.

Fannie G. Mest, five years old, was run over by an Eastern Railroad freight train at the Perkins street crossing in Charlestown, Monday afternoon, and her arm crushed so it had to be taken off. She will probably die.

The suit against Jordan, Marsh & Co., of Boston, begun in 1873 to recover for alleged undervaluation of imported goods, has been settled by the payment by defendants of $30,230.66, fine and costs. The defendants in the case claim—and that the errors in the service were technical, arising from a misapprehension of the law.

Worcester, Mass., has a hydrophobic panic, occasioned by a large number of dogs and several human beings being bitten by a mad dog.

Rev. S. H. McGee of the Ashton, Ill., Christian Church is in jail, charged with killing his wife to marry the daughter of one of his rich parishioners. The girl is twenty, pretty, and was engaged when McGee began to pay her special attentions, and he had been in the place but a few months when he was caught kissing the girl at a camp-meeting. His wife, who had borne him two children, was much loved by the people. Latterly, she had been having mysterious attacks of illness, and a week or so ago died in spasms. Strychnine was found in her stomach, and the evidence is strong that her husband administered it. McGee is a dandified man of thirty-six, and his attentions to the girl had broken up her previous marriage engagement, and there is no doubt but that his intention was to marry her and secure the large dowry the father was to give her. One of the peculiarities of the case is that the girl's father sides with the parson and will probably pay the expenses of his trial.

The Railway Age, of Chicago, in an elaborate review of changes in railway condition during 1876, presents some gloomy facts. Ten roads, of 2757 miles, the nominal value of whose stock and bonds amounted to $156,661,000, defaulted; 46 roads, of 7576 miles, value $538,000,000, had foreclosure suits commenced; 30 roads were sold under foreclosure,—3846 miles, $217,848,000 value; making 86 corporations, operating 14,179 miles, having a nominal capital of $912,699,000, nearly one-fifth of all the capital in railways in the United States.

Edward N. Lathrop, 26 years old, son of the foreman of the Atlantic Works at East Boston, committed suicide by taking morphine, Monday night.

The steamer "Entere City," from St. Louis, arrived at New Orleans recently with six barges in tow, containing 41,608 packages, consisting in part of 6,110 bbls. flour, 600 bbls. meal, 393 bbls. pork, 311 pkgs. lard, 47 pkgs. bacon, 1008 rolls bagging, 11,132 sacks corn, 5018 sack oats, 11,660 sacks cotton seed meal, 3,224 sacks oil cake, 105,259 bushels corn in bulk. The New Orleans Times says: "Take it all in all, that cargo beats all, and should make the railroads of the country acknowledge the corn, that the barge line can beat them in carrying big freight trips, and on quicker time than they can do it by far."

The Apache Indians are again troublesome in Texas on the Colorado river. Several people have been killed there recently, including Marshall Jewell, a well known hunter. Some fifty men are in pursuit of a raiding party.

The Tribune's St. Paul special says that the trial of Major A. Reno of the 7th Cavalry, commanding Fort Abercrombie, before a Court Martial (Colonel Hazen presiding), is drawing to a close. The trial is private, but it is known that charges were brought by Capt. J. M. Bell, stationed at Fort Abercrombie, specifying infamous proposals to Bell's wife and slanderous conversation and writing concerning her. These charges are understood to have been sustained by the evidence of Mrs. Bell, and by the evidence of an army chaplain, that Reno had cast decided reflections on the character of Mrs. Bell when talking to him (the chaplain).

New Hampshire Items.

Mrs. D. Osborn of Peterboro has experienced great relief from the blue glass cure; she was afflicted with partial paralysis.

It is alleged that the accounts of A. H. Batchelder, Town Treasurer of Loudon, who recently left the State for California, show a deficiency of $1500. The town will suffer no loss, his bondsman, William K. Holt, having made good the deficit.

The manufacturing interests of Peterboro' are awakening rapidly. Last week both paper mills and one cotton mill started up, all of which have been idle since last fall. The wages are low, but it is far better than continued idleness. The Monadnock Railroad has got the vote of the town to aid the construction of the Peterboro' and Hillsboro' Railroad.

Political.

The question, stripped of all side issues, is this: Can the President secure a support at the South which can guarantee the safety of all citizens in the exercise of their rights? No one doubts that many liberal Southern men would gladly do their utmost to bring about this result, but can they do enough? President Grant secured the support of Longstreet and Mosby, but were not those leaders immediately discarded and ostracised by those whose acquaintance the President sought to gain? Not less, but greater disorder, not less, but greater outrages, have followed the unsuccessful effort to win to the defense of equal rights and equal justice a substantial white element at the South. President Hayes will have to meet the same difficulty. Whether he can secure that division of Southern sentiment which alone will make it possible for the ablest and most liberal men of the South to sustain with effect a policy at once just and generous, is the problem which he has to solve.—Tribune.

Stanley Matthews was on Tuesday elected to the United States Senate by the Legislature of Ohio. Most of the democrats in both branches voted blanks.

Correspondence.

KINGSTON, March 17th.

At the annual election the citizens of this old democratic town were greatly agitated by a question outside of politics. Rev. Ward Clark, the first pastor of the Congregational Church here, in 1737, bequeathed to "his beloved people at Kingston" his "dwelling house and home place, for a perpetual parsonage, to be improved for the use of the ministry there." The conditions were accepted, and for eighty years the property was used for the purpose expressed by the testator. Afterward the house and lands were sold for $895, and the interest of the money divided into eight parts and given to men professing to represent eight different societies. In 1876 a vote was passed to give $50 of that money for the ministry of the church organized by Mr. Clark; but the Methodists served an injunction on the treasurer, forbidding him to pay it. On Wednesday, the 14th, the second day of the meeting, a crowd was collected and held together till late at night, and voted that this money be divided among all parties again. It is rather discouraging if good men who wish to aid feeble churches and societies cannot invest any funds for such a purpose, without the danger that their legacies may be perverted to defeat the very end for which they were designed. The vote of the town for Governor was as follows: For Prescott 137, Marcy 142. Representative elected, Amos C. Chase, republican. Selectmen, Samuel E. Woodman, Moses J. French, A. J. Davis. Collector, B. F. Cram. CITIZEN.

Town officers elected in York, Mar. 19; Moderator, G. W. S. Putnam; Clerk, Nath. G. Marshall; Selectmen, Assessors and Overseers of Poor, Josiah D. Bragdon, James A. Bragdon, George W. Currier; Treasurer and Collector, J. Frank Paul; Agent, Joseph Bragdon; Supt. Sch. Committee, Rev. Joseph Freeman; Auditor, G. W. S. Putman;—all republicans except second selectman. It was voted to raise, for schools, the amount required by law; for ordinary expenses, $2000; for town debt, $3000. Constables, J. Frank Paul, Jos. Bragdon, Geo. Thompson, Geo. F. Plaisted. P.

ELIOT, ME., March 20th.

At the annual town meeting here, on the 19th, the democratic ticket was successful by an average majority of twenty-eight, as follows: Town Clerk, Howard Staples; Selectmen, Assessors and Overseers of the Poor, Moses Goodwin, Charles A. Shapleigh, Charles H. Cole; Town Agent, John R. Hanscom; Superintending School Committee, Ichabod Cole; Treasurer, William J. Paul; Collector of Taxes, Samuel Clark; Constable, James M. Raitt; Auditors, Elisha G. Ferguson, Robert Spinney. J.

Using His Influence.

A good citizen, who has the cause of temperance at heart, was one day travelling up and down Michigan avenue to watch for topers and to coax them to sign the pledge and mend their ways. He got hold of three hard cases at once and took them into a boot and shoe store to argue the point. They were willing to listen, but obstinate about signing, and the good man went out to secure more influence. He met a butcher whom he had long known, and explaining the case to him, the butcher replied—

"They won't sign, eh? Well, now you see if they don't! They know me, and they'll put their names down like a streak of lightning!"

Entering the store he unfolded the pledge, and to the first he said—

"Tom, I want your fist to this."

"I druther not," replied Tom.

"You put your name down here or I'll give you the worst thumping you ever got, and don't forget it!" yelled the butcher.

Tom signed, and then the man of meat crooked his finger at Jim, who didn't hesitate a minute. The third one didn't know the butcher, and he said he wouldn't sign the pledge for no man.

"I guess you will—I guess you will!" said the butcher, as he rolled up his sleeves. "I'm coming now!"

He took the toper by the throat, flung him over a box of boots and into a corner, and in thirty-nine seconds from the first dash the toper called out—, "Let up on me and gimme the pen!"

He signed, and then placing the three in a row in front of him the butcher said; "I am temperance all over, and my whole heart is in this work. If I catch either of you guzzling in any more drink I'll tie you in a knot around a lamp post and pump you out with a fire steamer! G'lang now, and see if you can't convert some one else!"—Detroit Free Press.

—The runaway girl and her lover were riding past Casey Station, Tenn., when the stern parent galloped to the front on a mule and pulled her out of the wagon. Putting her on the mule's back and taking his place behind her, he whistled to his steed. "Sally, if you love me, slide off!" whispered the lover. Wriggling out of her father's grasp, she did so slide. Then the lover fought with the unnatural parent and triumphed over him, and the mule ran away with the two spoons.

—A young man in Dubuque, Iowa, went on Saturday to a country dance, and did not return to his home until the church bells were ringing the next morning. His father told him he must go to meeting, and he went. Before the minister had finished the opening prayer, the young reveler was sound asleep and dreaming of the dance. An old lady who sat next to him touched his hand to arouse him, whereupon he seized her wrist and shouted, "All join hands and circle to the left. Swing the girl with the blue dress on."

Encouragement for the Feeble.

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an abject melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to vitalizing the physical organization, it establishes regularity among those organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, continued vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving agent in cases of debility, liver disease, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

—Folly would do but little mischief were it confined to fools.

—Spanish robbers are proverbially polite. An Englishman was once accosted on a lonely road by a ruffian: "Sir, you have my coat on; may I trouble you for it?" The Englishman drew a pistol, and told the fellow he was mistaken. "Sir," said the robber, "I perceive that I am. Will you do me the honor to communicate your name, that I may remember it in my prayers?"

—Henry Channing Beals, editor of the San Francisco Market Review writes to the New York Observer: "I have been a paying subscriber in this place, to the New York Observer, 27 years, and in all that time not one number has missed coming to me regularly by mail." This speaks well for the mails, the Post-offices, and all concerned, that such perfect regularity has been maintained between the two cities, one on the Atlantic, the other on the Pacific, 3000 miles apart (and, until 1869, 5000 miles apart,) once a week for 27 years. It is one of the most remarkable evidences of system and order we have ever recorded.

TEH SCHOOL REPORT.

In looking over the recently published City Accounts a day or two since, I stumbled upon a report of the present condition of our common schools, which seems to be fairly written, although it fails to enlighten us to any great extent upon the subject in hand. It is refreshing, however, to a parent and tax-payer, to learn anything concerning an institution that requires for its proper support an annual outlay of nearly $25,000. Our school committee men have for some years past been provokingly silent upon the matters given them in charge, and hence we feel to thank the present chairman of the school board for condescending to give us any information, even though it is not so thorough and practical as it should have been. One point however, is worthy of discussion,—that relating to the instruction of our teachers in the art of drawing. At the first glance, it seems well enough to teach our teachers any special branches that they may need to know in order that in turn they may impart the knowledge thus gained to the young minds in their charge; but it appears to me like opening a door that will be hard to shut. This matter of employing school teachers and paying them the high rates of wages that they are receiving, and then hiring others to instruct them, is piling on the agony a little too steep for the comfort of our tax-paying community. The guardians of our public schools have but recently succeeded in weeding from our already too long list of school expenses that undesirable luxury—music-teaching; and it would be well, for a while at least, to stick to the old time-honored studies that were successfully taught in my boyhood, and not wander about among specialties; luxuries which are desirable, to be sure, but not needful. Good men and women—yea, intelligent men and women, who are to-day discharging the great duties of public as well as private life, were reared on the solid and substantial pabulum of the common branches, Arithmetic, Grammar, Geography, History of the United States, and perhaps Physiology—although the latter branch is a little outside the realm of our common school instruction. We submit that too much seasoning endangers the nutritive qualities of the bread. There are some other weak points in the Report alluded to, which I propose to comment upon at an early day. There is also much more to be said against this ornamental teaching, such as that of music, drawing, etc., that neither time nor space will allow me to discuss in this article.

A TAX-PAYER.

JOTTINGS.

The Boston Traveller would like to know the cost of each vote of the 49 plurality (assuming that to be the number) received by the democratic candidate for Congress in this district. A thousand dollars a vote is probably a very low estimate—and this does not include the compensation of Mr. Caleb Moulton, the gentleman who, after taking part in the various republican conventions, (and later tarrying a night at the Rockingham House, Mr. Jones' splendid hotel,) accepted the prohibition nomination for Congress and secured 98 votes,—not a great number, certainly, but enough to ensure the election of Mr. Jones. If Mr. Moulton's reward was made "contingent on result in March," as Pelton wanted Crosby's to be, his pay ought to be something really handsome.

One of the prettiest songs now published is "Gathering Shells from the Sea Shore," composed by Will L. Thompson and for sale by all music dealers.

The schooner Abbott Lawrence, Captain Haskell, of Boston, owned by J. S. Emery & Co., with a cargo of spirits and meal from Boston for St. John, was run into by an unknown schooner off Boon Island on the 16th and cut to the water's edge. She was immediately abandoned and when last seen was on her beams ends. The other schooner was badly damaged. The crew was fished up by the schooner Oliver Jameson and taken into Rockland after being in the boat sixteen hours, badly frost-bitten. [The Abbott Lawrence was no doubt the vessel reported by the schooner Christie Campbell, which arrived at Gloucester on Sunday from a fishing trip, as having been seen thirty miles off Cape Ann, capsized, with all sail set. The vessel which ran down the Abbott Lawrence has not been heard of, and probably went to the bottom with all hands.]

The United States District Court, Judge Daniel Clark presiding, met in this city Tuesday forenoon. There being no business, court adjourned until Tuesday, June 19th, at Exeter.

The grand concert complimentary to the Newell Brothers was just what it was expected it would be—one of the very best concerts ever given in this city. The church was filled with an audience that could appreciate the class of music performed, and did appreciate it highly, for we have heard only unreserved commendations of the entire entertainment. Miss Mary W. Caldwell is certainly one of the most pleasing readers who ever appeared in public here, and Mr. Cowles, as organist, deserved the praise with which he was heralded; of Mrs. Kempton and Mr. Fessenden, as vocalists, it is needless to speak, further than to say that they fully sustained their reputations as finished singers. The violin playing of course was the feature of the evening, and was greatly enjoyed, the performance of Willis E. Nowell being warmly applauded,—but as no description which we can give would do any kind of justice to this part of the concert, we shall not attempt any. The gathering of such an audience as was present was a deserved compliment to the beneficiaries and the performers, and the entertainment offered was a rich musical treat.

THE WESTON INFAMY.

In 1875, thirty-seven hundred and seventy-one votes cast for Natt Head for State Senator were declared nullities, for reasons set forth in the following resolution, offered by the democratic Councillor McKean, and adopted May 17, 1875, by the democratic Council and Governor:

"That the votes cast and returned in District No. 2 for Natt Head, numbering 3771, be rejected on the ground that they were intended to be cast for Nathaniel Head of Hooksett, and did not contain the full Christian name of the candidate voted for. * * * And that these votes being rejected from the computation, James Priest, having received a majority of all the votes legally cast and returned in said district, be declared elected, and be summoned to take his seat in the Senate on the first Wednesday of June next, by the Governor."

Precisely the same reasons exist for rejecting the votes cast for Frank Jones that were set up in the above resolution for rejecting the votes cast for Natt Head. The full Christian name of Mr. Jones is Franklin, as appears by more conclusive evidence than was ever produced in the case of Natt Head. His own father may be supposed to know the facts, and in the last will and testament of that gentleman, who was Thomas Jones of Barrington, in the county of Strafford and State of New Hampshire, appears the following section, it being the fourth entire:

"I also give and bequeath unto my son Franklin Jones the sum of four hundred and fifty dollars, to be paid him one year after my decease by my executor."

Now what can any democrat in decency say against the adoption by Governor Cheney and Council of a resolution running as follows:

"That the votes cast and returned in District No. 1 for Frank Jones, numbering 13,924, be rejected on the ground that they were intended to be cast for Franklin Jones of Portsmouth, and did not contain the full Christian name of the candidate voted for. * * * And that these votes being rejected from the computation, Gilman Marston, having received a majority of all the votes legally cast and returned in said district, be declared elected, and be summoned to take his seat in the House on the assembling of the Forty-Fifth Congress."

Most of the democratic papers are discreet enough to hold their peace over the suggestion that Gov. Cheney should follow the precedent set by Weston and his fellow-conspirators, the Dover Democrat being the only one (so far as we know) that foams at the mouth over it; they know that Governor Cheney could not be induced to act with such utter disregard of honor and justice as Weston did, and that the republican party would not allow him to if he was himself willing; and they are aware that they cannot consistently denounce under its true name—an infamous crime—conduct which they applauded as noble and honorable in 1875, when it was to give them a political advantage to which they were not entitled. The Dover Democrat need not be troubled; Person C. Cheney and the republican party of New Hampshire will never descend to the level of James A. Weston and his abettors.

A Remarkable Man.

Frederick Douglass, whom the President has appointed Marshal of the District of Columbia, is one of the most conspicuous illustrations of the progress which has been made in certain directions in our country during the past fifteen years. He was born a slave in Maryland, his parents being part of the drove of human cattle "owned" by a wealthy planter. At the risk of severe penalties, for the laws of Maryland forbade the education of such property as he was, he learned to read and write, and secretly improved his mind until he became a fair scholar. In 1838, when he was 21 years old, he made his escape to New York, and then to Massachusetts, where he arrived without even a name of his own, for slaves were only named in those days, Tom, Dick and Harry. In his new home he soon became noted as an orator, and though he had taken a new name the man hunters were soon on his track, and his new-found friends were forced to ship him to England to prevent his return to slavery. Nowhere in the United States, "the land of the free," was this brilliant, self-made, heroic man safe. In England his great talents soon drew attention toward him and his history, and some friends there made up, by subscription, the price which his owner asked for him, and in 1846 he was bought and delivered to himself. He then returned to America and devoted himself to rousing the people to a realization of the great crime by which his race was kept in bondage, and until the abolition of slavery was one of the most conspicuous anti-slavery orators in the land.

Charles Dickens' Namesake.

While Mr. Charles Dickens was last in this country and lived at the Westminster Hotel, something of a sensation was caused in the establishment by the birth of a child, its mother being an industrious and comely chambermaid employed in the house. One of the lady boarders, the wife of an ex-Minister to France, took great interest in the little stranger and its unfortunate mother, and besides preparing clothing for the child she occupied herself in interesting the guests in behalf of the hapless pair. The girl had had charge of Mr. Dickens' rooms, and that gentleman made a prompt response to the appeal. He placed $200 in the hands of the housekeeper, with orders to take good care of mother and child; and further, he succeeded in persuading the poor girl to reveal the name of her betrayer. He was a Wall street man, a well-known broker. At first, when confronted with the mother's statement, he denied all acquaintance with his victim, and it was only by threats of exposure that he was prevailed upon to contribute towards the fund that Mr. Dickens had started for her benefit. As soon as the girl was able to be up and about, her child—whom she named after Mr. Dickens—was placed with a family in Westchester County and the mother sent out West with a complete outfit, a small sum of money and the whole world before her. She changed her name and soon secured work; she lived respectably, and has since married well. Her husband was made acquainted with her one faux pas and its consequences, forgave them like a man and sent for her child and adopted it as his own. Little Charles Dickens ——, his mother and step-father are now living in a small Western town, and no doubt one of them at least has not yet ceased to bless the name of the great English novelist.

—Book-keeping may be taught in three words—Never lend them.

—The Keystone Bridge Company are building for the Cincinnati Southern Railway a bridge, the channel span of which is to be 520 feet,—the longest truss bridge known. The span of 515 feet across the river Loch in Holland being the longest now known.

—The shifts resorted to by Boston reporters to get into Mr. Moody's meetings are many and various. Lately, having exhausted all methods allowable in their own proper persons, they have stolen into the inquiry meetings "in the disguise of sinners," and the good man doesn't discover the deception.

—The plantation negroes were engaged in pitching coppers. It was discovered that after a while several coppers were missing, though no one had been detected in picking up any but his own pennies. One old negro, whose coppers had mysteriously disappeared, at length becoming satisfied in his mind that there was foul play going on, and observing that one of the barefooted party had a peculiar way, every now and then, of jerking his foot up to his hand, called a pause in the game, saying: "De gemman wif tar on his heel will please to wifdraw." The suspected individual retiring on this polite invitation, the game went on without the mysterious disappearance of any more coppers.

—A New York lawyer, whose counting-room overlooked a North River pier, while waiting for a client, saw a letter floating in the water. He stepped out of the office, fished up the letter with his cane and opened it. It was written in a fine running hand, a woman's hand; it was bright and interesting; it was addressed to "My dear uncle," and bore the full signature of a Portland lady. The lawyer sent the letter to the lady with a note describing the manner in which it had been recovered. In answering his letter she explained that the "dear uncle" was a captain of a steamboat plying on the Sound. Letters were exchanged and there was a wedding in Portland late in February; and now there are two happy people in Plainfield, N. J. All of which is destiny.

—It has been demonstrated by repeated experiments lately that excellent sugar can be made out of the common field corn. Thirty pounds of raw sugar can be made out of a bushel of corn, which, at the present price of sugar, would make the corn yield a product of a dollar per bushel. The only obstacle to this new source of wealth and industry, is the tax on alcohol. The manufacture requires the use of alcohol in the refining process, and the tax is so great on it that it makes the manufacture unprofitable. If the tax could be so adjusted as to make alcohol free of tax when used for manufacturing purposes, as is the case in other countries there would be a field opened up in the great corn growing West that would soon put a new phase in the sugar supply question. We now import thousands of tons of sugar, whereas, if our surplus corn could in part be made available for the sugar supply, it would not only develop a great industry among us, but stop the flow of gold and silver to other countries for this product. The corn product which now brings on an average less than thirty-five cents per bushel in the West, would then yield the producer and manufacturer together over $1 per bushel. An additional sixty-five cents per bushel on our corn in the West would soon make a wonderful change. Of course this would not all go to the farmer direct, but it would go to operatives and manufacturers in their midst, building up communities which would in turn afford home markets for additional products, and make wealth that would benefit all.

COUGH & LUNG SYRUP.

A Safe and Sure Remedy.

The Cough and Lung Syrup

Is the remedy that during the past fifteen years has won for DR. FLAGG an extended reputation as a SPECIALIST for THROAT and LUNG Diseases. After so many year- trial it can be truthfully said that it has NEVER FAILED, even in the Worst Cases. It is purely Vegetable, and its effect upon the system is at once Soothing and Tonic.

It Will Cure a Common Cold

In a few hours, not by drying it up, but by removing it from the system. TRY IT.

It will CURE a Chronic Cough, by soothing the irritated parts, and strengthening the system.

IT WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

Even after all other remedies have failed. In the earlier stages of this disease it will effect a speedy and certain cure; and in many cases of advanced Consumption it effects a cure; almost miraculous, restoring to full strength and perfect health those whom physicians had given up as incurable. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE CATARRH

More effectual than any other remedy, by simply removing the cause. TRY IT.

It will Cure Bronchitis, by allaying all irritation of the Throat. TRY IT.

It will Cure Asthma, affording immediate relief and a perfect cure. TRY IT.

It Will Cure Ulcerated Sore Throat. TRY IT.

IT WILL CURE Loss of Voice, Night Sweats, Hectic Fever, AND ALL Symptoms of Consumption. TRY IT.

For every affection of the Throat and Lungs it only needs a trial to convince the most skeptical of its wonderful curative properties.

The Dark Side of Public Life.

Some sad scenes attend the death of a Congress. Said one of the ex-members to me the other day, one who has had an honorable though uneventful and unimportant career: "I have now been in public life for twelve years. By the redistricting of my State my District has been abolished. I am almost glad to get out of the public service, and yet I do not know what to do. They have called us thieves, but I have scarcely money enough to support my family in respectability for six months. I was bred a lawyer, and have had my old shingle for the last ten years creaking upon its rusty hinges before my office door in my native town. It is a little town. The business is small, and has greatly changed, and the people have almost forgotten me as a lawyer, and I doubt, if I commence life there again, if I could earn my salt. The young men have got all the clients, and need and deserve them, because they know the modern ways of the courts. The truth is, it is like beginning life over again, and the prospects are pretty blue. I tell you, young man, if you ever have any ambition for public life, don't do it. It is a pretty sorrowful spectacle to see a man three-score years of age in my condition."—Washington letter.

—A boy was leading a poor old horse through the street when a gentleman asked him why he didn't get on horseback and ride. "Horse-back!" replies the boy; it chafes me to lead him!"
